

Antiquity Find

A short time since, in grubbing up a large ash moor, in Clowdal's Wood, Baverstock, near this city, under the root, at the depth of upwards of two feet, a solid stone wheel, about eighteen inches in diameter, was discovered. It was evidently of very great antiquity. It may be seen by applying to James Parker, the woodman.

Salisbury and Winchester Journal, Saturday, 4 April 1846