

Political Gathering at Stratton

On Sunday last a meeting was held in a field at Stratton St. Margaret, pursuant to a placard bearing the name "John Arkell dated at Stratton St. Margaret" - whose abuse of everybody and everything was the order of the day. Nothing was right - everything was wrong. A motley group testified their delight of the views of the different orators - (we are sorry we could not procure their names). Even shoals of children squeaked their shrill tones of joy in being permitted to shout at something, no matter what. The handbill had very considerably invited "both women and children to attend on the day of meeting. Let none stop away on account of their age or sex." It is rumoured that Mr. Arkell is to be put in nomination as candidate.

Devizes & Wiltshire Gazette, 29 July 1847