

Mr. Goulden Grows Enormous Parsnip

A Wishford correspondent informs us, that a Parsnip, called the Hollow Crown, was lately dug by Mr. Goulden of that place, two feet long, 16 ½ inches in circumference, and weighing 3lb. 10oz. and a Potatoe, called the Wimbourne Kidney, weighing 2lb. 6oz.

Salisbury and Winchester Journal, Monday, 2 January 1837