Wiltshire Notes and Queries.

MARCH, 1907.

JUDGE NICHOLAS.

Admiral Collier, fourth son of Admiral Sir George Collier (a famous seaman, and sometime M.P. for Honiton), deposited in the British Museum a large collection of Nicholas documents, which he had probably acquired by marrying Harriet, a daughter of Robert Nicholas, of Ashton Keynes; she died in 1850, her husband in 1870.

We propose in some future numbers to print these, abounding, as they do, in interest, especially to those who live, or are concerned, in the neighbourhood of Devizes, this family belonging to Cannings and Roundway.

In Vol. I of W. N. & Q. will be found the Will, with a short note, of Robert Nicholas, Chief Baron of the Exchequer under Cromwell, and in Vol. III Mr. Kite writes a short but interesting account of this able lawyer, and undoubtedly a Cromwellian of strong convictions and somewhat violent behaviour; correcting some of the mistakes which had occurred in various books, and which afterwards found their way into that monumental work, the Dictionary of National Biography; its Editor has since acknowledged these corrections in the Volume of Errata, which he afterwards published.

Many people seem to think that the printing of such documents as Wills, Registers, etc., to be dull and uninteresting; surely they are among those whom John Willet, if he had occasion to tackle them, would accuse of being wanting in imagination. A great master-interpreter of the human heart, who, none would allow to be dull and uninteresting, has written, "in all those dusty registers that the worms are eating, there is not a line but made some hearts leap, or some tears flow, in their day. Still and dry now, still and dry." How often is Comedy, how often is Tragedy contained within those covers! What self-sacrifice and patience, what forgiveness at the last moment; what scenes of affectionate attendance, of grief, of love, of envy and jealousy, malice and avarice, perhaps often of callousness and indifference, are brought to our minds by the reading of Wills; we often, too, gain a knowledge of the manners and customs of the time; and in the pious preambles we perceive the gradual changes in the expression of faith; we note the various pieces of furniture in use, the necessary domestic utensils in a household of the period, pictures, ornaments and jewellery; and by a succession of such documents we are enabled to trace with some accuracy the history of a family.

The Inventory which follows—it, together with the Marriage Settlement, has been copied by Miss E. M. Thompson from the MSS. in the British Museum—will perhaps afford a picture of how the interior of a not important house looked like two hundred and fifty years ago, and what sort of life was led in it by an able, active man, doomed now by circumstances to an unwilling inactivity,

"Remote, unfriendly, melancholy, slow."

It is probable that after the happy Restoration of the King, Robert Nicholas, who had been busy, not only in national affairs, but also had taken a prominent part in those of Devizes during Cromwell's usurpation of the King's authority, thought it wiser and safer to lie low and seek the seclusion of a small village; his house—which it was we know not, there is a sort of tradition that a larger one in that part was pulled down many years ago—was situated in Seend Rew, a retired spot on the north-west side of the village, below the hill behind the Trowbridge road. It will be noted how greatly the value of the books and MSS. (perhaps the now lost Adversaria were amongst them) is out of all proportion to his other effects.

