INQUISITIONES POST MORTEM

RETURNED INTO THE COURT OF CHANCERY IN THE REIGN OF

KING EDWARD III.

A.D. 1327-1377.

ABSTRACTED BY ETHEL STOKES.

Eondon :

ISSUED TO THE SUBSCRIBERS BY THE BRITISH RECORD SOCIETY, LIMITED.

INTRODUCTION.

THE previous volume of Wiltshire Inquisitiones Post Mortem, issued in 1908, contained the abstracts from the earliest Inquisitions, in the reign of Henry III to the end of the reign of Edward II. The present volume continues them for the whole of the long reign of King Edward III, so that, besides those for the reign of Charles I, which the two Societies issued in 1894, the Wiltshire Inquisitiones Post Mortem are now all printed from 1242 to 1377.

The Subscribers are indebted to the Rev. E. H. Goddard for the labour of compiling the Index to the present volume.

OF THE

RELATING TO WILTSHIRE,

Returned into the Court of Chancery in the Reign of King Edward III.

Geoffrey de Cliftone and John de Bolte.

Inquisition made before the sheriff of Wilts at Suthbrom on Easter Day in the 2nd year of the reign of King Edward¹ [1329], by the oath of William de Lauyntone, John Az, William de Wyke, William Tullemounde, Walter Ennok, Richard de Ringesborne, Thomas de Hortone, Geoffrey de Hor..., Michael le Esperuer, John de Roches, Thomas Nichole, and William of the Mill [de Molendino], who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow Geoffrey de Cliftone and John de Holte to grant 8 acres of land, 3 acres of meadow, and $\frac{1}{4}$ acre of pasture in Suthbrom and la Rewe next Divises to S., Bishop of Salisbury, to hold to himself and his successors, but would be greatly to the King's advantage, because during vacancies of the bishopric the premises would be of great profit to the King either in demesne or in the service due from any tenant. They are held of the said Bishop by the service of 20s. 1d. a year, and are worth 7s. The Bishop is the only intermediary between the King and the proposing grantors, who have not at present any other lands or tenements in the county; there will be no loss to anyone excepting the Bishop, who will have the whole possession. The said Geoffrey and John are not bound to do any suit, nor were they ever in view of frankpledge, because they did not live there, nor were the said tenements built upon. Nor were they ever on juries or assizes, and could not be compelled thereon by reason of the smallness of the said holding.

WILTS INQ .- VOL. III.

Picholas de Percy.

I Augustition taken at New Sarum before Thomas de Harpedene, the King's escheator in co. Wilts, on Wednesday next after the Feast of St. Matthias the Apostle, 1 Edward III [1327], by the oath of Nicholas de Wyly, John de Harnham, Ralph Daleway, Ralph atte Mulle, John Picot, Alexander . . . ford, John le Parker, Adam Russel, William Quyntyn, John de Haselholte, Geoffrey de Chuseldene, and John le Prince [?], who say that Nicholas de Percy held a moiety of the manor of Knouke for the term of his life of the heir of Lawrence de St. Martin, under age and in the King's custody, under demise by the said Lawrence to the said Nicholas, at a yearly rent of one rose for all services, with reversion wholly to the said Lawrence and his heirs.

In the said moiety there is one toft, worth 12d. yearly; 140 acres of land, of which 60 acres are worth 155. yearly, price of the acre 3d., and 80 acres are worth 6s. 8d., price of the acre 1d. There are 6 acres of meadow, worth 12s. yearly; one several pasture of marshland, worth 2s.; there is pasture for 300 sheep, worth 12s. 6d. yearly, viz. $\frac{1}{4}d$. per head. There are 20 acres of wood of no value, because they are laid waste. There are 8 free tenants, each of whom pays at the four principal terms 41s. 4d. yearly, and at Michaelmas $3 \dots$ of cummin [?], which are worth \dots 3d. And there is one free tenant, who pays yearly at the Feasts of Christmas and the Nativity of St. John the Baptist 5s. 2d. There are 4 half-'virgatars', holding in villenage, who pay yearly at the four chief terms for all services 44s. [?]. And there are 3 cottars, each of whom pays at the same terms 9s. 9d.

Isabel, daughter of the said Nicholas de Percy, is his next heir, and is 7 years old.

Picholas de Perschute.

nquisition taken before Thomas de Harpedene, the King's escheator in the counties of Wilts [etc.], at Ambresbury, 20th February, 1 Edward III [1327], by the oath of William Warde, John Saucer, John Kutewyne, William le Clerck, John le Frankelayne, John le Frie, John le Noble, John de Aldyntone, Richard Ideot, Roger Mathias, Walter de Thacham, John Bacheler, and John Goudchild, who say that

Nicholas de Pershute held on the day he died, by the law of England, of the inheritance of Maud, his wife, long since deceased, the manor of E[st]wynterlewe, which is held of the King in chief by the service of one-quarter of a knight's fee, and making for the King, when he comes to Clarindone, a certain drink of claret at the King's expense, and doing suit therefor at the Hundred of Ambresbury every 3 weeks for all service.

There is in the same manor one messuage, with a garden and dovecot, worth 6s. 8d. yearly; 2 carucates of arable land, worth £9 13s. 8d. yearly; 40 acres of wood, from which nothing can be sold yearly. There are 2 free tenants, who pay 3s. yearly at Michaelmas and the Feast of the Purification. There are 15 villeins, each holding half a virgate of land, who pay 45s. at the same terms; and each of them will mow in summer for 3 days, and the work is worth $\frac{1}{2}d$. And each of them ought to reap from the Gules of August until the Feast of St. Michael, except on Saturdays and feast-days, and each day's work is worth 1d.; and each of them will receive one great sheaf. Also each of them pays yearly to the "churchshut" at Martinmas one cock and 3 hens, price $5\frac{1}{2}d$.

Stephen Turpyn, son of the said Maud, is her next heir, and aged 40 years and more.

[Note.—The water-mill, etc., at Shulvelegh, given in the calendar as belonging to Wilts, appears on the Southampton inquisition.]

They say also that the manor of Aschtone is held of the heirs of William Mautravers by fealty for all service, and is worth yearly \pounds_{17} 4s. 11d., to wit, one messuage, with a garden, 6s. 8d.; $208[\frac{1}{2}]$ acres of arable land 53s. 6d., $44\frac{1}{2}$ acres being worth 8d. an acre, 14 acres worth 4d. an acre, 150 acres worth 1d. an acre; 18 acres of [meadow], worth . . . 3s. an acre; pasture of 200 sheep in the common pasture 4s. 4d; a water⁴mill, with a fishery, 26s. 8d.; rents of 2 free tenants 31s. 11d.; rents and customs of 8 'virgatars' and 4 half-'virgatars' 119s. 1d.; a certain gift to the larder at Martinmas 42s. 1d.; the pleas and perquisites of courts 6s. 8d.

The manor of Westcodeford, with the advowson of the church thereof, is held of the King as of the barony of Sherntone, and is worth \pounds_{12} 4s. yearly, to wit, 112 acres of [arable land] . . . , 6 acres whereof are worth 6d. each, 58 acres worth 4d. an acre, and 48 acres worth 1d. an acre; 9 acres of meadow . . . [worth] 3s. 4d. [an acre?]; pasture in the marsh 3s. 4d.; pasture of 200 sheep in the common pasture 3s. 4d.; 10 acres of underwood, worth 3s. 4d.; rents of free tenants there and at Orchestone \pounds_{4} 13s. 4d.; rents and services of one 'virgatar' and 5 half-'virgatars' and 3 cottars 68s. 8d.; 'chershet' 2s. 8d.; pleas and perquisites 3s.; advowson of the church, which is taxed at 10 marks, 10s. yearly.

The moiety of the manor of Stapelforde, with the moiety of the advowson of the church, is held of the King in chief, together with the other inheritance of the same manor, and with the manor of Figheldene, for one knight's fee, to wit, that moiety for a moiety of three parts of the said fee, and is worth £20 11s. 8d., to wit, one messuage, with garden and close adjacent, 6s. 8d.; 214 acres of arable land 37s. 1d., 52 acres being worth 4d. an acre, 75 acres 2d. an acre, and 87 acres 1d. an acre; 20 acres of meadow 6os.; pasture of 400 sheep 66s. 8d., being 2d. per head; one old dovecot 2s.; the moiety of the ox pasture in the marsh 5s.; rents of free tenants 62s. 6d.; rents and customs of 7 'virgatars', one-third of one 'virgatar', and 10 cottars 112s. 5d.; a certain gift to the larder 13s. 4d.; the moiety of a water-mill, with the fishery, 2os.; pleas and perquisites of courts 20s.; the moiety of the advowson of the church 6s., the moiety being taxed at 6 marks.

The said John Giffard also died seised in his demesne as of fee of the advowson of the church of Orchestone St. George, worth 15s. yearly; this church is taxed at \pounds_{10} .

They say also that he died seised of $7\frac{1}{8}$ knights' fees belonging to the aforesaid manor of Sherntone, the holders of which ought to do suit every three weeks, to wit, one fee in Boytone, worth yearly in demesne to the holder 20 marks; one fee in Suttone Maundeuille, worth \pounds_{10} ; half a fee in Tuderyngtone Calowey, worth \pounds_{10} ; half a fee in Deuerel, worth 100s.; half a fee in Orchestone Boyuille, worth \pounds_{10} ; half a fee in Orchestone Cliftone and Madyngtone, worth \pounds_{00} ; half a fee in Orchestone Bacham, worth 100s.; oneeighth of a fee in Ugeforde St. James, worth 40s.; $2\frac{1}{2}$ fees in Somerset, in Cnolle, Cameletone, Wodeborgh, and Elme, of which the jury do not know the value; half a fee in Dorset, in Hulle, value unknown; half a fee in Clandone, in Surrey, besides the aforesaid $7\frac{1}{2}$ fees [sic].

They say that one Elias Giffard had lawful issue by his wife after marriage, John Giffard of Bremesfeld, Maud, Isabel, and Mabel. After the death of his father Elias, John married Maud de Longespeye, by whom he had issue Katherine de Audele, afterwards married to Nicholas de Audele, by whom the said Nicholas had lawful issue Nicholas de Audele, which Nicholas had lawful issue James de Audele, who is now aged 15, and in the King's custody. By his same wife John Giffard had issue Eleanor la Estraunge, afterwards married to Fulk le Estraunge, who had issue, by the said Eleanor, John le Estraunge, who is aged 19 and more, and in the King's custody. After the death of the said Maud de Longespeye, his wife aforesaid, the said John married Margaret de Neuille, by whom he had issue John Giffard of Bremesfeld, who last died seised of all the manors, etc., without heir of his body.

By the said Maud, daughter of Elias Giffard, married to Godfrey Escudamor, the said God/rey had lawful issue Peter Escudamor, which Peter had lawful issue Alice de Bauent, afterwards married to Adam de Bauent, who had lawful issue Roger de Bauent, now aged 40.

By Isabel, second daughter of the said Elias, afterwards married to Thomas le Tabler, the said Thomas had lawful issue Guy le Tabler, who had lawful issue Edith de Grymstede, afterwards married to Richard de Grimstede, who by her had lawful issue Thomas de Grymstede, now aged 25.

By Mabel, third daughter of the said Elias, afterwards married to one Richard Dansy, the said Richard had lawful issue Richard Dansy, who had lawful issue Richard Dansy, now aged 40 and more.

When the jurors abovesaid were asked who was the next heir of the aforesaid John, according to the form of the writ, they said upon their oath that, of the degrees set forth, on account of the difficulty of the right and possession of the said John, who died last seised. they could not tell who should be reputed next heir according to the law and custom of the kingdom.

Writ, dated 13th July, 1 Edward III [1327], to William Trussel, the King's escheator this side of Trent, to inquire further concerning the tenure of the manor of Ascheton, which was returned by inquisition as held of the heirs of William Mautravers by fealty, whereas it has been shown on behalf of John Lestraunge and James Daudele, ward[s] to the King, that one John Mautravers long since by his charter granted the said manor, with the advowson of the church of St. Peter of Chodeford, to Elias Giffard, long since deceased, in free marriage with Alice, sister of the same John Mautravers, as by the charter aforesaid, exhibited in our chancery, more fully appears, and that the said John Giffard held the said manor and advowson on the day he died as cousin and heir of the aforesaid Elias and Alice by form of the gift aforesaid, and that the same John Lestraunge and James are next heirs of the said John as to the manor and advowson aforesaid by the form of the gift abovesaid.

nquisition taken before the King's escheator at New Sarum, 16th September, 1 Edward III [1327], by the oath of Sir John Strugg, knight, John de Langeford, William Quyntin, John le Parker, Richard de Langford, Adam Cousyn, Roger le Eyr, Adam Russel, William Kydenot, John de Litlecote, Simon Burel, and Walter de Shyrrenelone, who say that of the church of St. Peter of Codeford, in free marriage with his sister Alice, as in the writ is set forth, to hold to the said Elias and Alice and the heirs of their bodies for ever, from the said John Mautravers and his heirs by the service of one knight's fee for all service; and that John Lestraunge and James Daudele are next heirs of the said John of the premises.

Writ dated 22nd December, 1 Edward III [1327], directed to Simon de Bereford, the King's escheator this side of Trent, to take an inquisition, upon the information of John Mautravers, the younger (to whom the King has granted the custody of the lands, etc., of John Giffard of Brymmesfeld, deceased), to the effect that the said John Giffard died seised in his demesne as of fee of the manors of Codeford, Dene, and Asshtone, Wilts, and of divers other lands, etc., of which no mention was made in the inquisitions lately taken after the death of the said John Giffard, which lands, etc., have not yet been taken into our hand or the hands of our father.

nquisition taken at Devizes, 15th January, 1 Edward III [1328], by the oath of Sir John de la Mare, knight, Ralph le Gras, Nicholas Selyman, John Russel, William Baylemund, John de Chillone, Roger Unwyne, Edward de Cherltone, John le Fyscur, Walter Rysun, Richard Baylemund, and Nicholas Skryueyn, who say that Oliver de Ingham granted to Robert le Boor the manors of Codeford and Dene for the life of the said Robert, who forthwith granted his estate to John, son of John Giffard, so that the said John was not seised thereof in his demesne as of fee.

John died seised in his demesne as of fee of the manor of Asshtone next Boytone, which manor is held of the heir of William Mautravers by fealty for all service, and is worth \pounds 10 yearly. He did not die seised in his demesne as of fee of any other lands, etc., in Wilts, except those which have been taken into the King's hand.

John de Caylewe [spelt Kayllewey in the Gloucester Inquisition] is cousin and next heir of the said John, son of John Giffard of Brumesfeld, who last died, and of the whole blood; because Roger de Bauente, Thomas de Grymstede, Richard Dansy, James Daudele, and John, son of Fulk le Estraunge, are of the half blood of the aforesaid John, son of John Giffard, because Maud, great-grandmother of the said Roger de Bauente, Isabel, great-grandmother of Thomas de Grymstede, and Mabel, grandmother of Richard Dansy, were sisters of John Giffard, son of Elias Giffard, father of John Giffard of Brumesfeld, who last died, the issue of Isabel Mus[ard], who was first wife of Elias Giffard, grandfather of John, son of John Giffard; and John Giffard, father of the said John, was son and heir of Elias Giffard by Alice Mautravers, his second wife. Also Katherine Daudele, grandmother of James Daudele, and Eleanor le Estraunge. mother of John, son of Fulk le Estraunge, were sisters of John, son of John Giffard, the issue of Maud de Longespeye, who was first wife of John, son of Elias Giffard; and John Giffard of Brumesfeld, who last died without heir of his body, was son and heir of his father by Margaret de Neuyle, his second wife. And the aforesaid Elias had a sister of the whole blood named Bertha, great-grandmother of the said John de Caillewe; she was married to Elias Caillewe, who had issue by her Elias Caillewe, who had issue John Caillewe, who had issue the present John Caillewe. And they say that the said John Giffard had no other heir of the whole blood except the said John Caillewe.

Thomas, Earl of Lancaster.

Inquisition taken at Cherleton next Hungerford, before Thomas de Harpedene, the King's escheator, 26th February, 1 Edward III [1327], by the oath of Roger de Haredene, William de Wrok [?], Peter Forstebury of Westgrafton, William de Stolk [?], John Turand, William Brum, Robert Druweys, Walter Douce, William de Pollesdene, Roger Pipard, Philip Sturmy, and John Chauyn, who say that Thomas, late Earl of Lancaster, held in his demesne as of fee on the day on which he died of the father of the now King in chief the manors of Euerle and Colyngbourne, together with the liberty of having the return of all writs in the fee of the Honour of Leycestre and the manors aforesaid, as parcel of the earldom of Leicester; but by what services they are held they do not know. The manor of Colingbourne is worth \pounds_5 yearly, the manor of Euerle, with the liberties aforesaid, 50 marks.

The said Earl also held in his demesne as of the fee of Henry of Lancaster 3 tofts and 50 acres of land in Staundene, by the service of 5s. yearly, doing suit every 3 weeks at the said Henry's court of Staundene; which tenements are worth 10s. yearly.

Henry de Lancaster, brother and heir of the said Thomas, is aged $_{40}$ and more.

Thomas de Tolre, Parson of the Church of St. Peter of Old Sarum.

Writ, dated 6th August, 1 Edward III [1327], to R., Bishop of Salisbury. Thomas de Tolre, parson of St. Peter's of Old Sarum, the patronage of which is in the Crown, has claimed that all his predecessors, formerly parsons of that church before the town of New Sarum was founded, were used to have and receive all kinds of tithes, offerings, and oblations of the men dwelling in the castle of Old Sarum, which is in the bounds of his parish aforesaid, and also the tithe of wool and milk of the beasts pasturing in the said castle, until a certain chaplain, appointed to celebrate for one of the King's progenitors in the chapel of the Holy Cross in the said castle, receiving for his services 50s. by the year out of the King's farm of the county of Wilts, occupied (as he still does) the said tithes, to the grave damage of the said Thomas, and the deterioration of the advowson of the church. The Bishop is directed to inquire.

Inquisition taken by sixteen lawful and sworn men of Old Sarum and the neighbourhood, who say that the castle of Old Sarum is notoriously situated outside the bounds, limits, and decimations of the church of St. Peter of Old Sarum, and has been so from time immemorial; and before the foundation of the town of New Sarum the cathedral church of Sarum was situate in the said castle, to which belonged all kinds of tithes, offerings, and oblations arising in the said castle; and, after the foundation of the cathedral church and of the town of New Sarum, the priests celebrating for the time being in the said chapel of the Holy Cross received the tithes aforesaid peacefully and without interruption, and converted them to their own uses, and to no other, from the time of the foundation aforesaid.

John Mautrabers, the younger.

Inquisition taken before the King's escheator at New Sarum, 10th April, 1 Edward III [1327], by the oath of Ralph atte Mulle, William Quyntin, Richard atte Halle, John Royli, John Euerard, Stephen de Harnham, Ralph atte Coufeld, R[oger] de Wyke,

John de Colyngbourne, William atte Dene, John de Tydolfside, and John de C. . on, who say that

It would be no prejudice to the King or any other if he allow John Mautravers, the younger, to retain to him and his heirs the moiety of the manor of Stapelford, which he has acquired in fee from John Stormi; the said moiety is held of the King in chief by the service of one-fourth of a knight's fee, and is worth \pounds to yearly. John Stormy still retains a moiety of the manor of Fygheldene in the same county, held of the King in chief by the service of one-fourth of a knight's fee, and worth 20 marks yearly; also lands in Somerset.

John le Clerk of Chippenham.

nquisition taken before the King's escheator at Chippenham, 24th September, 1 Edward III [1327], by the oath of Adam Hardyng, Henry de Bourle, Adam Baret, Henry le Mareschal, William Olyuer, Richard Hulle, Roger C..., Giles de Chyuerdone, Nicholas Kyn, William Pykeryng, John Chaumpyon, and John Bourle, who say that

It would be no prejudice to the King or any other to allow John le Clerk of Chippenham to grant one messuage, 18 acres of land, 20s. yearly rent, and half an acre of meadow in Chippenham to John Payn, chaplain, to celebrate daily, in the church of St. Andrew of Chippenham, for the souls of the said John le Clerk and his ancestors. The said messuage and 4s. of the said rent are held from Peter de la Heose by the service of 25. yearly, as of the manor of Roudone, which manor is held of the King in chief at fee farm. Sixteen acres of the land are held of the King in chief by the service of 10s. 4d. yearly, as of the waste arrented in the Forest of Peuwesham. The remaining 2 acres and the half-acre of meadow are held of the Prior of Farlegh by the service of 1d. yearly, as of the church of Chippenham, which the Prior holds impropriate by gift of the King's progenitors; 4s. 8d. [rent] is held of John de Eneford by the service of $\frac{1}{2}d$. yearly; 11s. 4d. of the said rent is held of Henry de Bourle by the service of $\frac{1}{2}d$. yearly. John de Eneford and Henry de Bourle hold of Edmund Gacelyn, as of the manor of Schuldone by socage, which manor is held of the King in chief by the service of one knight's fee. The premises are worth in all their issues 135. 4d. yearly. There would still remain to the said John le

Clarendon forest.1

W 11t, dated 21st December, 1 Edward III [1327], directed to Master William de Braybrok, John de Boklond, and Richard Lew..., charging them to inquire into wastes and destructions committed in the King's forest of Clarindon, prior to the King's recent grant of the custody thereof to Giles de Beauchamp.

The defects of the houses of the keeper . . . in windows and covering. could be repaired for 20s. The railing [? tresancia] between the steps . . . of the Queen's wardrobe is deteriorated and uncovered. and could be repaired, with the defects of the ironwork of the windows of the same . . . The great chapel . . . canonically to be celebrated there every day, is wholly broken down as regards its covering, so that celebration there . . . f 10. All the defects of the houses abovesaid could be repaired, except the above . . . in the same forest in the park of Mulchet . . . The stone walls enclosing . . . both the old and the new, could be repaired reasonably for 100 marks. The King's demesne close there imparked contains nearly 9 leagues in circumference; the enclosure would have to be entirely remade for 51 leagues; it is estimated this could be done by taking the King's underwood there at a cost, counting carriage, of f_{50} , and it would cost so much on account of the distance of the places. The underwood of the grove outside the gate . . . and the underwood called Okegrove was felled and laid waste by the King's father . . . also the underwood of . . . because it was not enclosed. The underwood in the Older [awe?] was cut down by Walter Gaselyn, keeper of the forest, for enclosing . . . underwood . . . in length, and between the close of the park and "le Salterweye" in breadth . . . in the time of Walter Gaselyn, then keeper, as well for the . . . of the said park as to make sale thereof by command of the King's father . . . And they say that the said Walter Gaselyn made a trench beginning at "la Blakehooge" and extending . . . in which he took during his last time the underwood for enclosing the said park. And John de Chydioc took in the same trench during the time he was . . . for making and repairing the said park between . . . and "la . . . icroftes" to the least damage of the King, by view of the sheriff assigned by the King for that purpose. And by the view of the same sheriff he made a certain coppice land at Scherpegore, containing in length 3 perches and more, and in breadth . . . for the enclosure of the same park between the priory of the monastery of Ivychurch and Scher . . . made and expended by the same sheriff, and by the writ of the now King and without. They say also that in the time of the said John, while the said John was in the King's service, in the train of Earl Warenne against the Scotch rebels and enemies of the King, the same . . . cut down and carried away the underwood of a coppice containing 11 acres, next Canonesweve, to whose profit . . . on the waste [landam] in Benewyk and Couewyk they cut down and carried away great . . . to the amount of 10 car[tloads], and in the said park carried away 28 great oaks, as well hearts of oak [robores] as other oaks, to whose profit they do not know, and wasted the lord's said park of underwood in divers small spots, which damage cannot be . . . estimated, because the three foresters . . . took and were accustomed to take in the same demesne during those times . . . bote and firebote for their serieanties in the same demesne, and the Prior of the monastery of Ivychurch, dwelling in the same demesne, took, and was accustomed to take, his fuel for the kitchen and bakery and other offices. And it is to the great profit of the lord the King that such customs should be taken by view of the foresters in a certain place assigned . . . the coppices should be made and enclosed. Also they say that the father of the present King came to Clarendon in the month of August in the 20th [1326] year of his reign . . . 88 great bucks and 24 sores in the time of Robert de Mucheldevere, then keeper of the same forest, and forthwith in the month of September after . . . a certain disease among the beasts, great and small, as well on account of want of pasture during that summer and the preceding season as on account of weakness after rutting . . . so that a murrain began of the said beasts, which murrain lasted till the Feast of Easter. Also they say that in the second week of October the said Robert de Mucheldevere, then keeper, was taken by men passing through as rebels of the present King, and was [removed] from his keepership, so that the forest remained without a keeper until the Feast of . . . the Virgin in November, for 5 weeks and more, at which time John de Chydeoc, now keeper, was [appointed] . . . keeper of the said forest during the King's pleasure. And they say that during the time when [there was no] keeper, there came men passing through, unknown and armed, who . . . and chased the game with greyhounds and arrows. And during the same time the fencing [claustura] of the said park, partly put up, was broken and carried away at night by persons unknown, so that the game got out of the park and hitherto have not . . . During the same time Richard de Tolose, then forester in fee, killed and carried away two bucks, and Nicholas le Estemoste took with greyhounds and carried away . . . and one sorel. And William Cole of Lakerstoke took with his cords and engines one buck, one sorel, and one . . .

And they say that during this time they were accustomed thus to take and carry off the King's venison . . . at his coming to take the keepership of the said forest found the murrain among the said beasts so great and . . . continuously . . . the month of May, at which time the murrain ceased. And the same John was commanded to repair to the service of the King as is abovesaid . . . his foresters put in his place often hunted and took great bucks . . . by whose command they do not know.

Thomas Seymour.

Inquisition taken at Creckelade before the King's escheator, 14th September, 2 Edward III [1328], by the oath of Richard Costard, Nicholas le Gale, William de Asbroke, William le Veysi, John le Bakere, William atte Brigge, William Cachekuyte, John de Oldebury, Nicholas Coryot, John le Bukkere, John Wattes, and Richard atte Hulle, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow Thomas Seymour [de Sancto Mauro] to enfeoff Laurence Seymour [de Sancto Mauro], parson of the church of Hegham Ferrers, with his manor of Pulton, in order to a re-grant to the said Thomas and the heirs of his body, to hold from the King and his heirs for ever by the services therefrom due and accustomed. If the said Thomas should die without such issue the manor would remain to his brother Alan and the heirs of his body; in default of which to Nicholas, brother of the said Alan, and the heirs of his body. The manor is held by the service of half a knight's fee, and is worth \pounds to yearly in all its issues. There remains besides to the said Thomas land worth \pounds 100 yearly in divers counties, but from whom held, or by what services, the jury do not know.

Milliam, son of Katherine de Terstwode.

nquisition made at Wilton before the King's escheator, 16th January, 2 Edward III [1329], by the oath of Nicholas de Wyly, William de Duyn, John Rykeman, Nicholas Chartres, William Pitte, John de Lighe, William Partlynot, Simon Turpyn, John atte . ere the elder, John le Clerk, John de Erle, and William Bennyng, who say that

It would be no damage to the King to allow William, son of Katherine de Terstwode, to grant to John de Terstwode and Gilbert his brother the reversion of a messuage and one carucate of land in Couelesfelde Spileman, after the death of Richard de Terstwode, who holds for life by the law of England, of the inheritance of the said William, to hold to the said John and Gilbert for their lives from the King and his heirs, by the services therefrom due and accustomed. The premises are held of the King in chief as parcel of the manor of Brokenhurst, which manor is held of the King in chief by the service of finding one horseman armed with [? sub (sic)] a horse unarmed, as a hobbler, to remain for 40 days in the King's service in the army of Scotland and Wales, at his own charge, towards which service this parcel is bound to contribute its proportion. The premises are worth 70s. 2d. yearly. There will still remain to the said William 100s. of land and rents in Terstewode, held of the Abbess of Romsey in chief, by the service of 13s. 4d. yearly.

John de Meisy.

Petition [undated] of John de Meysi to the King and his Council, complaining that Hugh le Despenser, the father, by extortions and by his royal power, disseised the petitioner of his manor of Merston Meysi, because the said John refused to sell it to him, so that he had him put out by men-at-arms, because he lived . . . at his manor of La Fasterne; and he had the said John taken and brought to his said manor, and there imprisoned him, so that all his friends were obliged to come and deliver him; and the said John did not dare to sue forth a remedy against the said Hugh, on account of his royal power, wherefore the said John 'aparsut lexigende de lui", and meanwhile entered into his manor aforesaid as being his right. And the said Hugh, hearing of his re-entry on his return to England, procured the King's letters to be issued, to have taken him, and he happened to be of the party of the most noble Earl of Lancaster, wherefore the said John the said manor was found in his hand, so that it was seised into the King's hand by the escheator. And the said Hugh never had any other estate or right therein. The petitioner prays that an inquiry may be made.

Endorsed with an order for certain persons in the Chancery to inquire as to the truth of the matters alleged, in the presence of the keeper of the manor.

The King's writ to his Treasurer and Chamberlains, dated 3rd January, 2 Edward III [1329], setting forth that John de Meisy has shown that whereas Hugh le Despenser unlawfully disseised him of his said manor, and he had arraigned an assize of novel disseisin against the said Hugh, it was taken into the hand of Edward II on the forfeiture of the said Hugh, and directing an inquiry to be made as to whether John de Meisy had ever conveyed any estate in the said manor to Hugh le Despenser the elder.

On the back is a memorandum of search of the muniments of Hugh le Despenser the elder, now in the King's Treasury, which contain nothing referring to the said manor.

Inquisition taken at Hegheworth on Saturday next after the Feast of the Annunciation, 1 Edward III [1327], [before Adam Walrond, Philip atte . . . , and William de Sharshulle], appointed to inquire concerning the manor of Merston Meysy by the King's commission, [and of . .] Beauuer, keeper of the said manor, by the oath of W. . de Canyngges, William Page, Richard Aylmer, Robert Maleward, Richard Costard, John de Merston, Walter Orguil, John J. [son] of Hugh, Henry de Nony, Richard de Berton, and John le Monek, who say that

Hugh le Despenser the elder without judgment disseised John de Meysi of the manor of Merston Meysy in the 31st year of Edward I [1302-3], of which manor the said John, before that disseisin, was peacefully seised in his demesne as of fee. Because the said John brought the King's writ of novel disseisin against the said Hugh, to recover his rights in the said manor, Hugh openly threatened him, asserting that the said John was of the party of Thomas, then Earl of Lancaster, and that for that reason he was anxious to attack the said John, wherever he could be found, so that the said John fled to foreign parts, not daring to claim his own whilst the said Hugh was alive. John had never conveyed any estate in the said manor to Hugh or anyone else. It is held of ... Seymour [de Seintmor] by the service of half a knight's fee, and is worth \pounds 20 yearly in all its issues.

Another undated petition of the said John, stating that Hugh disseised him of the manor, that he brought an assize of novel disseisin thereupon against Hugh, but could never obtain justice during Hugh's life by reason of his sovereign power and maintenance. The manor was taken into the King's hands with others on Hugh's forfeiture. It has been found by good men of the county, according to an inquisition returned into Chancery, that for this reason only the manor is in the King's hands. He begs a writ of privy seal to the Chancellor, for the examination of this petition and of the said inquisition, for nothing can be found in the Treasury or elsewhere contrary to his claim.

Writ, dated 22nd February, 1 Edward III [1327], directed to Adam Walrond, Philip atte . . . , William de Scharsulle, and Robert de Hungerford, ordering an inquisition to be taken, and stating that John de Meysi returned from abroad in the King's train.

Fartholomew de Badelesmere.

nquisition made at Wilton before the King's escheator 26th December, 2 Edward III [1328], by the oath of John de Kyngesmulle, John Picot, William Sauage, John Gilberd, John Reygat, Robert Cole, John de Erlee, Richard Stobard, Walter Lambard, Geoffrey le Couk, William Serle, and William le Fryghe, who say that Bartholomew de Badlesmere held in his demesne as of fee on the day on which he died the manor of Castelcombe from Edward II in chief by the service of one knight's fee. There is a capital messuage there with a garden, worth 18d. yearly; a dovecot in bad state, worth 2s.; an enclosed park, the pasturage of which is worth 135. 4d. yearly; 106 acres of arable land, worth 355. 4d. yearly when sown, and nothing when not sown, because they lie in common; 8 acres of meadow, worth 8s. yearly; 6 acres of pasture, worth 3s.; 135. $4\frac{1}{2}d$. of the rents of free tenants at the Feasts of Christmas, Easter, the Nativity of St. John the Baptist, and Michaelmas in equal portions; there are 10 customary tenants, who pay for their rents and all customary services 335. 4d. at the said terms equally. There is 6s. of the rents of cottars at the said four terms; the pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 6s. yearly. Totai, $f_{2}6$ 2s. $6\frac{1}{2}d$.

The said Bartholomew held in like manner in Heghtredbury one messuage, one carucate of land, and 20s. 6d. rents from the heirs of the Earl of Gloucester by the service of half a knight's fee. The messuage and lands are worth $\pounds 4$ yearly; the rents are payable yearly at the said four terms. Total, 1005. 6d.

The said Bartholomew also held as above 2 messuages and one carucate of land, with 20s. 2d. rent in Cnouk and certain tenements in Orchestone, from the heirs of the Earl of Gloucester by the service of one-fourth of a knight's fee. The 2 said messuages in Cnouk are worth yearly beyond reprises 2s., and the carucate of land 78s. when sown, and nothing when not sown, because it lies in common all the year. The rents there are as appear above, and they are payable at the said four terms of the year. The tenements in Orchestone are worth 76s. 8d. yearly. Total of Cnouk, 100s. 2d.; total of Orchestone, 66s. 8d.

Also they say the said Bartholomew held as above one messuage, one carucate of land, and 6s. rent in Hurdecote of Edward II in chief by the service of . . . of a knight's fee. The messuage is worth 2s. yearly beyond reprises; the land 50s, when sown and nothing when not sown, because it lies in common the whole year. The rents abovesaid are payable at Whitsuntide and Michaelmas in equal portions. There are 2 acres of meadow there worth 4s.

Giles de Badlesmere, son and heir of the said Bartholomeuv, is aged 14.

The said Bartholomew held the manor of Castelcombe, etc., as above. Differences between the two inquisitions are: at Castel combe the dovecot is here said to be worth 3s; 8 acres of meadow, worth 16s; 16 acres of pasture, worth 13s. 4d; 23s. 4d. of rents of free tenants; 20 customary tenants paying 103s. 4d.; rents of cottars, 16s.; perquisites of court, worth 16s. 8d. The said manor is charged to Robert de Monteford, clerk, to wit, of half a cloth suitable for a clerk, with one good fur of 'stradlyng' and one of squirrel, and a cap of small vair, to be received for his life by the said Robert. Total, f_{12} 11s. $10\frac{1}{2}d$.

In Hurdecote the rents are here returned as 26s., and the land as worth 6os. There are 8 acres of meadow worth 16s. There are divers works of customary tenants worth 4os. 4d., and divers pieces of pasture worth 6s. 8d. yearly. Total, £6 12d.

They say also that Bartholomew de Badlesmere and Margaret his wife held jointly the manors of Westheghtredebury, with the hundred, Colerne, and Steurte, from Edward II in chief, as of the barony of Castelcombe, by the service of $1\frac{3}{4}$ knight's fee, to hold for term of their lives, with reversion to the King and his heirs. They are worth $\pounds_4 o$ yearly.

They also hold jointly the manors of Knouk and Orchestone, and one messuage, a carucate of land, and 205. 6d. rent in Istheghtredebury, from the heirs of the Earl of Gloucester, by the service of three-quarters of a knight's fee, to hold for their lives, with reversion to the right heirs of the said Bartholomew. These premises are worth \pounds_{12} 6s. 8d. yearly.

Giles de Badlesmere, son and heir of the said Bartholomew, is aged 15.

Master Robert de Bluntesdone.

nquisition taken at Salisbury before the King's escheator. 10th April, 2 Edward III [1328], by the oath of Stephen Beauuer, Robert le Parker, Stephen Hilon, William atte Grove, John Henry, John le Freire, Stephen le Zonge, Gilbert Uryng, John Pra, Roger Tropinel, John Goudchild, and Peter Bertilot, who say that

It would be no prejudice to the King or any other to allow Master Robert de Blontesdone to assign to the Prior and Canons of the monastery of Ivychurch his manor of Whaddone, with the advowson of the church of that manor, held of Oliver de Ingham by the service of one-fourth part of one knight's fee. The manor is worth \pounds_7 12s. yearly, and the church 5 marks. The said Oliver is mean lord between Master Robert and the King, and there are no others. Master Robert will still retain a messuage and . . . carucates of land in Swyndone and Blountesdone, held of the heirs of the Earl of Pembroke by the service of 1 lb. of pepper yearly; they are worth 20 marks a year.

Stephen Loueraz.

nquisition taken at "la Whiteparosshe" before the King's escheator, 29th October, 2 Edward III [1328], by the oath of William de Lufteshulle, Nicholas de Wili, Thomas Chaumberlayn, John de Viegne, John de Kyngesmulle, William le Duyn, Richard le Muleward, John Martyn, Richard Heira . . z, Gilbert de Botes, John Charles, and John de Uptone, who say that

It will be no damage to the King or any other to permit Stephen Loueraz to grant to Roger Normaund and Joan his wife one messuage, z carucates of land, 80 acres of pasture, 60 acres of wood, and 6 marks' rent in Couelesfeld, held of the King in chief, to hold to the said Roger and Joan and the heirs of Roger. The said land, pasture, wood, and rents are held by the serjeanty of taking wolves with the King's dogs at the King's expense when they come within the forest of Claryndone in co. Wilts. The land, pasture, and wood are worth 52s. Stephen would still retain 18d. rent in Lokerlegh and the bailiwick of the forestry of Boukholte, held of the King by the service of 20s. yearly; also land, pasture, and wood in divers counties, worth £10 yearly; but of whom they are held or by what services the jury do not know.

John de Kyneleye.

nquisition made before the King's escheator at Devyses, 22nd August, 2 Edward III [1328], by [the oath of] Thomas de Langeford, John Pikeman, Robert de Tidolueside, Peter le Clerk, William atte Halle, William le Mareschal, Stephen Drueys, Robert le Monek, John de Euerle, John de Meridon, Walter le Bacheler, and Richard le Shotte [?], who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other if the King were to permit John le Kyneleye to retain 4 messuages and 3 virgates of land in Kyneleye, which he acquired without licence of Edward II from the Earl of Arundel, who held of the King in chief. He acquired them from the Earl to him and his heirs by the service of paying 100s. yearly to him and his heirs in the name of fee farm by the hands of their bailiffs of Kyneleye. They are held as parcel of the manor of Kyneleye, which Edmund, Earl of Kent, holds by demise of the King, and which the Earl of Arundel holds of the King in chief, together with divers other lands in England, by barony. Beyond the aforesaid rent the tenements are worth 2s. yearly.

Extent of the meadow called Pillesmore, annered to the Manor of Someford Keynes [sic].

Wrlt, dated 3rd March, 2 Edward III [1328], directed to Robert de Prestbury and John Giffard, setting forth that the King's mother and the King, whilst they were abroad, in consideration of the good services rendered to them by William de Clynton, promised him a grant of land, worth £200 yearly, for his life. The commissioners ascertained the value of the manor of Someford Keynes, now in the King's hand, but omitted to value a certain meadow called Pillesmore to that manor annexed, which is likewise in the King's hand; they are therefore to remedy this omission.

Extent of the meadow of Pillesmor, made on Tuesday before the Feast of St. Mark the Evangelist, 2 Edward III [1328], by the oath of Richard Costard, Simon atte Coue, Nicholas Gale, Robert Joukyn, William le Vowelare, William Cachecute, Edward de la Leighe, Pobert Pernaund, William de Kynegareshegge, William le Mareschal, john le Frie, and William Cobiham, who say that

The said meadow contains 100 acres, 60 of which are worth 9d. an acre, and 40 2d. an acre yearly. The meadow is held of the Abbess of Caen by the service of 20s. 1d. yearly.

John Mautravers the younger.

Inquisition made before the King's escheator at Muleford, 2nd November, 2 Edward III [1328], by the oath of Walter de Thacham, Stephen Beauuer, John de Berghton, Richard de Harsfeld, Stephen Turpyn, Stephen Hulou, Hugh le Yonge, John Henry, Henry le Templer, John de Uptone, John le Proute, and Richard Heyras, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow John Mautravers the younger to convey to Henry Burry his reversion of 2 messuages, one mill, and a virgate of land in Muleford Richard, which Henry Burry holds for the life of Richard de Tolouse from the aforenamed John by demise of the same Richard, who held for that term under assignment of Richard de Tudeworthe. The premises are held of the King in chief by the serjeanty of finding one forester to keep the King's forest of Claryndone, taking from the King pasture in the same forest for all his beasts, except sheep and goats, and also two hearts of oak [rolora] of dead wood yearly, with 'housbote' and 'heybote' in reason by view of the bailiff and verderers. They are worth 20s. yearly, and not more, because the land is poor and arid, and the said mill is kept up at great cost.

The said John will still retain $\pounds 100$ worth of lands in Wilts, Somerset, and Dorset, held of the King by knight service.

Robert le Boor.

