Collingbourne Ducis

COLLINGBOURNE DUCIS (or LOWER COLLINGBOURNE) is a parish situated on the river Bourne, with a station on the Midland and South Western Junction railway, 3 miles north-west from Ludgershall, 11 south-east from Marlborough, in the Eastern division of the county, hundred of Elstub, Everleigh and Pewsey petty sessional division, union of Pewsey, county court district of Marlborough, rural deanery of Marlborough Pewsey portion, archdeaconry, of Wilts and diocese of Salisbury. The adjunct of Ducis is derived from this place having once been parcel of the Duchy of Lancaster. The church of St. Andrew is an ancient edifice of flint and stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch, and castellated western tower containing 5 bells and a clock: the chancel was rebuilt by the Rev. W.C. Lukis M.A. a former rector: and in 1877 the church was restored at a cost of £1,300 (Mr. Arthur Blomfield was the architect): the chancel was completed when the church was restored, and some ground added to the churchyard was consecrated in 1878: a beautiful stained east window was put in by Mr. John Russ in 1880, in memory of his wife, and a west window was given by Mr. John Mackrell, in memory of his parents and family: there are 225 sittings. The register dates from the year 1640. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £566, including 56 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Marquess of Ailesbury, and held since 1875 by the Rev. John Dryden Hodgson M.A. formerly fellow of St. Peter's College, Cambridge, canon of Salisbury. Here is a Primitive Methodist chapel. The Rev. Charles Francis bequeathed the sum of £100, the interest to be appropriated to the repairs of the church. The late Mr. George Hooper bequeathed in 1858 £100, the interest of which is distributed in coals to aged widows, and Mrs. M. Hooper, in 1865, left £100, the interest for blankets. There are a great number of barrows on the down, south of the parish; many ancient British relics have been found here. The Marquess of Ailesbury is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is gravelly loam; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat and barley. The area is 3,427 acres; rateable value, £2,057; the population in 1881 was 426.
