

This day is published, price six shillings in boards.

An Essay on the Unreasonableness of Scepticism: by the Rev. J. Hare, A.M. Rector of Coln St. Denys, Gloucestershire; and vicar of Stratton St. Margaret, Wilts. Printed for F and C. Rivington, No. 62, St. Paul's Churchyard; E. Williams, Strand; and J. Cooke, Oxford. Of whom may be had, by the same author, An Essay on the Necessity of Revealed Religion, third edition. And two Visitation Sermons, published by request: one preached at Swindon. Wilts, proving, that to the Christian Religion the World is indebted for its present improved state of Civil Liberty; and the other preached at Northleach, Gloucestershire, proving that the Church Establishment of this Nation is not burdensome to the Community, even in a pecuniary sense, but the reverse.

London Courier & Evening Gazette, 02 December 1801

A second edition inscribed by permission of the Bishop of Durham in 1803.

Star (London). 20 May 1803