I nquisition made at Hynedone before the King's escheator, 26th April, 2 Edward III [1328], by the oath of John Fraunceys, Edmund de la Lee, Robert de Aula, William Maignard, Godfrey Morys, John Morys, Robert Wymond, William Coff, Gilbert la Blake, Robert le Tannere, Robert le Bakere, and John Hamond, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow Robert le Boor to assign 14s. rents, issuing out of lands and tenements formerly belonging to Stephen Pullyng in Deuerel Langebrigg, to the Abbot and Convent of Glaston, in augmentation of the maintenance of a chaplain to celebrate in that abbey for the souls of the said Robert and his ancestors, etc. The said rents are held of that abbey by the service of one rose yearly, the Abbot being intermediary between the King and the said Robert. Robert will still retain divers lands, etc., in the manor of Hulle Deuerel, worth \pounds_{40} yearly, held of Earl Warenne, by the service of half a knight's fee.

John Giffard of Brymmesfeld.

nquisition made at New Salisbury on Tuesday the Morrow of St. James the Apostle, 2 Edward III [1328], before John Mautravers (keeper of the manor of Beytone, which belonged to John Giffard of Brymmesfeld, deceased, who held in chief from Edward II, and which is now in the King's hand, by reason of the death of the same John) and Philip de la Beche, assigned by the King's commission to inquire whether during his lifetime the said John Giffard by his charter granted to Agnes Giffard, nun, of Wiltone, 39s. rent, to be received yearly in Boytone by the same Agnes for term of her life at the Feasts of Easter and Michaelmas in equal portions, and whether the said John pledged for the payment thereof all his tenements in Boytone, which Thomas de Boys and Henry le Cartere held at will from the said John, by the oath of John Strag, Adam Cosyn, John le Bole, Roger le Portor, Ralph Daleway, Reginald Werston, Richard de Langeforde, Adam Russel, Adam le Hordere, Sirion Burel, Alexander Giffard, and William de Shyrenetone, who say that John Giffard of Brymmesfeld made such a grant to the said Agnes by his charter, dated at Stapelford on Sunday after the Feast of St. Mark the Evangelist, 11 Edward II [1318]. The said Agnes was accordingly seised of that rent from that time by the hands of the said Thomas and Henry, even after the said manor was taken into the hands of Edward II, viz. till the Feast of the Purification, 1 Edward III [1328], from which time the rent is in arrears.

The premises are held, not of the King, but of the Earl of Salisbury, and are worth nothing yearly beyond the said rent.

William de Charpeuille.

nquisition taken at Uppauene before the King's escheator on the last day of May, 3 Edward III [1329], by the oath of John Wake, John de Thisteldene, John de Rusteshale, Peter le Ayr, John

Berner, John Bordoun, John Skylling, Bartholemew de Myrdene, Robert atte Milne, William Edmund, Henry Edmund, and Geoffrey Gustard, who say that

William Charpevile held in his demesne as of fee on the day on which he died one toft, 30 acres of land, and 3 acres of pasture in Wodebergh of the King in chief by the service of one-tenth of a knight's fee. The said toft is worth 6d. yearly, the 30 acres of land 6d. an acre when they are sown, and nothing when not sown, because they lie in common; and the pasture is worth 12d. an acre. And there is a rent of 11s. 11¹/₂d. at the Feasts of Christmas, Easter, and the Nativity of St. John the Baptist in equal portions.

William Charpevile, son of the aforesaid William, is his next heir, and aged 28 and more.

Robert de Mucheldeuere.

Inquisition taken before the King's escheator at New Salisbury, 1st April, 3 Edward III [1329], by the oath of William de Thacham, Stephen Hulou, Robert le Parker, John de Uptone, Stephen Glendy, John le Frere, Gilbert Viryng, Stephen le Yonge, William atte Fenne, William Ede, William atte Groue, William le Bacheler, and John Sweyn, who say that Robert de Mucheldeuere held no lands in his demesne as of fee on the day he died in Wilts from the King in chief, nor any other, but that the said Robert, while he was with Hugh le Despenser the younger, after the exile promulgated against the said Hugh in a late Parliament of Edward II, by the maintenance and power of the same Hugh, and by his oppression, violently ejected Henry Burry from one messuage, 3 virgates of land, 8 acres of meadow, and 17s. 1d. rent in Lauerstoke, of which the messuage and one virgate of land are held of the King in chief by the service of finding one forester on foot to keep the King's forest of Claryndone; and they are worth 14s. yearly. The remainder of the premises are held of Margaret de Wodefold by the service of 52s. 8d., payable every year at the four principal terms. The land and meadow are worth 6s. 8d. yearly; the value of the rent appears. This was done because the said Henry Burry was of the party of Thomas, late Earl of Lancaster, against the said Hugh le Despenser.

And thus, and not otherwise, the said Robert entered into these tenements and retained them in his hands until Philip de Beche then sheriff of Wilts, by virtue of the King's writ restored them to the afore-named Henry, to hold, as he formerly held them, as was established and agreed in the Parliament at the King's coronation.

Under the same circumstances the same Robert ejected John de Farlegh from a messuage and 107 acres of land in Putton and Farlegh, held of Thomas Cosyn by the service of 7s. 2d. yearly, being worth 6s. 8d. a year beyond that rent. John de Farlegh was restored to these lands, etc., by the said sheriff, as is abovesaid.

In like manner Robert de Mucheldeuere ejected Thomas Cosyn from one messuage, 90 acres of land, 1 acre of meadow, and 20 acres of wood in Putton, held of the Abbess of St. Mary of Winchester by the service of 100s. yearly; they are worth nothing beyond that rent. Thomas Cosyn was restored as above.

The said Robert likewise ejected John de Lucy of Farlegh from 40 acres of wood in Farlegh, held of John de Wynterbourne by the service of $\frac{1}{2}$ lb. of pepper yearly, and worth 6s. 8d. a year. John de Lucy was restored as above.

If the said Robert held any lands in his demesne as of fee elsewhere than in the county of Wilts, then John de Mucheldeuere, son of the said Robert and Alice his wife, is next heir of the said Robert, and aged 15 years.

Maud, who was wife of James de la Blaunche.

I NQUISITION [part torn away] made at Wyltone before the King's escheator, 15th March, 3 [Edward III (1329)], by the oath of John Picot, William . . . , Robert Cof, John Waunsy, William Norman, William Whyppe, John atte Moure, William Pr le Smyth, who say that

Maud, who was wife of James de la Plaunche, held nothing in her demesne as of fee in Wilts on the day she died of the King in chief; but she held for term of her life only one carucate of land and 4 acres of meadow in Bereford [and a moiety of the manor of Compton Chaumberlayn], which moiety at her death was to remain to William de l[a] Plaunche and the heirs of his body, under a fine levied in the King's court in Michaelmas term, 18 Edward . . .

The said land and meadow are held of Th... by the service of 20s. yearly. The moiety of the said manor of Compton Chaumberlayn is held of ... de Grymstede by the service of half a knight's fee. The land is worth 32s. a year when it is sown, and nothing when not sown, because it lies in common. The meadow is worth 8s. yearly.

In the said moiety of the manor of Compton Chaumberlayn there is a capital messuage worth nothing beyond the reprise; one garden with a dovecot, worth half a mark yearly; 150 acres of land, worth 6d. an acre; 10 acres of meadow, worth 20s.; 14 acres of pasture, worth 7s.; a small wood, the underwood of which is worth nothing, because it was wholly laid waste in the time of the said Maud; there is a water-mill worth 13s. 4d. a year, and for that it is [demised] to John Edolf. There is 215. 10d. of the rent of free tenants, to wit, at Christmas 3s. 7d., at the Annunciation 3s. 3d., at Easter 3s. 7d., at Whitsuntide 6d., at the Nativity of St. John the Baptist 3s. 7d., and at Michaelmas 7s. 4d. There are 13 'virgatars', who hold in villenage and pay £8 135. 4d. yearly at Christmas, Easter, the Nativity of St. John, and Michaelmas in equal portions, and they give for their works from the Gule of August till Michaelmas 65s., to wit, 5s. each. And there is 40s. 5d. of the rent of cottars at will. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 6s. 8d. yearly.

William de la Plaunche, son and heir of the said Maud, is aged 30 and more.

James de Portone.

nquisition made at Wiltone before the King's escheator on Saturday next after the Feast of the Conversion of St. Paul, 3 Edward III [1329], by the oath of John de Baleton, William Gerard, William Leffrye, John le Tayllur, Simon le Taillur, John Reygate, Thomas Dauyes, Nicholas le Haytour, William de Wodemantone, Richard Wake, Roger de Stoke, and John de Midhurst, who say that

James de Nortone held no lands in his demesne as of fee of the King in chief, or of any other, in Wilts on the day he died, but he held for term of his life of the inheritance of Elizabeth, formerly his wife, by the law of England, by reason of the issue begotten between them, one-third of the manor of Fisshertone next Wily, held of Hugh de Poyntz in chief, by the service of one-third of a knight's fee. There is a capital messuage there, without a garden, worth nothing yearly beyond the reprise; 83 acres of arable land, of which two-thirds can be sown every year, and when sown they are worth 24s. 8d.; when not sown it is worth nothing. because it lies in common throughout the year; and the third, which lies fallow every year, is worth nothing, because it does lie fallow. And there are 8 acres of meadow, which can be mowed every year before the Gule of August, and the first crop is worth 12s., and after mowing it lies in common till the Feast of the Purification. And there is 2s, $o^{\frac{1}{2}d}$, rent of free tenants at Michaelmas, and they pay also 2 lb. of pepper and 1 lb. of cummin at Michaelmas, worth 2s. 1d. There are 4 bond 'virgatars', who pay f_{4} yearly at the Feasts of St. Thomas the Apostle, the Annunciation, and St. Giles, in equal portions. And there are 12 cottars, who pay 57s. 4d. a year at the same terms. And the said 'virgatars' and cottars do certain works, for mowing, raising, and carrying the lord's meadow, which are worth as a whole 2s. 2d. There is one-third of a dovecot, the profit of which is 12d. yearly. The pleas and perquisites of the courts there are worth 12d. a year.

Thomas de Nortone, son of the same James and Elizabeth, is his next heir, and also next heir of his mother; he is aged 24 and more.

Joan, who was wife of Hugh Wake.

I NQUISITION [part torn away] made at Wiltone before the King's escheator, 15th July, 3 Edward III [1329], by the oath of Nicholas de Roluestone, John Pycot, Ralph atte Mulle, William Richard, Richard de Langeford, Alexander Gyffard, John de Kyngesmulle, William Sauage, John Regate, William de Colyngbourne, John atte Watere, and John Lyngynere, who say that

. The said Joan held no lands in her demesne as of fee on the day she died of the King in chief or of any other in Wilts, but that she was seised, jointly with the aforesaid Hugh de Wake, her late husband, long since deceased, of the manor of Winterbourne-stoke, for the term of her life, under a fine levied in the King's court, to hold to the said Hugh and Joan and the heirs of the said

Hugh for ever. The said manor is held of the King in chief by the service of one-third of a knight's fee.

There is a capital messuage there, with a garden and dovecot, worth 6s. 8d. yearly; 403 acres of arable land, worth £6 14s. 4d. yearly; 10 acres of meadow, worth 20s.; pasture for 400 sheep, worth 33s. 4d. yearly; a several pasture for oxen, worth 6s. 8d. Rents of free and customary tenants and cottars, £12 2s. 6d., at the Feasts of the Purification, St. John the Baptist, and St. Michael equally. The works of the said customary tenants from the Gule of August to Michaelmas are worth 40s. 6d. They owe a certain sum of 20s. at Martinmas for common tallage. The pleas and perquisites of the courts there are worth 13s. 4d. yearly.

The said Joan was seised, jointly with the said Hugh in free marriage, of . . . 1005. rents in Babetone and Fisshertone, payable by 5 te[nants at the Feasts of] . . . the Annunciation and the Assumption equally . . [after the death of the said] Joan shall remain to the heirs of the aforenamed Hugh Wake. [Held of] the heirs of Peter de la Stane freely without doing any service except fealty only.

... [is] next heir [of the same Joan] and Hugh, and is aged 2 years.

Total of the manor and rent aforesaid, £30 17s. 4d., of which 64s. 6d. . . . receives yearly from the said manor of Winterbournestoke at [the Feasts of] . . . and St. Michael equally.

Richard de Coumbe.

nquisition taken at Salisbury before the King's escheator, 23rd July, 3 Edward III [1329], by the oath of Simon de Fifhide, John Trenchesoil, Robert Saucer, John le Frie, John Sewald, John Torald, Walter Douce, John de Euerule, John de Wircestre, John Kytewyne, Henry de la Folye, and John le Fizwillam, who say that

Richard de Coumbe held in his demesne as of fee on the day he died of the King in chief at fee farm one messuage and 161 acres of arable land in Fiteltone by the service of paying \pounds_{12} of silver into the King's exchequer yearly, half at Easter and half at Michaelmas. The said messuage is worth 4s. yearly beyond reprises; the land \pounds_4 os. 6d. There is 1 acre of meadow there, worth 3s. yearly. There is a pasture on Bouledone for 300 sheep, worth 50s. yearly. Of the rents of free tenants 23s. yearly, to wit, at the Feasts of the Purification and the Gule of August in equal portions. There are 4 bond tenants, who hold $2\frac{1}{2}$ virgates of land, and pay 25s. a year at the said terms, and do no works. These customary tenants pay church shot at Martinmas, 5 cocks and 25 hens, worth 3s. $6\frac{1}{2}d$, to wit, each cock 1d., each hen $1\frac{1}{2}d$. There are 3 cottars, who pay 8s. 8d. a year at the said terms. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 3s. 4d. a year. Total, $\pounds_{10} 12s$; $0\frac{1}{2}d$.

The said Richard de Combe of Fiteltone held in his demesne as of fee on the day he died the manor of [Fiteltone] at fee farm from the Prior of Newmarket, at a rent of f_{8} [?], payable in equal portions at the Feasts of SS. Simon and Jude and SS. Philip and James. There is a capital messuage there, with one garden, worth 6s. yearly; one dovecot, worth 5s.; 322 acres of arable land, worth 6d. an acre; 2 acres of meadow, worth 6s.; a pasture on Lyntedone for 600 sheep, worth 100s.; there is a water-mill, worth 30s. yearly; rents of free tenants f.4 18s. 8d., to wit, at the Feasts of SS. Simon and Jude 47s. 2d., of the Purification 20d., of SS. Philip and James 47s. 2d., of St. Peter which is called Advincula 2s. 8d. Of the rent of one free tenant at Christmas, $2\frac{1}{2}$ lb. of pepper, worth 2s. 1d. There are 4 bond tenants, who pay 30s. yearly at the Feasts of SS. Simon and Jude and SS. Philip and James in equal portions, and they do no works; at Martinmas they give church shot, 14 cocks and 58 hens, worth 8s. 5d., to wit, each cock 1d., each hen $1\frac{1}{2}d$. There are the rents of 8 cottars, 17s. 6d. at the said two terms equally. And the pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 6s. 8d. yearly, Total, £,23 11s. 4d.

The said Richard and Maud, his wife, were jointly enfeoffed on the day on which he died of 2 messuages, 2 carucates, and 5 virgates of land, and 1125. 3d. rents in Coumbe next Fitelton and Comptone next Eneford, under a fine levied in the King's court, to hold to themselves and the heirs of their bodies. The 2 messuages, 2 carucates of land, and 715. 5d. rent in Coumbe are held of the Bishop of Winchester by the service of half a knight's fee, and are worth beyond that rent 1005. yearly. The 5 virgates of land and 415. rent in Comptone are held of John de Brommore by the service of one-seventh of a knight's fee, and are worth 405. net.

Richard de Coumbe, son of the aforesaid Richard de Coumbe, is his next heir, and was aged 9 on the morrow of the Epiphany last past.

Milliam de Hardene.

nquisition made at Wyle next Sauernake before the King's escheator, 18th January, 3 Edward III [1330], by the oath of John Torald, John Fisz Willam, Michael de la . . rre, William Bruyn, Richard Geruays, Peter de Smythemore, Richard Costeuille, William de Polesdene, Roger de Hardene, William de Wyke, Philip Sturmy, and John de Kemenhulle, who say that

William de Hardene held in his demesne as of fee on the day on which he died the manor of Westshaldebourne of the King in chief, by the serieanty of finding one footman, armed with one 'haubergett' and one iron knife and one lance in the King's war. at his own expense, for 40 days for all service. And in the said manor there is a capital messuage, worth nothing yearly beyond reprises; one garden, worth 2s. yearly in pasture and fruit; 160 acres of arable land, two-thirds of which can be sown every year, and when sown they are worth 4d. an acre, and when not sown they are worth nothing, because they lie in common throughout the year, and the remaining third is worth nothing, because it lies fallow and in the common field all the year. There are 3 acres of meadow, which can be mown about the Gule of August, and then the first crop is worth 5s., and from the day of the mowing it is worth nothing, because it lies in common until the Feast of the Purification. There is a windmill worth 10s. There are 9 free tenants, who pay 38s. 11d. a year, to wit, at Christmas 9s. 3d., at Easter 9s. 3d., at the Nativity of St. John the Baptist 7s. 3d, at Michaelmas 13s. 2d., and at Christmas 1 lb. of pepper and 1 lb. of cummin, and at Michaelmas 1 lb. of pepper. worth 2s. 1d. There are 6 bond half-'virgatars', who pay 24s. a year at the said four terms in equal portions, and they give in common yearly at the Feast of All Saints to the lord's larder 6s. And each of them will plough and harrow at the winter sowing half an acre, and half an acre at the barley sowing in Lent, and each work is worth id.; and each will harrow with one horse for 2 days at the Lent sowing, and the 2 days' work is worth 1d.; and will mow the lord's meadow for one day, and each day's work is worth $2\frac{1}{2}d$; and will hoe the lord's corn for 3 half-days, and the work is worth 1d. for the 3 days; and will reap for 3 days with one man in the autumn, and each day's work is worth 1d. And each of them will carry the lord's corn with one cart and one horse for 3 days in autumn, and the work is worth 1d. a day. There are 9 other bond tenants, each of whom holds in villenage one messuage and 8 acres of land, and pays 18s. yearly at the aforesaid terms, and each of them gives 6d. to the larder at the Feast of All Saints, and does all the works done by the half-'virgatars', except the mowing of the lord's meadow, instead of which each of them tosses the hay for half a day directly after the mowing, and this work is worth $\frac{1}{3}d$. And there are 2 cottars there, who pay yearly, at the said four terms equally, 2s. 9d. And the pleas and perquisites of courts are worth nothing, because there are no tenants who owe suit to the lord's court, nor is there any pasture there in several.

The aforesaid William de Hardene also held as above one messuage and one virgate of land in Estwyke from Isabella, Queen of England, as of the forest of Sauernake, by serjeanty and by the service of paying 13s. yearly at Michaelmas to the castle of Marleberge, and by the service of keeping half of a certain part of the forest of Sauernake, which is called "la Westbaillye", taking therefrom 'housbote' and 'heybote' by livery of the steward of the forest aforesaid. The said messuage is worth nothing beyond the reprise; the virgate of land is worth 5s. beyond the abovesaid rent and service. These tenements the said William de Hardene formerly purchased in fee from William de Boueclyue by the King's licence, as the charter thereof bears witness. The said land is sown with wheat.

The said William also held as above one messuage and one virgate of land in Estwyke of the aforesaid Queen, as of the said forest, by the service of a like rent to Marlborough Castle, and by keeping the other moiety of "la Westbaillye" aforesaid, receiving as above. The messuage and land are worth 6s. yearly beyond the said services, and all the land is sown. • He also held one messuage and 93 acres of arable land from John de Cormayles by the service of 9s. yearly. The messuage is worth nothing beyond the reprise; two-thirds of the said land can be sown every year, and is worth 3d. an acre when sown and nothing when not sown [as above]. There is a garden, the pasture and fruit of which are worth 6s. 8d. a year. And there are 4 acres of meadow of the moor, the first crop of which is worth 5s. yearly, and after mowing it lies in common till the Feast of the Purification. There is a dovecot, worth 5s. yearly. Two bond 'virgatars', each of whom holds one messuage and zo acres of land in villenage, and they pay 38s. 4d., to wit, at Christmas 5s. 7d., at Easter 9s. 7d., at the Nativity of St. John the Baptist 5s. 7d., and at Michaelmas 17s. 7d. And one of them gives church shot at Martinmas, 6 bushels of oats worth 18d., and the other gives one cock and 3 hens, worth $5\frac{1}{2}d$, and they do not do any other works. And there is one cottar [cotarius] there, who pays 3s. at Michaelmas for all service; and 11 cottars [coterelli], who pay 26s. 10d. equally at the said four terms; and they give for church shot at Martinmas [2] cocks and 9 hens, worth $16\frac{1}{2}d$., and each of them will carry the lord's fold three times in the year, to wit, before Easter, about Whitsuntide, and about Michaelmas, and each carriage is worth $\frac{1}{4}d$. And the pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth nothing, because there are no suitors to the court there, nor is there any several pasture.

The said William held as above one messuage, 10 acres of land, and one water-mill in Peuesye from the Abbot of Hyde, by the service of 11s. yearly; the messuage and land are worth nothing beyond the reprise; the mill is worth 10s. a year.

He also held 24 acres of land in Cleynche from John le Fuisz by the service of 4s. 4d. yearly, and it is worth 4s. beyond the said rent. Also 12 acres from Adam Clynche by the service of 7s. 4d. yearly, and it is worth nothing beyond the rent paid for it. Also 72 acres of land from the Abbot of Batile, by the service of 12s. 2d. yearly, two-thirds of which can be sown every year, and it is then worth 8s. beyond the said rent, viz. 2d. an acre, and the remaining third is worth nothing [as above]. And with these lands and tenements in Wyke, Cleynche, and Peuesye, except those purchased from William de Boueclyue, the aforesaid William enfeoffed the one time Margaret, late Queen of England, who therewith re-enfeoffed the said William and Maud, formerly his wife, by licence and charter of the King, and by fine levied in the King's court before the Justices of the Bench, to hold to them and the heirs of their bodies, failing which, to the right heirs of the said Maud.

The said William also held $_{380\frac{1}{2}}$ acres of assart land in the Forest of Sauernake from Isabella, Queen of England, as of the said forest, by the service of paying $\pounds 6$ 115. 6d. to the castle of Marleberge at Michaelmas for all services. And the land is worth nothing beyond the rent so paid.

He also held one messuage and 40 acres of land in Hardene from Roger de Hardene by the service of 3s. o_4^sd . The messuage is worth nothing beyond the reprise; and there is a plot of several pasture there in the close of the same messuage, worth 2s. yearly; and the said land can be sown every other year, and when sown it is worth 6s. 8d. a year, and when not sown it is worth nothing, because it lies in common throughout the year next the Forest of Sauernake.

Anastasia, daughter of the aforesaid William de Hardene by the said Maud, wife of Sir Ro[bert] de Bilkemore, knight, is next heir of the said William, and is aged 24.

Milliam Aylmer of Sebenhamptone.

X/rlt, directed to the sheriff of Wilts, 20th October, 3 Edward III [1329], to take an extent of the lands of William Aylmer of Sevenhamptone, late parson of the church of Dadingtone, now deceased, who on 14th May, 2 Edward III [1328], acknowledged that he owed Sir Robert de Stantone, knight, and William de Ingwardeby f.60, to be paid at Easter then next coming, as appears by an inspection of the rolls of Chancery; this sum remains unpaid, and the creditors have elected, according to the statute in this behalf provided, to accept livery of half the lands and tenements of the said William Avlmer. The sheriff was therefore ordered to warn the heirs of the said William Aylmer and the tenants of his lands, on the day of the recognizance aforesaid, to appear on a certain day in the King's Chancery, there to show if they had any reason why a moiety of the said tenements should not be so delivered. The sheriff returned that a moiety of the said tenements were in the hands of Oueen Isabella, by escheat, and the other mojety in the hands of Walter de Hungerford, whom he duly summoned. The said Walter appeared in Chancery on the day appointed, and said that Robert de Hungerford was seised jointly with himself of the said moiety, and that he ought to be charged with his share of the f.60. Robert de Hungerford was then summoned to appear in Chancery, and neither Robert nor Walter could say. anything for their discharge from the said debt. When the extent has been made, the half is to be duly delivered to the creditors Endorsed with a memorandum of the livery of the abovesaid. moiety of the lands of the said William Aylmer to Sir Robert de Staunton, knight, and William de Ingwardeby.

> > Henry Burry.

nquisition taken before the King's escheator at New Sarum, 3rd April, 3 Edward III [1329], by the oath of Walter de Thacham, Stephen Hulou, William atte Groue, John le Frere, Nicholas Hulou, Gilbert Viryng, William Ede, Stephen le Yonge, William atte Fenne, John de Uptone, Stephen Glendi, and John Sweyn, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow Henry Burry to enfeoff Richard de Tudeworth and Katherine his wife with 2 messuages, one mill, and a virgate of land in Muleford Richard, held of the King in chief, to hold to the said Richard and Katherine and the heirs of their bodies, with contingent remainder to Maud, daughter of Richard de Tudeworth, and John de Wynterburne in tail successively. The premises are held by the service of finding one forester on foot to keep the King's forest of Claryndone; the messuage is worth 2s. yearly, the mill 12s. The virgate of land contains 32 acres, and is worth 5s. 4d. yearly and not more, because it lies uncultivated and in common. The said Henry would still retain 100s. worth of land in Estwynterslewe, held of the Abbot of Glaston by the service of 5s. yearly.

> > Kichard de la Ryuere.

nquisition taken at New Sarum before the King's escheator, 20th March, 3 Edward III [1329], by the oath of William atte Bury, Richard Whitside, Walter Lorgoil, Robert Sprot, James Sprot, Philip Bacon, John de Chiltone, John Gale, William Champeneys, William Hastemanger, Thomas le Palmere, and John de Merstone, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow Richard de la Ryuere to grant his manors of Westthrope and Hamptone Turvile to John his son for the term of the life of the said Richard, with reversion to the right heirs of Richard. The manors are held of the King in chief by the service of half a knight's fee. In the said z manors there is only one capital messuage, worth 3s. 4d. yearly; 120 acres of arable land, worth 60s.; 8 acres of meadow, worth 16s. There is no pasture. There are 34 customary tenants, who pay \pounds_{13} 12s. a year for rent and for all their services, to wit, at Christmas, Easter, the Nativity of St. John the Baptist, and Michaelmas, in equal portions. The pleas and perquisites of the courts there are worth 10s. yearly.

The said Richard would still retain the manor of Sturdone in co. Gloucester, held of the King in chief by the service of 15s. yearly paid to the King's exchequer, and it is worth \pounds 10 yearly; also \pounds 100 worth of land in Gloucester and Somerset, held of divers lords by services unknown to the jury.

John de Chaucombe.

Inquisition made at Wiltone before the King's escheator, 20th December, 3 Edward III [1329], by the oath of John Picot, Ralph atte Mulle, William Quintyn, John de Kyngesmille, William Serle, Robert Cole, John le Proule, William Kedenhot, Walter Lambe, Robert Cof, John Waunsy, and Simon le Taillor, who say that John de Chaucombe held in his demesne as of fee on the day he died one messuage, 2 virgates of land, and 2 acres of meadow in Bereford St. Martin of the King in chief by the service of keeping a moiety of the King's forest of Grauele at his own expense, and paying 10s. a year into the King's exchequer at Michaelmas by the hands of the sheriff of Wilts. The messuage and land are worth nothing beyond the said service and rent. The first crop of the said meadow is worth 4s., and after that it lies in common throughout the year.

The said John also held there as above one capital messuage with a garden and dovecot, one cottage, 204 acres of arable land, and 3 acres of meadow, lying in divers parcels, from the Prioress of Ambresbury by the service of paying 13s. 5d. yearly, to wit, at Christmas 2s., at Easter 4s. 6d., at the Nativity of St. John the Baptist 2s., at Michaelmas 4s. 6d. The said messuage, cottage, and garden are worth nothing beyond the reprise. The land is worth, beyond the rent paid for it, when it is sown 68s., and when not sown it is worth nothing, because it lies in common all through the year. And the 3 acres of meadow can be mown about the Feast of St. Margaret, and the first crop is then worth 6s. 6d., and it is worth nothing afterwards because it lies in common until the Feast of the Purification. The said dovecot is worth 3s. 4d. a year, to wit, at Easter and Michaelmas.

The said John also held as above 2 messuages, 69 acres of land, and 3 acres of meadow there from Thomas Cheyndut by the service of one-twentieth of a knight's fee and a rent of 12s. 1d. a year, to wit, at Christmas, Easter, and the Nativity of St. John the Baptist 3s. each and at Michaelmas 3s. 1d.; and paying out of the same to Joan, who was wife of William de Ashelegh, every year for term of her life $3\frac{1}{2}$ quarters of wheat, $3\frac{1}{2}$ quarters of barley, 1 quarter of oats, and $\frac{1}{2}$ quarter of peas, and 6s. 6d. yearly, at the Feasts of Christmas and the Nativity of St. John the Baptist. The 2 messuages are worth nothing a year beyond the reprise, and the land nothing beyond the rents paid out.

The said John also held as above one water-mill from Thomas Cheyndul by the service of 20s. yearly, payable at the abovesaid four terms. It is worth 6s. 8d. a year beyond the said rent.

He held likewise a cottage and z acres of land there from Philip de Stouwe by the service of 1 lb. of pepper at Michaelmas, worth nothing beyond that rent.

Also 26 acres of land and 4 acres of meadow in Hurdecote from the heirs of Bartholomew de Badelesmere by the service of 2s. yearly at Easter and Michaelmas. The land is worth when sown 6s. 8d. beyond the said rent, and when not sown it is worth nothing [as above]. The meadow can be mown about the Gule of August, and the first crop is worth 7s. 6d., and from that time nothing, because then it lies in common till the Purification.

The said John likewise held 125. rent in Foffonte from the Abbess of Willone, by the service of doing fealty only at Easter and Michaelmas. Also 125. rent in Stupellangeforde, held of Oliver de Ingham by fealty only at the Feasts of the Annunciation and the Nativity of the Blessed Mary. There is 95. 3d. of the rents of free tenants there, to wit. at Christmas, Easter, and the Nativity of St. John the Baptist 25. 2d. each, at Michaelmas 25. 9d.; of the rents of free cottars, 105. yearly, at the four abovesaid feasts equally; and 305. of the rents of other cottars, who hold at will at Easter, etc. The pleas and perquisites of courts are worth nothing, because there are no tenants who owe suit, nor any land, meadow, or pasture in several.

Henry de Chaucombe, brother of the aforesaid John, is his next heir, and was aged 27 on the Feast of St. Denis last past. Total, $\pounds_7(8) [sic] 15s. 11d.$

John le Rous.

Inquisition taken at Bentone before the King's escheator, 15th May, 4 Edward III [1330], by the oath of Henry Richard, Peter de Gore, Robert Simme, John le Gol, Roger de Uptone, Robert atte Hyde, Thomas Euck', Peter le Clerk, Thomas atte Putte, Elias de Kyngestone, Walter de Edyndone, and Richard Michel, who say that John le Rous held in his demesne as of fee on the day he died the manor of Immere from the King in chief by the service of onequarter of a knight's fee. There is in this manor a capital messuage, worth 3s. 4d.; a plot of pasture, which used to be garden, worth 3s. 4d. a year; a dovecot, worth 3s. 4d. at the two Feasts of Easter and Michaelmas. There are 260 acres of arable land there, onehalf of which can be sown from year to year, and are then worth 43s. 3d.; the other half is worth nothing, because it lies fallow and in the common field throughout the year. There is a pasture called Oxedone, on hilly ground, containing by estimation 18 acres, and it is worth yearly, to wit, from Whitsuntide to the Feast of St. Peter called Advincula 12s., and from that feast onwards it is worth nothing, because it lies in common. There is pasture there for 600 sheep, the herbage of which is worth 25s. There are 18 customary tenants, each of whom holds one messuage and 10 acres of land, who pay \pounds_4 10s. yearly at the Feasts of Christmas, Easter, the Nativity of St. John the Baptist, and St. Michael in equal portions. There is 46s. of the rents of cottars holding at will, payable at the said terms equally, and they do no works. The pleas and perquisites of the courts there are worth 3s. 4d. yearly.

The said lohn also held one messuage and 60 acres of arable land in Bentone from the Abbess of Romesey in chief by the service of 4²d. yearly for all service. This messuage, with the garden, is worth 5s. yearly. There is a dovecot worth 4s. yearly, at Easter and Michaelmas. Two parts of the said 60 acres of land can be sown every year, and then are worth 20s. The other third is worth nothing, because it lies fallow and in the common field throughout the year. There are $3\frac{1}{2}$ acres 1 rood of meadow, which can be mown about the Feast of St. Margaret, and are then worth 7s. 6d. There is pasture for 2 heifers [affros] and 4 oxen, worth 2s. yearly from Whitsuntide to Martinmas. There are 10 free tenants, who pay 54s. 3²d. at Martinmas; 4 customary tenants, each of whom holds one messuage and 6 acres of land, and they pay 18s. at the abovesaid four terms. There are 11 cottars holding at will, who pay 25s. 8d. at the said terms. The pleas and perquisites of court are worth 2s. yearly.

The said John held also as above 116s. 3d. yearly rents from 8 free tenants in Wynterborne Hoghmanton at the Feasts of Whitsuntide and Michaelmas in equal portions, which rents are held from Giles de la Mote of Appeltone by the service of 2s. yearly for all service.

The said John le Rous and Ela his wife held jointly one messuage, one carucate of land, z acres of meadow, and 10 acres of wood in Lye next Westbury from Robert de Maners by the service of 1d. yearly for all services, which premises John de Lavyntone long since gave to the said John and Ela and the heirs of the said John for ever. The said messuage is worth 2s. yearly. The said carucate of land contains 80 acres, one-half of which can be sown and is then worth 13s. 4d.; the other half is worth nothing because it lies fallow and in the common field. The meadow can be mown about the Feast of St. Margaret, and the first crop is then worth 5s., and it is worth nothing afterwards because it lies in common till the Feast of the Purification. There are no profits from the said wood, because there is no underwood.

Benton: The said John le Rous and Ela were jointly seised of one messuage, 60 acres of land, and 3 acres of meadow in Benton, held of the Abbess of Romsey by the service of $4\frac{3}{4}d$. yearly, which premises Andrew de Grimstede gave to them long since to have as above. The messuage is worth 3s. yearly. Two-thirds of the land, viz. 40 acres, can be sown yearly, and are then worth 20s. The other third is worth nothing [as above]. The meadow can be mown about the Feast of St. Margaret, when the first crop is worth 6s. After mowing it lies in common till the Feast of the Purification.

John le Rous, son of the said John, is his next heir, and is 24 and more.

John de Kyueleie.

nquisition made at Stepelashstone before the King's escheator, 28th April, 4 Edward III [1331], by the oath of William de Testewode, John de Langeford, Walter Attewode, Richard Michel, Roger Treyberge, Walter Tyny, John Totyn, John le Palmere, John de Baa, William le Zong, Thomas le Clerk, and John Oysel, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow John de Kyueleie to retain 10 acres of land in Kyueleie, which he purchased, without the King's licence, from Roger le Harper, who held from Edmund, late Earl of Arundel, who held from Edward II, as of the manor of Kyueleie, now in the King's hands by reason of the forfeiture of Edmund, late Earl of Kent, by the service of paying 10s. yearly to the lord of the manor of Kyueleie for the time being.

Richard le Cannere of Chippenham.

nquisition made at Wiltone before the King's escheator, 12th April, 4 Edward III [1331], by the oath of Ralph de Cokelberwe, Roger le Blacker, William le Lacy, John Holle, Henry le

Mareschal, Giles de Cheuerdene, William Schayl, Richard le Scryueyn, William Olyuer, Henry de Bourle, John le Gay, and William le Tannere, who say that

It would be no prejudice to the King or any other to allow Richard le Tannere of Chippenham to retain an acre of land in Chippenham, which he purchased from William atle Sartrie, and 3 acres there, which he purchased from Thomas de Ebrigge, who held of Edward II in chief, without having obtained the King's licence. They are held from the King by the service of 16d. yearly, at which the land was arented out of the King's waste in the forest of Chippenham and Pewesham in the time of Edward I. The land is worth nothing beyond the said rent.

Bilbert de Berewyk.

nquisition taken at New [Sarum] before the King's escheator, 7th December, 4 Edward III [1331], by the oath of John le Saucer, John le Fraunkeleyn, William le Ireys, John le Frye, William de Stauntone, Henry le Templer, Walter de Thacham, Stephen Hulou, John de Lucy, Stephen le Yonge, William de la Graue, and William le Bacheler, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow Gilbert de Berewyk and William, his brother, to retain the manor of Estwynterslewe, which they have parchased without the King's licence to themselves and the heirs of the said Gilbert from Stephen Turpyn; it is held of the King in chief by the service of making the King's claret at Claryndon at the cost of the King, so long as the King remains there, taking for his wages meanwhile a day as much as one of the King's servants ought, and was accustomed, to take. The manor is worth 10 marks a year.

John le Duyn.

W rit directed to Simon de Bereford, the King's escheator this side of Trent, 6th February, 4 Edward III [1331]. The escheator has already found by inquisition ex officio that John le Duyn, who held the manor of Mildestone from Edward II, by the service of one-quarter of a knight's fee, demised that manor without licence to his sister Agnes, for term of her life, and Agnes, being so seised, alienated the manor to Henry de Harnhulle in fee, whereupon the King's escheator seised the manor into the King's hand. The said Henry now represents that the manor is held of Edmund, Earl of Kent, as of his manor of Camel, and not of the King in chief. Inquiry is to be made as to the facts of the tenure.

nquisition made at Aumbresbury, 9th March, 4 Edward III [1331], by the oath of John Torald, John Fitzwilliam, Robert Hoppegras, Peter Croyleboys, Richard Trenchefoyl [sic], William de Shirenetone, John le Noble, William le Clerk, John de Aldyntone, Richard de Donyngtone, John Somer, and William de Stauntone, who say that

The manor of Mildestone is held of Edmund, Earl of Kent, as of the Honour of Camel, by the service of one-fourth of a knight's fee, which Honour, together with the manor of Camel and with the knights' fees and advowsons of churches to the said Honour and manor belonging, the same earl holds of the King's gift. The manor is worth 100s. a year, to wit, one capital messuage with a dovecot. 3s. 4d.; rents of free tenants payable at the four principal terms, 10s.; a water-mill, with the fishery of the water thereof, 3os.; 160 acres of arable land, 100 of which are worth 3d. an acre, and 60 2d. an acre, 35s.; 3 acres of meadow, 6s.; a certain pasture for sheep, 14s.; the pleas and perquisites of the courts there, 20d.

nquisition made at New Sarum before the King's escheator, 15th April, 4 Edward III [1331], by the oath of John de Chippenham, Robert de Wychamptone, John le Gras, Henry de Bourle [?] . . Olyver, William de Gore, Ralph de Cockelberwe, Richard le Scryueyn, Roger le Blacker, Richard Noreman, Nicholas Felawe, and Nicholas de Rou . . . who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow Nicholas le Scryueyn and Alice his wife to retain 19 acres of heath in Chippenham and Pewesham, which they have acquired without licence from John Bluet, who held them of Edward II. They are held of the King in chief by the service of paying 6s. 4d. yearly, at which sum the said land was arented to the said John Bluet and his heirs from the waste in the forest of Chippenham and Pewesham in the time of Edward II. It is worth nothing beyond the said rent, The heirs of the said John Bluet will still retain 80 acres of the aforesaid waste arented to the said John in the same forest at Holslaperythe, held of the King by the service of 26s. 8d. yearly; and this assart land is worth nothing beyond that rent.

John, son of Roger la Marre.

nquisition taken at Wodelighe before the King's escheator, 2nd January, 4 Edward III [1331], by the oath of John de Rusteshale, John le Berner, Peter le Heyr, John de Erlegh, Philip Malewayn, William Sorel, William Edmound, Walter Rolf, John le Forester, Roger le Frend, William Pynkenegh, and Sewym de Hynedone, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow John, son of Roger la Warre, to enfeoff John de Cleydon, parson of the church of Mamcestre, with his manor of Alyngdone, which is held of the King in chief, in order that the said John de Cleydon might regrant the same to the said John, son of Roger, for his life, with remainder to John, son of the said John, son of Roger, and to Margaret his wife, and the heirs of their bodies. The manor is held by the service of one-fourth of a knight's fee, and is worth $\pounds zo$ a year.

The said John, son of Roger, will still retain the castle and manor of Ewyas in the Marches of Wales, and the manor of Wakerle in co. Northampton, held of the King by knight service, and worth f 50 yearly.

George de Percy and Jugelram de Bereuger. Writ, directed to the King's clerk, Thomas de Eggefeld, 23rd June, 4 Edward III [1331], commanding him to ascertain the value of the castles, lands, etc., of Fulk Fitz Waryn, John Pecche, Ingelram Berenger, and George de Percy, attainted as adherents to Edmund, late Earl of Kent.

Extent of the lands, which were George de Percy's in Eton Meysy, made there on Tuesday next after the Feast of St. Peter ad

Vincula, 4 Edward III [1331], before Thomas de Eggefeld, clerk, appointed for the purpose, together with John de Selewode, a colleague of his own election, in accordance with the King's commission, by the oath of Walter Bisshoppe, Peter de Walcote, Ralph le Fre[nshe?], William atte Bury, Richard de Whytsyde, John le Lange, John Walraund, James le Blake, Robert Sprot, Nicholas de Meysy, Adam Louecok, and Robert le Whyte, who say that

The said George had no estate in the tenements aforesaid, except in right of Margaret, his wife, of whose inheritance they are. There is a messuage there, worth 2s., and not more, on account of the reprise of the houses; 96 acres of arable land, worth 32s. 4d.; 10¹/₂ acres of meadow, worth 31s. 6d.; pasture for 18 great cattle, worth 3s.; rents of assize, 24s. $7\frac{1}{2}d$.; 1 lb. of cummin, worth $1\frac{1}{2}d$. a year. There are no pleas and perquisites, nor knights' fees, nor advowsons of churches, nor any other yearly profit to be valued.

