Hindon

Hindon, (Wilts), is a small market town 97 miles W.S.W. from London, 16 N.W. from Salisbury and 7 ½ N.N.E from Shaftesbury, it consists of one street, about ¼ of a mile in length, the houses being mostly constructed of stone which is brought from a neighbouring quarry. Previous to the opening of the Great Western railway this was a place of considerable throughfare. Hindon returned two members to parliament from the time of Henry VI, but was totally disfranchised by the Reform act; at county elections it is a polling station for the southern division of Wilts.

The church (St. John the Baptist), is a neat building and the living is a perpetual curacy in the gift of the crown; here is an Independent and a small Methodist chapel, likewise a Free School, upon the National system, supported by Lord Calthorpe.

A weekly market is held upon Thursday, and fairs upon the Monday proceeding Whitsuntide, and October 29th. By the returns of 1851 Hindon contained 710 inhabitants.
