Octogenarian's Sudden Death. On Sunday afternoon Henry Tombs (82), a widower, residing with his nephew, Mr. Wilfred Wager, at Kemble Post Office, passed away suddenly. The old gentleman, who has been in the enjoyment of excellent health, went into the back kitchen about four p.m., as was his custom, to enjoy a smoke, and was shortly afterwards found in a stooping position and unconscious. He was unable to take the brandy that was procured for him and died before medical aid could be given.
