

The White Hart

MARY BATT, WIDOW

Begs leave to inform the NOBILITY, GENTRY, and others, travelling through Salisbury,

THAT She hath neatly fitted up the White Hart Inn, in Catherine-street; at which House the POST-OFFICE now is, and for several years hath been kept; where they may depend on the most genteel Accommodations, and be provided with handsome Chaises, as good Horses as any between London and Exeter, and careful Drivers.

By their most obliged and most obedient humble servant, MARY BATT.

The Salisbury Journal, 20 September 1762