JUDGE NICHOLAS' MARRIAGE SETTLEMENT WITH

This Indenture tripartite made 20th day of May, 15 Charles I, between Robert Nicholas, of the Borough of Devizes, co. Wilts, esq., of the first part; Dame Elizabeth Lynde, of Twickenham, co. Middlesex, widow, and Alexander Lynde, of Twickenham, esq., eldest son of the said Dame Elizabeth, of the second part; and Anne Lynde, one of the daughters of the said Dame Elizabeth, of the third part. Witnesseth that Robert Nicholas, in consideration of a marriage to be solemnised by God's grace between him and the said Anne, and for £500 paid to him by Dame Elizabeth as the marriage portion of the said Anne Lynde, and in consideration of a competent jointure to be made to the said Anne for her dower, doth for himself, his heirs, executors, and assigns, covenant that he, the said Robert, his heirs, etc., shall stand seized of and in a messuage or tenement with the appurtenances in the Borough of Devizes, now in the occupation of the said Robert Nicholas, the capital messuage or farm of Rundway, a toft and yardland called "Baldnams", and a close of meadow called the "Pricketts", in the parish of Bishops Cannings, lately in the occupation of Thomas Nicholas, gent., or his assigns; certain grounds called Holcroft, in the said parish, in the tenure of Robert Nicholas; and of and in all singular houses, buildings, barns, etc., orchards, gardens, etc., meadows, etc., to the premises appertaining: to the use of the said Robert Nicholas for life, without impeachment of waste; then to the use of the said Anne for her life for her jointure, and after her decease to the use of the said Robert Nicholas, his heirs, and assigns forever; the premisses being declared hereby discharged from all other gifts, grants, entails, etc., and from all other rights, titles, etc., and encumbrances whatsoever permitted or done by the said Robert Nicholas or John Nicholas, his father, deceased, or by any other person or persons claiming under them, or either of them; except the chief rents to the lord or lords of the fee or fees; and except a lease made by said Robert of the capital messuage of Rundway, "Baldnams" and "Pricketts" by indenture of 24 March, 8 Charles I, to Thomas Nicholas for a term of 20 years for the yearly rent of £80—which rent during said term shall be payable to Robert, and at his death to Anne aforesaid, and after her death to Robert and his heirs. With the promise to do any further legal act or acts to assure the premisses, so long as the said Robert or his heirs be not compelled to travel above 20 miles from his or their usual dwelling, except it be to the City of London or Westminster, and the promise, for the above considerations, of a further provision to the said Anne of £70 a year for her life. [Signatures of Elizabeth Lynde, Alex. Lynde, and Anne Lynde.]

Add. Ch. 37,582. [One of the counterparts of the foregoing signed by Elizabeth Lynde, Alex. Lynde, and Robert Nicholas.]

Rest of goods and chattells to Alice his wife, executrix, with George Burleigh, of Whistelei, gentleman, and Robert Noies, his aforesaid master, overseers. [Proved at London, 3rd July, A.D. 1582.]

PATENT ROLL, 24 ELIZABETH, PART 9.

A.D. 1582.—The Queen confirms to Edward Earl of Hertford, all lands granted to his late father, Edward Seymour, Duke of Somerset, by Kings Henry VIII and Edward VI, including manors of Erchefounte and Alcanynnges and Grafton Court, with appurtenances and full liberties and privileges. Tested by the Queen at Westminster, 23 June. By writ of Privy Seal.

CHANCERY PROCEEDINGS, TEMP. ELIZABETH. [M. m. 5, No. 17.]

A.D. 1589(?).—George Mortimer, of Urchfonte, co. Wilts, petitions, that whereas Andrew Rogers, esquire [and Lady Mary his wife] were seized in their demesne as of freehold for three lives of and in the manor and site of Erchfont, alias Urshent, alias Urchfont, and all lands and meadows, etc., belonging, and certain grounds called Thonges and Broadhanis (?) lately in the tenure of Robert Noyes, by grant of Francis Newtigate, and so seized demised the premisses to farm to said George Mortimer, in the same manner as said Andrew Rogers and Lady Mary his wife and their daughter Philipone had them granted to them by Edward Lord Hertford, for term of seven years for certain rents, by indenture, 6 May, 30 Elizabeth, reserving to themselves right to re-enter the premisses on arrears of rents beyond 14 days after the due time of payment, that a writ of subpana may be issued against said Andrew Rogers for fraudulently combining with one Dionise Fisher, citizen and skinner, of London, to disturb him (George Mortimer) in possession of the premisses on plea of debt.

EXCHEQUER, T.R. COURT OF REQUESTS. [Proceedings.
Bundle 27, No. 8.]

