

Inquisition

Salisbury

Robert Waleraund

Inquisition made at New Sarum on Sunday next before the Ascension of Our Lord, 1 Edward I [1273], before [Matthew] de Columbariis, as to the manner and form of the enfeoffment which R... [Waleraund mae to Alande] Plunkeret [spelt Plogenet in the writ], his grandson [nepoti], of he manors of Watdene, Langford, and Hareham, by the oaths of my and William le Duyn, Knights, and Walter de Wilton, William de Neville, Walter Huscarle, Richard le Doyn, Herbert le Prute, Thomas de Belloners, Thomas, Richard de la More, David de Patton, Adam le Frakelayn, Ralph de Bergton [who say that]

Robert Waleraund formerly by his charter granted in his good power to Al[an de Plunket], his grandson, the manors of Langeford, Waddene, and Hareham, to hold to him and his heirs of the said Robert and his heirs, of which said manors the said [Allan] obtained seisin for one year and more, according to the tenure of the said feoffment.

The said Robert came into the court at and acknowledged the said manors to be the right of the said Allan as those which he had of the gift of the said Robert, and for his acknowledgement [the said Allan] granted the said manors to the said Robert, to hold to him and his heirs of his body of the said Allan and his heirs, so that if the said Robert should die with heirs of his body the said manors should wholly revert to the said Allan : which said Robert [died] without heirs of his body.

Chan. Inq. p.m., 1 Edward I, No. 6

“Abstracts of Wiltshire Inquisitions Post Mortem,” 1908, edited by Edw. Alex Fry.