

Image: Roots to the past

In the parish of Potterne, Wilts, there is not a man, woman, or child, able to work, unemployed. With the view of keeping the labourers from the degradation of the workhouse, the rate-payers, occupying land above the annual rental of 10 $\text{\pounds}$ ., have for sometime past entered into a resolution to give employment to the surplus labourers of the parish according to the number of acres they occupy.

Salisbury and Winchester Journal 01 April 1843