

1782

To be LETT and entered on immediately, that good old accustomed PUBLIC HOUSE, known by the sign of the ARABIAN HORSE, situate in Rowde, near Devizes, now in the occupation of William James, who is about to take to his father's business, as Cloth Dresser. The remainder of the flock of strong beer, consisting of about forty hogsheads, the brewing utensils, and part of the household goods, to be disposed of at a fair appraisalment. For further particulars apply to William James, at the said house. Salisbury and Winchester Journal 2 September 1782

1788

To be LETT, and entered upon immediately, a good HOUSE, with a Coach house, and new built stable, large garden and small orchard, in a healthy pleasant village, 16 miles from Bath, and 2 from Devizes. Six acres of pasture land can be lett with it, if required. Enquire at the Cross Keys, in Rowd, contiguous to the premises. Salisbury and Winchester Journal 7 April 1788