

Wishford School Entertainment 1903

School Entertainment

The school entertainment was held on Friday, when the room was crowded with an enthusiastic company, many being unable to obtain admission. The concert, which was quite up to the standard of previous years, commenced with recitations, interspersed with school songs. One item "The Proverbs" was considered especially good. Lily Scott, Fred Mundy and Ethel Plowman played two instrumental trios on the piano and violin in good style. The tambourine drill was one of the choice bits of the evening and was performed in excellent fashion by twelve girls who had been most carefully trained by Miss Wallis.

The infant's part of the programme is always entertaining and this year proved no exception to the rule, the little ones doing justice to the careful training given to them by Mrs. Hatfield. The concluding piece was a farce entitled "The Jumble Sale" which created much amusement and in which the juvenile actors did their parts well.

At the conclusion the Rev. F. W. Macdonald proposed, and Mr. H. G. Duncher seconded a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Hatfield and Miss Wallis for the care and trouble they had taken in preparing the children to give them such a pleasant evening. This was heartily responded to. In response Mr. Hatfield, who was enthusiastically received, said that the best way in which the teachers could be repaid for any trouble would be that the children should be regularly sent to school.