A.D. 1588-1589.—Agnes Shergall, widow of Robert Shergall, prays that whereas John Ernley, late of Canynges, co. Wilts, esquire, deceased, demised the farm of Wedhampton to one John Toucker her father, and said Agnes and Robert Shergall and survivors of them, said Agnes surviving, being seized thereof, on 7 September, 26 Elizabeth, delivered her title in the premisses to her son, John Shergall, who had procured a lease in reversion of same, on condition of fulfilment of the agreement made in her behalf with him before Michael Erneley, esquire, and Thomas Long, gentleman, that said John should keep her (his mother) after his entry into said farm in sufficient meat, drink and other necessaries according to his ability, and find her a chamber in the farmhouse so long as she remained a widow, or if she did not like to remain with him give her yearly sum of £4 to be paid quarterly; and whereas about 3 years ago last Michaelmas she disliked to remain longer with him, and chose the yearly £4, which he paid for one year and three quarters, but now, contrary to said agreement, has neglected payment for a year and a half and utterly refuses it; her Majesty will grant a writ of privy seal against John Shergall, she being a poor aged woman, to answer to the Court of Requests for arrearages.

[COURT ROLL, No. 8. Belonging to Mr. Geo. Watson-Taylor.]

TITHING OF ERCHFOUNT IN COTSETT TITHING.—Nicholas Covell tithing, man and his tithing come and say that they give to the lord of the certain and common fine this day, 8s.

YARDELAND TITHING IN ERCHFOUNT.—Edward Tackell tithing, man there with his tithing, etc., give of certain or common fine to the lord, 6s.

ESCOTT TITHING.—John Bewlie tithing man there with his tithing, etc., give of the certain or common fine, 8s.

TITHING OF WEDHAMPTON.—William Parnell and Robert Collett tithing men there, come with their tithing, etc., and give to the lord of the certain or common fine, 16s. 6d. William Edwardes is elected to the office of tithing man for the next year in the tithing of Wedhampton.

PRESENTMENT OF THE JURORS FOR THE QUEEN.—The Jurors, sworn on the articles touching this view of frankpledge as well as the court of the manor, charged upon their oath present that Michael Erneley, esquire, and William Eyres, esquire, are frecholders, and owe suit of court to-day and have made default, but because they were apparently not summoned to be here to-day therefore they are spared.

Item that Edward Lytman has taken a swarm of bees which came into the manor; and they belong to the lord of the manor, and are worth 3s. 4d.

That Mary Haddon, wife of John Haddon, Robert Hotkyns, the women servants of Richard Magges, and Agnes Osborne (12d.) are common offenders in breaking the neighbours' hedges. Therefore they are in mercy or to be punished in the stocks.

John Bisshop since the last court has died,<sup>1</sup> who at the time of his death held of the lord a cottage, curtilage garden, and orchard and pasture for one animal in Crookewood Inlandes and Holcombe, whereof there falls to the lord no heriot; the premisses belong to Johan, his widow, for life so long as she remains a widow; she is admitted tenant thereof, and has done fealty.

That many of the inhabitants have not worn hats on Sundays when they have come to the parish church according to the form of the statutes, and are in mercy, and ask the lord's favour to pardon them for 40d.

Those who ought to do so are bidden repair or new make the ruinous part of the wall towards Houndmeade from Foxley Corner as far as "Comon Shorde", before morrow of Feast of the Purification next on pain of 6s. 8d.

open place called "the grene". Therefore each of them forfeit 20s., by statute 33 Hen. VIII, cap. 9. Therefore they are in mercy as appears.

Those who ought to mend the wall or hedge of Inlandes, now in ruin, are ordered to do their part before Feast of the Annunciation on pain of 3s. 4d., and John Guydinges, Thomas Daundye, Edward Tackell, and John Bewlye are chosen to survey the said hedges and walls, and present those which are defective.

Those who ought to mend the hedges round Mead Croftes are bidden to do so in any place necessary before next Feast of the Purification on pain of 3s. 4d.

Richard Grace, who holds of the lord a messuage and 2 virgates of land in Erchefount and Escott by copy of court roll, according to custom of the manor, prolongs his stay from his foresaid tenement against custom of the manor; therefore he is in the lord's mercy, and is bidden make his abode in his own house before next court of view of frankpledge to be holden, and there to make his continual residence according to custom of the manor on pain of forfeiting 10s.

Joan, wife of John Hobbes, often trespasses against the lord by cutting twigs and underwood in Oakefrythe Coppice; therefore the bailiff and tithing man are bidden bring her into next court to be whipped, but William Dowse takes on himself to answer for Joan's good behaviour.