Extent of the lands, etc., of the said George de Percy in Chaldefeld and Atteworthe, made at Chaldefeld [as above], on Monday next after the Feast of St. Peter ad Vincula, 4 Edward III [1331], by the oath of John Basset, Roger de Berlegh the younger, John de Atteworth, John Gibbes, Lawrence de Wiltes, Nicholas le Cok, Roger Alwyne, John Cole, Walter Gerueys, John de Mortelegh, Walter le Cook, and John atte Slade, who say that

All the lands, etc., which the said George held in his time in Chaldefeld, except 38 acres of land in that vill, were of the inheritance of Margaret his wife, and that he purchased the said 38 acres from divers tenants to himself and his wife and their heirs 18 years since.

Eighteen years since he enfeoffed Edmund, his son, with all the lands and tenements he held in Atteworth, to hold to the said Edmund and the heirs of his body, with contingent remainder to John, brother of Edmund. The said John entered after the death of Edmund, and held them till they were taken into the King's hand.

At Chaldefeld there is one messuage, with a garden, worth 2s. a year, and not more, because there are a number of houses there and a great reprise; one dovecot, worth 2s. a year; 108 acres of arable land, worth 27s., and not more, because the half of it has to lie in common every other year. There are 9 acres of meadow, worth 18s.; 12 acres of pasture, worth 4s.; 3 acres of wood, the underwood of which is worth 12d. yearly.

They say that Walter Gerueys and Lettice his wife hold for term of their life one messuage and 10 acres of land there, as of the right of the aforesaid Margaret, and pay 5s. 6d. yearly for all services.

Inquisitiones Post Mortem.

There are 3 cottages let to farm from year to year for 18d. All the aforesaid tenements in Chaldefeld are held of the Prior of Wortspryngg by the service of half a knight's fee, and are charged with 5s. to the King for the sheriff's aid, and with 2 capons to Roger de Percy for having a certain chase with regard to [versus] the tenements aforesaid; and the capons are worth 4d. a year. There is the advowson of a certain chapel there, which was founded by the ancestors of the aforesaid Margaret, as a chantry for the souls of those ancestors, worth 4os. a year. Total, 61s., whereof in rents paid out 5s. 4d., so there remains, clear, 55s. 8d.

At Atteworth there were taken into the King's hands, by reason of the attainder aforesaid, one messuage, worth 12d. a year; 40 acres of arable land, worth half a mark, and not more, because they lie in common every other year; 3 acres of meadow, worth 4s. 6d. These premises are charged with a payment of 5s. a year to the Abbess of Shafton.

Extent of the lands which belonged to Ingelram Berenger in Aldredestone and Colemor, made at Aldredeston before Thomas de Eggefeld [as above], with John de Stoke, the colleague of his election, on Friday after the Feast of St. Peter ad Vincula, 4 Edward III [1331], by the oath of William de Lustesh[am], William Elys, William atte Hangre, Simon Turpyn, William Pytte, William Paynot, John atte Mere the elder, Matthew atte Purye, John atte Mere the younger, John Gilamor, John le Frensshe, John atte Bydenhulle, and Richard le Cook, who say that Sir Ingelram Berenger had nothing in the said vills on the day the lands, etc., were taken into the King's hand, because on the 12th of July, 20 Edward II [1326], he enfeoffed William de Spersholt and Joan his wife and Ingelram their son with all the lands, tenements, rents, etc., which he had on that day in Aldredeston and Colemor, together with the advowson of the church of Aldredeston, and with the woodwardry of the wood of Melchet, to hold to the said William, Joan, and Ingelram, and the heirs of Ingelram for ever. They remain so seised.

At Aldredeston there is one messuage, with a garden, worth 4s. a year; in the field called Forton there are 20 acres of arable land, worth 6s. 8d. a year; in Westfield 23 acres of arable land, worth 5s. 9d.; in Lynacre 14 acres of arable land, worth 4s. 8d.; in Hamme and "le Yerd" $20\frac{1}{2}$ acres of arable land, worth 3s. 5d.; in divers fields 32 acres of arable land, worth 5s. 4d., and not more, because it lies in common every third year. There is a several pasture there called Buddewode, containing 10 acres, worth 4s. 2d.

yearly; a pasture in "la Frensshey", worth 2s. a year; a pasture in Chartresgraue, worth 3s. a year; there are 8 acres of wood, worth 2s. a year as a coppice of underwood; there is no pannage there, because the oaks are cut down; rents of assize of free and other tenants, \pounds_4 16s. 2d. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 3s. Total, \pounds_7 2d.

At Colemor there is a messuage, with a garden, worth 2s. a year; 60 acres of arable land, worth 15s.; 12 acres of meadow, worth 15s.; two pastures, to wit, Brockesmor, worth 6s. 8d., and Dosxmor, worth 6s. 8d. Total, 45s. 4d.

The advowson of the church of Aldredeston is valued with the vicarage at $\pounds 20$. There is no knight's fee, farm, or wardship of any heirs or lands, nor any other yearly profit, which ought to be valued.

Extent of the manors of Eblesbournwake and Aluedestone, which belonged to Ingelram Berenger, made at Aluedestone before Thomas de Eggefeld [as above], with John de Selwode, his colleague, elected [etc.], on Saturday after the Feast of St. Peter ad Vincula, 4 Edward III [1331], by the oath of Robert Russel, Richard de Trowe, Thomas Danyel, Richard Wake, William atte Hyde, Nicholas le Haytor, Thomas de Gerardestone, Richard Warde, John le Calewe, Henry le Frye, John Andreu, and John le Nywe, who say that

At Eblesbourne there is a capital messuage, with a garden, worth 3s. 4d. a year; one dovecot, with another old and in bad condition, worth 33.; 138 acres of arable land, worth 46s., and not more, because it lies fallow every other year; 2021 acres of poor arable land, worth 335. 9d.; 3 acres of meadow, worth 205.; 12 acres of wood, the underwood of which, when ready to cut, is worth 8s. yearly, but because all the underwood is now cut down it will be worth nothing for 4 years to come; rents of assize by the hands of free tenants, 77s. $10\frac{1}{2}d$. There is a rent of 3 lb. of pepper, worth 2s. a year; rents of assize by the hands of 8 villeins, 20s., and each of them will work one day a week between Michaelmas and the Feast of St. Peter ad Vincula at the will of the lord, or will pay the lord 2s. for the works, and so the works of them all are worth 16s. a year during that time. And each of them will work every day from the last said feast to Michaelmas, or will give the lord at will at Michaelmas 2s.; and so their autumn works are worth 16s. And there is a custom called 'Churchshut', worth 4s. yearly; and 19s. rents by the hands of cottars. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 6s. 8d. a year. Total, $f_{13} = 15s. 7\frac{1}{2}d$.

At Aluedestone there is a capital messuage, worth, with the garden and the whole enclosure, half a mark a year; one dovecot. worth 3s.; one windmill, worth 26s. 8d.; 220 acres of arable land, worth 73s. 4d.; $3\frac{1}{2}$ acres of meadow, worth 23s. 4d. a year; to acres of wood, from which there will be no profit for 4 years, because it was cut down within 2 years past by Ingelram, then lord there, and after 4 years the underwood will be worth 3s. a year. There are 20s. rents of assize by the hands of free tenants, and 26s. 8d. by the hands of customary tenants. There is a custom called 'Churshot' received from 4 customary tenants, which produces 14 bushels of corn and is worth 7s., each contributing 31 bushels; also, for the same, 2 qrs. 2 bus. of oats, worth 3s. 9d. a year, each contributing 41 bushels. There are 18 customary tenants, each of whom will work every working day between the Gule of August and Michaelmas except on Saturdays, and the works of each are worth 2s., so altogether 36s. There are 14 customary tenants, who pay 46s. 8d. a year, and each will give for 'churchshut' 3 grs. 1 bus. of wheat, worth altogether 12s. 3d. There are 7 cottars, who pay 15s. 6d. a year. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 6s. 8d. Total, f 15 10s. 6d.

The said Ingelram held the aforesaid manor [sic] at fee farm from the Abbess of Wyltone at a rent of \pounds_7 os. 8d. in money, and in corn 32 qrs. 1 bus. of wheat, worth \pounds_9 8s. 6d. yearly; 6 qrs. 2 bus. of barley, worth 18s. 10d.; 13½ quarters of oats, worth 22s. 6d. a year; 13½ quarters of malt $c\tilde{a}p$, worth 45s.; 13½ quarters of malt curs, worth 27s.; and 133 wool fleeces, worth 38s. 9½d. Total, \pounds_{24} 14½d., and so it exceeds the total of the value by \pounds_8 10s. 8½d.

There is no advowson of a church in the said manor, nor knight's fee, no wardship or marriage, or any other yearly profit which ought to be value.⁴

Clarendon Park.

W 11t, 7th August, 4 Edward III [1331], to John Mautravers, justice of the King's forest this side of Trent. The King has lately granted the custody of the manor, park, and forest of Clarendon to Giles de Beauchamp for his life, the said Giles answering for the issues in the exchequer. The King has heard that the herbage of the said park is so charged by the said Giles with the agistment of horses, oxen, cows, and other great cattle, which agistment belongs to him by reason of the custody aforesaid, that the King's game cannot feed. He accordingly ordered the keeper of the forest this side of Trent not to allow such agistment, and wishes to recompense the said Giles. Inquiry is to be made as to what the herbage of the said park is worth beyond the support of the game, and what the keepers of the said manor, park, and forest have hitherto been accustomed to receive for the said herbage.

nquisition made at New Sarum before Sir John de Mautravers, on Thursday next after Michaelmas, 4 Edward III [1331], by the oath of John de Langeforde, Nicholas de Wily, Adam de la Forde, William le Duyn, John de Kyngesmulle, Thomas Cheynduyt, John de Babetone, Stephen de Beauuers, Ralph atte Mulle, Stephen Hulou, Richard le Heyraz, and William atte Groue, who say that

The herbage of the park of Clarendon is now worth nothing, in common years, beyond the maintenance of the King's game, because, now that the park is enclosed, there is so much game, that there can be no agistment of other animals. But, while the said demesne wood was unenclosed, the game could get in and out at will. In common years the keepers aforesaid have been accustomed to receive \pounds_{10} for the herbage of the said demesne wood.

John de Barnham.

IQUISITION made at Comptone Chaumberlayn before the King's escheator, 13th April, 4 Edward III [1331], by the oath of John Fraunceis, Robert le Taillor, John le Smith, John Stiuenes, Thomas Arpedeman, Robert de Stoford, Robert de Middeltone, William Sauage, Robert Cole, Walter Lambert, Michael le Webbe, and William Norman, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow John de Harnham the elder to assign one messuage, ro acres of land, and 6s. rent in Compton Chaumberlayn to the Prior of the Hospital of St. John outside the gate of Wilton, and the brethren and sisters of that hospital, for an obit for the soul of Robert le Chaumberlayn to be held every year in the church of Comptone Chaumberlayn, and to find 2 wax tapers every day for the soul of the said Robert on the high altar of the said church, during the celebration of high Mass.

A moiety of the messuage and 6 acres of the land are held of the Prior of St. John of Jerusalem in England in free socage, by the service of 2s. a year; the other moiety of the messuage is held of William Plaunke by the service of 12d. a year. The remaining 4 acres of land and 6s. rent are held of Ralph de Bouklonde by the service of 1d. a year. The premises are worth 8s. clear a year. William Plaunke holds from John de Grymstede, otherwise there are no more intermediaries between John de Harnham and the King. John de Harnham will still retain lands and rents worth \pounds 20 in Harnham, held of Oliver de Seruyntone by the service of one knight's fee.

Roger de hardene.

nquisition taken at Wilton'e before the King's escheator, 22nd February, 5 Edward III [1331], by the oath of William de Wyke, Philip de Uptone, John son of William, Robert Hoppegras, Peter de Forstebury, William Waryn, John atte Stighele, Richard

Striky, Michael atte Warre [?], John atte Brugge, John de Somersete, and John Kepenhulle, who say that

Roger de Hardene held in his demesne as of fee on the day on which he died $1\frac{1}{2}$ acres of arable land and the bailiwick of the forestry of a certain part of the forest of Savernake, called "Broyl de Bechewynde", from the King in chief by the service of paying 8s. a year to the castle of Marleberge, and by the service of keeping the said bailiwick. The land is worth 3d. a year, the bailiwick 6s. beyond the said rent.

He also held [as above] one messuage and 12 oxgangs of land in Hardene from Robert de Bilkemor by fealty only. The messuage is worth 3s. 4d. a year; the 12 bovates, containing 150 acres, of which two-thirds can be sown every year, are worth 33s. 4d. yearly; the third unsown lies fallow and in the common field, and is worth nothing. There are 6 acres of meadow, worth 9s.; a pasture, worth 3s. 4d.; the profits of a dovecot, worth 5s. There are 2 acres of wood, worth 2s. a year. There are 3 free tenants, who pay 14s. at Michaelmas; 2 free tenants, who pay 7s. a year at Easter and Michaelmas in equal portions; and 3 cottars, who pay 8s. 6d. at Christmas, Easter, the Nativity of St. John the Baptist, and Michaelmas equally. The pleas and perquisites of the court are worth 2s. a year.

Maud, daughter of William de Hardene, brother of the aforesaid Roger, now wife of Thomas Allesford of Hardene, is niece and heir of the said Roger, and aged 25 and more.

wife of Robert de Holonde, as of the pourparty falling to the said Maud of the Earldom of Winchester, by fealty and one rose rent at the Feast of the Nativity of St. John the Baptist.

In this manor there is a capital messuage, with garden and close worth 5s. a year; a dovecot, worth 6s. 8d.; a water-mill, with the fishery of the water, worth 10s.; 300 acres of arable land, 100 acres of which are worth 3d. an acre, 100 2d., and 100 1d.; 20 acres of meadow, worth 2s. an acre; the pasture and pannage of beasts there are worth \pounds 10; there are 4 free tenants, who pay 71s. at the Feasts of the Purification, the Nativity of St. John the Baptist, and St. Michael in equal portions; 16 villeins, each of whom holds one virgate of land, and pays 7s. 8d. a year, as well for rent as for their works, at the said three terms equally; 12 villeins, each of whom holds half a virgate of land, and pays 4s. 2d., as above; 6 cottars, each of whom pays 18d., as above. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 40s. a year. Total, \pounds 32 4s.

The said Joan also held 5 virgates of land at Babetone and Fishertone next Wily from Hugh Poyntz by the service of making one perch of the hedge round the said Hugh's park of Stokwode Poyntz in Dorset. Each virgate is worth 20s. a year. Total, 100s.

Thomas, son of Hugh Wake, is next heir of the said Joan, and is aged 4.

Writ, dated 30th January, 5 Edward III [1332], directed to the treasurer and chamberlains of the exchequer, to make search in the King's book of fees called 'Domesday' in their custody, and in other memoranda of the exchequer, with regard to the tenure of the manor of Wynterbournestoke. In answer to which is appended a transcript from the book of 'Domesday'.

Wilts. The land of Edward Sarisburi.

The same Edward holds in Wintreburnestock $1\frac{1}{2}$ hides, and Walter holds from him. There is land for one plough, which is there; it is worth 30s. The same Edward holds in the same vill one hide. There is land for one plough. Walter holds from Edward. He has there one plough, with 2 cottars, and one acre of meadow, and 6 acres of pasture; it is worth 20s. Aluin held in the time of King Edward, whose wife holds $1\frac{1}{2}$ hides there of the King.

Annexed is another schedule, undated, saying that it was found by a search of the memoranda of the time of Simon de Bereford, late escheator this side of Trent; that the said Simon, by an inquisition returned into Chancery in July, 3 Edward III [1329], found that the manor of Wynterbournestoke is held of the King in chief by the service of one-third of a knight's fee, by pretext whereof the King granted the custody of the same to John Mautravers till the lawful age of the heir of the said Hugh Wake.

Proof of Age of Isabel, one of the daughters and heirs of Theobald de Aerdoun, deceased.

Proof taken before William Trussel, the King's escheator this side of Trent, at Aumbresbury, on Friday before the Feast of the Annunciation, 5 Edward III [1331], in the presence of Gilbert de Berewyke, bailiff of the Lady Isabel, Queen of England, by the oath of twelve jurors examined separately, as follows :--

Sir John le Duyn, knight, aged 60, says that the said Isabel was aged 14 on the Feast of St. Benedict last. She was born at Aumbresbury on that Feast, 10 Edward II [1317], and baptized in the church of that town. Sir John was then dwelling in his manor of Tudworth, 4 leagues distant from the said town, and he saw Queen Isabella come from the manor of Clarendone to Aumbresbury to act as godmother to the said Isabel, daughter of Theobald de Fontibus [sic], and he himself was present at the christening.

Henry Borry, aged 54, remembers her birthday, etc., because he saw Roger, then Bishop of Salisbury, arrive at Aumbresbury from his manor of Wodeford, to christen the said Isabel there. He was in attendance on the Bishop, to whose household he belonged.

Walter de Hungerford, aged 45, was also present at the christening, in attendance on the said Bishop.

John de Harnham, aged 46, was under-sheriff of Wilts at the time, and was assigned to conduct Queen Isabella from the manor of Clarendone to Aumbresbury for the christening of the said Isabel, daughter of Theobald de Fontibus [sic].

Richard de Wycombe, aged 47, says that when Elizabeth de Burgh, mother of the said Isabel, bore her at Aumbresbury, King Edward, father of the now King, came from his manor of Clarendon to the said Elizabeth, to treat of a marriage between the same Elizabeth and Roger Damory, and the said Richard was then groom of Walter Gascelen [?] . . . of Clarendon, who came there in attendance on the King.

John Le Lange [?], aged 44, was also present at the christening.

John Goncy [?] and John le Frie of Bulteford saw Bishop Roger and the Lady Mary, the King's aunt, at the christening.

Roger de la Foreste of Aumbresbury, aged 46, remembers the date, because his wife Alice brought forth a daughter, Grace [?].

There are three other jurors—Walter de Thacham, aged 64, John Somer, aged 62, and William de Staunton, aged 70. [The last part of the document is too illegible to decipher.]

Manor of Merston Meysy.

Extent of the manor of Merston Meysy, taken (upon the King's writ) at Crekelade before the King's escheator, 14th August, 5 Edward III [1331], by the oath of William le Deyer, Nicholas Gale, Thomas atte grene, William Cachekut, Robert Jokyn, Robert Whythergaunt, John Baker, William Russel, John Mazon, John Campioun, John Brachel, and Walter Danyel, who say that

There is in the said manor one capital messuage, worth nothing beyond the reprise; one dovecot, worth 4s. yearly; 210 acres of arable land, worth 105s. yearly; 27 acres [of meadow], worth 54s.; 7 acres of pasture, worth 3s. 6d., and not more, because it dries up; 30s. 9d. of the rents of free tenants, to wit, at the Feasts of St. Thomas the Apostle 5s. 1d., the Annunciation 9s. 5d., Easter 12d., the Nativity of St. John the Baptist 9s. 1d., Michaelmas 6s. 2d. There are 181 virgatars, who pay 24s. yearly, to wit, at the Feasts of St. Thomas the Apostle, the Annunciation, and the Nativity of St. John the Baptist equally; and they give 40s. at Michaelmas in common as tallage, and for joint [?] tenure 6s. 8d. And each of them will plough and harrow one acre of land at the winter sowing, and that work is worth 4d. an acre; and will plough and harrow half an acre at the Lent sowing, which work is worth 2d. an acre; and each of them will work from the Nativity of St. John the Baptist to the Gule of August every other working day, excepting Saturdays and feast-days, and the day's work is worth 1d.; total. 205. $\frac{1}{2}d$. And each of them will work from the Gule of August to Michaelmas every day except Saturdays and feast-days, and the day's work is worth 12d.; total, f,4 10s. And there are 10 cottars there, who pay 11s. 8d. yearly at the said four terms equally, and 5 of the said cottars will work in the lord's meadow about the tossing of the hay for 2 days, and the day's work is worth 1d.; total, 10d. And there is one cottar who pays 2 capons at Easter, worth 4d. The pleas and perquisites of the courts there are worth 6s. 8d. yearly.

Manor of Sutton Maundebille.

Extent made (upon the King's writ directing a valuation to be made of the manor of Sutton Maundeville) before Robert de Bluntesdone and Robert de Hungerford, on Wednesday next after the Feast of St. Dunstan, 5 Edward III [1331], at Tissebury, by the oath of Richard Aylwyn, John de Ry . . , John de Rogny, John atte Watere, John Oliuer, Thomas le Mason, Walter Keyne, Henry atte Mulle, John le Warnir, John Byleknapp, William le Mason, and William Gerard of Stoppe, who say that

There is a messuage there, in which are divers houses in ruins, in great need of repair, and they are worth nothing beyond the reprise. Also there is one dovecot there, with 2 gardens, worth 6s. 8d. yearly beyond the reprise; 100 acres of arable land, of which $66\frac{1}{2}$ can be sown every year, worth 16s. 7d.; and the 33¹/₂ acres are worth nothing when they lie fallow, because they lie in the fields where the lord and tenants of the said manor have common. There are 6 acres of meadow, worth 2s. an acre yearly, and not more, because they lie in common after the hay has been carried. There is a piece of several pasture, worth 12d. yearly. There are 20 acres of wood, which cannot be valued, because there is no underwood, and it is common throughout the year. There are 20 free tenants there, who pay 75s. $2\frac{1}{2}d$. at the four chief terms of the year. There are 5 customary tenants, each of whom holds half a virgate of land, and they pay 25s. 6d. yearly at the Feasts of the Purification, the Nativity of St. John the Baptist, and St. Michael for their works and services. There are 6 cottars, who pay 15s, at the said three terms for their works and services. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 2s. yearly. Total, f_{17} 14s. Whereof paid to Nicholas de Denmede and his heirs at the four chief terms of the year 60s., so that the manor is of the clear yearly value of $f_{,4}$ 14s.

hubert Pipard.

nquisition taken at New Sarum before the King's escheator, 2nd August, 6 Edward III [1332], by the oath of John Torald, Philip de Uptone, John son of William, John atte Stighele, Thomas de Hardene, Peter de Forsteburi, Peter de Uptone, Thomas de Northeye, John de Hombre, Walter Douce, Walter le Blake, and Ralphe atte Stokke, who say that Hubert Pipard held in his demesne as of fee of the King in chief on the day he died one messuage and one virgate of land in Oxenewode and the bailiwick of the forestry of Huppyngescombe in the forest of Savernake, by the service of paying zos. yearly to Marleberghe Castle, and of keeping the bailiwick of the said forestry. The premises are worth 4s. yearly beyond the rent.

There is one messuage there, with a curtilage, worth 2s. yearly; 24 acres of land, worth 12s., when sown, and worth nothing when lying unsown or fallow, because they lie in common; and the bailiwick is worth 1os. yearly.

He also held z_4 acres of land in the same vill from Sir John de Coue, by the service of 8s. 8d. yearly; they are worth 8s. when sown. He held also a messuage and half a virgate of land at "la Grene" in the vill of Westforsteburi from Roger Bacoun, by the service of paying 10s. yearly, worth nothing beyond that rent.

Peter Pipard, son and heir of the said Hubert, is aged 24 and more.

Emelina Longespee,

Inquisition taken at New Salisbury, before Robert Selyman, the King's escheator, 22nd February, 7 Edward III [1333], by the oath of Robert de Horput, John Fyzwilliam, John le Blake, Thomas Dygon, John Saucer, John le Palmere, John atte Brugge, John de Wyke, Robert le Nywe, Thomas Chepman, Adam Cook, and William Herberd, who say that Emelina Longespee held nothing of the King in chief in Wilts, but she held for the term of her life on the day she died the manor of Wambergh (excepting £10 worth of land in the same manor) from John Warren, Earl of Surrey, as of the lordship of the earldom of Salisbury, by the service of one knight's fee. It is worth £40, in addition to the said £10.

The said Emelina died on Whit-Sunday, 5 Edward III [1331]. The manor (except the £10 worth) ought to remain to Maud, formerly wife of Robert de Houland, by fine levied in the King's court, 7 Edward II [1313-14], between the said Emelina and Hugh de Denford, who was then seised of that manor. It was thereby conveyed to the said Emelina for life, remainder to Thomas, late Earl of Lancaster, for life, remainder to Robert de Houlond and Maud his wife, and the heirs of the said Maud for ever.

One William Fortel held to him and his heirs a moiety of the manor of Stepellauynton by demise of the said Emelina, paying her \pounds_{10} for the whole of her life $\lceil sic \rceil$.

Maud, formerly wife of the said Robert de Houlond, and Ellen, her sister, are next heirs of the said Emelina, and are aged 40 and more.

Richard de la Riuere.

I I QUISITION taken before the King's escheator at Marleberge, 27th February, 6 Edward III [1332], by the oath of Richard le Blount, chivaler, John Rusteshale, Walter Blake, Robert Colecote, William Walerond, John Hardyng, John Haruest, John Toky, John Brian, John de Polton, Thomas Parys, William Goudhyne, and John Grandyn, who say that

Richard de la Ryuere held no lands in his demesne as of fee on the day he died, but Amice de la Ryuere held the manor of Hampton next Crekelade from the King in chief, as of her own right and inheritance; she demised that manor to the said Richard, her son, for his life, by the King's license. Afterwards, by fine levied in the King's court, she acknowledged the manor to be the right of John de la Ryuere, her eldest son, and granted the remainder, after Richard's death, to the said John and his heirs. Richard attorned to the said John in the said court, and afterwards demised his estate for life to his son John, by the King's license. Richard is now dead, and the manor ought to remain, by virtue of the said fine, to John de la Ryuere, son and heir of John de la Ryuere, who was zi on the Feast of the Conversion of St. Paul last past. The manor is held of the King in chief by the service of finding one armed man in the King's war, and it is worth zo marks.

Memorandum. Upon the return of this inquisition the said John, son of John de la Ryuere, begged livery of the said manor of Hampton; but it was said on the King's behalf, that long before the levying of the abovesaid fine, the said Amice had quitclaimed to the said Richard and his heirs all her rights in the said manor; and that John de la Ryuere, son and heir of the said Richard, is under age, and that the custody of the manor belongs to the King till the said John is of age. A writ is directed to the King's escheator this side of Trent to make further inquiry.

Inquisition taken at Merleberge on Saturday after the Feast of St. Denis, 6 Edward III [1332], by the oath of Walter de Hungerford, William Wrong, Robert Russel, Robert de Mordone, Thomas de Radestrope, Ivo Gast, Robert Sprot, John de Bradenestoke, Simon atte Coue, John Bryan, Robert Pernant, and Richard Costard, who say that

They do not know if Amice de la Ryuere released her rights in the manor of Hampton next Crekelade to Richard her son, before the levying of the fine abovesaid or afterwards, because the deed which the said John, son of Richard de la Ryuere, puts forward was made in the county of Gloucester at Sutteltone, as the dating of the deed itself testifies.

John, son and heir of Thomas Maudut.

Proof of age of the said John Maud 1, taken before the King's escheator this side of Trert at Weremynstre, 5th May, 6 Edward III [1332], by the oa h of twelve jurors severally examined, to wit:-

Sir William de Wautone, knight, aged 60 and more, who says the said John Maudut is aged 21, because he was born at Weremynstre on the Feast of the Purification, 3 Edward II [1309], and baptized in the church there. He knows this, because he was present as a guest, on his way to Sir John de Wydyntone at Yate, on account of a certain disagreement between Sir Thomas de Berkelee, grandfather of the present Sir Thomas de Berkelee, and the said Sir John, and there an agreement was made between them, and affirmed by a deed.

Sir Walter Gossecelyn, knight, aged 60 and more, says the like. He was at "la Broke" with Sir Walter de Pauely, and came in the train of Dame Joan, wife of the said Sir Walter, from the manor of "la Broke" to Weremynstre, for the baptism of the said John.

Sir John Strug, knight, aged 50 and more, says at that time he was with Robert de Vernoun, and from him he came to Weremynstre for the baptism of the said John Maudut, because he was his godfather, and he had the birthday of the said John noted down at the end of a certain calendar.

Robert Swoting, aged 50 and more, was at Weremynstre that day in the following of Sir John Strug, and on the morrow he set out for Santiago.

Thomas Thurstayn, aged 40, saw Thomas de Chelre, then vicar of the church of Weremynstre, baptize the said John, and saw him enter the birth of the said John in a certain psalter.

Richard Daneseye, aged 60, came with the said Dame Joan, wife of Sir Walter de Pauely, to the baptism, because he was then at "la Broke", in the household of the said Sir Walter.

John Basset, aged 60, says that on that same day his wife died, and he had the day of her death entered in a book with the year of our Lord.

Roger de Berlee, aged 40, says he saw the said Sir John Strug and Dame Joan Pauely lift the said John from the font, and that same day he bought a messuage and virgate of land from Richard Daneseye, and by the date of that charter he knows the age of the said John Maudut.

William de Stourton, aged 50, says that on the morrow of the birth of the said John, his wife Lucy bore a son Nicholas, and the said Lucy was nurse to the said John.

William Mandevile, aged 60, was married on the morrow of the said day to his wife Alice.

John de Sandhulle, aged 50, was witness to the abovesaid charter of Richard de Daneseye.

Thomas de Langeford, aged 40 and more, was on that day with the sheriff of Wilts to receive money, as appears by the memorandum thereof.

This was done in the presence of John de Kyngestone, to whom the King had committed the custody of the lands, etc., of the said Thomas Maudut till his heir came of age.

The poor brethren and sisters of the bospital of St. Giles of Wiltone.

Inquisition made at Wiltone before Robert Selyman (as above) and in the presence of the bailiff of the town of Wiltone, 26th October, 6 Edward III [1332], upon the King's writ referring to a previous inquisition, taken 29th April, 4 Edward I [1276], before William de Gloucester, then escheator this side of Trent, by the oath of Richard Beleiaumbe, Walter le M. mongere, Reynold Isember, Roger de Carentham, John Gowyne, Henry le Skynnere, Robert Ouiet, William le Daghe, William le Melemongere, Roger le Deyghere, John Fromond, and Peter le Bakere, who say that

The poor brethren and sisters of the said Hospital of St. Giles have from time immemorial received, by grant of the King's progenitors, 6 marks of the rents and issues of the town of Wiltone every year at the four chief terms by the hands of the bailiff of the said town, for the maintenance of a chaplain celebrating every day in the said hospital for the souls of the King's progenitors, without any interruption, as well in the time of the King's progenitors, as in the time of Richard, Edmund, and Piers de Gavestone, late Earls of Cornwall, lords of the town aforesaid, and of the Lady Mary, until the 29th of May, in the year aforesaid [1332], on which day the said Lady Mary died, through whose death that town came to the hands of the King. And the said 6 marks has not been [paid] to the hospital from that time by John de Harnham, now keeper of the said town by commission of the King, and by the other bailiffs of the said town, only [so they say] because they have not yet received the King's warrant for so doing. The Hospital has never remitted that payment to the King, nor changed their estate therein in any way.

Batherine, who was wife of John Abenel.

Inquisition taken at Comptone Chaumberleyn before the King's escheator, 17th September, 7 Edward III [1333], by the oath of William Sauage, Richard Osgode, John le Smythe, William Wyppe, Robert de Stofford, Miles le Webbe, Robert de Middeltone, Peter Cof, Walter le Taillur, Walter Pram, John Steuene, and John Authman, who say that

The said Katherine held in her demesne as of fee on the day she died a moiety of the manor of Comptone Chaumberlayn, which belonged to Robert le Chaumberlayn, excepting 33s. 4d. of annual rents there, from the King in chief by the service of onetenth of a knight's fee.

In the said moiety there is one capital messuage worth 2s. a year beyond the reprise; one garden, worth 3s. in herbage and fruit; the moiety of a dovecot, worth 20d. There are 90 acres of arable land, 50 of which can be sown every year; it is worth 12d. an acre when sown, and nothing when not sown, because it lies in common. There are 5 acres of meadow, worth 12s. 6d. yearly. The pasture there is worth 5s. There are 10 acres of wood worth nothing, because it was laid waste in the time of the said Katherine; the pasture of the said wood is worth nothing, because it lies in common. There are 4 freeholders, who pay 22s. $7\frac{1}{2}d$. yearly at the Feasts of Purification, Whitsuntide, and Michaelmas, in equal portions. There are 5 customary tenants, each of whom holds one messuage and 10 acres of land, and pays 2s. yearly at the said terms. There are 4 free cottars, who pay 7s. 5d. at the said terms. And the said customary tenants give 2s. 6d. for their works from Michaelmas to the Gule of August, and 12s. 6d. from then to Michaelmas. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 5s. yearly.

John de Boklonde, son and heir of the said Katherine, will be 4 at the Feast of St. Nicholas next.

nquisition taken at Edyndone before the King's escheator in Wilts, 12th September, 7 Edward III [1333], by the oath of Thomas de Langheford, John Oysel, John Fraunkelayn, Walter de Edyndone, Roger Michel, John Attewelle, Roger de Uptone, John Gemes, William Aylmer, Henry Pykard, Matthew Pykot, and William Forester, who say that

The said William held, on the day he died, in his demesne as of fee one messuage with a small garden, the easement of which messuage, with the fruit of the garden, is worth 12d. yearly beyond the reprise. There are 70 acres of land lying in common, worth 26s. 8d. yearly; 7 acres of meadow, worth 7s.; 3 acres of pasture, worth 18d. There are 100s. of rents of assize of free and bond tenants, payable at the four principal terms of the year. The said tenements, which are in Bracton, are held of Queen Philippa as of Devyses Castle, by the service of paying 20s. yearly to the said castle, and of keeping one tower in the said castle in time of war, if it should be in England, which God forbid, for 40 days at the expense of the said William. And if the said custody should happen to have to be done, the said William would be quit of his said rent.

The said William held jointly with Felicia his wife, with remainder to the heirs of William, one messuage in Estrop next Heyworth, together with one carucate of land, as parcel of the said tenements in Bracton, by the aforesaid service. These tenements are worth 66s. 8d. yearly.

John de Maundeuyle, brother of the said William, aged 40 and more, is his next heir.

Idonea de Leybourne, who was wike of John de Crumbewelle.

nquisition taken at Wynterslewe before [etc., as above], 10th August, 8 Edward III [1334], by the oath of Walter de Thacham, Stephen Hulon, Stephen le Yonge, William de la Grave, William de Caneford, Richard le Heyraz, Gilbert Vyryng, William le Bachelor, John Goudchild, William Eode, John de Bourghtone, and Thomas de Neuille, who say that

The said Idonea held on the day she died the manor of West Wynterslewe, with the advowson of the church of that vill, for term of her life, under a fine levied in the King's court; held of the Earl of Cornwall by the service of \pounds 20 yearly, which \pounds 20 Edmund de Benstede receives yearly by grant of Edmund, late Earl of Cornwall. The reversion of the said manor belongs to Edward le Despencer, under the fine aforesaid.

There is in the said manor one capital messuage, worth nothing beyond the reprise; one garden, worth 6s. 8d. yearly in herbage and fruit; a windmill, worth 2os. yearly. There are 250 acres of arable land, two-thirds of which can be sown every year, and are then worth 3d. an acre; when not sown they are worth nothing, because they lie in common, for which reason the unsown third is worth nothing. There are 9 acres of meadow, the vesture of which is worth 18d. an acre. The pasture thereof after mowing is worth nothing, because it lies in common. There is a pasture several from Easter to Michaelmas, worth 15s. for that time; and from Michaelmas to Easter it is worth nothing, because it lies in common. And there is pasture there for 300 sheep, which cannot be sold, because it lies in common. There are 300 acres of wood lying in the forest of Claryndone; nothing can be sold therefrom without the King's license, and then nothing can be sold without waste and destruction, because it lies in common. The rents of assize of freemen and villeins are worth £8 125., payable at Easter and Michaelmas. The works of 17 customary tenants, from Michaelmas to the Gule of August, every week, excepting Christmas, Easter, and Whitsuntide, are worth 123d., being st works a week, worth $\frac{1}{2}d$, a work. The autumn works of 8 customary tenants are worth 12s. 8d. from the Gule of August to Michaelmas. The works of each of the aforesaid 17 customary tenants for the latter period, excepting feast-days and Saturdays, are worth \$d. a day; their ploughing works at the winter sowing are worth 4s. zd. There is a fee there called 'Tethyngpeny', to wit, at Easter 20s. and at Michaelmas 20s.; and a certain gift at Michaelmas for the lord's larder, from the said customary tenants, of 40s. All the customary tenants give the lord at Martinmas for 'Churshett' 75 hens, worth 1d. apiece, and 25 cocks, worth $\frac{1}{2}d$. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 20s. apiece. a year.

atte Traue, John de Polione, John Heruest, John Cosyn, Walter de Ardyngione, Adam Pych, Adam Ryche, John Eylof, and William Wolewy, who say that

It will be no damage to the King or any other to allow John Goudhyne to grant one messuage, 100 acres of land, 6 acres of meadow, and 50s. rents in Mantone next Marleberghe to the Prior and Convent of the church of St. Margaret outside Marleberghe, to hold to them and their successors to find three canons as chaplains to celebrate every day for ever in that church for the soul of the said John, his father and mother; and his ancestors. The premises are held of Alice de Lisle, sister and heir of Henry Tyeys, by the service of one-fourth of a knight's fee, and are worth 50s. yearly; she holds of the Earl of Cornwall, and he of the King.

John will still retain one messuage and z carucates of land in Quedhamptone, held of Giles de Badelesmere by the service of onethird of a knight's fee, and worth \pounds 10 a year; also a messuage and one carucate of land in Elecoumbe, held of Joan Lovel by the service of one-fourth of a knight's fee, worth 100s. a year.

William de la Plaunke.

nquisition taken at New Salisbury before Robert Inman, the King's escheator, 5th June, 9 Edward III [1345], by the oath of John de Farlegh, Nicholas Aynel, William Sauage, John Gileberd, Robert Cole, William Wippe, William Guraurd [?], John atte Halle, William Trenchant, John le Smythe, John Stephen, and Peter Cof, who say that William de la Plaunke held on the day he died, to him and the heirs of his body, a moiety of the manor of Compton Chamberlayn from John, son of Andrew de Grymstede, by the service of half a knight's fee.

There is one capital messuage there, worth nothing beyond the reprise; one garden, worth 2s. 8d.; one dovecot, worth 4s.; one water-mill, worth 10s. beyond the reprise. There are 40 acres of arable land, worth 3d. an acre; 80 acres of arable land, worth 2d. an acre when sown, and nothing when not sown, because they lie in common. There are 10 [?] acres of meadow, worth 2s. an acre, and 10 acres of pasture, worth 6d. an acre; 16 acres of underwood, worth 18d. There are 2 free tenants, who pay 26s. 8d. yearly at the four chief terms of the year in equal portions; 28 customary tenants, each of whom holds one messuage and half-virgate of land, and pays 6s. 8d. yearly at the said terms. The autumn works of each of the said customary tenants is worth 2s. 6d: yearly. There are 24 cottars, who pay 64s. yearly at the said terms. There is one tenant, who holds one acre of meadow and pays 1 lb. of pepper yearly at Michaelmas. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 10s. a year. Total, f_{121} 3s. 10d.

The said William also held, as above, one messuage, 60 acres of land, and 4 acres of meadow in Bereford; the messuage is worth 2s. yearly, the land 3d. an acre when sown, and nothing when not sown [as above]; the meadow is worth 18d. an acre.

William, son and heir of the said William, was 9 at Michaelmas last.

nquisition taken at New Sarum before the King's escheator, 21st July, 10 Edward III [1336], by the oath of John Martin, Thomas Elys, Richard Stubard, William le Frye, John le Yonge, Robert Cole, Henry le Cayn, Walter Lambard, William Whyppe, William Vincent, John Proutfot, and John Gyffard, who say that William de la Plaunke held the advowson of the church of Bereford St. Martin, worth 20 marks, but no knights' fees or other advowsons in the said county.

Gdward de Bohun.

E xtent of the knights' fees and advowsons of churches which Edward de Bohun held of the King in chief on the day on which he died, taken before the King's escheator at New Sarum, on Thursday after the Feast of St. Nicholas, 10 Edward III [1336], by the oath of Robert Wayfer, John Clement, John Plusbal, Adam Hardyng, John Tropynel, John in Thel . . le, William Pykeryng, John Pedewardyn, Adam Yue, Alexander Uppehulle, John Brian, and John Touky, who say that

William Pipard held of the said Edward half a fee in Nuthercote, worth 20s. a year when scutage 'runs', viz. when scutage 'runs' at 40s., and so in proportion.

Lucy Bluet held one-fourth of a fee in Wekelescote, worth 10s., as above.

The said Edward held one-half and one-fourth of a fee from the King in chief, as of the manor of Wotton Basset. He held the advowson of the church of Wotton aforesaid, which church is taxed at 25 marks a year, and is worth 60 marks. Also the advowson of the church of Sherston, taxed at 30 marks, and worth nothing more, because it pays a pension to the Dean and Chapter of St. Mary of Salisbury of 10 marks a year.

