

In The News

Compton Chamberlayne

On Sunday morning last, a pony belonging to Mr Keble escaped from a field where it was left to graze, and a man named William Bailey, who works for Mr Targett, captured it, and having mounted it in order to ride home it became unmanageable and fell. The man was much bruised on the body and cut above the head, and was removed to the Salisbury Infirmary.

(Western Gazette - Friday 28 June, 1867)