As to complaint of the evil conversation of Edward Willys, John Wyllys, smith. mainprises for said Edward, that he shall hereafter be of good conversation.

Every one who ought to mend any part of the hedge round Pesegaston is bidden repair or new make it before Feast of SS. Simon and Jude next, on pain of 12d.

Every one who ought is bidden to make the wall at Hay-furlong from the . . . of John Welles as far as the "Green Yate", and the occupier of the capital messuage or farm to repair the Green Waye Yate, before Feast of St. Martin, and those who ought, to repair the hedges or walls round North

Grove before the Feast of All Saints, and the said farmer to mend the hedges round Green Wood before the Feast of St. Martin, and those who ought, to mend the hedge or wall from Woodlands to the Heath before the Feast of St. Andrew on pain of 3s. 4d. [This roll is imperfect.]

BURIALS NEAR THE GALLOWS DITCH.

The following entries of burial occur in Bishop's Cannings Register under the date of 1678-1681 :—

Marie Withers, widow, buried near the gallow's ditch within this parish, 19 Feb. 1678-9.

Alice Moor, widow, buried near the gallow's ditch 23 Dec. 1679.

———, wife of Ralph Withers, buried near the gallow's ditch, 28 Sept. 1680.

Hannah, daughter of Edward Gilbert, of the Devizes, buried near gallow's ditch in this parish, 8 Dec. 1680.

Hannah, wife of John Neate, buried near gallow's ditch, 17 Aug. 1681.

———, of ———, buried near the gallow's ditch, 22 Sept.
1681.

These are apparently interments of Quakers. Other Devizes entries occur in the Quaker Records, now in course of publication in W. N. & Q., as early as 1670; but the actual place of burial is not mentioned. The Bishop's Cannings Register therefore records a fact, not, I believe, generally known, that the present Quaker Burial ground at Hillworth, near Gallow's Ditch, dates back as a place of interment certainly to the time of the Restoration, if not earlier.

GRANT OF ARMS TO JOHN SKUTT, 1546.

Amongst the papers left behind by the present Editor's predecessor in office, was the following by the late Mr. Nightingale, of Wilton, the Grant being then in his possession. There is a Pedigree of Skutt in Marshall's printed Visitation of Wills, 1623, deriving the family from Thomas Skutt, who was at Boulogne with Henry VIII, and finishing with Joane, dau. of Edward Skutt and his wife Christian (Stokes), both of Warminster, who married Ralph, 2nd son of Henry Hastings, of Woodlands, co. Dorset, nephew of the 3rd Earl of Huntingdon; in Weaver's Visitation of Somerset there is no pedigree, the name being only mentioned in that of Cooper.

The MS. is engrossed on vellum, measuring 19½ in. by 12½ in. It has an illuminated border, with the Tudor rose within the garter, crowned; also fleurs-de-lys and floriated scrolls of colours and gold in the style of the medieval illuminations, but showing a visible decadence in the art. The arms and crest are given in large size, and proper tinctures at the side. Within the medieval capital letter T at the commencement is a full length portrait of Barker as king of arms, wearing a crown, also a tabard bearing the arms of France and England quarterly. In his right hand he holds a staff pointing to the coat of arms, and with his left hand, raised, points to the grant. A similar figure of Barker is engraved in Dallaway's Enquiry into the Origin and Progress of Heraldry. It appears, from Anstis' College of Heraldry, that grants of arms were made about this time—for a consideration—by an order of Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk, Earl Marshal, "to temporall men, which be of good and honest reputation, able to mayntayne the state of gentleman." Grants to Bishops and Abbots were at a higher rate, but to "every temporall man having one hundred marks by the yeare in land or fees, £6 13s. 4d.; others, being of substance under the same valour in land or goods, £6—of them that be worth in land and goods a thousand marks, £5."