Robert le Boor and Master John de Myly.

nquisition taken before the King's escheator, 26th March, 10 Edward III [1336], by the oath of John Morys, Gilbert le Blake, Nicholas Welibond, John le Smythe, Ralph atte Mulle, John Picot, Adam Russel, Adam le Hordere, Bennett le Put, Robert le Taillur, Thomas Orpedeman, and Simon le Taillur, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow Robert le Boor and Master John de Wyly to assign 2 messuages, 60 acres of land, 16d. rents, pasture for 12 oxen and 180 sheep in Moneketone Deverel and Wily, to the Hospital of St. John outside the gate of Wyltone, in part satisfaction of lands, etc., to the yearly value of 6 marks, which they have the King's license to acquire.

One of the said messuages and pasture for 2 oxen in Wyly are held of the Abbess of Wiltone by the service of 12d. yearly. The residue of the premises, in Moneketone Deverel, is held of Roger Estret by the service of 5s. yearly, and Roger holds of the Abbot of Glastonbury. The premises are worth 40s. yearly, not including the 16d. rents, beyond the said services. The grantors will still retain the manor of Hulle Deverel, held of John Mautravers by the service of 1 lb. of pepper at Michaelmas, and worth £20 yearly; also the manor of Quedhamptone, held of the Prior of St. Dennis and the Abbess of Willone by the service of 6s. yearly, worth 40s.

John, son of John de Burghtone.

nquisition taken at Mershtone before the King's escheator this side of Trent, and May, 10 Edward III [1336], by the oath of Richard Aylmer, Walter Persones, John atte Hurne, William Clerk, John Bacoun, Thomas Dicon, Robert Horeput, John son of William, John Blake, Robert Stiue, John Cardeuille, and John Herbelot, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow John, son of John de Burghtone, to grant 9 acres of meadow in Seuehampton and Erdescote to a chaplain to celebrate every day for ever at the altar of St. Mary in the parish church of Shrivenham for the souls of the said John and Agnes his wife, of John de Burghtone and Emma his wife, of Thomas de Bertone, and Gilbert de la Stane, and the souls of their fathers and mothers and ancestors. Six acres of the said 9 are held from Queen Philippa, as of her manor of Sevehamptone, which manor came to the hands of Edward I by reason of the forfeiture of Adam de Strattone, by the service of 3s. yearly, and they are worth 10s. The remaining 3 acres in Erdescote are held from the Earl of Hereford by the service of one rose yearly, and are worth 5s. The Earl holds of the King.

There will still remain to the said John 3 messuages and 3 caruca'es of land in Mershtone and Strattone, held of Hugh Herberd by the service of 2s. yearly, and worth \pounds_{10} .

John de la Boke.

nquisition taken at Codeford before William Trussel, the King's escheator this side of Trent, 28th July, 10 Edward III [1336], by the oath of John Strug, Henry le Coke, Ralph Dalewey, John le Parkere, Adam Cosyn, John de Langeforde, John le Chupman, Roger Godefray, Edmund le Frenche, John de Bacham, John le Tayllour, and John de Brademere, who say that

The carucate of land which John de la Hoke holds in Orchestone is not parcel of the manor of Elystone, nor is it held of the King, nor of the manor of Elystone, but of Richard Danyel, son and heir of John Danyel, by fealty and the service of 1d. yearly, and is worth 40s. It was taken into the King's hands because the escheator was given to understand it was parcel of the manor of Elystone, and that Margaret, who was wife of John Giffard of Brymesfeld the elder, alienated the same to the said John de la Hoke in fee, without the King's license, and for no other reason. The said Margaret holds the said manor in dower of the King, and she bought the said carucate of land to her and her heirs, before the making of the statute of Quia emptores, from John le Bret of Westone, who had hereditary right therein, to hold from the said Richard Danyel and his heirs as aforesaid.

The said William la Zousche held no lands in Wilts in his demesne as of fee, of the King in chief or of any other, but on the day of his death he held the manor of Stratford in that county from the Earl of Leicester by the service of one-half of a knight's fee, for the term of his life by the law of England, after the death of Alice, his late wife, sister and heir of Robert de Tony, as of the right and inheritance of Thomas Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick, to whom the said manor now reverts, as son and heir of the said Alice. The said Earl is 23 and more.

Wiltshire

The capital messuage of the said manor, with the garden, is worth 2s. yearly. There are 200 acres of arable land by the lesser hundred, worth 33s. 4d.; 10 acres of meadow, worth 20s. A pasture for sheep in summer, 30s. The rents of free and bond tenants, with customary works, are worth \pounds_{12} yearly in equal portions at Whitsuntide and Michaelmas. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth half a mark yearly.

The said William also held, as above, the manor of Newtone. The capital messuage there is worth 12d. yearly for the herbage of the garden. There are 200 acres of arable land, worth 33s. 4d.; 6 acres of meadow, worth 12s.; pasture for cattle in the summer, 10s. The rents of free and bond tenants, with the works of the bond tenants, are \pounds_{12} 2s. yearly at Whitsuntide and Michaelmas in equal portions. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 13s. 4d. a year.

They do not know who is next heir of the said William. [The Sussex inquisition says that Alan, his son and heir, is aged 19.]

Edmund Gascelyn.

Inquisition taken at Chippham before the King's escheator this side of Trent, 26th September, 11 Edward III, by the oath of Henry de Budestone, Nicholas Baldewyne, Nicholas Kyn, Robert de Eneforde, Thomas Walkar, Richard Godwyne, William Smith, Walter Leyre, Richard le Tabler, Richard le Chepman, John le Frenshe, and William Wasteuyle, who say that

Edmund Gascelyn, who died 1st September in the said year, held in his demesne as of fee the manor of Schuldone and Chippham, with the Hundred of Chippham, of the King in chief by the service of one-fourth part of a knight's fee. It is worth $\pounds 21$ 18d., to wit, the capital messuage, with garden and close adjacent, 6s. 8d.; the dovecot, 3s. 4d.; 2o6 acres of arable land, 51s. 6d.; 2o acres of meadow, 4os. for herbage, for the pasture nothing, because it lies in common for the whole year after the grass is mown and the hay carried. A several pasture, worth 10s. Rents of free tenants there, 69s. in equal portions at the four chief terms of the year. The rents and works of customary tenants, 16s. yearly, as above, if they do not work; if they work they pay nothing. The pleas and perquisites of the manor court are worth 15s. a year, the perquisites of the Hundred 100s. The perquisites of the market, held there every Wednesday and Saturday, 30s. The tolls of 4 fairs there, to wit, on the Feasts of St. Luke the Evangelist, St. Andrew, St. John before the Latin Gate, and St. Barnabas the Apostle, f_{14} .

Geoffrey Gracelyn, son and heir of the said Edmund, is aged 26.

The said Edmund held jointly with his wife Eleanor, who still survives, 2 messuages, 4 carucates of land, 30 acres of meadow, 40 acres of pasture, and 30 marks' rent in Great Cheuerel, Lolledone, and Budesdone, by fine levied in the King's court, by grant of John Twyning, to hold to the said Edmund and Eleanor from the chief lords of that fee by the services thereto belonging for term of their lives. The tenements in Great Cheuerel are held of Thomas Burnel by the service of doing suit at his court there twice a year; they are worth £20. The tenements in Budesdone are held of the said Thomas Burnel at fee farm, paying 20 marks yearly; they are worth nothing beyond that farm, but less, except when fines of land accrue. The tenements in Lolledone are held of Reginald de Pauely by the service of one pair of gilt spurs at Michaelmas, and are worth 60s. a year.

They also held jointly one messuage and one carucate of land in Chippham and Schuldone, by another fine levied in the King's court, with John atte Zate, to hold to them and the heirs of Edmund from Peter de la Heose, by the service of 6s. a year and suit every 3 weeks at his court of Chippham; worth 30s. a year.

Master Milliam de Litteltone.

nquisition taken before the King's escheator at Wermenstre on Thursday after the Feast of the Nativity of the B.V.M., 11 Edward III [1337], by the oath of Robert Swotyng, Richard de Langeforde, John de Babetone, William Maudut, Thomas Thurstayn, William de Whiteclyue, Edward Just, John atte Dounende, Walter Luddok, John atte Mulle, John Coby, and John Smert, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow Master William de Littelton to grant one messuage, 76 acres of land, 5 acres of meadow, and 6s. rents in Great Corsleghe, Wermenstre, and Smalebroke, and John Danyel, chaplain, and Reynold le Palmere to grant 6 messuages, 12 acres of land, and 5 acres of wood in Maydenebradeleghe and Hulle Deverel, to the Lepers' Hospital of the Blessed Mary of Maydenebradeleghe, to hold to the Prior and Convent thereof and their successors, in part satisfaction of \pounds 10 of lands, which they have the King's license by letters patent to acquire.

The first said premises are held of the Prioress of Stodleghe as of her manor of Corsleghe by the service of 6s. yearly; she holds of Thomas de Kyngestone, and he of the King in chief. The last said premises are held of the said Prior as of his manor of Maydenebradeleghe by the service of 10s. yearly; the Prior holds of the heirs of John Biset, and they of the King in chief. The whole are worth 43s. 10d. yearly.

The said Master William de Litteltone would still retain 2 carucates of land at Littletone in Somerset, held of the Bishop of Lincoln as of his manor of Welewe, which belonged to Reynold de Muntfort, by the service of 5s. yearly and suit at the court of Welewe every 3 weeks; worth \mathcal{L}_{10} yearly. John Danyel and Reynold le Palmere would retain one carucate of land and 9s. rents in Maydenebradeleghe, held of the said Prior by the service of 10s. yearly, and worth \mathcal{L}_{4} .

Milliam le Parlere.

nquisition taken before the King's escheator this side of Trent, at Bedewynde, on Monday the Feast of St. Augustine, 11 Edward III [1337], by the oath of Roger de Kalstone, John de

Fostebury, William de Stokke, Thomas de Hardone, William de Wike, William Waryn, John Boneg, Richard Stroky, John atte Brigge, Geoffrey atte Styghele, John de Woltone, and Reynold de Hampslape, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow William le Parlere to enfeoff Roger Parlere with one messuage and the moiety of a virgate of land in Oxenwode, to hold to him and his heirs of the King by the service therefor due and accustomed. The premises are held of the King in chief, as parcel of a serjeanty which Peter Pipard holds in Oxenwode, by the service of keeping the bailiwick of the forestry of Huppyngescombe in the Forest of Savernake and paying 20s. yearly to the King at Michaelmas at his castle of Marleberge. William le Parlere pays Peter Pipard 4s. yearly for the premises, and they are worth 4s. beyond that rent.

There would still remain to the said William one virgate of land at Estbedewynde, held of William de Braibroke by 5s. rent yearly and suit at his court of Estbedewynde every 3 weeks, worth 10s. yearly beyond that rent.

Sir Bogo de Knouille, knight.

Inquisition taken before the King's sub-escheator, 23rd November, 12 Edward III [1338], by the oath of William Montfort, John atte Mere, Richard Berewyne, Richard Wihytpayn, Adam de Hulle, John Cope, William Thurston, Richard le Scryueyn, Roger Kaynnes, William Kaynnel, Nicholas de Comerwelle, and Nicholas Roylli, who say that

The said Sir Bogo held no lands in chief of the King in Wilts on the day he died, but he held in the vill of Ditherigge, for term of his life, of the lordship of Strugull, by the service of one-fourth of a knight's fee, one messuage, worth nothing yearly beyond the reprise. There is a dovecot there, worth 2s. beyond the reprise, and not more, because it is ruinous and in bad condition. There is one water-mill, worth 13s. 4d. a year; 60 acres of arable land, worth 205. a year when they can be sown, and not more, because the land is hilly; when not sown it is worth nothing, because the land lies in common; 20 acres thereof were sown this year before Sir Bogo's death. There are 2 acres of meadow, worth 4s. yearly when they can be mown; after the mowing the pasture is worth nothing, because it lies in common. There is 3s. 4d. rents of free tenants, payable at Hockday and Michaelmas in equal portions. After the death of Sir Bogo the premises ought to remain to John de Knouyll and Margery his wife, and their heirs.

John de Knouyll, son and heir of the said Sir Bogo, is aged 23 and more.

because it lies in common. There are 10 acres of wood, in which there is no underwood; the pasture thereof is worth nothing, because it lies in common throughout the year. There are divers free and villein tenants there, who pay 53s. 4d. at the abovesaid four terms. The works of the customary tenants there are worth nothing, because they do not give the lord anything if they do not do them. The pleas and perquisites of the court are worth 5s. yearly. Total yearly value of this hamlet, 100s. 8d.

In the hamlet of More there is one capital messuage, worth nothing beyond the reprise. There are 40 acres of arable land there, worth 10s. yearly when sown, and 3s. 4d. when they lie fallow; 10 acres thereof were sown this year before the death of the said John. There are 2 acres of meadow, the vesture of which is worth 2s. yearly, and after mowing nothing, because it lies in common. Total yearly value of this hamlet, 12s.

And they say that the said John held in the said hamlet of Bimerton 66s. 8d. rents from divers tenants there, to wit, at Christmas, Easter, and the Nativity of St. John the Baptist severally 14s. 2d., at Michaelmas 24s. 2d. These he holds of the King in chief as parcel of the manor aforesaid.

They say that the said John held to him and his heirs by Agnes, formerly his wife, one messuage and 60 acres of arable land, and 1005. rents in Abbessetone from divers tenants there at the said four terms, held from the Abbess of Willone by a rent of 1005. The messuage, with the profit of the garden adjacent, is worth 25. yearly beyond the reprise of the houses; the land is worth 155. a year when sown, and nothing when it lies fallow, because it lies in common; 10 acres thereof were sown this year before the death of the said John. Total value of Abbessetone beyond the rent paid out, 175.

The said John held in fee to him and his heirs the custody of the King's park of Melchet at fee farm, paying yearly to the King's manor of Clarendone 205. for all service; and it is worth nothing beyond the said rent.

Adam de Grymstede, son of the said John and of Agnes his first wife, is his next heir, and is aged 22 and more.

Adam de Grymstede.

nquisition taken before the King's escheator at Bymerton on the Morrow of Holy Trinity, 13 Edward III [1339], by the oath of Nicholas de Roluestone, John Pykot, Ralph atte Mulne, John de Kyngesmulne, Robert Gilberd, William le Chapman, John de Bereford, John Upehulle, Stephen Hulun, Stephen le Yonge, John le Proute, and John le Frere, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow Adam de Grymstede to enfeoff Adam atte Forde and John de Mere with 2 messuages, one garden, 110 acres of land, 5 acres of meadow, 10 acres of wood, the bailiwick of the parker of Melchet park and 120s. rent in Bymerton and la More, together with the reversion of the manor of Westgrymstede, which William de Walkyntone and Eleanor his wife hold as dower of the said Eleanor of the inheritance of the said Adam de Grymstede, for the purpose of a resettlement on the said Adam de Grymstede and Eleanor his wife and the heirs of their bodies, with contingent remainder to his brother John. The premises are held of the King in chief by knight service, the manor being worth fito yearly, the other premises 70s. yearly. There would still remain to the said Adam de Grymstede 110 acres of land in la More, and the reversion of the manor of Ekenesbury in Hants, held of the King in chief by knight service, worth £20 a year, and divers tenements in Abbotestone and Wantynge, held of the Duke of Cornwall as of the Honour of Walyngford, and of other lords, by divers services, worth 10 marks yearly.

Joan, who was wife of Henry le Moigne.

Inquisition taken before the King's escheator at Ambresbury, 22nd April, 14 Edward III [1340], by the oath of William Bertelot, Edward Frenche, Simon Burel, Walter Stut, John Busschup, John Bakere, William Ferchawe, John Fayreyze, Alexander le Heyward, Thomas Brutoun, and Michael de Ambresbury, who say that

The said Joan held in Wilts in dower, of the inheritance of the said Henry, 100 acres of arable land, 4 acres of meadow, and 205. rents in Maydene Winterbourne, of the King in chief, as parcel of the manor of Ore in Dorset, by the service of being the King's larderer, as for other lands which she holds in divers counties. The said messuage is worth nothing beyond the upkeep of the houses. The land is worth 2d. an acre, and 50 acres can be sown every year. What is not sown is worth nothing, because it lies in common. The vesture of the 4 acres of meadow is worth 8s. a year, and after moving nothing, because it lies in common.

John le Moigne, son of the said Henry and Joan, is their next heir, and aged 34 and more.

Milliam Duyntyn.

nquisition taken before the King's escheator at Wiltone, 4th December, 15 Edward III [1341], by the oath of Adam Russel; Ralph Beuar [?], John de Wodeford, Simon le Tayleur, John de Weremenstre, Robert G..., Robert Roger, John Uphay, John Beneyt, Nicholas Welibaud, John Payn, and William Antony, who say that William Quyntyn held in his demesne as of fee on the day he died one messuage and 60 acres of land, 3 acres of meadow, and 8s. rents in Great Wychford, of the King in chief by the sergeanty of being forester of the King's forest of Grosle and 2s. yearly to Salisbury Castle. The said messuage with the garden is worth 3s. yearly beyond the reprise, and not more, because the houses are in a bad state and broken down. Before the said William's death 15 acres were sown with wheat and mixtil, and are worth 55. The 15 acres which ought to be sown in Lent are worth 5s, when sown. When not sown they are worth nothing, because they lie in common. Fifteen acres lie fallow, and the herbage is worth nothing for the same reason. Fifteen acres lie unsown, and the herbage is worth nothing because it lies on the hill and in common. The 3 acres of meadow are worth 6s. a year. The rents are payable at Easter and Michaelmas.

Jointly with Alice his wife, who survives, the said William Quyntyn held one messuage, $1\frac{3}{4}$ virgates of land, and 8 acres of pasture in Stoford and Suthneutone from the Abbess of Wiltone by the service of paying 11s. yearly at Easter and Michaelmas, and doing suit at her court 3 times a year. They are worth 6s. 8d. yearly.

William, his son and heir, is aged 32 and more.

Margaret, who was wife of Edward de Bohun.

nquisition taken before the King's escheator at Sende, 7th August, 15 Edward III [1341], by the oath of John le Cras, Roger le Cras, Robert atte Lupyate, John Sandrugge, John Louel, John Alisaundre, John Mauclerk, John de Bide, Ralph le Mareschal, John Cok, John de Schawe, and John Snappe, who say that

The said Margaret held in dower from the King in chief the manors of Scherstone and Brodetone by the service of one knight's fee.

In the said manor of Sherstone there is one capital messuage, worth nothing beyond the reprise; one garden, worth 3s. in herbage and fruit; 3 closes, the herbage of which is worth 10s.; one dovecot, worth 3s.; 3 water-mills, worth 6os., and not more, on account of want of water in the summer. There is one market and one fair once a year at the Feast of St. Matthew, and they are worth 13s. 4d. There are 600 acres of arable land, 300 of which can be sown every year, and are then worth 4d. an acre; when lying fallow the land is worth nothing, because it lies in common. There are 60 acres of meadow, worth 18d. an acre; a pasture in divers places, worth 6os. There is a wood, the pasture of which is worth 20s., and the underwood 10s. a year. The rents of assize of free and customary tenants, with "Freganel", are worth $f_{1316s.9\frac{3}{4}d}$. yearly at the Feasts of the Purification, St. John the Baptist, and Michaelmas. The autumn works there from Michaelmas to the Nativity of St. John the Baptist are worth £8 7s. 11d.; from then to the Gule of August, 36s. 63d.; from the Gule of August to Michaelmas, f.6 12s. 9²d. The customary ploughings are worth 1055. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 26s. 8d.

In the said manor of Brodetone there is a capital messuage, worth nothing beyond the reprise; one curtilage, worth 12d.; one water-mill, worth 10s. There are 100 acres of arable land, worth

5d. an acre; 12 acres of meadow, worth 2s. an acre. There is pasture in divers places, worth 1os. Rents of assize, 6os. a year at the Feasts of the Annunciation and St. Michaelmas. The customary works from Michaelmas to the Gule of August are worth 1os.; from then to Michaelmas, 4s. 2d. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 6s. 8d. a year.

The said Margaret held for term of her life, of the inheritance of Humphrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford and Essex, the manors of Uppauene and Sende, from the King in chief by the service of one sparrow-hawk yearly, under a fine levied in the King's court, whereby Sir Thomas de Alledone conveyed the same to Edward de Bohun aforesaid and the said Margaret, daughter of William de Ros, to hold to them and the heirs of the said Edward. Humphrey de Bohun aforesaid is brother and next heir of the said Edward.

In the said manor of Uppavene there is one capital messuage, worth nothing beyond the reprise. There are 829 acres of arable land, worth 4d. an acre; 15 acres of meadow, worth 3s. an acre; a pasture on the hill, worth \pounds_{10} ; one water-mill, worth \pounds_8 yearly. There are \pounds_{26} 2s. 4d. yearly of rents of assize at the four chief terms of the year. The customary works from the Gule of August to Michaelmas are worth 5s., and they do not work the rest of the year. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 100s., including the tolls of the market and fair.

In the manor of Sende there is one capital messuage, worth nothing beyond the reprise. There are 2 gardens, worth 4s. There are $205\frac{1}{4}$ acres of land, worth 3d. an acre; $71\frac{1}{2}$ acres of meadow, worth 2s. an acre. There is pasture in divers places, worth 100s. There is a park called Coufolde, the pasture and pannage of which are worth 50s. yearly. The rents of assize of free and customary tenants at the two principal terms of the year, $\pounds 8$ 3s. The customary works are worth 6s. 8d. a year; they work from the Gule of August to Michaelmas. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 10s.

WILTS INQ .- VOL. III.

The Earls of Salisbury.

Inquisition taken at Wiltone in the full county[-court] of Wilts, held on Tuesday after the Feast of the Annunciation, 15 Edward III [1341], before Robert de Hungerford, Robert Selyman, Hildebrand de London, and John de Wynterbourne (by the King's writ appointed to inquire whether the Earls of Salisbury have heretofore been seised of the castle and vill of Old Sarum and the office of sheriff of the county of Wilts), by the oath of Sir Adam Walrond, Sir John de Bradenestoke, Sir John Drueys, and Sir John Strug, knights, Nicholas de Roluestone, William de Stourton, Nicholas Lambard, Walter de Shreueton, William Gerard, William Gilon, John Euerard, Robert Russel, William Randolf, and Peter de Bourton, who say that Patrick, formerly Earl of Salisbury, was seised of the castle and vill of Old Sarum, and of the office aforesaid, after whose death William, Earl of Salisbury, his son and heir, succeeded thereto, and was seised thereof. He was succeeded by his daughter and heir Ela, who was seised as aforesaid, whom William de Longespe married, by whom he had issue William de Longespe the younger, who succeeded the said Ela on her death, and was seised as aforesaid. In the time of this last said William dissensions arose between King Henry III, great-grandfather of the present King, and the said William, chiefly because the said William left the kingdom contrary to the King's prohibition, without obtaining his leave; therefore the said King caused the castle, vill, and office aforesaid to be seised into his hand, and retained them; and for this reason and no other they were taken out of the hands of the Earls of Salisbury and came to the King's hands.

henry de Grey.

nquisition taken before the above-named escheator at Aston Grey, 6th January, 16 Edward III [1343], by the oath of John Tropynel, Robert Wayser. John in the Hurne, Walter atte Hyde,

John Freman, Walter le Wariner, John Clement, John de Bremelh . . , Walter le Shey, Philip Bacoun, Henry de Halle, and John le Stour, who say that

Henry de Grey held no lands from the King in chief nor from any other in his demesne as of fee on the day he died in the county of Wilts, but he held the manor of Aston Grey for term of his life by demise of Reginald de Grey, his son, as parcel of the manor of Eton in Bucks, with reversion to the said Reginald and his heirs, as is testified by the King's licence thereupon, granted by charter dated at the Tower of London, 10th July, 11 Edward III [1337].

The manor of Eton, together with the said manor of Aston Grey, is held of the King in chief by the service of mewing and keeping one of the King's falcons till the time of flight, for all service.

There is in the said manor of Aston one messuage, worth 12d. a year beyond the upkeep of the houses; 120 acres of land, 60 of which are worth 3d. an acre, 30 worth 2d., and 30 worth 1d. a year. There are 6 acres of meadow, worth 6s.; a several pasture, worth 40d.; a water-mill, worth 6s. 8d. beyond the reprise; 13s. 4d. a year of the rents of free tenants, payable in equal portions at the Feasts of St. Michael and the Annunciation; also 20s. of customary rents, payable in equal portions at the said Feasts and the Nativity of St. John the Baptist.

The said Reginald de Grey, his next heir, is aged 28 and more. Chan. Inq. p.m., Ser. I, 16 Edward III, 1st Nos., No. 45. New reference, Chan. Inq. p.m., Edward III, File 66, No. 42.

Edward le Despenser.

nquisition taken before the abovesaid escheator at Wynterslewe, 22nd November, 16 Edward III [1342], by the oath of John de Thacham, William de Caneford, Stephen Hulon, Stephen le Yonge, Gilbert Viryng, John de Lucy, Thomas de Neville, Hugh Oliver, William Goudchild, Peter Sherreue, John Rankyn, and John Hugg', who say that Edward le Despenser held no lands of the King in chief nor of any other in his demesne as of fee in co. Wilts, on the day he died, but that on Friday next after the Feast of St. Peter Advincula in the said year he held the manor of Wynterslewe to him and his heirs for ever, and therewith enfeoffed William de Castelford and Nicholas, vicar of the church of Eyworth, to hold to them and their heirs for ever.

And they say that the said Edward afterwards died on the Morrow of St. Michael in the said year. The manor is held of the heirs of Edmund de Benstede, who is under age and a ward to the King, by the service of $\pounds 20$ payable yearly at Easter and Michaelmas for all service. It is worth 60s. a year beyond the said rent.

Edward le Despenser, son and heir of the said Edward, is aged 6 years.

Philip de Columbers.

nquisition taken before the abovesaid escheator at Bradeforde, on Thursday next after the Feast of St. Gregory the Pope, 16 Edward III [1342], by the oath of John Basset, Roger de Berleghe, John de Mortelegh, John Gibbes, William le Boteler, Thomas de Atteworthe, John de Mokesham, John ate Slade, Walter Gore, Robert le Couk, Richard Gay, and John Arundell, who say that

The said Philip died on the 10th of February in the year abovesaid. He then held no lands or tenements of the King in chief, but he held a moiety of the whole manor of Broghtone from James de Audlegh for the life of himself and of Eleanor his wife, only, by the service of one rose yearly. It is worth \pounds 10 a year. The manor ought now to revert wholly to the said James and his heirs.

Robert atte Grene.

nquisition taken before the abovesaid escheator at Creckelade, on Monday next after the Feast of the Ascension, 16 Edward III [1342], by the oath of Richard Costard, William Colnham, Nicholas Dauy, John atte Mulle, John Fransceys, John Ingram, Richard Howesone, Robert Sprot, William Saundres, William le Frensshe, John le Deyere, and John Spakeman, who say that

It would be no prejudice to the King or any other to allow Robert atte Grene to retain 115. rents in Great Chelesworth, acquired from Thomas Gereberd of Odestoke and Isabel his wife, for the term of the life of John de Wrockesale, without the King's licence.

The rent is held as appears in a previous inquisition, which is also filed here, having been taken at Crekkelade by the oath of the abovesaid jurors on Saturday after the Feast of St. Gregory the Pope, 16 Edward III [1342].

The premises here concerned, and acquired as above, are 2 messuages, 6 acres of land, 3 acres of meadow, pasture for 3 oxen, and 13s. 4d. rent in Great Chelesworth and Colecote, to hold to the said Robert and his heirs for ever.

One messuage, 4 acres of land, 2 acres of meadow, the pasture, and 3s. 2d. rents are held from the King in chief by the service of $14\frac{1}{2}d.$ payable in proportion for these tenements, with all the parceners of the inheritance, who pay altogether $18s. 1\frac{1}{2}d.$ a year to the sheriff of Wilts. The premises are worth 3s. 7d. by the year. The residue of the premises at Colecote are held from the Duke of Cornwall by the service of 3s. yearly, and are worth 2od. by the year. It will be no damage to the said Duke if Robert be allowed to retain the premises.

No tenements will remain to the said Thomas and Isabel.

Baldwin de Frebille.

nquisition taken before the abovesaid escheator at Yatesbury, on Saturday, the Vigil of St. Thomas the Apostle, 17 Edward III [1343], by the oath of John de Langeford, John de Pedewardyn, John Bernard, John de Parys, Simon Frankelay, William Arnald, William Frankelayn, Thomas Aluruch [?], William Iweyn, William Carswell, Henry Symond, and John Dyzmars, who say that Baldwin de Freville held one toft, in which there is one ox-shed [boveria] built, and 2 virgates of arable land from the King in chief in his demesne as of fee on the day on which he died, by knight service; worth 40s. a year. And he had there in demesne 4 acres of meadow, worth 4s. a year; also, by the service aforesaid, rents of assize payable at the four terms of the year, 23s. 4d. The toft is worth nothing beyond the upkeep of the said ox-shed.

The said Baldwin died on Friday next before the Feast of St. Luke the Evangelist last past. Baldwin de Freville, his [son and] heir, is of full age.

Peter de Cleel.

Inquisition taken before the above-named escheator at New Sarum, on Thursday in the fourth week in Lent, 17 Edward III [1343], by the oath of John le Fry, John Frankeleyn, Richard de Donyngton, Richard de Buttockesham, John de Letford, John Lyndeneys, John le Gym, Michael Mundi, Thomas Kendale, William Knyght, Robert de Walcote, and Simon le Irysh, who say that Peter de Veel was drowned at sea, they do not know on what day. He held no lands from the King in chief in Wilts; but he held from Henry Sturmy, jointly with Katherine his wife, by fine levied in the King's court, one messuage and z carucates of land at Ablyngton. The messuage is worth 2s. a year beyond the upkeep of the houses. The z carucates of land contain 300 acres, 100 of which are worth 3d. an acre, 100 zd. an acre, and 100 1d. an acre. There are 5 acres of meadow, worth 5s.; £4 rents of assize, payable in equal portions at the four terms of the year. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 40d. a year. The premises are held by the service of one sore sparrow-hawk or 2s. yearly at the Feast of St. Peter Advincula.

He also held, jointly with his wife, from the Earl of Lancaster, at Alton one messuage and 2 carucates of land by the service of half a knight's fee. The messuage is worth 2s. a year beyond the upkeep of the houses. The 2 carucates contain 280 acres of land, worth 3d. an acre. There are 3 acres of meadow, worth 6s.; 6os. rents of assize, payable as above. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 4od.

John de Veel, son and heir of the said Peter, is aged 6 years.

John, son of Ingelram Berenger.

Inquisition taken before the said escheator at Wilton, on Tuesday next before the Feast of St. Dennis, 17 Edward III [1343], by the oath of Thomas de Tydolueshyde, John Kyngesmulle, Robert Gole, Henry Kayn, Nicholas Mauduyt, John Chaumberleyn, William Coof, John de Chaldecote, William de Tydelueshyde, Walter Bacun, Gilbert Teswode, and Richard Gonwyn, who say that

The said John at his death held no lands from the King in chief nor from any other, because before his death, without the King's licence, he had demised the manor of Eblesbourne Wake to William West and Nicholas de Loundres, to them and their heirs for ever, together with the reversion of a moiety of the manor, which John le Mareschal and Maud his wife hold for term of the life of the same Maud in the same vill; which manor and moiety of a manor the said John de Berenger held of the King in chief before the said demise by the service of finding the King one armed man in his army in England at his own cost for 40 days. The abovesaid feoffees, after having had seisin, demised the premises to Emma, who was wife of the said John Berenger, for her life, with remainder to the right heirs of the said John. For this reason, before the arrival of the King's writ, the escheator had seised the premises into the King's hand. The said manor is worth 100s. a year.

John, son of Ingelram Berenger, died on Friday before Michaelmas last. Ingelram, his son and heir, is aged 2.

Another inquisition taken as above, at Wilton, on Monday before the Feast of SS. Simon and Jude in the said year, by the oath of John de Kyngesmulle, Thomas de Tydoluesyde, Richard Alwyne, John de Chaldecote, John de Ashurste, John Wyther, Nicholas le Haytour, Thomas de Gerardeston, Robert Cole, William Coof, Henry Kayn, and Nicholas de Kyngesmulle, gives the date of the abovesaid deed of feoffment to William West and Nicholas de Loundres as Friday after the Feast of the Exaltation of the Cross last past. The feoffees were seised seven days before the death of the said John, and retained seisin till Thursday after Michaelmas, another seven days, when they demised as abovesaid to Emma, who continued in seisin for five days, when the premises were seised by the King's escheator. As regards the moiety of the said manor of Eblesbourne Wake, held by John Mareschal and Maud his wife, the said John and Maud never attorned to the said feoffees or to Emma. The demise was made with no idea of defrauding the King of the custody of the said lands.

John de Beauchamp of Somerset.

Inquisition taken before the said escheator at Westkyngton, on Saturday next after the Feast of St. James the Apostle, 17 Edward III [13+3], by the oath of Nicholas Reyly, Thomas Middelhope, John Clement, John Tropynel, Richard Huberd, Robert Rose, Walter Dru, Roger le Rede, John Acz, John Plusbel, John de Cosham, and William Pykeryng, who say that

They do not know when the said John died. He held in his demesne as of fee of the King in chief one messuage and z carucates of land in Westkyngton by the service of one-eighth of a knight's fee. The messuage, with a garden and courtyard, are worth zs. by the year beyond the upkeep. The z carucates contain zoo acres, worth 3d. an acre. There are 1z acres of meadow, worth 8s.; 10 acres of several pasture for oxen, worth 4d. an acre; 8 acres of several pasture for sheep, worth 2d. an acre; 30 acres of wood, the underwood of which is worth 4d. an acre; The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 6s. 8d. a year.

John de Beauchamp, son and heir of the said John, is aged 13.

Milliam de Ros of Hamelak.

nquisition taken before the said escheator at Heghtredeburi, 1st March, 17 Edward III [1343], by the oath of Thomas Turstayn, Ralph Dalewey, John Strug, William de Compton, John C..., Adam Cosyn, Thomas Just, Thomas Hardyng, William le Dyhre [sic], John Cleydon, John Arnald, and Adam Adames, who say that

The said William died on the 16th of February last. He held no lands from the King in chief in the said county, but he held from the Earl of Gloucester, in the vill of Heghtredeburi, one messuage and 2 carucates of land of the inheritance of Margery his wife, by what service the jurors do not know. The messuage is worth 2s. a year beyond the upkcep of the houses; there is a dovecot, worth 2s. a year; the 2 carucates of land contain 300 acres of arable land, 100 acres of which are worth 4d. an acre, 100 acres 3d. an acre, 100 acres 2d. an acre. There are 8 acres of meadow, worth 16s.; a several pasture for sheep, worth 100s.; a wood, the underwood of which is worth 2s. a year; \pounds_4 15s. a year of rents of assize, payable in equal portions at the four terms of the year. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 6s. 8d. a year.

William de Ros, son and heir of the said William, is aged 16.

John de Wyke.

nquisition taken before the said escheator at _; Jeyerd Tregoz, 8th April, 17 Edward III [1343], by the oath of John de Langeford, John Bryan, Henry le Frankeleyn, John Bernard, John Touky, John Pedwardyn, Robert Styue, John Mogge, William Doddeford, John le Muleward, Ralph Mauduyt, and Richard Botewell, who say that John de Wyke did not acquire to himself for the term of his life one-third of the manor of Lydeyerd Tregoz; but they say that onethird of the said manor was demised to the said John for a term of three years, which elapsed at Michaelmas last past, by Peter de Upton, bailiff of Margaret, who was wife of Thomas de Monthermer, who held that third part in the name of dower. The said John had.

no other estate therein. The said manor is held of the King in chief by the service of one knight's fee.

James Benford.

nquisition taken before the said escheator at Stupellauyngton, 7th April, 17 Edward III [13+3], by the oath of John Forstal, Geoffrey Goldyng, John de Rustesale, John Skyllyng, John Cok', John atte Mershmulle, John Phelip, John Wynter the younger, William de Torpyngton, Thomas de Stoke, Bartholomew de Meredene, and William le Cherk, who say that

James Benford, parson of the church of Stupellauyngton, and all his predecessors have held the 4 acres of land in the writ named as of the endowment of their church from time immemorial, and not by pourpresture or appropriation recently made by Robert de Wambergh, formerly parson of that church, or by any other parson thereof.

The writ, dated 15th March, 17 Edward III [1343], states that upon a previous writ of certiorari, the escheator had returned that the reason of his taking the 4 acres into the King's hand was because they had been appropriated by pourpresture by the said Robert de Wambergh. A new inquiry is ordered upon the petition of James Benford, now parson.

Joan, who was wife of Denry de Remmesbury. Writ, dated 11th [?] March, 17 Edward III [1343], directing further inquiry to be made in the following circumstances: In answer to a writ of certiorari the sheriff had returned that he took into the King's hand a messuage and 2 virgates of land in Idmeston, because it was found by an inquisition taken before him ex officio that Philippa, eldest daughter and one of the heirs of William de Hacche, who held of the Abbot of Glaston, was an idiot; now Joan, who was wife of Henry de Remmesbury, has declared that the said Philippa was a daughter, but not heir or one of the heirs, of the said William de Hacche, and never had any estate in the premises; but that William de Hacche and Felicia his wife held the premises to themselves and the heirs of William. Felicia, after her husband's death, demised her estate therein to the said Henry and Joan, one of the daughters of the said William. Afterwards Thomas, son and heir of the said William, quitclaimed to them all his right in the premises. The said Henry and Joan during his life, and the said Joan after his death, were peacefully seised thereof till they were seised into the King's hands by reason of the idiocy aforesaid.

nquisition taken at Idmeston 10th April, 17 Edward III [1343], by the oath of John de Thacham, William de Caneford, William de la Grave, Stephen Hulon, Gilbert Vyryng, Stephen le Yonge, Peter Shereue, Thomas le Nevyle, William Godchyld, John Godchyld, John Rankyn, and Stephen Davy, who say that

It is true as the said Joan has stated. She was daughter but not heir of the said William.

Robert Lok.

nquisition taken before the said escheator at Salisbury, on Wednesday next after the Feast of St. Mary Magdalene, 17 Edward III [1343], by the oath of Robert Gereberd, John de Tacham, John de Kyngesmulle, William le Frie, Richard Stuberd, Nicholas de Kyngesmulle, Stephen Hulon, Gilbert Fyryng, John Stratford, John de Caneforde, John Elys, and John le . . , who say that

It would be no prejudice to the King or any other to allow Robert Lok of Estwyttenham to grant to Master Peter de Wymborne, warden of the church of the Blessed Edmund of New Sarum, his estate in one messuage, one carucate, and 260 acres of land, 20 acres of meadow, 12 acres of wood, and 25s. rent in Aldredeston and Wynterbourne Earl's, which he holds for term of his life by demise of William de Spersholte, chivaler, and Joan his wife, and John, son of the said William and Joan; and to allow the said William, Joan, and John to grant the reversion thereof to the said warden and his successors for ever; for the maintenance of two chaplains to celebrate in the said church every day, for the health and the soul of the King, and for the soul of Robert de Wodeford, his father and mother, in addition to the chaplains already appointed to serve in the said church. The only prejudice that could arise would be in case the said John or any of his heirs were to die without heir of their blood, in which case the King would have no escheat of the premises. But they say the said John has many near relations to succeed him.

The said messuage, the carucate and 60 acres of land, 12 acres of wood, and the rents in Aldredeston are held of the King in chief by fealty and suit at the King's hundred of Furst' every three weeks; 200 acres of land and 20 acres of meadow in Wynterborne Earl's are held of the King in chief as parcel of the manor of Wynterborne Earl's, which manor Earl Warenne holds of the King by barony. The premises are worth \pounds_7 6s. 8d. a year. There would remain no tenements to the grantors in the county of Wilts, but the said William and John would still retain \pounds_60 worth of land in Berks, held of persons unknown.

John de Cerne.

I I QUISITION [headed Draycote Cerne] taken before the said escheator at Draycote, on Saturday next before the Feast of St. Peter in Cathedra, 18 Edward III [1344], by the oath of Simon de Segre, Philip Bacoun, William Blaunchard, John Lucas, Geoffrey le Fry, Henry de Halle, William Huband, William Boxe, John in the Hurne, Henry de Budestone, Thomas de Mydelhope, and Ralph de Cokelbergh, who say that

John de Cerne held the manor of Draycote aforesaid in his demesne as of fee, on the day he died, from the King in chief by the service of paying \pounds_7 6s. 8d. yearly at the Feast of the Annunciation for all services.

There is in the said manor one messuage, worth 2s. a year beyond the upkeep of the houses; 4 carucates of land containing 240 acres of arable land, of which 66 acres in severalty are worth 4d. a year an acre, and 100 acres are worth 2d. an acre, and 74 acres are worth 1d. an acre. There are 51 acres of meadow, worth 2s. an acre; 40 acres of several pasture, worth 3d. an acre; 22 acres of wood, in which there is no underwood at present. There is one dovecot, in ruinous condition, worth 2s. a year; and 3 water-mills, worth 4cs. There are \pounds_7 4s. rents of assize, payable yearly at the Feast of the Annunciation. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 1os. a year. Total value, \pounds_17 14s. 1od.

The said John died on the Feast of the Purification last past. John de Cerne, his son and heir, is of full age.

