

Robbers Break Into The Three Crowns

Early on Sunday morning, the 21st instant, some robbers made a forcible entry into the Three Crowns public-house, at West Harnham, by making a hole through a cellar wall, and, after regaling themselves, they took away a quantity of strong beer in two-gallon jars, several bottles of spirits, a whole side of bacon except the gammon, a pan of lard, and various other articles.

The villains escaped from the premises unseen with their booty, and unfortunately have not since been heard of.

Salisbury and Winchester Journal, 29 April 1830