Not much seems to be known of the family of Skutt. The following inscription is found at Stanton Drew: "Here lyeth the body of Anthony Skutt, Esqr., ob. 7th January 1587." Martha, daughter and co-heir of Anthony Skutt of Stanton Drew, married Sir John Cooper of Rockborne, Hants. He died in 1610. Through this marriage their grandson, Anthony Ashley Cooper, first Earl of Shaftesbury, and his descendants quarter the Skutt arms. There was a family of Skutt settled at Warnminster, Wilts. Joane, a daughter of Edward Skutt, of this place, married, about 1620, a son of the noted Henry Hastings of Woodlands, co. Dorset. There seems also to have been a colony of this family at Poole, co. Dorset. No less than sixteen Mayors of this name filled the office between 1621 and 1743.

The document is signed by Barker as "C.B. als. gartier." The labels remain, but his two seals have disappeared. It is copied verbatim, in the quaint phraseology of the day.

To all true christen people these present letters hereing or Seinge Xpofer Barker esquier als. Garter principall king of armes of Englesshemen Seude the due and humble recommendacion and gretenge. Equite willethe and reason ordeinethe that men vertuous and of commendable disposicion and iyvenge, be by their merytes and good renoume rewarded and had in perpetuall memory, for their good name and to be in all places of honner and wourshipp amouges other noble parsons accepted and reputed, by shewinge of certain ensignes and tokens of vertue honner and gentelnes. ### JOHN OF SALISBURY.

This famous Wiltshireman, reputed to be the most learned man of his age, and "the central figure of classical learning for thirty years", was born at, or near, Old Sarum, between 1115-20; his father's name being Rainfred [?]; has his birthplace ever been identified? His surname was perhaps "Parvus", for he describes himself Parvum nomine, facultate minorem, minimum menti. He studied at Paris under the famous Abclard, and Robert of Melun (afterwards Bishop of Hereford), proceeding at length to Chartres for his grammatical studies; attended the Council of Rheims, when he was presented to Theobald, Archbishop of Canterbury, whose friend and adviser he continued to be until his death, when he became the executor of his Will;<sup>1</sup> at this period he writes, "the charge of all Britain as touching Church matters was laid on me"; employed by Eugenius III in the Papal Court, crossing the Alps to and from England as many as ten times; on terms of affectionate intimacy with the English Pope, Adrian IV, and it is said that it was through his influence that the Pope granted the Bull to the King for the conquest of Ireland—whose genuineness has been disputed; one of the five who brought the Pallium from Rome to Thomas Becket, Archbishop of Canterbury; the life-long friend and chaplain of this prelate, constantly urging upon him more prudential methods in his dealings with the King, he shared in his disgrace with Henry II; although described by this monarch "Canonicus Sarum", we do not find his name in Jones' Fasti Sarisberiensis.

In 1164, he left England for Paris with his brother Richard, heavily in debt, not possessing twelve pence, borrowing twelve marks, and accepting seven more from the Archbishop before starting; he tried frequently to conciliate the King and Thomas, refusing every offer of advancement made by the King should he desert his master. He was present when the Archbishop was murdered, and is believed to have been pretioso sanguine beati martyris Thomæ intinctus.

In 1170 he comes to England to visit his aged mother; in 1174 appointed Treasurer of Exeter Cathedral, and two years afterwards Bishop of Chartres,<sup>1</sup> where he died 25 Oct. 1180, and was buried at Josephat, near his city, leaving all he had, including his books and some relics of his beloved St. Thomas, to his Cathedral; he has a worthy record in the necrology of Chartres, Vir magnæ religionis totiusque scientiæ radiis illustratus, verbo, vita, moribus, pastor omnibus amabilis, soli sibi crudelis, a pedibus usque ad collum cilisio semper carnem domante.

The following works by this illustrious and indefatigable prelate are still extant:—

Letters (326), in 4 volumes. Polycratus de Nugis Curialium et Vestigiis Philosophorum, in 8 volumes. Metaloicus, in 4 books. Eutheticus, a poem of 1,800 lines. Historia Pontificalis. Life of St. Anselm of Canterbury. Life of St. Thomas of Canterbury.

<sup>1</sup> He loved to call himself Bishop divina dignatione et meritis Sancti Thomæ Martyris. It is said that whilst in the service of Archbishop Richard, the Dean and other Clergy of Chartres came to Canterbury and elected him their Bishop.

Queries.