Dliber de Ingham.

nquisition taken before the said escheator at New Sarum, on Sunday next before the Feast of the Annunciation, 18 Edward III [1344], by the oath of Thomas de Langeford, Nicholas Lamberd, Walter de Shireuelon, William de Whyteclyue, Peter de Grimstede, John Hodel, John de Kyngesmulle, Edmund atte Lee, Geoffrey le War, William Cof, William de Sutton, and Osbert Gocelyn, who say that Oliver de Ingham held of the King in chief in his demesne as of fee on the day on which he died the manor of Westdeone and Estgrymstede by barony. And in the said manor there is one messuage, with garden [and?] curtilages, worth 13s. 4d a year. There are 50 acres of arable land in severalty worth 12d. an acre, and 50 acres in the common field worth 8d. an acre, and 100 acres in the common field worth 1d. an acre, and 100 acres in the common field worth $\frac{1}{2}d$. an acre. There are 30 acres of meadow there, worth 2s. an acre; 40 acres of wood, the pasture of which is worth 10s. There are $\frac{f}{2}$ 13 13 $\frac{1}{2}d$. rents of assize, payable at the Feasts of the Annunciation, la Hokkedaye, the Nativity of the B.V.M., and St. Michael, with a bond larderer and capitage of menials (?cum lardar' nat' et capit' garc'). The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 30s. a year.

The said Oliver also held as above the manor of Stupellangeford by barony, as parcel of the manor of Deone aforesaid. And in this manor there is one messuage, with garden and curtilage, worth 2s. a year; 50 acres of arable land worth 6d. an acre, 40 acres worth 3d. an acre, and 20 acres worth 2d. an acre. There are 10 acres of meadow, worth 8d. an acre; the moiety of a watermill, worth 13s. 4d. The pleas and perquisites of the court are worth 6s. 8d. a year. There are 64s. 10d. rents of assize (with larderer (?), etc., as above), payable at the feasts aforesaid.

The said Oliver held in his demesne as of fee, from the Bishop of Winchester, the manor of Hampteworth, by the service of one knight's fee. In this manor there is a messuage, with curtilage and garden, worth 2s. a year; 40 acres of arable land, worth 3d. an acre; 8 acres of meadow, worth 12d. an acre; 10 acres of wood, worth 12d. a year, and not more, because they are in common and there is at present no underwood. There are 3s. rents of assize, payable yearly at the Feasts of the Annunciation and St. Michael. John Roberd holds 60s. rent, parcel of the said manor, for term of his life, by demise of the said Oliver de Ingham, paying a rose rent at the Feast of the Nativity of St. John the Baptist, with reversion to the heirs of the said Oliver.

Oliver de Ingham died on Thursday next before the Feast of the Purification last past. The jurors do not know who is his next heir. [The Suffolk jury say his heirs were his eldest daughter Elizabeth, now deceased, and his surviving daughter Joan, who is married to Roger le Straunge, aged 24 years. One John Cursun, who survives, married the said Elizabeth, by whom he has a daughter Mary, now aged 8 years and more.]

Another inquisition taken as above as to the knight's fees held by the said Oliver. The aforesaid jurors say that John de Lye held from the said Oliver one knight's fee in Laneforde without annual rent; the Prior of the monastery of Ivychurch, one fee in Whaddon in the same manner; William Gerald, one-fourth of a fee in Bereforde St. Martin in the same way: Geoffrey de Weston, one fee in Kynete and Bottenham in the same way; the Prior of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem in England, one fee in Ansteye; Earl Warenne's tenants of Cortynton, half a fee in Cortynton; William Botereaux, one fee there without annual rent; the heir of Richard Sibille, one-third of a fee in Brommoure in the same manner: Sir John de Bonham and Sir Adam atte Forde, knights, onetenth of a fee in Wychforde in the same manner; Roger Norman, one fee in Tyderle in the same manner; Hugh le Despenser, half a fee in Asshele; Sir Maurice le Brun, one fee in Pirle in the same manner: Robert de Gundevyle, one knight's fee in Wyneketon in the same manner. They say that Laurence de St. Martin, parcener of Stupellangeford, will have a moiety of the said fee of Robert de Gundevyle when it falls in. The heir of Geoffrey Kernet held one knight's fee in Saneford in the same manner; Roger de Pydele, one fee in Wynterborne Thomaston in the same manner; John de Lyle, one fee in Nyweton in the same manner; the Prior of Motles fonte, one-eighth of a fee in Whyteparische in the same manner; John de Grymslede, one-third of a fee in Carleton in the same manner. And they say that each of the aforesaid fees, when it falls in through the death of the holder, is worth 100s.

The advowson of the church of St. Mary of Deone is valued at 20 marks; that of Stupellangeforde at $\pounds 20$, but that advowson belongs alternately to the heirs of the aforesaid Oliver and to Laurence de St. Martin and his heirs.

The partition between the heirs is in too bad a state to be read consecutively. Of the advowsons, one-third (in Norfolk and Suffolk) are assigned as dower to Elizabeth, widow of the said Oliver; one-third (in the said counties) are assigned as the Thankyou for your purchase Click here to visit Flatcapsandbonnets.com pourparty of Roger Lestraunge and Joan his wife; the other third, being the two Wiltshire advowsons, are retained in the King's hands as the pourparty of Mary, daughter of John Curzoun. The manor of Stupellangeford and the manor of Hampteworth, except the rent received by John Robert, is assigned to the said Elizabeth in dower.

A writ is subsequently (18th November, 18 Edward III [1344]) issued to the sheriff of Wilts, in consequence of a complaint by Mary, Countess of Norfolk, to whom the King has granted the custody of the lands, etc., of the abovesaid Mary Curzoun, to the effect that in the division of the Wiltshire property between the Lestraunges and the said Mary Curzoun, richer and more valuable land was assigned to the former than to the latter; and whereas the hall and buildings of Westdeone and Estgrymstede could have been easily divided into convenient halves, they have been most inconveniently assigned, in the absence of the said Countess, who ought to have been summoned to be present at the assignment.

Another writ is directed to John de Roches, the King's escheator in Wilts, 10th February, 19 Edward III [1345], ordering him to take into his hands all the lands, etc., held by Oliver de Ingham, excepting those recently assigned in dower to his widow Elizabeth, and also the manor of Codeford, and to make an extent thereof, summoning the Countess of Norfolk to be present at the making thereof.

An inquisition is accordingly taken before the said John de Roches and Walter de Hungerford at Upavene on Saturday after St. Dunstan's Day, 19 Edward III [1345], by the oath of John de Arnham, Richard de Coumbe, Henry de la Folye, William le Clerk of Nyuweton, John de Kyngesmulle, John Martyn, William le Frye, Thomas Elys, Nicholas de Kyngesmulle, Robert de Sotwell, Nicholas le Frye, and Gosselin Bouetoun, who say that Oliver de Ingham was seised in his demesne as of fee, on the day he died, of the manors of Deone, Stupellangeford, Hampteworth, and Codeford.

The manor of Deone is worth $\pounds z4$ 155. 11 $\frac{1}{2}d$. a year, to wit, the capital messuage with the gardens, 135. 4*d*.; 100 acres of arable land, worth 12*d*. an acre; 200 acres of arable land in the common field there, worth 1*d*. an acre; 30 acres of meadow, worth 25. an acre; 100 acres of wood, the underwood and pasture of which are worth 26s. 8*d*.; rents of assize, with larder of the bond-tenants and capitage of menials, $\pounds 13$ 13 $\frac{1}{2}d$., payable at Easter and Michaelmas. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth by estimation 26s. 8*d*. a year.

WILTS INQ .- VOL. III.

II

The manor of Stupellangeforde is worth altogether £15 113. 8d. a year, to wit, the capital messuage there, 6s. 8d. a year; 100 acres of arable land, worth 12d. an acre, 90 acres worth 6d.; 20 acres of meadow, worth 20d. an acre; there is a several pasture for cattle worth 20s. The moiety of a water-mill there is farmed for 13s. 4d. The rents of assize [with larder, etc., as above], £4 13s. 4d. The pleas and perquisites of the court are worth 10s. a year.

The manor of Hampteworth is worth \pounds_7 5s. a year, to wit, the capital messuage, with the gardens, is worth 5s.; 80 acres of arable land, worth 8d. an acre; 10 acres of meadow, worth 18d. an acre; 20 acres of wood, the pasture and underwood whereof are worth 6s. 8d. a year; rents of assize, 65s. The said Oliver had granted to one John Roberd, for his service and counsel, rendered and to be rendered to him and his heirs, an annual rent of 60s. out of the said manor for his life; and so the true value of the said manor is \pounds_4 5s. a year. The said manor of Hampteworth pays 2s. a year to the Hundred of Dounton, and to Adam de Grymstede, for rent, 2d. at Michaelmas.

The manor of Codeford is worth £32 16s. 1d. a year, to wit, the capital messuage and the curtilage there, 13s. 4d.; 360 acres of arable land, worth altogether £11 10s.; 16 acres of meadow, worth 2s. 6d. an acre; pasture for 800 sheep, worth 66s. 8d. a year. Rents of assize [with larder, etc., as above], £9 9s. 10d. There is one water-mill farmed by the year at 106s. 8d. The pleas and perquisites of the courts there are worth 10s. a year. Katherine, who was wife of John de Ingham, has the said manor and the advowson of the church, of the grant of the said Oliver, with the King's licence, for term of her life; and the said Katherine, in peaceful seisin thereof, by her charter granted the said manor and advowson to John, son of Sir Robert de Thorpe, knight, Robert de Marcham, and John, son of Robert de Ingham, with the King's licence, for term therein. And the said manor of Codeford is held of the King in chief.

Milliam de Montague, Carl of Salisbury.

I nquisition taken at Shirburne, co. Dorset, on Wednesday next after Palm Sunday, 18 Edward III [1344]. The jury say that the said late Earl held the manors of Worth in Dorset and Pole in Wiltshire jointly with John de Chedesy, who survives, from John de Veer, Earl of Oxford, and Maud his wife, for term of the life of the said Maud, by grant of the said John and Maud, at a yearly rent of \pounds 80, payable in equal portions at Easter and Michaelmas, and doing to the chief lords of that fee the services due from the said manors. The premises are worth nothing beyond the said rent and services.

Extent of knights' fees and advowsons of churches belonging to the said late Earl, made before John Mauduyt, the King's escheator in co. Wilts, at New Sarum, on Friday next after the Feast of St. Parnell the Virgin, 18 Edward III [1344], by the oath of Walter de Shireueton, Thomas de Langeford, John Skyllyng, Ralph le Mareschal, John atte Mersshemulle, John le Frend, John Phelippes, John Cok, Geoffrey le Biount, John Thaccham, William de Caneford, and John le Beste, who say that

The said Earl had no knights' fees in the said county, but he held the advowson of the church of Stupellauynton, which is worth 20 marks.

Peter Doygnel.

Inquisition taken before the said escheator at Stawelle on Monday the Feast of St. Luke the Evangelist, 18 Edward III [1344], by the oath of Thomas Blaunchard, Roger de Coterigge, Robert Inwet [? Juwet], William Forester, William Basset, John atte Welle, John le Theyn, Stephen de Kyngeston, John Fraunkeleyn, Richard Michel, John le Palmere, and Richard le Clerc, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to sanction the grant made by Peter Doygnel of his manor of Hywysh, which is held of the King in chief, to Patrick, parson of the church of Yatesbury, John de la Roche, and John Whetlaye, vicar of the church of Yatesbury, and their re-grant thereof to him and Agnes his wife for their lives, with remainder to Thomas, son of Thomas le Blount, and Margaret, daughter of the said John de la Roche, in tail, with contingent remainders successively to Peter, brother of the said Thomas, son of Thomas, in tail, Nicholas de Cotteleye, in tail male, and the right heirs of the said Peter Doygnel.

The manor is held of the King by the service of paying 13s. 4d. a year to the hands of the sheriff for the time being, and is worth 100s. a year. Peter Doygnel has no other lands or tenements.

Bilbert, son of Gilbert de Ellesfeld.

W¹¹t dated 12th July, 18 Edward III [1344], addressed to William de Shareshulle, William de Herlestone, and Edmund de Chelreye, setting forth that the said Gilbert has petitioned the King in Parliament that whereas under his letters patent he granted to the said Gilbert, the father, the manor of Yeshamsted in co. Berks in exchange for all the lands, etc., of the said Gilbert in Blontesdone and Creklade in co. Wilts, and the said Gilbert was peacefully seised of the said manor from 10th February, 3 Edward III [1329], till 2nd August, 5 Edward III [1331], he was unjustly removed therefrom by William Trussel, then the King's escheator. The King wishes to restore the manor or the lands to the said Gilbert, the son, and directs inquiry to be made.

nquisition taken at Heghworth before William de Herlestone and Edmund de Chelreye, 16th September, 18 Edward III [1344], by the oath of Richard Costard, Thomas Morstede, William Dyaghare, Richard Howesson, Walter Martin, John Champeneis, Richard Tirry, Robert Stiwe, John Saucer, John Mulleward, Philip-Pluk', and John Witht, who say that John de Ellesfeld, ancestor of Gilbert, son of Gilbert de Ellesfeld, was seised of certain lands in Bluntesdone and Crekkelade in his demesne as of fee in the time of Edward I, and died seised thereof; and after his death Julian, wife of the said John, held them in dower, and she married John de Seynteleyne, chivaler, in the time of the said King Edward; the said John alienated those tenements to Adam de Stratton, for which reason they were forfeited to the King as an escheat. And afterwards Gilbert de Ellesfeld, the petitioner's father, sued his right against King Edward II and recovered the tenements by verdict of the neighbourhood. And afterwards King Edward III, on the 10th of February in the third year of his reign, granted the manor of Yeshampstede, as is set forth in the petition. The jury do not know at what time the said Gilbert was removed. The lands in Bluntesdone are worth 58s. 8d., those in.

Crekkelade 14s. 6d. a year. The said Gilbert, the father, did not release his rights in the manor to the King after he was so removed.

Simon, vicar of the Church of Segree.

nquisition taken before the abovesaid escheator at Calne on Monday next after the Feast of the Nativity of the B.V.M., 18 Edward III [1344], by the oath of Sir John de Bradenstoke, knight, John de Langeford, Robert le Blake, Roger Leger, Maithew de Besilles, John Taky, William de Dodeford, John Grandyn, Geoffrey le Frye, John Hubert, Henry Paternoster, and Adam de Wotton, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow Simon, vicar of the church of Segree, to assign one messuage and 4 virgates of land in Little Tokenham next Lynham to the Prior and convent of Bradenesloke, in part satisfaction of lands and rents to the yearly value of 20 marks, which they have licence to acquire under letters patent of Edward II. The premises are held of Henry de Langeford in socage by the service of 24s. yearly; and the said Henry holds of Gllbert de Testeuvode, who holds of the King in chief. They are worth 60s. a year. The said Simon would still retain a messuage and 6 virgates of land in Hanekynton, held of the Abbot of Malmesbury in socage by the service of 10s. a year, and worth $\pounds 6$ 15s. a year.

John de Molyns, chivaler.

Fit dated 14th July, 18 Edward III [1344], addressed to John Mauduyt, chivaler, and Henry de Greystoke, directing them to inquire what lands and tenements were held by John de Moleyns, chivaler, at the time when the said lands, etc., were seised into the King's hands by reason of the rebellion of the said John de Moleyns, viz., 1st December, 14 Edward III [1340].

The inquisition is in too bad a state to be read consecutively. The calendar gives Boxe manor, and lands and tenements in Simondescrofte, Berton, Foulesle, Blattelegh, and Whernelegh.

Simon, Bishop of Ely, and William de Langele.

Inquisition taken before the said escheator, John Mauduyt, at Wermenstre on Friday after the Feast of the Nativity of the B.V.M., 18 Edward III [1344], by the oath of John Druweys, chivaler, Richard de Vernoun, William de Whyteclyue, John Strug the younger, Robert Balle, Ralph Dalewey, William de Regny, Walter de Park, Richard de Langeford, Osbert Gosselyn, John Leuerich, and Thomas Gosselyn, who say that Roger Bavent, chivaler, lately by his charter indentate enfeoffed Simon, Bishop of Ely, and William de Langele, parson of the church of Ryngwode, with his manor of Nortone Skydemour, together with all his lands, rents, services, etc., in the vills of Trowe, Byllegh, and Emwelle, excepting the advowson of the church of that manor and the chantry of a chapel in the said church, to hold to them and their assigns for the whole of the life of Hawise, wife of the said Roger. And thereupon the said grantees by their charter undertook to find sufficient maintenance for the said Hawise and her children for the whole of her life out of the issues of the said manor, and if they failed therein, on the complaint of the said Hawise to her husband or to any near kinsman, it should be lawful to the said Roger to re-enter into the premises. And the said grantees did according to their promise, and the said Hawise never made any complaint. The grantees were seised of the premises from the 10th of March, 13 Edward III [1339], until Monday next before the Feast of St. Margaret the Virgin, 18 Edward III [1344], when they were removed by the aforenamed Roger and William de Kelleseve, clerk, by virtue of the King's commission to them in that behalf.

They say that the said manor, with Billegh and Emwelle, which are parcel thereof, are held of Sir Peter de Grandison as of the Honour of Ewias by the service of $1\frac{1}{2}$ knights' fees, and are worth $\pounds 25$ yearly. One messuage and 6 bovates of land in Trowe are held of the Abbess of Wilton by the service of 15s. yearly, and are worth $\pounds 4$ a year.

Abbot of Malmesbury.

nquisition taken before the said escheator at Malmesbury on Thursday next after the Feast of SS. Peter and Paul, 18 Edward III [1344], by the oath of John de Hanekynton, John de Bromelham, William Blaunchard, William Huberd, William Boxe, Waller Shay, Henry Paternoster, John Parfel, Henry de Halle, Henry de Baa, Adam Wutton, and William le Theyn, who say that

It would be no prejudice to the King or any other to allow the Abbot of Malmesbury to grant one messuage, 46 acres of land, and 4 acres of meadow in Escote, Brumele, and Chelesworth to Peter le Chaumberer and Margery his wife, to hold for their lives at a certain rent. The premises are held of the said Abbot by the service of 20s. yearly, and are worth 20s. by the year.

Picholas de la Beche.

nquisition taken before John de Roches, the King's escheator in the county of Wilts, at Wokyngham on Monday next before the Feast of the Annunciation, 19 Edward III [1345], by the oath of John de Thacham, William le Clerk, John le Duyn, William de Caneford, John Deueneys, John de Lye, John atte Putte, Thomas de Langeford, William de Whitleclyue [sic], Thomas Tyng, John Arnald, and John Gol, who say that Nicholas de la Beche held no lands of the King in the said county; but he held one messuage, 200 acres of arable land, 60 acres of wood, and \pounds_{16} 105. 5d. rents in Sheprigge, Farlegh, and Dydenham, from the Earl of Salisbury by knight service, conjointly with Margery his wife, under a fine levied thereof in the King's court. The premises are worth \pounds_{18} by the year.

The said Nicholas died on Thursday the Feast of St. Blaise the Bishop. The jury do not know who is his heir. [The Oxford jury say that his next heirs are Joan, Isabel, and Alice de la Beche, daughters of John de la Beche, deceased brother of the said Nicholas, and they are of full age.]

nquisition taken before the said escheator at Upauene on Friday next after the Feast of St. Agatha the Virgin, 19 Edward III [1345], by the oath of John Skilling, Bartholomew de Mereweden, Ralph le Mareschal, John le Eyr of Rusteshale, John atle Mershmulle, John Bacon, John le Carpenter, Richard le Eyr, John Culle, Robert Alberd, Robert de Echelhampton, and John . Goudyer, who say that

The said Peter, long before he died, gave his manor of Hiwish, which is held from the King in chief, to Patrick, parson of the church of Yatesbury, John de la Roche, and John de Whetlaye, vicar of the church of Yatesbury, who re-granted the same to the said Peter and Agnes his wife, with remainders [as in the Inq. a.q.d., which see].

The said Peter held no other lands, etc., from the King. The manor of Hiwish is worth 100s. a year. It is held of the King by the service of 13s. 4d. yearly.

Peter Doynel died on Tuesday next before the Feast of the Purification last. Sylvester Doynel, his son and heir, is aged 30 and more.

Bartholomew de Lisle.

nquisition taken before the said escheator at Bedewynde on Thursday the Feast of the Nativity of the B.V.M., 19 Edward III [1345], by the oath of Thomas de Hardene, John Torald, Robert Hoppegras, William de Stokke, John de Forstebury, Peter Pypard, John de Flory, John de Wyke, John Beneger, John atte Brigge, Thomas Croyleboys, and Robert Hommedieu, who say that

The said Bartholomew held no lands in the said county of the King in chief, but he held part of the bailiwick of forester of the forest of Chute jointly with his wife Elizabeth, to them and the heirs of their bodies, under a fine levied with the King's licence, which is held of the King in chief by the serjeanty of keeping the said forest at his own expense. The said part is worth nothing by the year beyond the expense.

He held from Hugh de Curtenay, now Earl of Devon, £10 worth of annual rents out of the manor of Chute for a term of 20 years from 16th April, 12 Edward III [1338]. This manor is held of the Abbot of Hyde next Winchester by the service of 2 knights' fees and 61s. yearly for all services. It is worth £12 a year.

The said Bartholomew died on Monday the Feast of the Assumption last past. John de Lisle, his son and next heir, will be 9 on the 15th of December next.

Sir Thomas de Porton.

nquisition taken before the abovesaid escheator at Fischerton next Wily, 18th May, 20 Edward III [1346], by the oath of Nicholas Lamberd, Richard de Langeford, Osbert Gosselyn, John Maiheu, William. Gerard, Adam Russel, Adam le Hoidere [?], Bennett le Pout, John le Taillour, John de Wodeford, John le Rous, and William le Frie, who say that

Sir Thomas de Norion, knight, held one-third of the manor of Fischerton in his demesne as of fee on the day on which he died from Nicholas Poyns, as belonging to his manor of Corymalet, by the service of inclosing one perch of the hedge round his park of Corymalet.

In the said third part there is one-third of a messuage, worth nothing beyond the reprise; one carucate of arable land, containing 100 acres, worth 4d. an acre when sown, and worth nothing when they lie uncultivated or in common. And there are 2 acres of meadow in severalty, worth 3s. a year, and 6 acres of meadow lying next Salisbury Plain, the vesture whereof is worth 3s. a year, and not more, because in a dry summer it cannot be mown, and after the mowing the pasture is worth nothing because it lies in common. And there are £6 18s. rents of assize, payable yearly at the Feasts of St. Thomas the Apostle, the Annunciation, and St. Giles, in equal portions. And there is a rent of 1 lb. of pepper and one-third of 1 lb. of cummin at Michaelmas.

The said Thomas died on Friday the 21st of April last past. Ralph is his son and heir; they do not know his age. [The Bedfordshire inquisition gives Ralph's age as 11.]

Inquisition taken before the abovesaid escheator at Euerle, 1st June, 20 Edward III [1346], by the oath of Henry Sturmy, John de Forstebury, John Torald, William de Wyke, Thomas Croylleboys, William Waryn, Robert Hopegras, William de S. . ke, Peter atte Grove, John Berenger, John de Rusteshale, and Richard Idekyne, who say that

The said Earl held from the King in chief in his demesne as of fee on the day on which he died the manors of Euerle, Upcolyngbourne, and Hauyndone by knight service.

In the said manor of Euerle there is one messuage, with a curtilage and garden, worth 6s. 8d. a year; 2 carucates of arable land, worth 6os. a year; a several pasture, worth 13s. 4d; a pasture for sheep, worth 1os. There is one small close, the pasture and conies of which are worth 13s. 4d. a year. The rents of assize are worth 4os. a year, the pleas and perquisites of the courts 1os.

In the manor of Up Colyngbourne there is one messuage, with a curtilage and garden, worth 6s. 8d. a year; 2 carucates of arable land, worth 6os.; 12 acres of meadow, worth 18d. an acre; a pasture for sheep, worth 6s. 8d.; 3os. rents of assize; the pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 6s. 8d. a year.

In the manor of Hauyngden there is one messuage, with a curtilage and garden, worth 6s. 8d. a year; 3 carucates of land, worth 100s.; 7 acres of meadow, worth 2s. an acre; a pasture for all cattle, worth 6s. 8d.

The jurors do not know when the said Earl died. Henry, Earl of Derby, his son and heir, is of full age.

Milliam de Beauuer.

Inquisition taken before the abovesaid escheator at Berewyk Basset, 28th August, 20 Edward III [1346], by the oath of William Arnald, William Frankelayn, Robert de Moneketon, Walter Frankelayn, Simon Frankelayn, Robert le Vikares, Roger Crispe, John de Chilton, John Waaz, John Brian, John Touky, and John Parys, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to grant to William de Beauuer one messuage, 40 acres of land, and 12 acres of meadow in Berewyk aforesaid and Bubbeton, which came into the King's hands by the forfeiture of Hugh le Despenser, Earl of Winchester, to hold to the said William and his heirs by the service of paying 22s. yearly to the King's exchequer. The premises are held of Gilbert de Berewyk in chief by the service of 1d. a year, except the meadow, which is held of John de Bubbelon in chief by the service of paying 12d, a year at Michaelmas. The messuage is worth nothing by the year beyond the reprise, because it is only a small cottage, all ruinous and in decay. Twenty acres of the abovesaid 40 can be sown every year, and then the land is worth 3d. an acre sown : that which is not sown lies in the common of the said Gilbert and his tenants, and is worth nothing. The said Hugh and his ancestors never had any profit from the said land, except the corn growing thereon when it was sown. The meadow, when it is mown, is worth 12s. a year, and not more, because it lies in the common of the men and tenants of Bubbeton from the Feast of St. Peter ad Vincula until the Annunciation; and if the said meadow is not mown before the first-said Feast there is no profit therefrom; nor did the said Hugh or his ancestors derive any profit therefrom, except the hay before the said Feast.

John de Meston.

nquisition taken before the abovesaid escheator at Calne, 23rd August, 20 Edward III [1346], by the oath of Nicholas de Wychampton, William de Wychampton, John le Glasyere, Roger le Crispe, John atte Halle, Thomas Roude, William Partrych, Richard Pynel, Adam Shottere, John Meryet, William le Blake, and William le Fraunkelayn, who say that

It will be no damage to the King or any other to allow John de Weston and Katherine his wife, and John, son of the said John, to retain an acre of meadow and 9 acres of pasture in Quemerford, which they have acquired from John, son of Roger de Calston, without licence from the King. The premises are held from the King in chief by the service of 4d. a year. The acre of meadow is worth 6d. a year, and the 9 acres of pasture 9d.

Denise de la Ryuere.

nquisition taken before Thomas de Seymour, the King's .escheator in co. Wilts, at Wotton Basset on Sunday next after the Feast of the Exaltation of the Holy Cross, 21 Edward III [1347], by the oath of Thomas de Radesthrop, William Colnham, John Loucoke, Philip Costard, Robert le Heyward, John atte Mulle, Richard Dauy, Adam Ernald, John le Teyngtour, Adam Ishelaz [?], John Ingram, and John Ludr . . , who say that Denise de la Ryuere, who was the wife of Sir John de la Ryuere, knight, held in her demesne as of fee from the King in chief on the day on which she died, in Great Chelesworth, one-third of one messuage, 16 acres of land, 5 acres of meadow; [and] 3 acres of land and 4 acres of meadow in Colcote. The said third of the messuage is worth nothing beyond the reprise, the arable land, both in Chelesworth and Colcote, is worth 4d. an acre, the meadow 2s. an acre. There is a parcel of meadow, not measured, worth 2od. a year. There are 33s. 11d. rents of assize, payable in equal portions at the four chief terms of the year; and a tallage of $15s. 5\frac{1}{2}d$. at the Feast of the Nativity of the B.V.M. The premises in Colcote are held of the Earl of Cornwall in chief by the service of 10s. a year.

The said Denise died on Wednesday the Feast of the Assumption of the B.V.M., 21 Edward III [1347]. Sir John de la Ryuere, of Tormarton, knight, her heir, is aged 30 and more.

Richard Danseye.

nquisition taken before Robert Russel, the King's escheator in co. Wilts, at Wermynister, 14th January, 21 Edward III [1348], by the oath of John de Pauely, chivaler, Walter de Escudamore, chivaler, Robert de Pauely, John Mauger, John Couttyng, William Maudut, Richard Langeford, John Colstone, John Cros, John de Werdore, Robert Renaud, and John le Gol, who say that Richard Danseye held of the King in chief on the day on which he died in his demesne as of fee the manors of Brattone and Dultone by the serjeanty of 10 marks and sheriff's aid of 4s. $10\frac{1}{2}d$. for half a knight's fee, payable to the sheriff at Salisbury Castle to the King's use at the Feast of the Annunciation.

And in the said manors there are two messuages, worth nothing a year beyond the reprise; one dovecot, worth 2s. a year; 2 watermills, worth 26s. 8d.; one fulling-mill, worth 6s. 8d.; 3 carucates of land, containing 300 acres, 150 acres of which can be sown every year, and are worth 3d. an acre when sown, and 150 lie fallow, their pasture being worth nothing, because they lie in common. There are 17 acres of meadow, worth 18d. an acre; a several pasture, containing 3 acres, worth 3s.; 12 acres of several wood, in which there is no underwood at present, and the pasture of which is worth 8s. by the year; a several pasture for 300 sheep, worth 25s. a year, or 1d. per head; 6os. rents of assize, payable at the Feast of the Annunciation. The pleas and perquisites of the courts in the said manors are worth 20s. a year.

Richard Daneseye died on Thursday next before the Feast of the Epiphany last. John Danseye, son of Richard Daneseye the younger, late deceased, is kinsman [the Hereford inquisition says grandson] and next heir of the said Richard, and is aged 22 and more.

John, son of Ralph Berd of Sheperugge. Inquisition taken upon the King's commission, issued in consequence of the petition of the said John, directed to William de Shareshull, Thomas de Aspale, Henry Sturmy, John Wace, and Peter de Sutton, on Monday next after the Feast of the Ascension, 22 Edward III [1348], by the oath of Nicholas atte Wyfold, John atte Barre, Nicholas le Blount, Thomas Ode, John atte Hacche, John atte Felde, John de Assherigge, Nicholas de Stoke, John le Neet, Nicholas de Staneford, Robert Artour, and William Cheke, who say that

Ralph de Sheperugge formerly held 3 acres of pasture in Sheperugge called Forlese, in his demesne as of fee, and in 8 Edward II [1314-15] demised them to Hugh le Despenser le Piere for a term of 7 years. The said Ralph was also seised of 10 acres of meadow in the same vill called Westmede, together with a fishery adjacent in the water of Lodene, which meadow and fishery in 6 Edward II [1312-13] he demised to John de Thedrich of Herteleye Pilitot and Edmund Martyn for a term of 10 years, and the said John and Edmund afterwards conveyed their estate to the said Hugh, who thus occupied all the premises until the time of his forfeiture to the King, without having any other title thereto than as above.

They were taken into the King's hands at the time of the said forfeiture, and afterwards granted to Nicholas de la Beche and Margery his wife; afterwards by reason of the rape of the said Margery by John de Dalton, and for certain other felonies then committed, they were again taken into the King's hands, and still remain there.

John, son of Ralph Berd, is next heir of the said Ralph Berd of Sheperugge, and is aged 30 years. The premises are held of Joan, Countess of Surrey, by the service of 3s. 4d., and are worth 13s. 4d.

Roger Babent.

Inquisition taken before Robert Russel, the King's escheator in co. Wilts, at New Sarum, 5th February, 22 Edward III [1348], by the oath of Nicholas Lamberd, John Everard, Nicholas de Roluestone, Thomas Beauuer, Robert de Remmesbury, Thomas de Langeford, John Waspayl, John de Harnham, William de Whyteclyue, John son of Richard de Langeford, William Bartelot, and Robert de Echelhampton, who say that Roger Bavent enfeoffed Roger his son and Hawis his wife with the manors of Fyfhyde and Trouwe, and with all his tenements in Wilton, to hold, with all the services, rents of free and villein tenants, and of other customary tenants in the manors and tenements aforesaid, with woods, meadows, pastures, homages, wards and reliefs, etc., to the premises belonging, together with the advowson of the church of Fyfhyde, belonging to the said manor of Fyfhyde, to the said Roger the son and Hawis his wife, in tail.

The said Roger, son of Roger de Bavent, formerly held the manor of Norton Skydamour, with the advowsons of the church and chantry of that vill, to him and his heirs for ever; and he granted the same to Simon de Mountagne, late Bishop of Ely, and William de Langele, parson of the church of Ryngwode, who re-granted the same to the said Roger and Hawis in tail.

Margaret, who was wile of George de Percy.

nquisition taken before the said escheator at Bradeford, 23rd June, 22 Edward III [1348], by the oath of John Basset, John Gibbes, Thomas de Ateworthe, Robert de Mortelegh, William le Botiller, John de Moxham, William Lovel, John le Dore, Robert le Couk, Richard Gay, William de Fershawe, and Walter de Gore, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow the said Margaret to assign one messuage, 331 acres of land, 2 acres of meadow, and 5s. rents in Little Chaldefelde to a chaplain to celebrate every day for the souls of the said George and Margaret, their ancestors and their heirs, at the altar of St. Mary in the chapel of St. John the Baptist, of Little Chaldefeld. The messuage, 22 acres of the land, the meadow, and 2s. rents are held of the Prior of Worspryng by knight service, and the Prior holds of the King in frankalmoin; they are worth 6s. 8d. a year. Nine acres of land and 2s. rents are held of Henry de Percy by knight service, and are worth 2s. 6d. a year. The said Henry holds of the lord of Troubrygge by the service of keeping a certain tower there for 40 days in time of war, and he holds of the King in chief by knight service. Two and a half acres are held of William Brydesyerd by knight service, and are worth 5d. a year; he holds of the Abbess of Shaston, who holds of the King in frankalmoin.

There would still remain to the said Margaret one messuage and z carucates of land in Little Chaldefelde, held of the Prior of Worspryng by knight service, and worth 100s. a year. Total value, 9s. 7d.

Maud, who was wife of Robert de Boland.

Inquisition taken before the abovesaid escheator at Marleberwe on Thursday after the Feast of St. James, 23 Edward III [1349], by the oath of John Langeford, John Fitz William. John Toky, Thomas Hornput, Samson Hornput, Ralph Clohtmange, William de Stokke, John Flori, William de Wyke, William Chaumberlein, Nucholas Yuedene, and John Farman, who say that

The said Maud held the manor of Wamberwe, to her and the heirs of the bodies of herself and her said husband, of the gift of Hugh de Deneford, from the Prince of Wales, as of his manor at Aldebourne, which is parcel of the Earldom of Salisbury, which is in the Prince's hands, by the service of mowing the meadows of Stoniham and Dokham in the manor of Aldebourne, and in return for this service the lord of Wamberwe for the time being has 'husbote' and 'heybote' in the lord of Aldebourne's wood of Bradene.

In the said manor of Wamberwe there is a messuage worth nothing a year beyond the reprise; one garden worth 3s. in fruit and herbage; 240 acres of demesne land, half of which can be sown every year, and then worth 6d. an acre; the other half lies fallow, and the pasture is worth nothing, because the land lies in common. There are 240 acres of land formerly in the hands of bond tenants, with 12 messuages thereto belonging, now in the lord's hands by reason of the death of the said tenants; the messuages are worth nothing beyond the reprise, and the land [as above]. There are 52 acres of meadow, 12 of which were formerly in the hands of bond tenants, worth 12d. an acre; 40 acres of several pasture, worth 10s. a year. There are 45s. of rents of assize of free and bond tenants, payable in equal portions at the four terms of the year. The perquisites of the courts are worth 40d.

The said Maud died at Whitsuntide last past. Robert de Holand, her son and heir, is aged 25 and more.

Henry Husee, chivaler.

Inquisition taken at Marlebergh before the abovesaid escheator, 26th September, 23 Edward III [1349], by the oath of William Wyk', Robert Horch, John Clerk, Elias Haynes, John Farman, William Scob, Jacob de Standene, Thomas Chanyn, William le Tayler, John Berle, John atte Brigge, and John Rasel, who say that

The said Henry Husee held on the day he died, for term of his life, by grant of Joan, who was wife of Walter de Hunting feld, a moiety of the manor of Standen, from the Earl of Lancaster by the service of half a knight's fee, and the manor of Todeworth and the advowson of the chapel of that manor from the Earl of Suffolk, by like service, with remainder to Richard, son of the said Henry, in tail, under a fine levied in the King's court.

In the said moiety of the manor of Standen there is a messuage worth zs. a year beyond the reprise; one carucate of land containing 100 acres, two-thirds of which can be sown every year, and then worth 4d. an acre; the rest lies fallow and are worth nothing because the pasture is common. There are 4 acres of meadow, worth 4s.; 12 acres of wood, in which the underwood is worth 3s. a year, and the pasture nothing, because it is in common. There are 100 acres of heath, worth nothing for the same reason; one ruinous dovecot, worth 12d. yearly. There are no rents of free or villein tenants, because all the tenants of the manor are in Berkshire. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 2s.

In the manor of Todeworth there is a messuage with a curtilage, worth 12d. a year; one carucate of land containing 120 acres, two-thirds of which can be sown every year, and then worth 4d. an acre; the rest [as above]. There are 3 acres of pasture, worth 3s., and pasture for 300 sheep, worth 8s. 4d There are no rents of assize, because all the tenants of the manor are dead, and their tenements in the lord's hands, to wit, 40 acres worth 2d. an acre. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 2s.

The said Henry Husee died 21st July last past. Henry, son of [his son] Mark Husee, is his next heir, and aged 6 and more.

Roger Normaund held a messuage and 3 carucates of land, in his demesne as of fee, in Remele and Morleigh from the Abbot of Malmesbury by the service of 5s. 1d. of St. Peter's pence. The messuage with the garden is worth 35. 4d. a year; there is a dovecot, worth 2s. The 3 carucates of land contain 200 acres, 132 acres whereof can be sown at all sowings, and are then worth 3d. an acre; the rest lies fallow [etc., as above]. There are 10 acres of meadow, worth 8s. 4d. a year; 10 acres of several pasture, worth 3s. 4d.; 5 acres of underwood, worth 10s. when cut, but nothing this year for want of purchasers by reason of the plague. There are 5s. 9d. rents of assize, payable in equal portions at the Feasts of the Annunciation and St. Michael. There are 4 bond tenants, of whom 3 ought to work [? (quorum tres operarii debent with no verb following)] 2 days every week, except the weeks of Christmas, Easter, and Whitsuntide, and a day's work is worth $\frac{1}{2}d$. And there is Churshut there at Martinmas, to wit. 2 cocks and 8 hens, worth 2d.

The said Roger likewise held 100s. rents in Hynesete from John de Cremaylles of Southampton, by the service of one pair of spurs yearly. He held also a croft containing six acres of several land and 12 acres of land in the common field, in his demesne as of fee, in Southlydyerd, from Roger Beauchamp by knight service, worth 10s. [?]. Also a messuage and 2 carucates of land in Couelesfeldloueras [from] Thomas Kerdyff and Ralph, his brother, for the term of 20 years from Michaelmas, 18 Edward III [1345], by the service of one rose yearly, with remainder, in the event of the death of the said Thomas and Ralph within the said term, to the said Roger and his heirs. These premises are held of the King in chief by knight service. The messuage is worth nothing beyond the reprise of the houses; the 2 carucates contain 120 acres, two-thirds of which can be sown every year, and are then worth 3d. an acre; the remainder [as above]. There are 20 acres of several pasture, worth 12d. a year. There are 60 acres of wood, 20 acres of which in time past were worth 40s. a year, but now nothing, for want of buyers on account of the plague. There are \pounds_4 rents of assize, but all the tenants are dead except 3 freeholders, who pay 6s. a year at the Feasts of the Annunciation and St. Michael in equal portions.

Long before his death the said Roger demised to Walter Wormbrigge, for term of the life of the said Walter one messuage and 60 acres of land in Northlydyerd, to hold by the service of one rose yearly; Roger held from John de Clynton of Makestoke, by knight service. The messuage is worth nothing beyond the reprise; 40 acres of the said land can be sown every year, when it is worth 3d. an acre, the rest [as above]; there is one acre of meadow, worth 18d.; 10 [?] acres of underwood, worth 20s. hitherto, but now nothing [as above].

The said Roger died 1st April last. Giles, son of his son Roger, his next heir, is aged 5 and more.

Margery, who was wife of Nicholas de la Beche.

nquisition taken before the abovesaid escheator at Sheperigge, 14th October, 23 Edward III [1349], by the oath of John Everard, Walter de Combe, Robert de Walecote, Henry de Tudeworthe, John le Frye of Bolteford, Adam le Sauser, John le Noble, John de Thatcham, Roger Fachel, Richard de Bockhurste, John de Ekton, and John Aucher, who say that

The said Margery held one messuage, 200 acres of land, and 60 acres of wood in Sheperigge. Farleigh, and Dydenham from the Earl of Salisbury by knight service, being jointly feoffed thereof with her said late husband in tail male, with contingent remainder, in default, to Edmund de la Beche for life, and Robert de la Beche in tail male.

The messuage is worth nothing a year beyond the reprise of the houses; one-half the land can be sown every year, and is then worth 3d. an acre, the remainder [etc., as above]. There is at present no underwood or pasture in the wood, because it is in common. There are 106s. rents of assize, payable equally at the four chief terms of the year.

The said Marge / died 3rd October, 23 Edward III [1349].

