

Sudden Death of William Fricker

William Fricker, 81 years of age, living by himself, was found dead early on Monday morning by the neighbours. It seems he gave some signal by knocking the wall, and someone went to his door, but it was locked. The poor old man attempted to go and unlock it, but dropped before doing so. He had attended the Parish Church (which was some distance from his home) on the Sunday.

Western Gazette, 4 February 1881