Letters to The Editor - Postal Service Complaint

To the Editor of the Morning Post

Sir - I'm residing in the parish of Collingbourne Ducis, with the parish of Ludgershall being two and a half miles distance. Although trains run daily between the two villages a resident in London can get an answer from a letter to his friend in Marseilles sooner than I can get an answer by post to a letter to my friend in Ludgershall. An answer to my letter reaches me in four days. Surely the Postmaster-General who has done so much for public convenience can remove this curious and troublesome country worry.