Copell, or Cople, Church (vol. v, p. 141). Is this word, pronounced Coople (and applied, in all probability, to a long since destroyed Church at Keevil, and its site), a Wiltshire corruption of Coulpe, found in the glossary to Chaucer as denoting a fault? If so, it may simply mean the faulty or decayed church, in distinction to the present structure not far distant. AQUILA.

Eyre Family.—Visitation of Middlesex, 1663.

I should be glad of any information that would reconcile this pedigree with the one given in the present number, page 416. Could Thomas Eyre, of Kensington, be a brother of Sir William Eyre, page 416? The pedigree of the branch of the family in the present number, as recorded in Heralds' College, makes no mention of a brother of Sir William Eyre who was son of Thomas Eyre, who was son of Thomas Eyre and Elizabeth Rogers.

A. S. HARTIGAN.

Large or Lorge.—To what family of Wilts belonged Sir Roland Large, Lord Mayor of London (1439), and Sir Thomas Large, Sheriff about the same period? Also was Count Le Lorge or Large, a crusader, mentioned in the Chronicles of the Crusades, a Wiltshireman? Any information would be most acceptable concerning my family, of Lynham, and afterwards for several generations of Ogbourne St. Andrew, lessees of a great deal of land near Marlborough and Wootton Bassett.

R. EMMOTT LARGE.

[The arms attributed to Large of England and Large of France are quite different.—ED.]

Devizes Castle.—Is there any printed list, or materials extant for such list, of the Governors or Constables of Devizes Castle? Were these synonymous expressions for the same officer? Is there any detailed history published of the Wiltshire Castles?

Replies.

Feet of Fines (vol. v, p. 318).—The blank in Fine no 283, 7 Elizabeth, should be filled up with the name Grove. William Grove, of Gray's Inn, Middlesex, granted to Walter Mayowe for 100 marks the reversion of these lands, to hold without interruption of the said William and Thomasynce, his wife, daughter of Edward Mayowe (Mayhewe), brother of Walter, 1565.

C. H. MAYO.

Long Burton, Sherborne.

Mortimer (vol. v, p. 376).—There are a number of entries referring to this family in the Preshute Parish Registers, but I can only find two Edwards. One the son of John Mortimer, of Clatford, by Jone his wife; bap. 1612; bur. 1674. He had three children by Mary his wife; bap., Mary, 1648; Thomas, 1657; bur. 1658, and Alice, 1660. The other Edward was the son of John Mortimer and Margaret Nalder, described as "both of Preshute". He was bap. 1689.

I gather that there may have been two families of the name in the parish, as I find mention of John Mortimer, "of Clatford", and John Mortimer, "of Manton". These being separate hamlets. Edith, daughter of John Mortimer, of Clatford, married George Mortimer, of Wilton, on the 20th April 1634.

My Transcript of the Registers covers the 17th century, and if your correspondent cares to follow the matter up, I shall be happy to give any assistance in my power.

Trowbridge—Roundstone Street (vol. v, pp. 91-92, 192).—Low Mead, or Roundstone Street, seems to have derived the latter name from the Round stone which once stood near the end of Polebarn Lane, and which Mr. Walker describes at p. 192 as having been seen by him some 58 years ago buried beneath the surface of the road at that spot. It was, I am told, of some historical interest, being the stone on which the inhabitants of Trowbridge, in earlier days, made their bargains and paid down the ready money "on the nail", as on the more elaborate counters in front of the Exchange at Bristol. In 1752 it appears to have still remained in situ, for at that date an Act was passed for repairing the road from Tinhead Hill to the Round Stone in Trowbridge—the end of Polebarn Lane being evidently the spot thus indicated.<sup>1</sup>

The stone, having fallen into disuse, may have been buried where it had formerly stood, about the year 1799, when an Act was obtained "for paving the footways, for cleansing, lighting, and regulating the streets, lanes, and other public passages and places within the town, and for removing and preventing nuisances, annoyances, and obstructions therein." The preamble describes the footways as not being properly paved, cleaned, and lighted, and subject to various encroachments, obstructions, nuisances, and annoyances; being in some places very incommodious and unsafe for travellers and passengers.

