

Items sold in curiosity shops of the late 18th century

SALISBURY

ELIZABETH SCAMMELLS, WIDOW OF Mr. John Scammells, Combmaker, Toy-man, Perfumer, Confectioner, &c. returns her most grateful acknowledgements to the friends of her deceased husband, and the public in general, for favours conferred on him, and humbly hopes for a continuation of the same for herself in the above branches of business, which will in future be carried on by her, at her shop, four doors from the Antelope Inn, Catherine-street, where all orders will be thankfully received, and faithfully executed.

PICKLES and FISH SAUCES of all sorts.

A large and elegant assortment of Children's Red Morocco Shoes.

Salisbury and Winchester Journal, 29 December 1788