

In The News

Sutton Mandeville

ACCIDENT – On Tuesday a man, named George Bracher, was fixing some rafters to a house in course of erection, when one against which he was leaning gave way, and he fell to the ground, thereby fracturing his skull, right thigh, and cutting his head very considerable. He was taken to the Salisbury Infirmary.

(Salisbury and Winchester Journal – Saturday 17 September, 1870)