Margery, her daughter by her former husband, Edmund Bacon, is her next of kin; they do not know her age.

nquisition taken at Marlebergh before the abovesaid escheator, 5th June, 23 Edward III [1349], by the oath of the eleven jurors on the inquisition last above, with the addition of Simon Noreys, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow Henry Sturmy, Robert de Burbach, parson of the church of Compton Chaumberleyn, and Adam and John, brothers of the said Robert, to grant one messuage and one carucate of land in Middelton and Eston next Burbach, and William de Erchesfounte, Henry Haigarston, clerks, John de Cherlton, and Robert de Inkpenne, to grant 13 acres of land in Estgrafton, to the Priory of Holy Trinity in Eston next Burbach, in part satisfaction of \pounds 10 worth of lands and rents, which they had licence to acquire under letters patent of Edward II. The first-named premises (except two half-virgates of land) are held of the Bishop of Hereford by the service of 1005. yearly, and the Bishop holds of the King, as of [the manor of Hampstede] Marshal in frankalmoin; one of the said half-virgates is held of the Priory of Bradyngstoke in Eston, by the service of 40d., and the Prior holds of the King; the other is held of Walter de Hongerford in Middelton, by the service of 25. 6d., and he holds of the Baron of Stafford as of his manor of Wexcombe, which is held of the King in chief by knight service. The land in Estgrafton is held of Sir Richard de Haveringges, knight, as of his manor of Estgrafton, by the service of a rose yearly, which manor is held of the King in chief by knight service.

The premises in Middelton and Eston are worth 33s. 4d., the land in Estgrafton 2s. 2d. a year. There will remain to the grantors the manors of Burbach, Fygheldene, Stapelforde, and Couelesfeld Sturmy, all held of the King in chief by knight service, and worth 40 marks a year.

Alice, who was wife of Milliam de Melles.

Inquisition taken at New Sarum before the abovesaid escheator, 29th July, 24 Edward III [1350], by the oath of John de Thacham, William de Caneford, Nicholas Rolveston, William de Harnham, Robert Cole of Bereford, Thomas Silvestre, Thomas Picot of Brudecombe, John Gregory, John de Testwode, Thomas Turpyn, John Chamberleyn, and Adam le Hordere, who say that

The said Alice held, on the day she died, a messuage, 30 acres of land, 9 acres of meadow, and 2 water-mills at Tottesmulle in Westdeone, jointly with her late husband, by feoffment to them and the heirs of the said William. The premises are held of Joan, who was wife of Robert Lestraunge, and Laurence de St. Martin, lords of Westdeone, by the service of one-fifteenth of a knight's fee. The messuage is worth nothing beyond the reprise of the houses; the land 3d. an acre; the meadow 12d. an acre; and the two mills 13s. 4d.

The said Alice died 12th June last. Henry de Welles, son and heir of the said William and Alice, is aged 18.

Philip de Meleslegh.

nquisition taken before Thomas de la Rivere, the King's escheator in co. Wilts, at Westbury, 5th June, 24 Edward III [1350], by the oath of William Pavely, John Cros, John Bythewode, John Durewyne, Roger Hyndyman, John Jemes, Thomas Coterych, John Honybrich, Robert Iuet, John Daubeneye, John Nyweman, and John Rose, who say that

The said Philip held on the day he died one toft, 30 acres of cultivated land, and 6 acres of wood at la Frithe, from the Abbey of Romeseye, in his demesne as of fee, by the service of 5s. The toft is worth 6d. a year; the land 3d. an acre; the wood nothing, because there is no underwood at present. He held also one water-mill in a ruinous state, which does not now grind, 3 acres of land and 3 acres of meadow at Langthiam from the Earl of Hereford, as parcel of the manor of Southwyke, by the service of 15s. The premises are worth nothing beyond the said rent.

The said Philip died 4th October, 22 Edward III [1348]. His heirs are his daughter Joan, wife of Ralph de Endyrleye, of full age, and William, son of William Banastre and Elizabeth, his wife, the other daughter of the said Philip, aged 3 years.

John Roberd.

nquisition taken before Rohert Russel, the King's escheator in Wilts, at Estcodeford, 10th December, 23 Edward III [1349], by the oath of Nicholas Lamberd, Thomas de Langeford, Nicholas de Rolveston, Roger Godefray, Robert Balle, Henry Coke, William le Parker, Thomas Picot, Adam le Hordere, Thomas Shadewell, Thomas Silvestre, and Robert Coke, who say that

The said John held two parts of the manor of Estcodeford, together with the advowson of the church of that vill, for term of the life of Katherine, who was wife of John, son of Oliver de Ingham, now a Minoress of the order of the Abbey of Minoresses outside Algate, London, in which she is professed, which manor and advowson the said Oliver de Ingham gave to the said John and Katherine in tail, with the King's licence. John died without issue by the said Katherine, and immediately after his death, before she entered the said order, Katherine gave the manor to Sir John, son of Robert de Thorpe, Robert de Martham, and John Roberd, who are now all dead, without the King's licence, to hold for her life. Afterwards, by his charter, the King pardoned this trespass. Elizabeth, who was wife of Oliver de Ingham, holds one-third in dower, which she recovered by the King's writ against Katherine's said feoffees. The reversion of the whole is to Joan, who was wife of Roger le Estrange, daughter and heir of the said Oliver, who is of full age. The manor is held of the King in chief by knight service.

There is in the said manor one messuage, worth nothing a year beyond the reprise of the houses. The said two parts contain 120 acres of arable land, 80 acres of which can be sown every year at all the sowings, then worth 3d. an acre; 40 acres lies fallow [etc., as above]. There are 12 acres of meadow worth 12d. an acre; a several pasture for 134 lambs between the Nativity of St. John the Baptist and Michaelmas, worth 5s. 7d.; a water-mill, worth 20s.; rents of assize with works rented out, 60s. 2d., payable at Michaelmas and the Feast of the Annunciation. There is Churschut there at Martinmas, one cock and 3 hens.

The said John survived the other trustees, and died 2nd August, 23 Edward III [1349]. Oliver, his son and heir, is aged 22.

Elizabeth, who was wife of Oliver de Ingham.

Inquisition taken before Thomas de la Ryvere, the King's escheator in co. Wilts, at Stupellangeford, 18th November, 24 Edward III [1350], by the oath of Nicholas Lambard, Thomas de Langeford. Nicholas de Rolveston, Roger Godefray, Henry Cok, Adam le Herdere, William Lytlecole, Thomas Pycot, Walter Wodeford, John Daungyens, John Pachet, and Robert Bertelol, who say that

The said Elizabeth held a moiety of the manor of Stupellangeford and the manor of Hampteworth, in name of dower, by assignment of the King in his Chancery after the death of the said Oliver. Also one-third of the manor of Estcodeford, which she recovered [etc., as in last inquisition]. The moiety of Stupellangeford is held of the King in chief by the service of one-eighth of a knight's fee, and is worth 66s. 8d. a year. The manor of Hampteworth is held of the Bishop of Winchester, by the service of half a knight's fee, and is worth 40s. yearly. The one-third of Estcodeford is held of the King as one-sixth of a fee, and is worth 40s.

Elizabeth died 11th October last. The premises revert to Joan [as in last inquisition].

Sir Milliam de Chorpe, late Chief Justice.

I NQUISITION (taken upon a writ setting forth that his possessions have become forfeit to the King for divers ill deeds) at Fiffide Bavent, before the abovesaid escheator, 10th December, 24 Edward III [1350], by the oath of John le Nywe, Walter atte Mulle, John Durneford, Peter de Upton, John Trowe, William Danyel, Stephen Davy, Robert Walebrome [?], James Chaloner, John le Hayter, John le Frye, and John Geraunt, who say that

The said Sir William held the manor of Fiffide Bavent at farm from Roger Bavent, but they do not know for how long nor on what conditions. There are in the said manor one hall, chamber, and chapel, roofed with stone, a kitchen, bakehouse, and brewhouse in ruinous state, oxhouse, stable, and all other houses. except the grange, ruinous; the grange is in fair condition. These houses are worth nothing a year beyond the reprise for their upkeep. There is a ruinous dovecot, worth 2s. : 160 acres of arable land, half of which can be sown with different kinds of grain, and are then worth 4d. an acre; the other half then ought to lie fallow [etc., as above]. There are 3 acres of meadow. worth 6s.; 12 acres of oak wood, the underwood of which can be sold every year for 3s. 4d. There are £6 19s. [sic] rents of free and bond tenants, at Christmas and the Nativity of St. John 345., at Easter and Michaelmas 36s. 6d. There is a rent of Churshett at Martinmas, 13 cocks and 50 hens, the cocks worth 1d., the hens $1\frac{1}{2}d$. Also a rent of 9 quarters of salt out of the lands and tenements at la Nywemulle at Purbyke, belonging to the said manor of Fiffide, worth 40d. a quarter, payable on Friday after Whitsuntide 2 quarters 2 bushels, three weeks after the same quantity, and so every three weeks until the said rent is fully paid. There are also in Purbyk 3s. rents out of certain tenements there.

payable at the Feast of St. Thomas the Apostle on the demand of the reeve of the manor. Also a rent of 8s. 2d. called Ward Ewyas, payable by the tenants of the manor at the Feast of the Purification. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 2s.a year. The pasture is worth nothing beyond the support of the cattle.

As regards the goods of the said Sir William, there are none in the said manor, nor anywhere else in the county that they know of, except 21 acres of land sown with wheat, worth 2s. 4d. an acre; all his other goods were removed long since and sold to divers buyers by Thomas de Thorpe, then his steward, specially deputed for this purpose by letters patent of the said Sir William.

John Mautrabers.

nquisition taken before the abovesaid escheator at Wilton, 12th January, 27 Edward III [1354], by the oath of Thomas de Langeforde, Thomas Picot, of Brudecombe, Robert Tidelsyde, Hugh Stoke, John de Harnham, Robert Cole of Bereford, Walter Calne, Adam de Kyngesmulle, John atte Brugge, John Cancepe, John Nywe, Richard Lambard, and Roger Stubard, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow John Mautravers to enfeoff Edmund de Bereford, Nicholas Pynnok, and Henry de Tyngewyk with his manor of Sharenton, in order to a settlement on himself and his wife Agnes in tail male, with contingent remainders in tail male successively to Baldwin, son of Edmund de Bereford, and Joan, daughter of John, son of the said John Mautravers; John, son of John, son of Robert Mautravers; and Roger, son of Edward Mautravers. The manor is held of the King by knight service, and is worth £10 yearly.

Robert de Hungersord.

nquisition taken before the abovesaid escheator at Crofton, 12th May, 28 Edward III [1354], by the oath of Alan de Walton, Peter Oliver, John Hommedieu, Robert Holhurst, John Frankeleyn, Adam Borgulon, William le Taillor, Thomas Berlegh. Robert Basynges, Stephen Stacey, John atte Brugge, and Thomas Waryn, who say that Robert de Hungerford held the manor of Crofton from the King in chief, for term of his life, by demise of Fulk Filzwaryn, as onequarter of a knight's fee. Fulk, son of the aforesaid Fulk, is next heir of the said Fulk, and aged 12. There is in the said manor a messuage, with courtyard and garden adjacent, worth nothing beyond the reprise; 102 acres of arable land, 50 acres of which can be sown every year, and are then worth 4d. an acre, the other 52 then lie in common and are worth nothing. There are 46s. rents of assize; $3\frac{1}{2}$ acres of meadow, worth 2s. an acre; 24 acres of wood, which have been wasted, and lie in common, worth nothing; and 24 acres of pasture, worth 2d. an acre. Thus the whole manor is worth 73s. 8d.

Robert de Hungerford died 20th June, 26 Edward III [1352].

Anastasia, daughter of William de Hardene.

Inquisition taken before the abovesaid escheator on Saturday next after the Feast of St. Dennis, 28 Edward III [1354], at Erchesfonte, by the oath of John Davids, Edward Steke. Robert Horcher, Walter fitz Willam, Thomas Forstebury, Walter Somersete, Simon Palesholte, John Fayrforde, John Malewayn of Echelhampton, John Malewayn of Allecanyngg, William Byde, and John Ancel, who say that

The said Anastasia died 4th May, 27 Edward III [1353], holding of the King in chief the manor of Wyke, to wit, one messuage and 3 carucates of land, worth 100s. a year clear; also one messuage and a carucate of land in Schaldeborne, worth 66s. 8d. clear. The premises are in the hand of John Malewayn, by reason of a statute of \pounds 100 entered into by the said Anastasia to him. She held also one messuage and 3 carucates of land from Ralph, Earl of Stafford, of the inheritance of Margaret, his late wife, one of the heirs of Gilbert de Clare, Earl of Gloucester [where is not stated], and one of these carucates is in the hand of Sybil, who was wife of John Lilebon, in the name of dower, and the messuage and 2 carucates of land are worth 10 marks. She held also in Covenholte from the Abbot of Hyde 40s. rent, for which she paid the Abbot 20s.

John, son of John Lilebon, is her next heir, and aged 12.

Another inquisition taken (upon a writ for further information) before John Everard, the King's escheator in Wilts, at Marlebergh, on Friday next after the Feast of the Annunciation, 29 Edward III [1355], by the oath of Thomas de Stokke, John Flory, John Waryn, John de Rusteshale, Peter de Cherlton, John Kepenhulle, William de Chysylden, John de Polton, Thomas Slak, Robert Lef, William Wolwy, and George de Weston, who say that

The said Anastasia did not hold at her death the forestry of the West Bailiwick of Savernake, because long before her death, to wit, on Monday before the Feast of the Nativity of the B.V.M., 16 Edward III [1342], that bailiwick was taken into the King's hand, for reason not now known to the jurors, by Thomas de Borne, lieutenant of Bartholomew de Burghersh, then keeper of the King's Forest this side of Trent, and it still remains in the King's hand. The said Anastasia held by inheritance, on the day she died, from Queen Philippa one virgate of land under the covert of Iwode, by grand sergeanty, to wit, by keeping the forestry of the West Bailiwick aforesaid, and paying 26s. yearly at Michaelmas, by the hands of the keeper of the castle and barton of Marlebergh; the said land is worth 40d. a year. She also held, jointly with Robert Bilkemor, her husband, under a fine levied in the King's court, the manor of Westcourt in Shaldeborne, with the advowson of the chapel of the manor, from the King in chief by knight service; it is worth fio a year; and, in like manner, the manor of Estwyke, with its appurtenances in Wotton, Mydelton, Mulcote, Peuesy, and Clench, from the lord of Wotton Ryvers and divers other lords, by what services the jurors do not know; and the said manor and tenements are worth 40s. Robert de Bylkemor had nothing in the abovesaid virgate under Iwode covert, except as husband of the said Anastasia. Simon Symeon, keeper of Savernake Forest, has occupied the West Bailiwick aforesaid since it was taken into the King's hand. The said Robert occupied all the said premises till they were taken into the King's hand by Thomas de la Ryvere, late escheator, by virtue of an inquisition taken by him; before the said bailiwick was taken into the King's hand, it was held of Queen Philippa, as of the castle of Marlebergh and forest aforesaid.

Attached to these inquisitions is a copy of the record of pleadings in the King's Chancery at Westminster in the Quinzaine of St. Martin, 28 Edward III [1354].

Robert de Bilkemore, who married the said deceased Anastasia, comes and says that a fine was levied between John de Ellerker, parson of the church of Tyd', and Alan de Somersham, and the aforesaid Robert and Anastasia, of the manor of Wyke and tenements in Shaldeborne, settling them on the said Robert and Anastasia for life.

William de Skipwyth, who sues for the King, puts in a fine levied in Michaelmas term, 10 Edward II [1316], between William de Harden and Maud, his wife, plaintiffs, and Margarel, late Queen of England, deforciant, whereby one messuage, one mill, 3 carucates and one virgate of land, and 100s. rents in Estwyk and Wotton, and the bailiwick of the forestry of the King's forest of Savernake, were settled upon the said William and Maud in tail, with contingent remainder to the right heirs of the said Maud. He says further that the said Anastasia was their daughter and heir, and she married William Lillebon, by whom she had a son John, whose son and heir John is now a ward to the King. After her first husband's death, but while her father and mother were still alive, she married the said Robert de Bilkemore, and they entered into the premises on her parents' death; John de Ellerker and the said Alan never had any status in the premises.

Robert says that only one messuage and one virgate of land in the manor of Wyke, with the said bailiwick, and the messuage and carucate of land in Shaldebourne, are held of the King in chief, and John de Ellerker and Alan de Somersham were seised as stated above at the time of the levying of the fine. They join issue, and a day is given to the said Robert to hear judgment.

. Another inquisition was taken at Marlebergh before the abovesaid escheator, on Saturday next after the Feast of St. Scolastica the Virgin, 29 Edward III [1355]. by the oath of John de Flory, Walter Lytelcote, William Chaumberleyn, James Staundene, John Waryn, Robert Horcher, Hubert Cordray, William Scot, Robert Holhurste, John Attebarre, John Chanyn, and William Taillor.

They find as above with regard to the said bailiwick, and say that the said Anastasia and her ancestors, who held it, were accustomed to pay 52s. yearly to the King for the same by the hands of the constable of Marlebergh Castle, and it is worth nothing beyond the said rent.

John Giffard.

nquisition taken at Wermenistre on Thursday next after the Feast of the Epiphany, 28 Edward III [1355], before the escheator abovesaid, by the oath of Nicholas Lambert, Thomas de Langeforde, John Danvers, Robert de Bourton, Robert le Blake, John Bacon, John de Canynges, Nicholas de Bonham, Stephen le Criour, Thomas Shadewelle, Walter de Combe, and Geoffrey le Blount, who say that John Giffard held on the day he died the manor of Sherntone from the King in chief, as parcel of his barony, worth $\pounds zo$ a year. In like manner, the manor of Ashton Giffard, worth $\pounds zo$. He held also of the King by knight service a moiety of the manor of Stapelforde, with a moiety of the advowson of the church of that vill, worth zo marks. Margaret Giffard, his mother, held of the inheritance of the said John, for her life, the manor of Eliston, and 5 virgates of land and zos. rents in Orcheston St. George, with the advowson of the church of that vill; the manor is worth $\pounds zo$, the tenements in Orcheston 6os.

John Giffard died in March, 15 Edward II [1322]. His next heirs are Joan, daughter of Alexander Giffard, son of Gilbert, son of Gilbert, brother of Elias Giffard, grandfather of the said John, aged 30 and more, and John, son of Edith, sister of the said Joan, aged 23 and more.

Milliam de Clynton, Earl of Huntingdon.

Inquisition taken at Merlebergh before Thomas de la Ryzere, the King's escheator in Wilts, on Monday next after the Feast of St. Matthew, 28 Edward III [1355], by the oath of Simon de Paulesholte, John le Warner, John Perham, Nicholas Flour, Roger de Upton, John Berner, Robert Ryngesburne, John Parfet, Geoffrey le Frye, John Andrew, Robert Godeboy, and Thomas Swayn, who say that

The said late Earl held from the King, for term of his life, the manor of Somerford Kaynes, by the King's grant. It is worth \pounds zo a year. He also held the manor of Littelton in right of his wife Julian, who survives, as her dower of the inheritance of Laurence de Hastingges, late Earl of Pembroke, whose heir is a minor, ward to the King. It is worth £10.

The Earl died 25th August last past. The jurors do not know who is his heir.

The inquisition taken for co. Gloucester states that the Earl was seised, jointly with his said wife, of the manor of Guyting with its hamlets, which are all held, together with services in the vills of Pulton and Sevenhampton, co. Wilts, and other places, from the King in chief by knight service.

John de Clynton is the Earl's next heir, and aged 30 years.

Edward, son and heir of Roger de Stoke.

Proof of age taken at Rusteshale before the abovesaid escheator on Monday before the Feast of St. Luke, 28 Edward III [1355].

The jurors say that the said Edward was born at Rusteshale. and baptized in the church of that vill on the Feast of the Passion of St. Thomas the Martyr, 5 Edward III [1331]. John de Rusteshale recollects the date, because he was the boy's godfather. Nicholas Usher [Hostiarius], because the week following he married his wife Margery, relict of John le Eyre of Rusteshale. John atte Mershemulle says he was in the church at the baptism, his wife Joan being godmother. Peter atte Berne remembers, because about the same time, he married his wife Maud. Michael Skillyng says that his own brother John was born the same year, and died directly afterwards. John and Peter de Cherlton remember, because their father Simon died in the same vill that same year. Geoffrey le Blount had a son born that year, named Richard, by his wife Margaret. Thomas le Blount is certain of the time because his father Richard took knightly order that same year; and Richard le Clerk, because he was serving the priest in the church when the said Edward was baptized. Ralph le Marchal had a son named William born that year, and baptized in the said church about the same time. John Cok recollects, because his father John Cok died the same year.

benry, Duke of Lancaster.

Inquisition taken before the abovesaid escheator on Saturday next after Martinmas, 28 Edward III [1355], at Heghworth, by the oath of Robert Chaumberlayn, Thomas Crook, Walter Gerton, Robert atte Penne, John Heose, Nicholas . . . espe, John Chunt, Richard Gervays, John Couel, Henry le Walisch, Walter Morcok, and Walter Leente, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any others to allow the said Duke to grant to the Dean and Chapter of the collegiate church of Leicester the manors of Inglesham and Hanyndon, with the advowson of the church of the latter manor, to hold in frankalmoin for ever. The last said manor is held of the King in chief, as parcel of the barony of Claworth; it is worth \pounds zo; and the manor of Inglesham, of the King by the service of keeping one sparrow-hawk of the King's for the season, when sent him by the King; worth 100s.

Note.—The writ directs findings also as to the manors of Kynemersford and Chedworth [co. Gloucester], of which the inquisition makes no mention.

Sir Roger Babent, knight.

Inquisition taken before Thomas de la Ryvere and Robert de Remmesby, appointed to inquire whether Sir Roger Bavent, late lord of the vill of Fifhyde in the Hundred of Chalk, was accustomed to do suit at that Hundred every three weeks for that vill, before the grant thereof made by him to the King, and whether the men of the said vill used to come to the said Hundred to present by tithing breaches of the assize of bread and ale, shedding of blood, hues, strays, and other things usually presented at the said Hundred, at Chalk, on Saturday before the Feast of St. Catherine, 26 Edward III [1352], by the oath of John Harnham, Thomas Ryde, Roger Stonbard, John Calcwe, Peter de Upton, John Whitemersche, Walter atte Mulle, John Durneford, William Danyel, Robert Walebroun, John de Trowe, and John Alewyne, who say that

The said Sir Roger and his ancestors have been accustomed to do suit at the Hundred of the Abbess and Convent of Willon at Chalk, who hold that Hundred of the King at fee farm; and the men of that vill to present, etc., as is abovesaid, from time immemorial. The amercements and other profits of the tithing of the said vill in the said Hundred used to be 31s. 6d. a year, besides a certain rent of 4s. 2d., called Hundredselver, which was paid yearly at Martinmas and Hockday, of which 4s. 2d. the Abbess and Convent are still seised in right of their church. The amercements and all the profits excepting the said 4s. 2d. have been withdrawn by Sir Roger Bavent and Sir William de Thorpe, knights, and William de Carleton and William de Kaynes, keepers of the same vill, from the Feast of the Decollation of St. John the Baptist, 18 Edward III [1344], by reason of the grant abovesaid.

Elizabeth and Alice de St. Omer.

Proof of age of Elizabeth and Alice, daughters of Thomas de St. Omer, kinswomen and two of the heirs of Nicholas de Malemaynes, taken before the abovesaid escheator at Brutford on Wednesday next after the Feast of St. Barnabas, 30 Edward III [r356].

The jury say that the said Elizabeth, the eldest daughter of the said Thomas, is dead, and died eight years since, and at the time of her death she was aged 10. Alice, her sister and heir, was 16 at the Feast of the Annunciation last past, and was born at Brutford and baptized in the church of that vill. John de Harnham, aged 50, remembers this, because he was at Brutford on the said Feast in 14 Edward III [1340], and was present in the church when the said Alice was baptized, and saw her god-parents, to wit, Agnes," then wife of Henry Burry, citizen of New Sarum, Joan, wife of Robert Alwyne, and Richard de Todeworth. John le Duyn, aged 48, a parishioner of Brutford, was also present at the baptism. Simon de Luscole, aged 40, was likewise at the baptism and at the purification and communion of purification of Parnell, wife of the said Thomas, five weeks afterwards in the manor of William de St. Omer, father of the said Thomas, at Brutford. Adam de Kyngesmulle, aged 50, recollects, because he had a daughter Alice by his wife Elizabeth, baptized on the ninth day afterwards. John Play and John Causepe, both aged 50, are near neighbours of the vill of Brutford and parishioners thereof, and were present at the baptism. Thomas le Spenser, aged 60, was a servant with the said

William de St. Omer in his inn at Brutford when the said Alice was born, and he remembers because at the feast of Holy Trinity then next following the deponent married Isabel, his now wife. Nicholas de Kyngesmulle, aged 50, is a parishioner of Brutford; his wife Alice was for eight days in attendance on the said Parnell at the birth of the said Alice. John atte Penne, aged 54, is a parishioner of Brutford, and was present at the baptism. Thomas de Sottewelle, aged 40, served as clerk to Stephen atte More, then parish chaplain of Brutford, at the said baptism. William de Mertôke, aged 60, was a member of the household of the said William de St. Omer at the time, and his wife Joan attended upon Parnell. George atte Chambre, aged 60, a parishioner of Brutford, had a daughter Christian by his wife Alice, baptized in the church of Brutford on the Sunday before Alice de St. Omer was born.

Elizabeth de la Pole.

Proof of age of Elizabeth, wife of Edmund de la Pole, chivaler, one of the sisters and heirs of Edmund de Handlo, made at Colingburne, 13th [?] April, 32 Edward III [1358], under a writ to the abovesaid escheator.

William de Wyke, aged 44, says that the said Elizabeth was 18 on 5th June last. She was born at Wotton on the Feast of St. Boniface, 13 Edward III [1339], and baptized in the church of that vill. He was present, with William Wyke, his father, at the request of Anastasia de Bilkemoor, kinswoman of the said Elizabeth. John Flory, aged 60, remembers the day she was born, because he was at Wotton on that day with Henry Sturmy, late keeper of Savernake Forest, on account of an inquisition there to be made touching a trespass in the forest. William Chamberleyn, aged 50, says that his mother Cicely was buried at Rammesbury on the day after the said Elizabeth was born; he was at Wotton that day, but would not stay to dinner because of his mother's funeral. Walter Littelcole, aged 43, says that he married his daughter Agnes to John de Pleystowe on the day the said Elizabeth was born, and that William de Lavynton, chaplain, who baptized her, was at dinner with him that day, and told him about the baptism.

James Leir, John Hommedieu, John Farman, Ellis Heynes, William Taillor, John atte Mersshe, Ralph Mareschell, and John Malweyn all testify to her age as above.

Romeseye Abbey.

nquisition taken at Edyndon, 27th June, 32 Edward III [1358], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of Robert de Burton, George Vyncent, John Becylles, Peter Terstwode, Richard Rous, John de Holle, John Lovel, Nicholas Gibbes, Peter Frankelayn, John de Lilleshulle, William de Hamyndone, and Thomas Gore, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow the said Abbey to assign to the rector and brethren of the chantry in the prebendal church of Edyndon a certain way on their soil in Edyndon, between the church there and the site of the rectory, 42 perches in length, and 1 perch 3½ feet in breadth, and another plot of ground in the garden of Richard le Nyweman there, 4 perches in length by one in breadth, both contiguous to the manse of the said rector and brethren, to hold to them and their successors in frankalmoin, in exchange for a piece of land under the chapel of St. Ethelflæda in that vill, 30 perches long by 20 feet wide, and an acre of land in the same vill, to be given to the Abbey by John de Edyndon, the elder.

The abovesaid way is held of the King as parcel of the temporalities of the said Abbey, and is worth $3\frac{1}{2}d$, to wit, 12 perches for 1d. The piece of land in Nyweman's garden is held in like manner, and is worth $\frac{1}{2}d$. yearly. The land under the chapel is held of the King in frankalmoin, and is worth $2\frac{1}{2}d$, to wit, 12 perches for 1d. The acre aforesaid is held of the Abbey as of their manor of Edyndon, and is worth 12d. a year.

Bilbert de Mebille.

I nquisition taken at Malmesbury before the abovesaid escheator, 18th June, 33 Edward III [1359], by the oath of Thomas Warde, John Besshyn, Robert le Cook, John Smyth, John Hickes, Roger le Warre, Geoffrey le Freye, John Parfit, John de Bremelham, John le Stur, Robert Chyuerdene, and Walter Bilke, who say that

Gilbert de Neville held in his demesne as of fee, on the day he died, a messuage and 2 acres of land in Durynton, from the King in chief by knight service. The messuage is worth nothing a year beyond the reprise of the house; the z carucates contain zoo acres, half of which can be sown every year, and is then worth 4d. an acre, the other half is worth nothing, because it lies in common. There is a water-mill worth, with the fishery, 26s. 8d.; a small pasture for oxen, worth 2s.; pasture for 600 sheep, worth 5os.; an acre of meadow and the herbage of the garden, worth 2s.; and \not{I} to rents of free and bond tenants payable at [the four usual terms]. The pleas and perquisites of the courts are worth 6s. 8d. a year.

The said Gilbert died 27th May last. His daughter Elizabeth, wife of Simon Simeon, is his next heir, and is aged 16.

Anastasia, daughter and heir of Milliam de Harden and Maud, his wife.

nquisition taken at Marlebergh, 3rd June, 33 Edward III [1359], before Henry Sturmy and Henry de Kerseye, Justices appointed to inquire as to certain articles in the commission directed to them and the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of John Flory, Walter Litelcot, William Chaumberleyn, John Waryn, John Druis, Nicholas Ymeden, Adam Borgulon, George Weston, Peter de Forsteby, William Wehvy, Peter Stephenis, and John Kepynhulle, who say that

The said Anastasia held in demesne one virgate of land under the covert of I wode by homage and fealty, and by the serieanty of keeping the forestry of the west bailiwick in Savernake, from the King in chief, and by a rent of 26s. a year by the hands of the constable of Marlebergh Castle. It is worth nothing beyond the reprises. Also a messuage and 3 carucates of land in Estwyke, which messuage, with one carucate, is held of Thomas de Rydere by the service of 9s. a year and suit of court. The rest of the land, with a water-mill called Jonesmulle, is held of divers lords, to wit, of the Abbot of Hyde next Winchester, by the service of 11s. a year; of the heir of Richard Leyr of Clenche by the service of qs. ofd.; and of the heir of John le Vynce [?]; they do not know by what service it is held. All these tenements are worth 60s. a year. She also held in demesne in Couenholte 6 marks' vearly rents, for which she paid 20s. a year to the Abbot of Hyde. Also the manor of Middelton Lillebon, worth f.10. After the death of the said Anastasia, Ralph, Earl of Stafford, seized the said manor as chief lord, and conveyed two-thirds thereof to Thomas de la Ryvere, which the said Thomas has occupied ever since. The remaining third is occupied by Sybil, who was wife of John Lillebon, son and heir of the said Anastasia, by what title the jury do not know.

The said Anastasia died on Saturday next before the Feast of St. Mark, 27 Edward III [1353]. John, son and heir of John Lillebon, son and heir of William Lillebon and the said Anastasia, is her next heir, and aged 18.

Robert Bykemor occupied the manor of Estwyke for 3 years, and Thomas de la Ryvere and John Everard, late escheators of the King in Wilts, occupied it for 3 more years, and Robert de Bykemor has occupied the said rents of Covenholde ever since Anastasia's death.

John, son and heir of Adam de Brymstede. Proof of age taken at Mere on Thursday after the Feast of St. John before the Latin Gate, 34 Edward III [1360], before the abovesaid escheator.

John Daungeus, aged 40, says the said John, son of Adam, is aged 22 and more, being born at Mere on Ascension Day, 11 Edward III [1337], and baptized in the church there. The witness was present at the baptism with the said Adam, who gave him half a buck so that he might remember his son's age. Robert Balle, aged 38, remembers the date because he received in like manner a buckskin. John Hodel, aged 50, Robert Horsyngton, 40, Roger Legh, 38, Anselyn de Pymperleye, 40, John Lyngyure, 50, and John Deucok, 60, were all present at the baptism, and say that John de Meere, great-grandfather of the said heir, gave a great feast to the neighbours at Chadenwych, at which they were present, and each received a pair of doeskin gloves that they might remember the age of the said heir.

Robert Thurstayn, aged 51, Richard Godfray, 60, John Janekyn, 40, and James Colman, 38, were executors of Thomas Thurstayn, father of the said Robert, who died on the Feast of SS. Philip and James next before the birth of the said heir, and they remember both from the date of his testament and from being present at the baptism.

The escheator gave notice to John Turberville, who has custody of the inheritance of the said heir by grant of the King, but he did not attend.

Peter, son of Thomas le Blount, held in his demesne as of fee on the day he died the manor of Hiwyssh, with the advowson of the church, from the King in chief by grand serjeanty. There is a capital messuage there, with a garden, worth nothing a year beyond the reprises; 2 dovecots, one worth 3s. 4d., the other nothing because it is broken down; 3 carucates of land (...acres), half of which can be sown every year, and is then worth 4d. an acre, the other half lies fallow and in common; 6[?] acres of meadow, worth 12d. an acre; pasture for 6 working cattle and 18 oxen, worth ... 4d. and not more because it lies on the hill and is common from 1st August to the Feast of the Purification; common of pasture for 600 sheep; 40 acres of wood, of which the underwood is worth 3s. 4d a year, but the pasture is common. Twelve free tenants, with tenements in Ore and Shawe, which belong to the manor, pay 56s. yearly rents; there are 5 virgatars, whose works and services are worth 5s. a year each, and one cottar, who pays 3s. The pleas and perquisites of court are worth 3s. 4d.

The said Peter was likewise seised of a messuage and z carucates of land in Erdescote and Wambergh, held of the Earl of Herford by knight service. There is a messuage and garden worth nothing a year beyond the reprises; a dovecot, also worth nothing because it is broken down; z carucates of land (120 acres), half of which can be sown, and then worth 3d an acre, the other half (as above); 12 acres of meadow, worth 15d an acre; pasture for 4 working cattle and 8 oxen, worth 2s, and not more because the tenants there have common in the same; pasture for 200 sheep, worth 2s.; and 10s. rents of free tenants.

All the premises ought to remain to John de Cotteleye, son and heir of Nicholas de Cotteleye, by virtue of a grant made with the late King's licence by Peter Doignel to Patrick, parson of the church of Yatesbury, John de la Roche, and John, vicar of Yatesbury, of all the tenements which John Goudhyue held for his life by grant of the said Peter Doignel, and of another grant made by the said grantees to the said Peter and Agnes his wife, for their lives, with remainder to Thomas, son of Thomas le Blount, and Margaret, daughter of the said John de la Roche, in tail, and contingent remainders in tail successively to Peter, brother of the said Thomas, son of Thomas, and Nicholas de Cotteley.

The said Thomas [sic], son of Thomas, died on Wednesday before the Feast of the Annunciation last past. Silvester Doynel, brother of his mother, Anastasia, aged 40 and more, is his next heir. John de Cotteleye, heir of the premises under the said settlement, is aged 30 and more.

Joan, who was wife of Robert de Shawe.

Inquisition taken at New Sarum, 18th September, 35 Edward III [1361], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of Walter atte Mulle, John de Trowe, Richard Perham, John Raundys, John le Frye, John Coof, Richard Lambard, Robert Taillor, John Gowyn, Robert Peirecourt (?), Robert Sopere, and Stephen Davy, who say that

The said Joan held for term of her life, in dower from Thomas de Grymstede, her first husband, of the inheritance of Joan Mauduyt, daughter and heir of Katherine de Grymstede, sister and one heir of the said Thomas, a moiety of the manor of Compton Chamberlayn (excepting one messuage and half a virgate of land) from the King in chief by knight service, as one-thirtieth part of a fee, under a partition made in the King's Chancery, 2 Edward III. There is in the said moiety a messuage, with a garden, worth 3s. 4d. a year; 60 acres of land, worth 3d. an acre; 6 acres of meadow, worth 2s. an acre, the pasture thereof being common after the hay is carried; 20 acres of pasture for great cattle, worth 6d. an acre, and common of pasture for 100 sheep. There are 10 acres of wood, the underwood and pasture of which are worth nothing a year on account of the shade of the big trees. Three free tenants pay 12s. a year, and the rents and services of 3 bond tenants are worth 6s. 8d. each yearly; rents of 3 cottars, 20d. each. The pleas and perquisites of court are worth 10s. The said Joan also held as above rents of 13s. 4d. in Orcheston from the King in chief as one-fifth of a knight's fee, and a messuage and half a virgate of land in Compton aforesaid, worth 5s. a year, from the King in chief. Also one-third of the manor of Falardeston from John de Moubray as of the Honour of Brembre, being of the inheritance of Nicholas de Benton, son and heir of Margaret de Benton, the other sister and heir of the said Thomas de Grymstede, worth 40s. a year.

The said Joan died 7th August last. William de Shawe, her son and heir, is aged 24 and more. Joan Mauduyt is aged 30, and Nicholas de Benton 24 and more.

Joan, who was wife of John de Marenne, late Earl of Surrey.

nquisition taken at Aumbresbury, 30th November, 35 Edward III [1361]. before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of Edmund Godewyne, John le Baillif, Richard Walrond, John Benshyne, Roger Sauser, John Irysshe, Thomas Fraunkeleyn, Nicholas Petyt, John Bolkynton, John Benet, John Wolf, and Walter Wroxale, who say that

The said Joan held, for term of her life by demise of the now King, of the inheritance of William de Montacute, son and heir of William de Montacute, late Earl of Salisbury, the manors of Troubrigge, Aumbresburi, Wynterborne, and Aldeborne, from the King in chief by knight service.

In the manor of Troubrigge there is a capital messuage, worth nothing a year beyond the reprise; a dovecot, worth 3s. 4d.; 80 acres of land, worth 6d. an acre; 50 acres of meadow, worth 2s. an acre; a several pasture, worth 30s.; £51 of rents of assize. The pleas and perquisities of court are worth f 13 6s. 8d.

In the manor of Wynterborne there is a capital messuage worth nothing; z carucates (200 acres) of land, 100 acres of which are worth 3d. an acre, the rest 2d. an acre; 30 acres of meadow, worth 18d. an acre; \pounds_4 [?] of rents of assize. The pleas and perquisites of court are worth 100s.

In the manor of Aumbresburi, a capital messuage, with a garden, worth 3s. 4d.; 2 carucates (250 acres) of land, of which 200 are worth 3d. an acre, the rest 2d.; 5 acres of meadow, worth 18d. an acre; \pounds 20 of rents of assize. The pleas and perquisites of the court and Hundred, with foreign fees, are worth \pounds 6 13s. 4d.

In the manor of Aldeborne there is a capital messuage, with a garden, worth 3s. 4d. a year; a dovecot, worth 3s. 4d.; a windmill, worth 20s.; 2 carucates (200 acres) of land, half of which is worth 3d. an acre, the rest 2d.; 40 acres of meadow, worth 12d. an acre; there is common of pasture for 6 working cattle, . . . 0xen, and 600 sheep; and \pounds_{17} rents of assize. The pleas and perquisites of court are worth 40s. The profits of the coneys there . . . are 100s.

The said Joan died on the Feast of the Decollation of St. John the Baptist last past. Who is her next heir the jurors do not know, but the manors revert to the said William de Montacute, aged 30 and more.

Milliam de Edyndon, Bishop of Minchester.

nquisition made at New Sarum, 25th June, 35 Edward III [1361], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of John Chamberleyn, Walter Calle, Thomas le Rede, John Kansepee, John le Newe, Thomas Sollewell, John Phelip, Adam Dramerie, Edward Pynnok, Nicholas West, Nicholas Kyngesmull, and Nicholas Miles, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow the said Bishop to grant to Abbotisbury Abbey a messuage, 80 acres of land, 20 acres of meadow, and common of pasture for 200 sheep in Odestoke. The messuage is worth nothing beyond the reprise; the land 1d. an acre and not more because it lies in common; the meadow 12d. an acre. The premises are held of Robert Gerbert by the service of 1d. or a pair of gloves yearly at Whitsuntide, with suit at his court of Odestoke twice a year; Robert holds of Alice de Neville by knight service, and she of the King. Every tenant of the premises is bound to find a man every ninth week to stand with the tithingman in the King's Hundred of Caudon at Wilton, when the tithingman makes his presentments there.

Sir John de Edyndon, knight, and others.

Inquisition taken at Edyndon, 30th November, 35 Edward III [1361], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of Nicholas atte Broke, John Derewen, John le Croos, John Newman, Thomas de Cotterych, Walter Bole, Richard atte Grove, John Broun, Roger Wymbold, Roger Northfolk, John Daubeney, and John Spenser, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow the said Sir John to grant to the said House of Edvndon 12 messuages. 12 tofts, 2 carucates of land, 20 acres of meadow, and 20 acres of pasture, in Edyndon, Tynhide, Coterigge, Bratton, Milbourne, Stoke, and Erlestoke, which are held of the Abbess of Romsey as of her manor of Edyndon by the service of 50s. yearly, excepting one virgate of land held of the lord of Westbery by the service of 5s., and one messuage and 2 virgates held of the manor of the late John de Maundeville by the service of 21 lb. of pepper and 5 capons. The premises are worth 20s. a year, and not more because the land is barren and lies here and there in many parcels. In like manner it would be no damage to allow William Doudyng and John Chark, chaplains, to grant to the said house 3 messuages, a mill, 3 tofts, $1\frac{1}{2}$ carucates of land, 10 acres of meadow, and 10 acres of pasture, in Bratton, Milbourne, and Stoke, after the death of William fitz Waryn, chivaler, who holds for his life. These parcels are held of the lord of Westbury by the service of 22s. $o_{\frac{3}{4}d}$, excepting 5 acres held of the fee of Dansys by the service of 6s., and 10 acres held of the manor of Maundeville by the service of 11s. and 1 lb. of pepper. They are worth 20s. only, because the land is barren.

