

Wiping the Germans

Pte. W.P. Bright, of the R.A.M.C., British Expeditionary Force, formerly in the employ of Mr. J. H. Buckle, High Street, Chippenham, writes to Mr. Buckle: "It gives me great pleasure to write a few lines to you. I have been in the country now nearly four months, and I have done more work than I did when I was with you. It is a great deal better wiping the Germans than it was wiping out your fowls. Since the latter end of August we have had a very busy time. Is there a possibility of getting a football from the Town Club for the boys? We get time to play a game now and then, but the ball we have got is practically of no use whatever. If you could get one we should be very grateful to you.

"P.S. – I saw Corpl. McLeod, of the Wilts. (Sergt –Major's son) the other day. He wishes to be remembered to you."

Mr. Buckle has duly dispatched a football to Pte. Bright.
