

Wiltshire - the Rich and Beautiful Little Estate of Bremhill.

Freehold and tithe-free, adjoining the romantic Parsonage of the Rev Poet Bowles, amidst some of the finest scenery of the County, only two miles from Calne, four from Chippenham, nine from Melksham and 13 from Bath, with early possession.

To be sold by auction by Daniel Smith and Son, at the Mart, London, on Wednesday August 14 1833, by the directions of the Executors of the late Mr Richard Sadler Smith (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by Private Contract).

Bremhill House and Farm, comprising, in a ring fence, about 173 acres of remarkably rich sound pasture and arable land, studded with ornamental timber, and bounded by a fine stream for fish, and preserves full of game, justly admired as one of the most delightful spots in the county.

The house is on a small compact scale, but is neat and substantial, and obviously marked out to become a handsome residence, happily placed with a south aspect, upon a dry sunny lawn, with fine water springs, adjoining the beautiful Church and Parsonage of Bremhill, almost ensuring the friendship of its literary and amiable Pastor.

It is approached by a broad terrace like walk, and commands on all sides a surprising expanse of richly varied scenery, embracing the splendid parks of Bowood and Compton, with the town and tower of Cane, bounded in the distance by the bold chain of hills extending from Devizes towards Swindon, with their remarkably fine and celebrated feature – the Cherhill White Horse.

The estate may be viewed with tickets; and descriptive particulars, with plans, may be had on the premises; at the Libraries and chief Inns at Bath, Melksham, Salisbury, Devizes, Marlborough &c; at the Auction Mart; and at Daniel Smith and Sons Offices, Waterloo Place, Pall Mall, London, and Windsor Park.