Three quarters of a mile from the centre of the front door of the George Inn is the distance mentioned as coming within the jurisdiction of the newly-appointed commissioners, some 50 in number, who, for defraying the expenses and executing the purposes of the Act, were empowered to levy Sunday tolls at the several turnpikes within that area.

Is not this the time when the fine old market cross (similar to those of Salisbury and Malmesbury), which stood near the George Inn, was—under cover of an obstruction—also removed and destroyed? EDWARD KITE.

Tooker of Oriel (vol. v, p. 381).—The reason perhaps why Charles and Robert Tooker are not mentioned in Shadwell's Registrum Orielense, is because that work is confined to the undergraduates of that College; Dr. Shadwell, now Provost of Oriel, says in his Preface, "the present volumes are intended to collect the names of all the persons entered on the College books, omitting those only who were elected to Fellowships from elsewhere. . . . Fellows are only noticed here if they were admitted to the College previously to their election." A.

---

Button (vol. v, p. 382).—The reason for the non-entry of Sir William Button and his Lady's burial in North Wraxhall

Register is apparently explained by the entries in Lyneham Register, thus:—

"1659. Sir William Button, bart., died at Tockenham Court Friday, the 9th of March, about four in the morning, and was buried at North Wraxall Thursday, the 5th of April, a litle before sunsett."

"1665. The Lady Ann Button died at Tockenham Court Monday, the 5th of February, and was buried the 9th of February at North Wraxall, 1665."

These entries are in the writing of Francis Baylie, "Sir William Button's chaplain", who officiated at the funerals and entered them in his own Register. R. G. BARTELOT.

WILTON HOUSE, AND ITS LITERARY ASSOCIATIONS.

THE Mansion at Wilton—for several centuries the seat of the Earls of Pembroke—is well known both for its historical and literary associations, and its rich treasures of art. Its history carries us back in unbroken succession to the Anglo-Saxon period, when a monastic establishment existed here, originating with Earl Wulstan and King Egbert.

Of the early Houses of Nuns in Wiltshire and the adjoining counties, five at least—Wilton, Shaftesbury, St. Mary's Winchester, Romsey, and Amesbury (all possessing Wiltshire property), owed their foundation or endowment, either wholly or in part, to the Anglo-Saxon kings. Wilton, the earliest of these,<sup>1</sup> dating from the beginning of the ninth century, became the home and last resting-place of St. Edith (daughter of King Edgar and Wulftrude), one of the most interesting of the princess-nuns of the Anglo-Saxon race, who died in 984, and in whose honour the monastic church was afterwards dedicated. The early foundation, liberally endowed by several later Saxon monarchs—of whom King Edwy was the principal benefactor—and presided over by many royal ladies of this period, continued to flourish during the Middle Ages as one of the greater monasteries of the Benedictine Order, the Lady Abbess, by virtue of her office, ranking as a baroness of England, and as such doing military service by her knights in time of war.

At the general dissolution, in 1539, Wilton, in the hands of the Crown, was granted by Henry VIII to Sir William Herbert, whose wife Ann, daughter of Thomas, Lord Parr of Kendal, was sister to Catherine Parr, Henry's sixth and last queen.<sup>1</sup> From Sir William Herbert (created Earl of Pembroke in 1551) the Wilton estate has descended with the Earldom to the present day.

Wilton House, built most probably on the site of the earlier monastery, dates from the days of the first Earl [1541-1570]. Aubrey says, "In Edward the Sixth's time the great house of the Earl of Pembroke was built with the ruins of Old Sarum"—but the monastic buildings then recently destroyed, and close at hand, doubtless also supplied much of the material. The plan of the house was a quadrangle, inside which stood an entrance porch, said to have been designed by Holbein. Some alterations were afterwards made by Solomon de Caus.<sup>2</sup> The present south front, rebuilt after a fire in 1647, is one of the masterpieces designed by Inigo Jones, and carried out by his pupil and son-in-law John Webb<sup>3</sup>—the double cube room of this period—a magnificent apartment—being apparently intended for the reception of the fine series of the works of Vandyke, of which the large and unique picture of the Herbert family of his day is the gem.<sup>4</sup> The

<sup>4</sup> In an article on Ramsbury Manor (Country Life, 10 August 1907) the writer says, "tradition goes that the great family portraits at Wilton, by Vandyke, were intended for Ramsbury Manor"—both properties at that time belonging to the Earl of Pembroke.

wings of the east front, which still retains much of its original outline, were at this time made somewhat to harmonise with the new work, but the central block remained intact until a century ago, when James Wyatt, in erecting a cloister for the reception of the Pembroke marbles, attempted to invest the building with a Gothic character. More recent alterations have, however, done much to remedy this unfortunate mistake.

