

New Statue for Cathedral

SALISBURY CATHEDRAL. – Some months ago we announced that it was the intention of the Dean and Chapter to place statues in the vacant niches in the west front of the cathedral. Last week the first of these figures was placed in the pediment over the west window. It represents a “Majesty,” that is, a figure of Christ seated, holding in one hand a globe. – The statue is more than seven feet high, and the subject is treated in the conventional style of art which prevailed in the middle of the thirteenth century. Several other figures are near completion.