Liberties of the Abbot of Hyde in Sabernake forest, etc.

Inquisition taken at Marlebergh on Monday before the Feast of St. Tiburcius, 35 Edward III [1361], before Thomas de . . . , Justice of the King's Forest this side of Trent, by the oath of John Flory, William Chamberleyn, Thomas de Stocke, Adam Borceloun [?], John Chanyn [?], Thomas..., Robert Beneger [?], John Kepenhale, Hugh Holhurst, Peter Olyver, and Hubert Corderay, who say that

The Abbots of Hyde had always been accustomed to have, by permission of the foresters of Savernake Forest, 200... of fuel yearly, viz. 100 at Christmas and 100 at Easter, for which they paid 14s. a year, and this payment took therefrom the name of Stocksulver; and for this reason and no other they paid the said 14s. In 3 Edward III [1329-30] the abbot was inhibited by John Mautravers, then Justice in Eyre, and his associates, from taking fuel in the said forest.

They say also that Anastasia, wife of Robert de Bilkemore, daughter and heir of William de Hardene, and her ancestors, have held from time immemorial the west bailiwick of the said forest jointly with William de Boneclif and his ancestors: Anastasia and her ancestors have held a virgate of land under the covert of Iwode for keeping the said bailiwick, and William Boneclif and his ancestors a virgate called Boneclive, which two virgates her said father acquired, and now the said Robert de Bilkemore holds them of the King by the serjeanty of keeping the said bailiwick. Katherine Ailmer.

I I QUISITION taken at Heighworth on Wednesday before the Feast of St. Margaret the Virgin, 36 Edward III [1361], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of Simon Berwyk, Adam Shirwold, John Dorsete, Thomas Croke, Gilbert James, William Cryteman, Richard Smith of Baddebury, William Wyssangle, John Heese, Henry Walshe, John Tokkenham, and John Wade, who say that

The said Katherine held in her demesne as of fee, on the day she died, from Thomas Thurstayn of Wyke, a messuage worth nothing, because it is in decay, and 12 acres of land in Over Stratton, by the service of 2d. from [sic] the said Thomas and 25. 6d. to the heirs of the Earl of Hereford; the land is worth 3d. an acre; also one acre of meadow, worth 8d. She held also 13 acres of land in Bluntesdon St. Andrew from the heirs of William Fitzwarin by the service of $1\frac{1}{2}d$, worth 4d. an acre. Also from the Prior of Bradyngstoke a messuage, a hide of arable land, and 5 acres of meadow, in Bluntesdon Gay and Westwydyhull, by the service of 16s.; the land is worth 3d. an acre; one croft and 8 acres of land in Westwydyhull from the heirs of John Mauduyt by the service of $1\frac{1}{\pi}d$, worth 4d. an acre; 3 acres of meadow in Northwydyhull from Alice Saylefeste by the service of 3d. and 3 lb. of wax, worth 8d. an acre. In Haydon and Wyke a messuage worth 8d. a year, 15 acres of land, worth 3d. an acre, and an acre of meadow, worth 8d., from the heirs of Robert Waas by the service of 15.

She also held 8 acres of arable land, worth 3d. an acre, in Mordon and Haydon, from the heirs of Peter de Mordon; and 2 acres of meadow, worth 8d. an acre, for which no rent is paid;

one acre of meadow in Haydon from the Prior of Quenyngton by the service of 12d, and $1\frac{1}{2}$ acres of meadow in Northwydyhull by the service of $3\frac{1}{2}d$, worth 12d. an acre.

She held in tail to herself and the heirs of her body certain lands, etc., in Wamborowe, Northwydyhull, and Purynton [sic], viz. a messuage, 10 acres of arable land, and 2 acres of land in Wamborowe from Amary de St. Amand by the service of 2s. and suit of court, worth 4s.; 10 acres of land and 2 acres of meadow in Northwydyhull from the lord of Berton by the service of 4s., worth 2s. beyond that rent; and a messuage and 9½ acres of meadow in Puryton from John de Keynes by the service of 1d. and suit of court. The reversion of these parcels is to Sampson Horput under a deed lately made, because the said Katherine died without heir of her body.

She died 8th April last. Her next heirs are Richard Bordon, son of Joan Burdon, sister of Julian Aylmer, mother of the said Katherine, aged 30 and more; Isabel Thursteyn, wife of Walter Thursteyn, another sister of the said Julian, aged 40 and more; and Isabel, daughter of Edith Grondewell, the third sister of the said Julian, aged 1¹/₂.

John, son and heir of Sir John Lovel, knight.

nquisition taken at Heyworth, 1st June, 36 Edward III [1362], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of William Sopere, John Palmere, Henry Walisshe, John Turry, John Tockenham, John Wade, Walter Gylemyn, John Henton, John Stephne, Adam Symond, Walter Baillif, and William Mogge, who say that

The manor of Ellecumbe, in the King's hands by reason of the minority of the said John, is held of the Honour of Winchester by the service of half a knight's fee. It is of the forfeiture of Roger Quyncy, late Earl of Winchester. There is a capital messuage there, with a garden, worth nothing a year beyond the reprise; 3 carucates (120 acres) of land, worth 1d. an acre; 30 acres of meadow, worth, with the pasture after the hay is carried, 12d. an acre; and 80 acres of several pasture, 40 of which lie among the thorns, worth 1d. an acre. There is one free tenant, who pays 1 lb. of cummin yearly; 20 bond tenants, whose rents and services are worth \pounds 10. The pleas and perquisites of court are worth 13s. 4d. This manor Gilbert Talbot has by grant of the King, with custody of the heir.

One messuage and one carucate of land in Offecote are held as above as parcel of the said manor. The messuage is worth nothing beyond the reprise; of the land (70 acres) half can be sown every year, and then worth 1d. an acre, the other half lying fallow. There is common of pasture for z working cattle, 4 oxen, and 100 sheep. Divers tenants pay 64s. 8d. rents. The pleas and perquisites of court are worth nothing here, because the tenants do suit at Ellecumbe. The said Gilbert receives the profits of these parcels also.

One messuage and z carucates of land in Blountesdone Gay are held of the Prior of Bradenstok by the service of 4s. yearly; the Prior holds of the Prince, and the Prince of the King, by what services the jury do not know. The messuage is worth nothing beyond the reprise; of the land (100 acres) half can be sown every year, then worth 1d. an acre, the rest lying fallow. There are 20 acres of meadow, worth, with the pasture after the hay is carried, 12d. an acre; common of pasture for 4 working cattle, 12 oxen, and 300 sheep. There are no rents, because the tenements are in decay, and the tenants have died.

The said John, son of John, died on Monday after the Feast of the Translation of St. Thomas the Martyr last. John Lovel, his brother and heir, was under age at his brother's death, but is now aged 21 and more.

Theobald de Mounteneyne,¹ chibaler.

Inquisition [in bad state] taken at Somerford Keynes, 4th January, 36 Edward III [1363], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of . . . Cotebend, Richard atte Grene, Hugh atte Grene, Walter Cotes, Richard Jay, William Sare, Richard , who say that

The said Theobald held for a term of 80 years, not yet complete, by demise of the now King under his letters patent . . [the manor of Somerford Keynes]. There are divers buildings there, worth . . . beyond the reprise; a dovecot, worth 5s. a year; 2 water-mills, worth . . . ; 4 carucates (300 acres) of land, 200 of which can be sown every year, and then worth 2d. an acre, the rest lying fallow; 30 acres of several meadow, worth 7d. an acre from the Feast of the Purification till the hay is carried, and afterwards . . . , and it is not worth more because part of it is so dry that very little profit can be made of it. This meadow is held of the Abbess of Came [sic] by the service of 20s. yearly. There is pasture for . . . , worth 4s., and a several pasture for sheep, worth 25.; also common of pasture for 6 working cattle, 24 oxen, and 400 sheep. There are three free tenants, two of whom pay 2 lb. of pepper yearly, and the third 12d.; 15 virgatars holding bond land, each paying 2s. 6d. a year, and 9 half-virgatars paying 15d. each; and the total of rents is thus 48s. 9d. And each of these 15 virgatars will work every week between Michaelmas and the Feast of St. John the Baptist, excepting Christmas, Easter, and Whit weeks, during which they do not work, doing one manual work each working day . . .; and the half-virgatars do the like. They also work about the cutting and carrying of the hay, and the reaping and carting of the corn, each of the 15 virgatars working on 56 working days [but the document is too illegible to enable the exact details to be given]. . . . There is a customary rent called Larderselver, and a custom called Churche . . .

The said Theobald died 6th September, 30 Edward III [1356]. Who is his heir the jury do not know.

Malter Danseye, brother and heir of Milliam Danseye.

Proof of age made at Westbury, 6th December, 36 Edward 111 [1362], before the abovesaid escheator.

Nicholas Brok, aged 40 and more, says the said Walter is aged 22 and more, being born at Dulton on the Vigil of St. Nicholas, 14 Edward III [1340], and baptized in a certain chapel of St. Nicholas in the same vill, which is in the parish of Westbury. On that day he met Walter de Park, who informed him he had been godfather to the said Walter Danseye. John Durewyne, aged 41 and more, recollects because as he was crossing the road he saw the said Walter carried in some woman's arms through the churchyard towards the house of his father Richard Danseye, and the woman told him the said Walter had been baptized. Richard atte Grove, aged 50 and more, says he was at the house of the said Richard very early in the morning of that day, and Margaret, daughter of the same Richard, came out of her chamber, and told him she had a brother then born, for which she thanked God. John Herkedale and Thomas Durle, both 42 and more, say that on that day they met Waller Shereueton at Dulton about the hour of vespers, who told them he had that day laid his hands in baptism upon a son of Richard Danseye named Walter. John Everard, John. Jannes, Thomas Reynald, and Richard de Pounde, 43 and more, say that the said Richard was that day hunting the fox at la Holte in the same county, and they were there as beaters, and there came one William Workman who said to the abovenamed Richard, "Sir, do you want to hear the news?" And he replied, "Friend, what is the news?" And then the said William told all the company that on the preceding evening a son was born to the said Richard at Dulton, and baptized the same day; and Richard gave him 40d. for his news. John Brok, William Athelin, and William Baillif, all 44 and more, were present in the said chapel, and heard the Mass when the said Walter was baptized.

meadow are several from the Feast of the Purification till the hay is carried, and worth 2s. an acre; afterwards they lie in common. The rents are payable at Christmas, Easter, St. John's Day, and Michaelmas, by free tenants at will; these rents are paid out entirely to the King and the other lords. The pleas and perquisites of court are worth nothing, because they are free tenants as above.

The said Henry also held the manor of Borescombe from Edmund de Cornwall, chivaler, by the service of one pair of gilt spurs yearly at Michaelmas. There are divers buildings there worth nothing a year beyond the reprise; a dovecot worth 3s. 4d.; 3 carucates of land (240 acres), of which half can be sown every year, and then worth 3d., the other half lying in common; 10 acres of meadow several as above, worth 2s. an acre. There is a several pasture for great cattle, worth 4s., and common of pasture for 4 working cattle, 18 oxen, and 500 sheep. Divers free tenants pay 53s. 4d. at the usual terms. The pleas and perquisites are worth nothing (as above); no one there will hold land in bondage.

The said Henry died 7th March last. Thomas, his son and heir, is aged 24 and more.

Margery, who was wife of William de Roos of Hamelak.

Inquisition taken at Heghtrebury, 3rd November, 37 Edward III [1363], before John de Evesham (this written in both writ and inquisition over an erasure), by the oath of John Cosyn, William Hym, John Mody, Robert Broun, John Symth [sic], John White, Richard White, Robert Muleward, Richard Frere, Gilbert Rolf, John Carpenter, and Reginald Toukere, who say that

The said Margery held in her demesne as of fee, in service, on the day she died, of her own inheritance as sister and one of the heirs of Giles de Badlesmere, these fees, viz., one fee in Eleston, which Margery Giffard lately held; $\frac{1}{2}$ fee in Mulford, which Thomas de Bokton lately held; $\frac{2}{3}$ fee in Lufteshull, which John de Lufteshull lately held; $\frac{1}{2}$ fee in Pulton, which Thomas de Pulton lately held; and $\frac{1}{2}$ fee in Quedhampton, which Robert Russell lately held. These fees are all held of the Earl of Stafford, as of the Honour of Gloucester, and are worth nothing except casually, when a tenant dies or commits felony.

Long before her death the said Margery had demised the manor of Estheightrebury (which she held for term of her life under feoffment to herself jointly with Thomas de Arundel, her deceased husband, by grant of Robert Flemyng, Rees ap Rees, and William Wade, by fine levied in the King's court in the Quinzaine of Martinmas, 25 Edward III [1351]) to Thomas de Hungerford and Eleanor, his wife, for her term therein, at a rent of \pounds_{16} . The said Thomas and Eleanor have acquired a further status therein for their lives from Thomas de Roos, son and heir of the said Margery, and brother and heir of William de Roos, deceased, at the same rent. It is held of the said Earl as above by the service of one-fourth of a knight's fee.

The said Margery died 18th October last past. The said Thomas de Roos is aged 28 and more.

Geoffrey de Stowell. 76 Stanwell nquisition taken at New Sarum, 5th July, 36 Edward III [1362], before John de Estbury, the King's escheator in co. Wilts, by the oath of Stephen Waspail, John Galon, Walter Calne, John Allewyne, John Russel, John de Trouwe, Richard Lambert, John . . . , John Yonge, Robert Butiller, John Maugier, and William Moryce, who say that

The said Geoffrey held in his demesne as of fee, on the day he died, a moiety of the manor of Norygg next Upton Skydmore from Peter Skydmore by knight service, but by what part of a fee they do not know; worth 63s. 4d. a year.

He died on Friday next after the Feast of St. Leonard last past. His heir is his son Matthew, but they do not know his age because he was born and lives out of the county.

Robert, son and heir of Agnes Pypard, one of the heirs of Maud, who was wife of Richard Perias.

Proof of age taken at New Sarum, 10th June, 37 Edward III [1363], before the abovesaid escheator.

John Duyn, aged 50 and more, says the said Robert is aged 26 and more; that he was born at Alwardbury on Wednesday after St. George's Day, 10 Edward III [1336], and baptized in the church there, and Duyn was in the church hearing Mass at the time of the baptism.

Henry Foxhunte (50 and more) says he came to Alwardbury on that day, and a chaplain of that vill told him of the birth of the said Robert. John Gosselyn (52) met Robert Gerard, godfather of the said Robert Pypard. John Chaumberleyn (53) heard of the baptism from one William de Caneford, deceased. Stephen Davy (40), Thomas Polhard (40), John Porcestre, Thomas Firyng, and John Carpenter (all 42) were in the village that day, and met John Pypard, father of the said Robert. Henry Rennesbury (46) was in the house of John Bernard [sic], father of the said Robert, and Joan, sister of the said Robert, came out of the room, and told him she had a brother born and baptized that day.

Henry de Foxhunte, guardian of the said Robert, attended this proof in person, and did not gainsay it in anything.

Thomas de Erlestoke.

nquisition made at New Sarum, 19th July, 37 Edward III [1363], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of Henry atte Borgh, John Langeford, William Mountagu, Gervase Worth, John Marlebergh, William Godeshalf, Thomas Chilmark, William Cnocl, Richard Hauys, David Laurens, John Beomestre, and John Walyngford, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow Thomas de Erlestoke, executor of John de la Chaumbre, late precentor of the church of St. Mary of Sarum, to assign 3 messuages there to the Dean and Chapter in part satisfaction of tenements to the value of \pounds to a year which they have the King's licence to acquire, to find certain chaplains to hold obits, chantries, etc., in that church and in the chapel of St. Anne in the close. The premises are held of the Bishop of Salisbury by the service of 2s.; he holds of the King as parcel of the temporalities of his see; they are worth 4os. a year. Thomas will still retain 3 messuages there, held in like manner by the service of 3s., and worth 53s. 4d.

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow the said bishop to assign to the rector and brethren of the house of the order of St. Augustine of Edyndon the manor of Tynhide (which Maud Selyman holds for her life of the inheritance of the said bishop, and which reverts to him after the death of the said Maud and of Robert, her son) in part satisfaction of lands, etc., to the yearly value of 100 marks which they have the King's licence to acquire. The manor, except the parcels specified below, is held of the King by the service of one axe called 'Hachedenys'. and by fealty from the Conquest $\lceil a^{\circ} conques/u \rceil$, and by doing suit at the Hundred of Wherwelldoune, which the Abbess of Romeseve holds of the King at fee farm; the said manor with the said axe was given to the ancestors of John de Tynhide, deceased, late lord of the manor, from the Conquest, for all services save fealty [sic]. There are divers buildings in the said manor, with a garden, worth nothing a year beyond the reprises; a dovecot worth 3s. 4d.; 2 carucates of arable land containing 120 acres, half of which can be sown every year, and is then worth 4d. an acre, the other half lying fallow; 10 acres of meadow several from the Feast of the Purification till the hay is carried, worth 15d. an acre during that time, and after the hay is carried the pasture lies in common; there is a several pasture for 24 great beasts, worth 24s. a year, and another for sheep, worth 2s. Divers free tenants pay 20s. a year. There are 4 bond semi-virgatars, whose rents and services are worth 4s, a year, each of whom ought to contribute with the tithingman there to the said Hundred. The pleas and perquisites of courts are worth 12d. a year.

One messuage and an acre of land in Edyndon, parcel of the said manor, are held of the Abbess of Romeseye by the service of js., worth nothing a year beyond that rent; 16 acres in Tynhide in a close called Feltham, are held of the said Abbess by the service of 5s., and are worth 20d. beyond that. And for these parcels the lord of the manor has common of pasture for all his pigs and the pigs of his tenants there in the Abbess's wood of her manor of Ashton, 16d. being paid yearly for this pannage, and it is worth no more. The lord also pays yearly to the said Abbess 20d. for certain paths [through?] the gardens of two of her tenants in winter time. These parcels the Abbess holds of the King in chief as parcel of her abbey.

There are also a water-mill and curtilage and a close adjacent, parcel of the said manor, which are held of Richard Rous by the service of 8s., and doing suit at his court of . . . , the said Richard finding one trunk worth 8d. every year for repair of the said mill.

Until the said mill is repaired these premises are worth nothing beyond the reprise, because the mill is wholly in decay. Richard holds of the said Abbess, who holds of the King.

Richard atte Felde.

Inquisition made at Uphavene, 8th May, 38 Edward III [1364], before John de Evesham (the last word written over an erasure in the writ), the King's escheator in Wilts, by the oath of William Weston, William Rolf, Peter Cheriton, Richard Bourdon, Hugh atte Provendre, Peter Marschal, Thomas Palmere, William Taillor, William Wolkere, Richard Hendy, James Kendale, and William Robyns, who say that

The said Richard held for term of his life (by grant of Laurence de Hastynges, formerly Earl of Pembroke, and Agnes his wife, who survives) from William Holbeche in chief, by the service of $1\frac{1}{2}$ lb. of pepper and 12*d*. rent yearly, one messuage and 2 virgates of land in Fytelton and Coumbe; worth 30s. clear. Also (by grant as above) from Robert, Bishop of Salisbury, by suit at his court of Canynges, a messuage and 4 virgates of land in Cotes next Bishop's Canynges, worth 66s. 8d. clear.

He died on Monday after Michaelmas, 35 Edward III [1361]. All the premises ought to revert to the said Agnes for term of her life, because she was jointly enfeoffed thereof with her husband, with remainder to John, son and heir of the said Laurence, aged 16 at the Feast of the Nativity of the B.V.M, last. Richard and John Makerel have occupied the premises in Cotes since the death of Richard atte Felde, and John, son of Robert de Rammesbury, the others.

Theobald de Mounteney.

nquisition made at Kreckelade, 10th June, 38 Edward III [1364], before the abovesaid escheator, by the 0ath of John atte Fenne, William Wykelescole, Richard Deygher, Robert Pompe, William Mortimer, John atte Coue [?]. William Preston, William Jones, Thomas Gereforde, James Boklere, Thomas Weston, and Richard Wade, who say that

The said Theobald held for term of his life, by grant of the King, the manor of Somerford Kaynes, worth $\int 23 \ 13s$. 6d. a year. He died on the Feast of the Nativity of the B.V.M., 35 Edward III [1361]. A certain piece of meadow and pasture called Pyllesunt, parcel of the said manor, is held of the Abbess of Caen, lady of [the manor of] Munchenehampton, by the service of 20s. and one purse worth 1d., payable yearly at Munchenehampton on the Feast of St. Michael before the hour of noon [? (ante horam none)]. The King has occupied the manor since the said Theobald's death.

Inquisition made at New Sarum, 30th April, 38 Edward III [1364], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of Nicholas Broke, John Cros, John Durwyne, Richard atte Groue, James le Gous, Robert le Botiler, George Priketo, Thomas Laghfull, Walter atte Mulle, Richard atte Ponde, John Broun, and Thomas Osbarn, who say that

The said John held, jointly enfeoffed with his wife Agnes, who survives, the manor of Sharneton, under a fine levied thereof in the King's court, worth \pounds zo a year. Also, in like manner, the manor of Codeford, worth 10 marks, and a moiety of the manor of Stapelford, worth 10 marks. All held of the King in chief by knight service. Under fine levied in the King's court between John de Coftone, chaplain, and the said John and Agnes, he held in like manner from the Earl of Salisbury by knight service the manor of Boyton, with the advowson of the church of that manor, worth 20 marks yearly. Also from Miles de Stapelton, chivaler, by knight service, the manor of Corton, worth 10 marks yearly.

The said John died 16th February last. His cousins and heirs are Joan, wife of John de Kaynes, chivaler, aged 22 and more, and Eleanor, wife of John, son of Richard, Earl of Arundel, aged 19 and more.

He also held for term of his life from the King in chief by knight service, by grant of Henry Stormy, the other moiety of the manor of Stapelford, under a fine levied thereof in the King's court. In this moiety there is a messuage, worth nothing beyond the reprise; 2 carucates of land, which cannot be valued because they lie fallow and in common; 20 acres of meadow, worth 2s. an acre; and \pounds_4 rents. This moiety reverts to the said Henry and his heirs.

Inquisition taken at Wilton before the said escheator on Thursday after the close of Easter, 38 Edward III [1364], by the oath of Nicholas Botiler, Thomas Pikoc, William de Harleston, John Paget, Robert Harbourgh, Hugh de Stoke, Adam Horder, Richard Frye, Elias Notebem, John Raulyn, John Clerk, and Walter Lovel, who say exactly as above, with the omission of the record of the moiety of Stapelford held for life.

John Maudurt of Mermenstre, chivaler.

nquisition taken as the last but one above. The jurors there named say that

The said John Mauduyt held jointly with his wife Julian, who survives, under a fine levied in the King's court, from the King in chief by knight service, the manor of Weremenstre; worth 40 marks yearly. In like manner he held a messuage, 2 carucates of land, 20 acres of meadow, 100 acres of wood, and 1005. rents in Westbury, with the advowson of the chapel of that vill; worth 10 marks yearly.

The said John died 1st April last. Maud, daughter of Thomas Mauduyt, son of the said John, aged 9 on the Feast of St. Leonard last, is his next heir.

nquisition made at Westbury, 11th November, 38 Edward III [1364], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of Nicholas Brouk, Richard atte Groue, John Durewyne, John Brouk, Richard atte Pounde, John de Frampton, John Broun, John 2 2

Moysent, Thomas Revnald, John atte Helm, John Herkedale, and Thomas Couche, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow the said Robert and Thomas to retain the manor of Bratton which they acquired in fee from Walter Dansy without licence from the King. It was held of the King in chief by the said Walter together with the manor of Dulton by the service of paying 10 marks by the hands of the sheriff of Wilts, and 4s. 8d. yearly to the sheriff by reason of his office. Also to allow them to convey the said manor of Bratton to the rector and brethren of the order of St. Augustine of Edyndon, to hold to them and their successors by the same service.

There is in the said manor a capital messuage with a garden, worth 2s. 6d. beyond the reprise; one carucate of land (104 acres) in demesne, 29 acres of which lie under the hill and are worth 6d. an acre, and 75 on the hill, and are worth only 2d., because they lie in the common field and can be sown only every other year; 14 acres of meadow, worth 15d. an acre; 4 acres of several pasture, worth 12d. an acre. There is pasture in common and severalty for 300 sheep, worth 20s.; rents of assize of 71s. 1d. and $3\frac{1}{2}$ lb. of pepper from free and bond tenants, the pepper being worth 12d. a pound. Therefore the whole is worth £7 5s. 8d., from which the above service must be deducted.

Kobert Gundewyne and Milliam atte Chaumbre.

nquisition taken at le Vyses, 25th May, 38 Edward III [1364], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of Walter Frene, John Pleystowe, William Dokeman, Richard Unewyne, John Ridweye, John Bruton, John Stedham, John Frank, John Hykkes, William Gode, John Hochouns, and John Stephens, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow Robert Cundewine [sic] and William atte Chaumbre to assign the manor of Heyway to the rector and brethren of the House of Edendon. All the lands and tenements in the vill of Heywey, which make the manor in demesne and service, are held of Robert, Bishop of Salisbury, in right of his church at fee farm, paying \pounds_1 to a year.

The bishop holds of the King. There is no capital messuage there now, the one that was there is wholly destroyed; there are 2 gardens, worth 3s. 4d. a year; 308 acres of arable land, worth 3d. an acre; 100 acres, worth nothing, because they are sandy and lie fallow, and they cannot be sown because they lie in common; 38 acres of several meadow, worth 12d. an acre; 12 acres of meadow in common, worth 8d. an acre; pasture for 20 oxen, worth 6d. a head; 68s. 3d. rents of free and bond tenants; the view of frankpledge and perquisites of courts are worth 6s. 8d. a year. The whole manor is thus worth 11s. 3d. beyond the reprise.

nquisition made at Swyndon, 1st June, 38 Edward III [1364], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of William Adekyn, Nicholas Styue, John Frankeleyn, William Roser, John Perham, John Maydekyn, Robert Palmere, Richard Bryan, John Harvest, Nicholas Taillor, Robert Holewell, and William Waryn, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow the said bishop to grant the advowson of the church of Lydeyard Tregoz to Roger de Beauchamp and Sybil his wife, to hold to them and the heirs of their bodies with contingent remainder to the bishop and his heirs. The advowson is parcel of the manor of Lydeyard Tregoz, held of the King in chief by knight service, and the said church is worth \pounds to a year.

Walter de Coumbe.

Extent (in bad condition) of all the lands, etc., that belonged to Waller de Coumbe in Wilts on 15th July, 30 Edward III [1356], or afterwards, taken at . . . 39 Edward III [1365-6], by virtue of a writ to the sheriff of Wilts, directing him to deliver all such lands as have not descended to any heir under age to John de Ware and Thomas Cole, executors of Sir John de Wyn/on, knight, of Hampshire, until they shall have levied the £40 which the said Walter on the said 15th July acknowledged he owed the said Sir John before Henry ... yng, then mayor of Salisbury, and Nicholas Chaunterel, clerk, together with their damages and costs. Edmund Godewyne, William de Harnham, John Gartour, John Gowyne, Richard Loukeharm. ..., John Hat, John Gyn, Robert Alesaundre, and John Harwedone, say that

At Milde.. in the said county [the said Walter had] a toft with a curtilage, worth 12d. a year; [... acres of land], worth altogether 30s. a year; 4 acres of meadow with "la Ware" adjacent, worth 7s.; and a water-mill worth 13s. 4d.; also . . . and a pasture for sheep worth 40s. The mill is now in the hands of John de Thorpe and Katherine, his wife, late wife of Sir Thomas de Berkele, knight. At Compton next Enford the said Walter had . . . and a water-mill worth 100s. a year. These lands, etc., are in the hands of John Litelcote, who is of full age, by demise of Walter, son and heir of the said Walter de Coumbe.

John Canynges.

nquisition taken at Malmesbury, 29th August, 40 Edward III [1366], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of Robert Heighway, Richard Goseye, John de Brumeham, Robert Rydel, William . riteman, Ralph Blewet, Andrew de Oxenford, Adam Urdole, Henry Humfray, William de Nesse, Robert Noel, and Thomas Saye, who say that

John de Cannyng held on the day he died, from Humphrey de Bohun, Earl of Herford, a messuage and a carucate of land in Netherst, by a rent of 26s. 8d. and suit at the court of the said Earl, who is a minor and a ward to the King; worth 40s. a year clear. Also, as above, half a virgate of land by the service of suit of court, worth 2s.; and half an acre of land in Overstrattone, worth 2d. From the Prior of St. John of Jerusalem in England he held a messuage and a close of land by the service of 2s. yearly, worth nothing beyond that. Richard Scarguyl, the King's ferreter [? fireccarius] occupies the premises by the King's grant till the lawful age of the heir of the said John. He also held a toft and two virgates of land in Overstratton from the said Earl, by the service of 5s., worth 5s. more. John Haytfeld has occupied these tenements since his death, by what right the jurors do not know. He held 8 acres in Netherstratton of the said Earl by the service of suit of court; worth 12d. yearly. Walter Russel and Edith, his wife, have occupied this land since his death, by what title they do not know.

The said John died on the Morrow of the Purification, 36 Edward III [1362]. Thomas, his son and heir, is aged 15 and more.

Another inquisition taken upon the death of Susanna, who was wife of the said John Canynges, at Cherlhampstrete next Hungerford, 10th June, 40 Edward III [1366], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of Thomas Broke, Simon Berewik, John Feror, John Tokkenham, John Reynald, Henry Walsshe, John Heenton, Michael Chanew, Michael Small [?], John Sharp, John Maidekyn, and John Perham, who say that

The said Susanna was seised jointly with her said husband for term of her life of a messuage, one carucate of land, and $3\frac{1}{2}$ acres of meadow in Westecote and Estecote, held of the King as of his manor of Vasterne, by paying 1d. yearly at the Feast of the Nativity of St. John the Baptist; worth 53s. 4d. a year.

The said Susanna died 2nd March, 36 Edward III [1362]. Thomas, son of the said John and Susanna, is her next heir, aged 15 and more. For 2 years after the said Susanna's death Matthew Chanew occupied the premises, which are now occupied by Roger Gambon.

A third inquisition, taken at Marlebergh, 7th November, 40 Edward III [1366], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of Thomas Polton, Walter Wormbrugg, William Wolvey, Robert Toly, Robert Palmere, William Chaumpeneys, John Coventre, John Lang Dyere, John Dokenham, Thomas Bakere, John Parham, and Richard Everard, who say that

The said Susanna held tenements as above (except that here it is $5\frac{1}{2}$ acres of meadow) from Queen Philippa, as of the manor of Vasterne, which is of the Honour of Wallyngford. Before her death the said Susanna therewith enfeoffed John Aldeborne [?], parson of Leukenore, Robert . . . [?], vicar of Stratton, and Mathew Chanew. The said Susanna also held, for term of her life, jointly with her said husband, a messuage, 160 acres of arable land, and 15 acres of meadow in Stratton, from Humphrey de Bohun, Earl of Herford, by knight service and a rent of 30s.; worth 40s. a year more. The King's escheator has occupied the premises since her death by reason of the minority of her said heir.

George Selman.

nquisition taken at Cosham, 2nd April, 40 Edward III [1366], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of Thomas Grenehull, Henry Cokesden, William Lupezate, William Daniel, Andrew Bray, John Godefray, Walter Wodelond, Richard de Westwell, John Pruet, John Hunt, John Gay, and Robert Freman, who say that George Selman, deceased, was outlawed for felony for the death of a man, whose name they do not know, in August, 24 Edward III [1350], at which time he held of the King by knight service, as of his manor of Hampstedemarchal, the manor of Atteworth, worth 40s. yearly. Immediately after the said outlawry Ralph, Earl of Stafford, seised the said manor, as though he supposed it to be held of himself by knight service, and sold it to Robert de Bourton, now deceased. The said Earl and Robert, Agnes, late his wife and now wife of Oliver Russell, have taken all the profits thereof from the time of the said outlawry.

John de Grauntson.

nquisition taken at New Sarum, 20 July, 40 Edward III [1366], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of George Pryketo, Nicholas Boteler. John Colston. Edward le Clirk, William Bakham, John Kent, John Makweyn, John Auncel, Thomas Falawe, William Rolf, Richard Jolepet, John Gowyn, and John H...t, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow John de Grauntson to enfeoff John de Montague, chivaler, with 81 knight's fees in Upton Skydemore, Norton Fyfhyde, Teffonr, and Rokeleye, to hold to him and his heirs for ever. They are all held of the King in chief: 31 fees in Upton Skydemore are worth 50s. a year; 3 fees in Norton Fyfhyde, 60s.; 3 fee in Teffonte, 8s.; and one fee in Rokeleye, 13s. 4d. There would then remain nothing to the said John de Grauntson in the said county.

Michael Skyllyng and Milliam Morston.

nguisition made at Asshton, 5th October, 40 Edward III I [1366], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of Richard Lauynton, Roger Coterygge, Roger Northfolk, John Forest, John Coterygge, John Wynchecombe, Walter Bole, John Martyn, Richard Nyman, Robert Bryght, John Smyth, and John le Honte, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow the said Michael and William to grant to the rector and brethren of the house of Edyndon 2 messuages, 3 virgates of land, and pasture for 2 horses, 10 oxen, and 150 sheep in Estcote and Erchesfunte. The premises are held of the grantees as of their manor of Estcote, by the service of 5s., suit at the manor of Estcote, and paying $10\frac{1}{2}d$ to the sheriff of Wilts at the Feast of the Annunciation every year. The premises are worth 26s. 9d. a year beyond these services. The said Michael Skyllyng holds a messuage and a carucate of land in Cherleton, worth 40s. a year. William Worston holds 2 messuages and 2 carucates of land in Compton from Queen Philippa, worth 6os. a year.

Philip fitz Waryn, chivaler, and Constance, his wife.

nquisition made at Westbury, 10th December, 40 Edward III [1366], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of John Honybrygg, Thomas Coterygg, John Mareys, Nicholas Broke, Thomas Couche, Richard atte Groue, Walter Bole, Richard atte

Pounde, Roger Walymhose [?], John Frempton, John Broun, and John Herk dale, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow the said Philip and Constance to assign to the said House of Edvndon their manor of Bremelrugg, and a messuage and 15 acres of land in Dulton, in exchange for the manor of Heighweye. The manor of Bremelrugge (excepting one virgate and 14 acres of land and 3 acres of meadow) is held of Juliana Mauduyt, as of her manor of Westbury, by the service of one knight's fee; one virgate is held of John de St. Lo, as of his manor of Broke, by the service of 1 lb. of pepper; and the 14 acres of land and the premises in Dulton, from Katherine Veel, as of her manor of Penlegh, by the service of 10s. All these premises are worth f,6 4s. 5d. a year. The manor of Heighwaye is held of the Bishop of Salisbury in right of his church by the service of £10 8s., and is worth 13s. 4d. a year clear. Juliana Mauduyt holds the manor of Westbury from the King in chief. There would still remain to the said Philip and Constance the manor of Chaldefeld, which they hold of John, Duke of Lancaster, as of his manor of Troubrugge, by knight service, worth f, 10 a year.

Walter Marshall, Earl of Pembroke.

Writ (14th June, 40 Edward III [1366]) directed to the Treasurer, Barons, and Chamberlain of the Exchequer, commanding them to make a return as to the partition of the inheritance of Walter Marshall, Earl of Pembroke, in the time of Henry III, among his heirs, and of the proceedings in the Exchequer in the time of Edward I, between William de Valence and Joan his wife of the one part, and Humphrey de Bohun, then Earl of Hereford, on the other, as to the earldom of Pembroke.

Among the returns to this writ are copies of: (1) Writ dated 28th November, 33 Henry III [1248], to the sheriff of Wilts, directing him to make an extent of the knights' fees in Wilts, then held by Simon de Montfort, Earl of Leicester, and A., his wife, which formerly belonged to W. Marshall, late Earl of Pembroke, late husband of the said A.

(2) Extent of knight's fees made in accordance therewith, by the oath of John de Hamme, John de Foristesbiry, William Malewein, John de Colyngeburn, Adam de la Cloughe. John de la Cloughe, Richard Baxman, Adam de Haldeway, William de Sa.e, William Brigg, Walter Chessing, and William le Sanuage, who say that the demesnes of Wexcombe are worth \pounds_{24} a year, the villeinage $\pounds_{15} 8s.$, the rents of free tenents [?] $\pounds_{...4s}$. 8d. Bedewynde in all its issues is worth \pounds_{12} . The issues of the Hundred of Kinewarstan are worth \pounds_{25} . The said Simon and his wife hold $3\frac{1}{2}$ and $\frac{1}{3}$ knights' fees.

Among the fees parted among the heirs are: $\frac{1}{2}$ fee held by Henry Hoes in Tuddewurth, $\frac{1}{6}$ fee in Barwe held by Aubrey fil. Pagan, and $\frac{1}{2}$ fee in Wynterborne held by . . . Thebaud [?]. The manors of Wexcoumb and Bedewynde and the Hundred of Kynewardeston, worth together $\pounds 47$ 12s. 8d. [sic], were assigned to R. de Clare, Earl of Gloucester.

To Roger de Mortimer and Maud his wife were assigned in Wilts $3\frac{1}{3}$ knights' fees held by Matthew de Columbers, $\frac{1}{2}$ fee held by Robert Burnard in Brodeton, and $\frac{3}{4}$ of a fee in the same place held by Richard de Naris [?], and $\frac{1}{4}$ fee held by William Belenger. To William de Cantelupe and Eva his wife were assigned $3\frac{1}{3}$ fees, likewise held by Matthew de Columbers; and another $3\frac{1}{3}$ so held to Humphrey de Boun and Eleanor his wife, also $\frac{3}{4}$ of a fee in Suneburne with Templeton, held by William Talemasch. To William de Valence and Joan his wife a fee in Boxe is assigned, held by Lora de Bailloll.

The writ is endorsed with a note stating that the copy of the proceedings in the Exchequer was returned to another writ dated 25th June.

Reynold Loue, merchant, of London.

Writ (14th February, 51 Edward III [1377]) addressed to the sheriff of Wilts. The said Reynold on 16th August last acknowledged he owed £95 to Henry Jurdan, merchant of Winchester, before Stephen Hayme, mayor of the staple of Winchester. This debt was not satisfied, and order was made to the sheriff of Wilts for arrest of the said Reynold and valuation of his goods in Wilts. The sheriff made return that Reynold was not to be found in his bailiwick after the date of the said order; but that, on the date of the said recognizance, he had in Wilts, outside the liberty of the Bishop of Salisbury, the following lands, etc., viz., at Bymerton a messuage with a curtilage adjacent, one cottage, ³/₄ acre and 3 "hamelettes" of meadow, and 30 acres of arable land; at Ouvdhampton, one curtilage; at Fyssherton, 16 acres of arable land, 21 acres and 2 pieces of meadow, and 235. 4d. rents out of 13 cottages, one dovecote and one croft, held by John Mercer of Fyssherton, Margaret his wife, and Stephen his son, for term of their lives, by grant of the said Reynold. As regards the goods and chattels of the said Reynold, Thomas Hungerford, bailiff of the Bishop of Salisbury's liberty, having return and execution of all writs therein, made return to the sheriff that the said Reynold had in New Sarum one messuage between the tenement of John Ferneborgh and the style of the churchyard of St. Thomas, formerly belonging to Thomas de Bereford, jointly with William Wilde, chaplain; he held also a tenement called "le Neweyn", between the tenement of Nicholas Taillour and that late of Thomas Huchones, and 2 shops in "la Potrewe", between the shop of William Wilton, bocher, and the shop late of John Talbot. He had also 20s. rent for term of the life of Christian Stynles out of a tenement in the said city outside the bars, between the tenements of John Vole and John Mildenhale. The whole worth f_{1116s} . a year in addition to the said rents. All the premises the sheriff seised into the King's hands for payment of the debt. Nevertheless the said Reynold is to be arrested, if he be a layman, and kept in the King's prison until the said debt is fully satisfied.

On the dorse of the writ is the return of the sheriff, Ralph Cheyne, who certifies that the said Reynold is not in his bailiwick; that he has delivered to the said Henry Jurdan the premises in his bailiwick, and sends (attached) a similar return made to him by the said Thomas Hungerford.

hugh Cheyne.

nquisition made at New Salisbury, 7th November, 42 Edward III [1368], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of John Hulon, Henry Remmesbury. John Tannere, Thomas Swenyng, John Oliver, Henry Turald, Walter Gomeldon, Henry Foxhuntere, John Sourflete, John Bacheler, Richard Squier, and John Hunte, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow Hugh Cheyne to enfeoff Thomas Edyngdon, clerk, and John Bere with his manor of Larkestoke, in order to a resettlement on himself and his wife Joan in tail. The manor is held of the King in chief by the petty sergeanty of paying 5 barbed arrows yearly. There is in the said manor one messuage with good buildings [bene edificat], 50 acres of land fallow and uncultivated, $1\frac{1}{2}$ acres of meadow, and 2s. rents. The profits of the land do not suffice to maintain the house and buildings, and so the manor is worth nothing a year beyond the reprise. They do not know whether the said Hugh has any other lands, etc.

