

HUNT'S OLD ROYAL OAK and COMMERCIAL INN
Opposite the TOWN HALL,
WOOTTON BASSETT, WILTS
C. HUNT

Avails himself of this opportunity of publicly testifying his grateful acknowledgements to the numerous Commercial Gentlemen who have so liberally bestowed their patronage on him during the four years he has resided at the above Inn; and he begs to assure them, and Families who may pass through the town, requiring the convenience and comforts of an Inn, note shall excel him and Mrs HUNT in zeal to give satisfaction. If at any time inconvenience should occur (which, doubtless, is often the case in country towns of the magnitude and locality of situation like Wootton Bassett), he must crave their kind forbearance, and take the will for the dead, as he is most anxious to retain that kind preference which has been so bountifully given hitherto.

To the Gentlemen, Yeomen, Farmers, and Dealers, of the surrounding towns and district, who have so repeatedly favoured him with their support (more especially on the Great Monthly Market days), he begs to give his best thanks from the bottom of his heart, and hopes his future conduct, with obliging servants, may ensure their future patronage.

Good Stables, and LOCK-UP COACH-HOUSE; Well-aired Beds and an honest, steady Ostler. Neat FOUR-WHEELED PHAETON, GIGS, and SADDLE HORSES let to hire.

N.B. As repeated disappointments and inconveniences have arisen to Commercial and other Gentlemen, in consequence of their driving to a Public House in the Town having a sign of the Royal Oak, C.H. particularly requests his Friends to inquire for HUNT'S OLD Royal Oak, opposite the market house.

Wiltshire Independent, Thursday 22 February 1838, Page 1 Col. 4