

CORONERS INQUESTS

Stapleford - 1800-1849

1823

On Wednesday last, R. P. Whitmarsh, Esq. held an inquest at Stapleford, on the body of John Trueman, who had hung himself early in the morning. The deceased had been in a low desponding way for some time. Sufficient evidence of the deranged state of his mind having been adduced, the Jury returned their verdict accordingly.
