

The Masons Arms, Warminster

Treat for Workmen

Warminster, Messrs Scott and Smith, cornfactors, of this town, gave a substantial treat to all the workmen who had been engaged in any way in the erection of their new corn stores, near the railway station, which are just completed.

Mr. Hill, of the Mason's Arms Inn, provided a first-rate repast, which was served up in one story of the stores. Messrs Scott and Smith presided and, besides the workmen, many others, who are or will be in some way connected with the stores, were present. A pleasant evening was spent.
