

Emigration of Wiltshire Settlers 1820

After the Napoleonic wars and the return of many of the soldiers involved in the campaigns to civilian way of life, they found it increasingly difficult to find employment in the countryside and towns and cities.

Assisted emigration was conceived as a way of helping individuals start a new life in foreign lands. In the case of the emigration of many families to the Great Fish River area of the Eastern Cape of South Africa this served two purposes, firstly to reduce the number of families reliant on parish relief and secondly to create an alternative to setting up military posts in the area. The idea being that a greater number of settlers would ensure the safety of the area just as well as military deployment.

The county of Wiltshire assisted several groups to emigrate and many families were allocated land on the Western bank of the Kleine Mond River. Groups of families formed parties led by Miles Bowker, Edward Ford, Charles Hyman and Samuel James. All four parties set sail aboard HMSS "Weymouth" from Portsmouth arriving at Algoa Bay (present day Port Elizabeth).

The area of settlement was one of constant friction giving rise to a series of Kaffir Wars also known as Xhosa or Border Wars from 1779-1819. It wasn't until the attack on Grahamstown that the British Government fully enhanced its programme of assisted emigration eventually agreeing that strengthening the border with increased numbers of colonists would be cheaper than providing a full military presence there.

The table below list those families who took advantage of the emigration programme. It is not known from which parishes the families originated.

This list is by no means a definitive one and is meant to provide a guide to finding potential lost ancestors. Perhaps the ships passengers lists could provide further information.

If anyone has further information they can add to this item please contact Teresa Lewis (Administrator) who will update this information. It would be great to name some if not all of these emigrants
