

Employment

Bradford-on-Avon

1800-1899

1842

We had much pleasure in observing in the London papers of last week, the name of Mr. Charles Robinson, who on Thursday last, at the annual distribution of prizes which took place in the great hall of St. Bartholomew's Hospital, received the head prize for his proficiency in anatomy and physiology. Mr. Robinson was lately a pupil of Mr. Adye, surgeon of Bradford, in this county. Devizes & Wiltshire Gazette, 12 May 1842