John Mareys and Chomas Jurdan, chaplain.

nquisition made at Westbury on Monday after the Feast of SS. Peter and Paul, 42 Edward III [1368], by the oath of John le Croos, John Durewyne, Nicholas Brook, Thomas Coterigge, Richard atte Groue, Thomas Reynald, Richard Colswayn, Thomas Couche, Richard Pounde, Roger Wynebold, John Sauery, and James le Gous, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow the said John and Thomas to grant 5 messuages, one mill, 52 acres of land, 7 acres of meadow, and 24 acres of wood in Penlegh, Westbury, Legh, Bradelegh, and Suthewyke to the rector and brethren of the House of Edyndon, for the maintenance of two wax tapers in the church of the said rectory burning on the high altar every day at high Mass. Two messuages with 18 acres of land and one rood of wood are held of Katherine, who was wife of Peter de Veal, as of her manor of Penlegh, by the service of 6s. 111d. and suit at the court of Penlegh. Two other messuages, the mill, 20 acres of land, 7 acres of meadow, and 23³ acres of wood are held of the Prior of Farlegh as of the manor of Legh, by the service of 10s. yearly and suit at his court of Leigh; and are charged with the payment of 10s. yearly to a chantry in Litelestoke. One messuage and 14 acres of land are held from Sir John de St. Lo, as of his manor of Westbury, by the service of 15d. yearly and suit at the Hundred of Westbury. All the premises are worth 15s. 8d. a year beyond the rents paid for them. The said Katherine holds the manor of Penlegh from the Prior of Farlegh, who holds of the King.

There would still remain to the said John Mareys a messuage and z carucates of land in Bradeford, held of the Abbess of Shaston by the service of 13s. 4d., and a messuage and carucate of land in Bradele, held of Geoffrey Polton and Dennis his wife, in her right, by the like service; also a messuage and a carucate of land in Westbury held of Sir John de St. Lo by the service of 5s. and 4 capons. All these remaining tenements are worth $\not \leq$ 10 a year. To Thomas Jurdan nothing would remain.

Thomas de Beauchamp, Earl of Marwick.

Inquisition made at New Sarum, 12th January, 43 Edward III [1370], before John Froille, escheator, by the oath of jurors as in the inquisition on Walter Danseye (p. 351 below), who say that

The said Earl held for term of his life the manor of Chiriel from the King in chief by knight service, under the grant of John de Melborne and Roger de Lodebury, clerk, by fine thereof levied in the King's court, to the said Earl and his sons Guy and Thomas, in tail male successively. It is worth $\pounds 40$ a year. He likewise held for term of his life a moiety of one knight's fee in Wodebergh, with the advowson of the church of that vill, from the King in chief by knight service, under the grant of John de Bukyngham, Ralph Basset of Sapecote, Richard de Puryten, and others, to the said Earl and his son Thomas in tail male. It is worth nothing a year, because it cannot be "extended". He held in his demesne as of fee the manor of Stratford Tony from the Earl of Lancaster, and the manor of Newenton Tony from the Earl of Hereford, but long before his death he had therewith enfeoffed John de Bukyngham, now Bishop of Lincoln, John de Beauchamp, and others.

The said Earl died 13th November last. The said Thomas, aged 24, is his son and heir, his son Guy having died without issue male.

Jbo, son and heir of Milliam Kitz Maryn of Mhitynton.

Proof of age made at New Sarum, 20th February, 43 Edward III [1370], upon a writ directed to John de Eucsham.

Robert Cook (aged 70), Walter Wormbrugge (60), Matthew Chanew (52), and Simon de Berewyk (46) say that the said Ivo was born at Blountesdon St. Andrew, 30th November, 21 Edward III [1357], and baptized in the church of that vill the same year. They were present at an agreement made between the said William and John Vernon touching a matter in dispute between them, of which indentures were drawn up that day, now in the custody of the said William's executors.

John Wade (46), John Geboun (52), and William Wyuelescote (43) remember the date. because on that day they were enfeoffed with certain lands in Blountesdon aforesaid.

Andrew Jones (50) had a son named John, who died on the said 30th of November, and the date of his death is entered in the missal of the said church for a perpetual memorial.

Roger Shepherd (56), Roger Warre (44), John Longe Dighere (60), and William Wattes (50) were on that day witnesses to a charter of alienation of a messuage and virgate of land made by William, father of the said Ivo, to William de Pavely.

Edmund de Chelreye, who has custody of the lands of the said Ivo, was present at the said proof, and had nothing to object either on behalf of the King or himself.

Agnes, who was wife of John Maudurt.

1 nquisition made at Malmesbury, 22nd September, 43 Edward III [1369], before John Euesham [?], escheator; by the oath of William Hasard, Richard Perfet, Thomas Clyue, Ralph Bluet, Robert Chyuerden, William Keynesham, Henry Humfray, John Stowell, John Bracy, Henry Wakefeld, John Russel, and Robert Rydel, who say that

The said Agnes was enfeoffed, jointly with the said John her husband, with the manors of Whitele and the advowson of the chapel of that manor, of Somerford Mauduyt with a like advowson, and of Farnhull. The first is held of the King, by what service they do not know, and owes suit of court every three weeks to the Hundred of Calne, belonging to Lord William la Souche of Haringworth; the manor and advowson are worth f_{6} 10s. 8d. a year clear. The manor of Somerford Mauduyt is held of the Abbot of Malmesbury by knight service, and owes suit every three weeks to his court baron; the manor and advowson are worth f 20 6s. 4d. a year. The manor of Farnhull is held of the Abbess of Shaston in socage, by doing suit at her Hundred of Tissebury for all services; it is worth 10s. yearly. Richard, parson of Tissebury, and Henry Bailmond, parson of Somerford Mauduyt, WILTS INO .- VOL. III. $3 by two fines levied in the King's court in the Quinzaine of St. John, 7 Edward III [1332], granted the said manors to the said John and Agnes in tail male, with contingent remainder to John de Moleyns and Egidia his wife in tail. The said John and Agnes are dead without issue male, wherefore the premises remain to William, son and heir of the said John de Moleyns and Egidia.

The said Agnes held on the day she died the manor of Lokynton, under joint feoffment to herself and Thomas de Bradeston, her last husband, with reversion to his heirs. It is held of the Earl of Herford by knight service, and is worth \pounds_16 a year clear.

Thomas de Bradeston, son and heir of Sir Robert de Bradeston, knight, aged 18, is next heir of Lokynton. The said Agnes died 31st August last. William de Moleyns, aged 30 and more, is her next heir.

John Goubray of Ariholme.

nquisition taken at New Sarum, 14th April, 43 Edward III [1369], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of John Lyngynere, William Vellard, Stephen Cook, John Fraunceys, Walter Gerard, John Kene, John Nene, Henry Bartur [?], John Prynce, John Knyth, Nicholas atte Putte, and John Coof, who say that

The said John held the manor of Westhacche, in right and of the inheritance of Elizabeth, late his wife deceased, of the Abbess of Shaftebury as of fee farm by a yearly rent of $\pounds 6$. It is worth 10 marks clear and not more, because Master John Corf, John de Lyncolne, chaplain, and John Hodgkyns thus hold the manor at farm as executors of Richard de Kyrkeby, late parson of the church of Berewyk St. John, to whom John, late Lord Segrave, demised it for the term of 20 years at a rent of 10 marks.

They do not know when John de Moubray died, nor who is his heir. The Essex jurors say he died abroad about the Feast of the Nativity of the B.V.M. last. John, his son and heir, was 4 at the Feast of St. Peter Advincula last.

nquisition taken at Marlborough on Monday after Michaelmas, 44 Edward III [1370], before John de Foxle, keeper of the King's forests this side of Trent, by the oath of John Wyly, lieutenant of Henry Esturmy in the bailiwick of Savernake Forest, Peter Pepard, Robert Hardene, Thomas Pak', Nicholas Langenow, and John Janeworth, foresters; William Chamberleyn and John Gybon, verderers; Nicholas Boteler, John Auncel, Thomas Scoley [?], William Rolfe, Richard B ..., Peter Symondes, Adam Borgelon, Peter Olyver, Robert Edmond, John Kepenhull, John Herbelot, and John Stanford, regarders; John Fuirford and Harry Toppare, agisters; Robert Riche, Robert Skalerne, Walter Somersete, John Chanyn, John Fermer, Thomas Berlegh, John Mourkoc, John Parkyn, John Russel, William Kyng, and John Toukare, freeholders; Thomas Lody, Henry Pope, Robert Heware, William Bonde, John Hayl', William Billyng, Henry [?] Baggy, John Jolyf, John Bole, John Rogers, Richard ate Yate, Thomas Bakere, Adam Russel, and William Chanyn, woodwards within the meets and bounds of the forest aforesaid, who say that a year. There are other profits attached to the said bailiwick as follows: the dead wood of the King's demesne for 3 weeks before Christmas, and for 3 weeks before Easter, and for 3 weeks before Michaelmas, to be collected and not cut down by any implement: also any old wood cut down other than windfalls, which ought to belong to the King; and so much herbage as is in the King's demesne of Braydene as far as Wydenreche, and the right to agist the beasts of any men he pleases in the winter in the angle of the King's demesne on the west side of the place called Merewey as far as Drayston in the said forest. He may also keep his own beasts and pigs in the said places guit of herbage and pannage: He has also the right to receive from the tenants of the lands of Nicholas Barbefluyt, as a certain payment for the agistment of their cattle in the said angle, 12d. yearly, from the vill of Elcote in like manner 6d., from the tenant of the lands of Henry Douuere 12d., from the vill of Manton 12d., and from the tenants of the lands of William Wood (de Bosco) and Thomas Russ...e 6d. The King has the profits of the agistment during the summer. The forester also has the right to have one man carrying sand from the said forest yearly for ever, and to have all the fern in the bailiwick throughout the year, except in the close month. He has also the 'retro-pannagium' of the agistment of pigs from Martinmas to the Feast of the Purification, and . . . trunks against Christmas by the livery of the keepers and verderers of the bailiwick, also competent timber [?] and his reasonable estovers.

Henry Esturmy now holds the west bailiwick in the King's forest of Savernake, and to this bailiwick belongs certain land, viz.: 2 virgates occupied by the said Henry, under the gift and feoffment of John Hermot, John Euerard, and Andrew Chee' of Eluetham to the said Henry and his heirs. One of these virgates is in the vill of Estwyke, lying in a place called Boueclyf between the cover of Savernake forest and the great hill called Matteleshore; the other virgate lies under cover of Iwode in the said forest, to wit, in 3 crofts, one acre of wood and one acre of meadow, and is called Wrencheslond. The said lands are in the King's forest of Savernake. The bailiwick, with its profits and the said lands, is held of the King in chief by a rent of 52s., and by the service of keeping the said bailiwick, to wit, by finding 3 foresters on foot under him there to keep the same according to the Assize of the Forest. The said lands are worth 13s. 4d.

John Cary.

Inquisition made at New Sarum, 22nd October, 45 Edward III [1371], before John Froille, the King's escheator, by the oath of Richard Torald, John Tydelside, Edward atte Dene, Hubert Cordray, James Staundene, John Hommedieu of Chuyt, John Kepenhull of Peuesy, John Fayreford, Walter Gerueys, William Neuman, Thomas Forstebury, and John Kepenhull of Colyngborne, who say that

John Cary held in his demesne as of fee, on the day he died, a certain bailiwick of forestry in Selewode from the King in chief by grand sergeanty and by a rent of 15s. 4d. yearly payable to the sheriff; worth 4od. a year clear.

He died 9 years and more ago. John Cary, now alive, is his brother and heir, aged 30 and more. The King has occupied the bailiwick since the death of John deceased, by the hands of his bailiff, because the heir has not sued forth his right.

John de Lisle, chivaler.

Inquisition taken at Lodegarshale, 24th January. +4 Edward III [1371], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of Richard Torald, John Tidelside, Edward atte Dene, Hubert

Cordray, James Slaunden, John Hommedieu of Chuyt, John Kypenhull of Peusey, John Fayreford, Walter Gerveys, William Neuman, Thomas Forstebury, and John Kypenhull of Colyngborne, who say that

The said John held a parcel of a certain bailiwick of the forest of Chuyt called Ippyngescombe, in the south part, from the King in chief as parcel of the said forest; worth nothing beyond the reprises.

The said John gave to Ralph de Escote the custody of one parcel of the said bailiwick called Wiltshirehaye in the county of Wilts, with another parcel in the county of Southampton to the first parcel annexed, called Capiedene, for term of the life of the said Ralph, without the King's licence, as appears by the said John's charter made at Chuyt on Tuesday in Easter week, 42 Edward III [1368]. He held the manor of Chuyt jointly with his wife Maud, who survives, from the Abbot of Hyde by the service of 61s. and the payment of 5s. to Edward atte Dene and his heirs; it is worth 13s. 4d. clear. This they have in tail, by gift of Walter Not, clerk, and Philip Upton, with contingent remainder to the right heirs of the said John.

They do not know on what day the said John de Lisle died, because he died abroad. John, his son and heir, was aged 3 on the Feast of the Assumption last. The Somerset inquisition says he died on Sunday before St. Katherine's Day, 44 Edward III.

Godefrey Scudemore.

Writ (22nd October, 45 Edward III [1371]) addressed to the Treasurer and Barons of the Exchequer, directing them to search the Red Book of the Exchequer and the rolls and memoranda touching the account of Thomas de Seymour and his associates, collectors of the aid upon the knighting of the Black Prince to ascertain the knights' fees held by the said Godfrey in Wilts.

The return to this writ is an extract from the Red Book at folio 91 under the heading of Charter of Godfrey de Scudemore: Godfrey de Scudemore holds from Robert de Weyas 4 knights' fees of the ancient fee, and of the new he holds one knight's fee in the keeping of two knights; and of the ancient fee there are two feoffees, to wit, Waler' de Scudemore and Waler' Giffard. And he makes another [aliud facil] of his demesne. And the same Godfrey concerning this service has attorned to the King's hand for judgment in the King's court; let the King make his plea thereupon.

Also in the roll of the particulars of the account of Thomas de Seymour, late sheriff of Wilts, John de Lufteshull, and Walter de Chirendon, collectors of the said aid in 20 Edward III [1346] under the heading Hundred of Weremynstre: From Walter de Eskudemor for $\frac{1}{2}$ and $\frac{1}{2}$ fee, which formerly belonged to Walter de Eskudemor and Roger de Bauente in Upton, 30s. From Roger Bauente for $\frac{1}{2}$ and $\frac{1}{4}$ fee of the lands formerly belonging to Walter Eskudemor and Roger Bauente in Norton Bauente, 30s.; and under the heading Hundred of Chalk: From Roger Bauente for $\frac{1}{2}$ fee of the lands formerly belonging to Roger Bauente in Fifhide, 8s.

Joan, who was wife of John de Alrorhale, chibaler.

Inquisition made at Swyndon, 9th November, 45 Edward III [1371], before John Froille, the King's escheator, by the oath of John Andrew, Robert Chambre, Thomas Manlion, John Maureward, Adam Shirwold, John Jones, Thomas Messager, Richard Dyere, Richard Braye, William Presson, John atte Fenne, and Robert Dummere, who say that

The said Joan held a wood called Peuereleswode in Cheleworth in the forest of Bradone and half the Hundred of Stapele from the King in chief, by knight service, as of the manor of Cheleworth, which descended to her on the death of her father John Peuerel. They are worth together 20s. yearly.

The said Joan died 30 years and more ago. Maud de Wroxhale, daughter of the said John and Joan, is her next heir, and aged 40 and more. John de Wroxhale alienated the premises during the life of the said Joan to Hugh le Despencer senior, but neither the said Joan nor Maud ever released their rights to him. The said Hugh forfeited all his rights, so that since his death the King and Queen have occupied the premises, and taken the profits thereof by the hands of the bailiff of the said manor.

John, son and heir of Thomas Cary.

I NQUISITION taken at Frome on Saturday after the Feast of St. John before the Latin Gate, 46 Edward III [1372], before Peter atte Wode, lieutenant of John de Foxle, keeper of the King's forest this side of Trent, by the oath of John Wyion and Richard Palmere, foresters; William Morys and William Lyuedene, verderers; Thomas Oseberne, Nicholas Bradeford, George Pryketo, John Colston, Richard Colsweyn, John Touk, Richard atte Grove, John atte Mulle, Thomas Reynold, John Broun, Nicholas Broke, John Durwyne, and Thomas Dene, free and lawful men of the parts of Selwode forest, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow the said John to convey the custody of the said forest to Roger de Stourton and John his son, to hold to them and the heirs of the said Roger by the services thereupon due and accustomed. It is held of the King in chief by paying 135. 4d. yearly by the hands henry Sturmy.

Inquisition made at Cherelehampstrete, 19th October, 45 Edward III [1371], before John Froille, the King's escheator, by the oath of Thomas Stocke, John Kepenhull, Robert Hardene. William Chamberlayne, William Hoppegras, John Herbelot, Robert Scalerne, John Fermer, Thomas Clerc, Geoffrey Dighere, Robert Staundon, and John Clerc, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow the said Henry to grant 2 messuages, a toft, a mill, 3 carucates and 22 acres of land, 6 acres of meadow, 8 acres of pasture, 30 acres of wood, and £,4 os. 6d. rents in Estwyke, Clenche, Middelton, Peuesey, Upauene, and Wotton Ryvers, to the Prior and Canons of the Holy Trinity in Eston to pray specially for the King, the Prince of Wales, and the said Henry, and for their souls and the soul of Queen Philippa after their death. The premises are held of several lords, viz., of the Earl of Stafford by a rent of 20s., the Abbot of Battle by a rent of 125. 6d., the Abbot of Hyde by a rent of 115., Thomas de la Ryuere by a rent of 95., John Wacche, 8s. 8d., John Vyus, 5s. 6d., Thomas Tamese, 5s. The premises are worth 10 marks a year beyond the said rents paid for them. There would still remain to the said Henry the manor of Wolfhale, held of the Earl of Stafford by socage, worth £20, and the manor of Burbache, held of the Earl of Herford by socage and worth 20 marks.

Maud, daughter and heir of Joan, who was wife of John de Mrorbale, chivaler.

nquisition taken before Walter Haywode, sheriff of Wilts, at Crikkelade on St. Luke's Day, 45 Edward III [1371], upon a writ to inquire what estate the said John de Wroxhale had in a wood called Peverelleswode in Chelworth in the forest of Bradene, and in a moiety of the Hundred of Staple, by the oath of John Andreu the elder, John Maureward, John Jones, Adam Shirwold, John Andreu the younger, Thomas Manlyon, Robert Chaumbre, Richard Dighere of Crikkelade, Robert Dommere, Richard Breye, John atte Fenne, and William Preston, who say that

The said John, who married Joan, daughter and heir of John Peverel, held the premises by the law of England after her death for term of his life, and in no other way. He alienated them in fee to Hugh le Despenser the elder during the life of his said wife Joan. The said Maud is daughter and next heir of the said Joan, and neither of them released their rights to the said Hugh, nor to the King. No lands descended to the said Maud by inheritance from her father on his death.

Manors of Worton and fikhide.

Write addressed to Thomas de Hungerford and William Werneton (18th June, 45 Edward III [1371]) directing them to make an inquisition in consequence of the petition of John de Montagu to the King and his Council, presented in the last Parliament at Westminster, showing that Roger Bavent, chivaler, deceased, lately held the said manors from John, late Bishop of Exeter, as of the inheritance of the said bishop, by the service of 4 knights' fees and a rent of 60s., which services and rent the said bishop granted to the said John by fine [notam] levied in the King's court. Roger granted the said manors to the King, who gave them to the Prioress of Derteford in frankalmoin, discharged of the said service of 4 fees and the said rent. 'The King will revoke the letters patent to the Prioress, and grant them to be held as heretofore they have been held.

Inquisition made at New Sarum on Saturday before the Feast of St. Margaret the Virgin (45 Edward III [1371]), before the said commissioners, and in the presence of William Upton, attorney of the said prioress, by the oath of Thomas Gore, John Bulkynton, Nicholas Botiller, John Neweman, William Neweman, Peter Frankelayn, John Asshelegh, William Haberuylle, John Brokkelegh, John Wolff, John Colynes, and William Clyue, who say that William Baillyf of Melkesham, the younger.

I NQUISITION made at Cherlhamstrete next Hungerford, 28th January, 45 Edward III [1371], before John Froille, the King's escheator in co. Wilts, by the oath of William Wyke, John Herbelol, John Chanyn, John Hommes, Richard Staunton, Geoffrey Dighere, John Pykerel, John Farman, Reginald Hoppegras, Thomas Coterel, and William Trison, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow the said William le Baillyf to retain 40 acres of pasture in Melkesham, which his father, William le Baillyf the elder, acquired without the King's licence from John, son of Ralph le Gras. The premises are held of the King in chief as of the assart of Melkesham Forest by a rent of 13s. 4d., and are worth nothing beyond that.

Inquisition taken at Wynterbourn Earls before the abovesaid escheator, 19th August, 46 Edward III [1372], by the oath of Richard Gerard, John Olivere, Henry Remmesbury, John Bacheler, Thomas Donpoll, Adam Goudchild, Thomas Ede, William Kaneford, John Shereue, William Tokkenham, John Knyth', and Thomas Alman, who say that

The said Thomas held in his demesne as of fee, under joint feoffment to himself and his wife Joan, who survives, a messuage, one carucate of land, and 2 acres of meadow in Wynterbourne aforesaid from the Earl of Salisbury by the service of 25d.; worth 13s. 4d. beyond the reprise. Also, in like manner, one messuage, one dovecote, one fulling mill, 6 acres of arable land, and 2 acres of meadow in Wynterbourne Forde from the Abbess of Willon by the service of 12s., worth 2s. yearly beyond that rent; likewise one messuage and 21 acres of land there from the Bishop of Salisbury by the service of 10s. a year, worth 3s. more; and one messuage, one carucate of arable land, and 11 acres of meadow from Hugh Cheyny by the service of 20s. 8d., worth 6s. 8d. more. Also 1/2 acre of meadow in Hurdecote from the Prior of Bradenestoke by the service of 4d., worth nothing beyond the reprise, and one messuage and 30 acres of land in Wynterbourne Dauntesey from John Daunteseye, chivaler, by the service of 12s. a year, worth 3s. 4d. more.

The said Thomas died 8th May, 36 Edward III [1362]. His next heir is Joan de Wantyng, daughter of Elizabeth, daughter of John de Wynterbourne, father of the said Thomas, aged 29 and more.

Thomas, son and heir of John Canynges and Susan his wife.

Proof of age made at Stratton St. Margaret before the abovesaid escheator, 20th September, 46 Edward III [1372].

Peter Harald (aged 40), Robert Palmere (38), Thomas Lyle (50), and John Henryes (37) say that the said Thomas was born at Stratton aforesaid, and baptized in the parish church there, 23rd March, 25 Edward III [1351]. They were present at Stratton on that day at the making of an agreement between the said John Canynges and Sir William Filzwaryn, knight, concerning which indentures were drawn up bearing that date, which are now in the keeping of the said John's executors.

John Palmere (52) remembers the date, because he had a son named James, who died the same day, and the date of the death is written in the missal of the said church for a perpetual remembrance.

Edward Wympel (38) and Laurence Horder (36) recollect, because on that day they were enfeoffed with certain lands, etc., in Stratton aforesaid, and the deed of feoffment bears that date.

John Robynes (53) and John le Heose (39) were with John Canynges at Stratton on that day, when he was enfeoffed with a messuage, 15 acres of land, and one acre of meadow there, and they were witnesses to the deed of feoffment, which bears that date.

John Tokkenham (43) says that on that day he saw Laurence, vicar of the church of St. Margaret of Stratton, Thomas Bondy, and Christina Bonde act as godparents to the said Thomas Canynges.

Richard Skargil, keeper of the lands of the said Thomas, was warned to attend by John Jordan and William Godchip, but did not come.

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow Sir John Meryet to grant a moiety of the manor of Westkyngton to Sir William de Boneuile, knight, to hold of the Crown for his life, by the accustomed services, with reversion to Sir John and his heirs. The said moiety is held by knight service, and is worth 40s. clear a year. Sir John would still retain the manor of Maydencote, held of the King in chief by knight service.

Margaret de Romeseye.

nquisition made at Coumbe, 5th October, 47 Edward III [1373], before John Froille, the King's escheator in Wilts, by the oath of John Chamberlayn, William Gerberd, Thomas Rede, Richard Lambard, John Yonge, John Frye, Nicholas Miles, William Kery, Roger Wodecok, John Hoghes, John Dygon, and Henry Gonaire, who say that

The said Margaret held in her demesne as of fee, on the day she died, a moiety of the manor of Coumbe from the King in chief by knight service, worth 100s. yearly.

She died 16th September last. Walter de Romeseye, chivaler, aged 30 and more, is her son and heir.

Walter, son and heir of Bugo fitz Waryn.

Proof of age made at Malmesbury, 19th September, 47 Edward III [1373], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of John Brumylham [?], Richard Perfet, William Kaynesham, Thomas Mourle, Henry Umfray, William Heyr [?], William Anesse, Walter Ameneye, Adam Lyndle, Peter Dauy, Robert Chynerden, and Thomas Clyue, all aged 50 and more, who say that

The said Walter was born at Boxe, and baptized in the church of that vill on the Feast of the Assumption, 23 Edward III [1349]. They remember, because the said church is dedicated in honour of the Assumption of the B.V.M., and they were all there in one company as pilgrims, and they saw Walter de Paueley, his godfather, receive him from the font.

Richard Urdele, keeper of the inheritance of the said Walter, held of the heir of John Pauely, deceased, attended at this proof, and had nothing to oppose thereto.

Richard, son and heir of Milliam Duintyn of Whycheford.

Droof of age made at New Sarum, 15th August, 47 Edward III [1373], before the abovesaid escheator.

John Roger (aged 46), John Daubeneye (50), John Sergeaunt (48), Robert Maggas (44), John Stabbere (52), and John Rous (60) say that the said Richard was born at Wicheford, and baptized in the parish church there, 29th January, 25 Edward III [1351]. They were all in the said church that day with the Earl of Devon, in a loveday with the Abbot of Malmesbury, and by the date of certain indentures then drawn up, now in the custody of the said John Daubeneye, they are very sure of the date.

Robert Hareburgh (60), Henry Calne (50), John atte More (56), John Phelip (48); Robert Kynggemull (52), and John Dressour (54) remember the date, because the said Robert Kynggemull had a son named John, who died that day, and the rest went forthwith to the said church with him, as his kinsmen and nearest friends, and had the said John's death written in the missal there as a perpetual remembrance, which missal was now produced before the said escheator and jurors.

Nicholas de Bonham, keeper of the inheritance of the said Richard, son of William, was present, and had no objection to offer.

Richard Bampton, bicar of Chyrughton. nquisition made at Marlebergh, 26th February, 47 Edward III [1373], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of John Lyngynere, John Taillor, Richard Baker, Nicholas Grys, William Gryndenham, Adam Webbe, Roger Pynnok, John Sangere, Thomas Mulleward, Thomas Forster, William Colbrond, and Nicholas Turgys, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow the said Richard to grant 30 acres of land and 2 acres of meadow in Chirughton to the priory of Lanthony next Gloucester, to find a wax light to burn every day in the church of the said priory before the high altar at high Mass. The premises are held of the priory by the service of 9s. 1d. yearly, and are further charged with payment of 10s. and 1 lb. of pepper to the Abbess of St. Mary of Winchester. The priory holds of the heirs of Humphrey de Bohun, late Earl of Hereford, and they of the King. The said tenements are worth 20d. a year beyond the abovesaid charges.

Picholas de Bonham and others.

1 nquisition made at Weremenstre, 17th September, 47 Edward III [1373], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of Thomas Gore, John Bulkynton, John Leuerych, Roger ..., William Lyueden, Thomas Oseberne, John Gore, Walter Bole,

Walter Urry, Roger Fraunkeleyn, Peter Sommenour, and Richard Hall, who say that

It would be no damage to the King or any other to allow Nicholas de Bonham, John Mareys, and Thomas Jordan, chaplain, to grant to the rector and brethren of the House of Edyndon one messuage and one virgate of land in Lauynton, and the reversion of the manor of Immere after the death of Isabel, wife of Sir John de Kyngeston, knight, and of a messuage, water-mill, and half virgate of land in Edyndon after the death of John Nyweman and William his son; and to allow Robert Forestal to grant them the reversion of a messuage and half-virgate of land in Lavynton after the death of John Buriet, in part satisfaction of lands, etc., to the yearly value of 100 marks, which they have dicence to acquire under the King's letters patent.

The first said tenements in Lavynton are held of the said House by the service of 8s., and are charged beside with the payment of 5s. a year to the Master of the Hospitallers; they are worth 2s.beyond these charges. The said manor is held of Richard Rous by the rent of 1 lb. of pepper, and is further charged with \pounds to yearly to the Abbess of Romeseye, payable by the hands of the said Richard; he holds of the Abbess, and she of the King in frankalmoin. It is worth 4os. a year clear. The premises in Edyndon are held of the said Abbess by the service of 16s., and are charged with ros. yearly to John Palmere of Asshton, and his heirs; the Abbess holds as above, and the tenements are worth 3s. 4d. a year beyond the charges. The last said tenements in Lavynton are held of the King in chief by knight service, and are worth 3s. 4d.a year clear. The grantors would retain no other property in the county.

The Borough of Milton.

I I QUISITION taken at the manor of Claryndon on St. Valentine's Day, 47 Edward III [1373], before John de Foxle, keeper of the King's forest this side of Trent (appointed to inquire whether the burgesses of the borough of the vill of Wilton ought of right to come to the swanemote of the said forest, whether they ought to be distrained on that account, and whether "chiminagium" ought to be exacted in that vill by the foresters or other officials of the forest), by the oath of Thomas Bradewell, lieutenant of Alan de Boxhull, keeper of the said forest, Richard Lambard, John Wyion, and John Knottingle, foresters, Nicholas Bonham, John Elys, Henry Gerberd, and John Duyn, verderers, Andrew de Stratford, Peter Clerc, Philip Lufteshull, William Don, John Hulon, Richard Lambard, William Harleston, John Olyver, Thomas Rede, Robert Bont, Thomas Upehulle, and Geoffrey Tycheborne, who say that

The said burgesses, farmers of the lord the King, have not anciently been accustomed to come to any swanemote or court of the forest, nor ought any of the abovesaid demands to be made of them. At the swanemote held at New Sarum of the King's forests of Claryndon, Grovele, and Melchet, before Thomas de Breouse and his associates, justices there, 29 Edward III [1355], • the regard of the forest was.riden, and the regarders rode so that the vill of Wilton was within the regard and bounds of the forest of Gravele, whereas never before was it within those bounds. From this time the burgesses have been distrained by the forest officials to come to the swanemote, etc., and "chiminagium" has been taken in the said vill year by year; but by ancient right the foresters have been accustomed and ought to have "chiminagium" at the end of the vill of Wilton in a place called Stappes.

The said Geoffrey held in his demesne as of fee tail, jointly with his wife Elizabeth, who survives, of the King in chief by knight service, of the gift of Peter de Sutton and Gilbert Prouet, vicar of Preston Candeure, by fine thereof levied in the King's court with the King's licence, the manor of Shulden and Chippenham, worth f_{20} yearly. He held also in his demesne as of fee the manor of Great Chiverel, from Sir Nicholas Burnell, knight, by knight service; but long before his death, by indenture dated on Friday before the Feast of St. George, 47 Edward III [1373], he granted the said manor (except one dovecot, one chamber, one stable, 4 acres of arable land, and $1\frac{3}{4}$ acres of meadow) to Sir Ralph Cheyne, knight, for 10 years commencing from the Michaelmas then following, at a yearly rent of £16 13s. 4d. The manor, excepting the abovesaid reserved parcels, is worth nothing beyond the said rent; the reserved parcels are worth 6s. 8d. yearly. The said Geoffrey also held the manor of Budestone from the said Sir Nicholas Burnell at fee farm, by a rent of 20 marks; it is worth nothing more.

He died on Wednesday after the Feast of St. Matthias last past. Christian Gascelyn, his daughter and heir, is aged 19 and more.

daughters and heirs of the said Alice, and Ela de Bradeston, her other daughter and heir, in the presence of the said heirs, by the said escheator. [In bad state.]

Manor of Westbury: In the first place he assigned to the said John Chidyock and Joan, as their pourparty, one new lower [inferior] grange, with all the house called "le heyberne" and the 'dayhous' called [?] "wythyhed", and a plot of ground on the north of the said two houses, with the maintenance of the close and the 'pynfold' in common; and to the said Ela one in the upper part of the said site, in which is contained another grange, one ox-house, with a house called "le Carterstable", with all the barton . . .

The arable land divided between them lies in 'cultures' called Gauilhucche, Blaklond, Doncefurlong, Smalmedfurlong, Lyamcombe, Wrowodelonde; meadow called "le Grenewey" on "le Holewey", etc.

Rents are assigned from John Bole, for pasture of 200 sheep, from John Wyther, John Counduyt, Andrew Achele, Edward Meryng, Katherine Thwa ..; tenants holding burgages in the borough of Westbury, viz., John de Westbury, ... Wyther, John Isman the younger, John Wardour, John Cammel, John Smyth, James Gylet [?], Margaret Frebody [?], John Maugorn [?], Roger Gell, James le Goos, and Adam Wardour (other tenants' names illegible); a smithy in the tenure of Richard Frere. Other tenants are . . . Bakere, Robert Moion, Edward Kyngge, John Stordy, William Mogeon, tenant of land formerly belonging to Nicholas Prest in Stoke, Roger Nyghtyngale, Simon Bobeltre, Margery atte Hille, John Bokelere [?], Edward Dowdyng, and John Doget, bond tenants; Walter Wilcokes, John Synyer, William Phelpus, Edith Rat, Robert Willys, ... Tabor. Roger Sprot, and John Phelpus; Geoffrey Hardekyn, John Lowell, Margery Whiteheued. An unoccupied plot of ground is assigned next the churchyard, stretching from the churchyard style to the corner of the tenement formerly Alice Pounde's [?], . . . Weststrete. The advowson of the church of Westbury is assigned to the said Ela and her heirs. The rent of the 'shamelhous' and the issues of two water-mills there are dealt with.

To the said John and Joan is assigned the west part of the court of Heuedynghull, with a chamber over the gate, the 'dayhous' ... of the sheephouse on the north side; to Ela the east part of the court, with the gate at the entrance; and to each heir land and meadow on each side of the Westbreche, in Rodelondesmersshe and Estbrecche; the great garden above [?]

the court . . . the bridge beyond "le fysshewere", to make an entrance there into the court. To Ela is assigned a wood called Hullewode.

The heirs must pay jointly a rent of $\pounds 6$ to the lord of "la Broke" issuing out of . . . , and to the sheriff of Wilts for Edona Burnell for the manor of Westbury 10s. yearly.

William atte Pate.

nquisition made at Crekkelade, 7th February, 51 Edward III [1377], before Nicholas de Somerton, escheator, by the oath of John Jones, John Andrew, James Wade, John Dier, James Bokker [?], Richard Aunger, Robert Chambre, Andrew Jones, William Preston, Thomas Horlegh [?], Thomas Gerford, and John Dieugarde, who say that William atte Yate held of the King in chief, in his demesne as of fee on the day he died, one messuage, 4 acres of land, and 3 acres of meadow in Cheleworth, as of the manor of Cheleworth, by a rent of 18d. and suit of court twice a year. They are worth 3s. 4d. a year beyond the rent.

The said William died 16th September, 37 Edward III [1363]. Margery, daughter of Richard atte Hulle, aged 34 and more, was his next heir; and she entered and took the profits thereof for two months, when she conveyed the same to Thomas Costard and his assigns. Thomas received the issues for a year and a half, till William Rook, reeve of the manor of Cheleworth, disseised him, and has ever since taken the issues, by what title the jury do not know.

John de Romeseye.

nquisition made at Upauene, 4th February, 51 Edward III [1377], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of Robert Parham, Richard de Combe, William Roser, John atte Oke, John Suthwyke, Peter Raulyns, John Frankeleyn, William May, Thomas de Upcote, William Magge, John Shireue, and John Vyryng, who say that

* The said John held by the law of England, in right of his deceased wife, Avice, daughter of John, son of John de Brommore, and Joan, his wife, a messuage, a carucate of land, and 100s. rents in Chesyngbury in co. Hereford, as of the manor of Upauene, by knight service; one toft, a carucate of land, and 60s. rents in Compton, from the Duke of Lancaster by knight service; and a messuage and a virgate of land in Luttelcote, from John de l.uttelcote, by what service the jurors do not know. The premises in Chesyngbury are worth $\pounds 6$ 13s. 4d., those in Compton 100s., those in Luttelcote 20s. yearly.

The said John died 14th January last. The heir of the premises is Joan, wife of William Byforde, daughter of John, son of John de Brommore aforesaid, by his second wife Margaret, aged 18, by virtue of a fine levied in the King's court with the King's licence by Robert Mayhew, chaplain, and Richard Burcy to John de Brommore and Gena his wife, for their lives, with remainder to the said John, the son, and Joan his wife, in tail, with contingent remainder to the right heirs of the said John. Joan died without issue by the said John [sic].

Mary de St. Paul, Countess of Pembroke.

Inquisition taken at Swyndon, 18th April, 51 Edward III [1377], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of John Palmere, John de Benham, John Palmere, carpenter, William Tommes, William Vithele, Geoffrey Sopere, John Fikkedith, Thomas Russel, Thomas Hayes, John Yonge, Roger Feltewell, and Thomas Bondy, who say that

The said Countess held on the day she died the manor of Swyndon in dower from Adomar de Valence, late Earl of Pembroke, her former husband; of which a fine was levied in Michaelmas term, 19 Edward III [1345], and Easter term, 20 Edward III [1346], between Thomas Talebot, plaintiff, and Richard Talebot and Elizabeth, his wife, deforciants (at which time the said Mary held the said manor of the inheritance of the said Elizabeth), conveying the reversion thereof to the said Thomas. The said Mary was then present in court, and did fealty to the said Thomas. It is worth £15 18s. 10d. a year.

The said Mary died 16th March last. Gilbert Talebot is next heir of the said Thomas, viz. son of the said Richard, son of Gilbert, grandfather of the said Gilbert, son of Richard [sic], aged 36 and more.

Manors of fasterne, etc.

Return made to the King's writ, dated 10th May, 51 Edward III [1377], to the Treasurer and Barons of the Exchequer, requiring information as to the value, etc., of certain manors.

Search in the rolls of the Exchequer shows as follows: In the great roll of the 49th year [1375-6] it is recorded that William de Worst.. has at farm the manors of Fasterne, Wotton, and Wynterbourne, from Michaelmas, 43 Edward III [1369], for ten years, at an annual rent of £96; and he has an allowance of 4d. a day for the wages of Robert Parker, to whom the King granted such wages as keeper of the park of Fasterne for his life. Also that Bernard Brocas has the manor of Compton Basset in recompense of £50 a year granted him by the King from 30th July, 47 Edward III [1373], for his life. In the account of William Rook of the issues of the manor of Cheleworth for the 49th year, in the roll of accounts of the lands that belonged to Queen Philippa, the said William answers for the issues of the said manor £36 8s. $0\frac{1}{2}d$, of the which sum he was allowed in rent, paid to the Earl of Cornwall yearly at Michaelmas, 215. 10d.

In the account of John Baron of the issues of the manor of Tokenham in the said 49th year (contained as the last), he answers for the issues thereof $\pounds 21$ 13s. 5d. In the 48th year [1374-5] in the same roll, in "Wyltes", it is recorded that Michael Skyllyng had the manor of Merdenne at farm for $\pounds 21$ yearly, from Michaelmar 13 Edward III [1369], to 13th November, 47 Edward III [1373], on which day the King granted the said manor to Sir John Dauntesey, knight, and Joan his wife, and to the heirs of their bodies.

There is nothing to show whether all the other abovesaid manors are members of the manor of Fasterne or not, nor what charges there are upon them, except as abovesaid.

Thomas Lexcestre.

Inquisition taken at Aumbesbury, 8th November, 50 Edward III [1376], before Nicholas de Somerton, escheator, by the oath of William Morwelese, John Hulleu, William Duyk, John Mascal, William Caneford, John Trotyn, John Baillif, Robert

Hulle, John Willeton, Edmund Ayllewyn, John Vernon, and John Huberd, who say that

Thomas Leycestre of Fissherton was outlawed on Monday before the Feast of St. Barnabas last for divers felonies. He held, in right of his wife Agnes, 5 messuages, 5 shops, and a carucate of land in Fissherton and Bymerton, and 9s. 8d. rents there, from Henry Popham, by a rent of 5s. yearly. The messuages and shops are worth nothing, because they are in ruins and unroofed, so that no tenant can live in them. The land is worth 20s. beyond the rent.

John Modebergh and others.

Inquisition taken at Crekkelade, 6th February, 51 Edward III [1377], before the abovesaid escheator, by the oath of Thomas Morleigh, Simon Berewyk, John Dieugard, John Jones, John Andrew, James Wade, Thomas Gerford, James Bukkere, Richard Aunger, Robert Chambre, William Preston, and Andrew Jones, who say that

There are in the King's hands in Marlebergh, as an escheat, a tenement formerly John Wodebergh's, worth 4s. yearly, a grange formerly Henry Diere's, worth 4s., a tenement formerly John Bonel's, 5s., a messuage formerly Robert Gates' [?], worth 2d. a year, and not more, because it is ruinous and roofless. These tenements came into the hands of the late Queen Philippa in 36 Edward III [1362-3] for want of heirs. There are no heirs of the blood of any of the said late tenants. A tenement formerly Richard Dardy's remains in the King's hands there for the same reason; worth nothing a year, because there is no building on it [quia non edificatur]. The vill of Marlebergh is held of the King in chief. Alice Spencer, John Whitside [?], John Thurlewynd, and Thomas Hurde occupy the said tenements by demise of William Fifhide, formerly steward of the said late Queen.