The interior is rich in well known and admired treasures of art. The muniment room contains documents dating from the twelfth century, some belonging to the earlier monastery—the paintings, besides the Vandykes already noticed, include a fine series by many of the great masters of the Italian and Dutch schools; also the celebrated dyptic of Richard II, apparently painted soon after his accession in 1377<sup>1</sup>—the fine suits of armour in the entrance hall, taken at the battle of St. Quentin in 1557—and the marbles collected by Thomas, eighth Earl [1683-1733], which include Cardinal Richelieu's, Cardinal Mazarin's, and some of the finest examples from the Arundelian collection.

The garden and waterworks as originally designed by Isaac, son or nephew of Solomon de Caus, noticed above, is known in this state by the twenty-six copper plates which illustrate his "Hortus Penbrochianus", published about 1640.<sup>2</sup> At this date were planted the fine cedars which now form a striking object, and add so much to the beauty of the grounds

<sup>1</sup> By an unknown painter. The king is represented kneeling before the Madonna, and surrounded by his patron saints and angels. A facsimile was published by the Arundel Society (1882), with an accompanying description by G. Scharf, F.S.A.

<sup>2</sup> "Hortus Penbrochianus Le Jardin de Vuitton Construit par le Comte de Penbrooke, gravé par Isaac de Caus." Of this a facsimile reprint has appeared. Isaac de Caus was also author of a volume, of which an English translation was published under the following title:—

"New and rare inventions of Water-works, shewing the easiest waies to raise water higher then the spring, by which invention the perpetual motion is proposed, many hard labours performed, and at Wilton. They were probably some of the first introduced into England.

But the great interest of Wilton lies in its family and literary associations, in the reminiscences it evokes of the author of the Arcadia, and its principal personage, "Sidney's sister, Pembroke's mother". Its successive owners have also been men of note, and distinguished equally in arms, arts, and literature. They were the patrons of the writers and dramatists, as well as the painters of their time. "By such a place as Wilton it is impossible to say what great memories may not be stirred. It appeals to us as the home of one of our noblest families—as the place where the greatest lights of learning and literature have been welcomed—as the treasure house of many artists—and as the centre of one of the most beautiful gardens in the land."<sup>1</sup>

With the literature of Wilton in the days of Elizabeth, and her successors, the two first Stuart Kings, we usually find associated the names of Sir Philip Sidney and his friend the poet Spenser, Massinger the dramatist, Ben Jonson, Shakespeare, and a few others—but this seems scarcely to represent the many literary characters of that day who, although perhaps of less note, are known to have been equally indebted to the Pembroke family for their patronage and hospitality. In the following notes an attempt has been made further to illustrate the early literature of Wilton and the Pembroke family, to which any addition will be gladly welcomed.

varieties of motions and sounds produced, a work both useful, profitable, and delightfull, for all sorts of people. First written in French by Izaak de Caus, a late famous Ingenier, and now translated into English by John Leak." London, printed by Joseph Moxon, and sold at his shop in Cornhill, at the signe of Atlas, 1659.

[Contains a quaint illustration of a fire engine playing on a burning house. A later edition was published in 1704.]

<sup>1</sup> Country Life, 28th May 1904, which contains a choice series of reproductions in half tone, from photographs by Mr. Latham, of the gardens and terraces, including Holbein's porch removed from the quadrangle by Wyatt.

Sir William Herbert, the first Earl, closely allied to Henry VIII, took an active part in the changing events of this and the three succeeding reigns. We find him a principal mourner both at Henry's funeral in 1547, and that of Edward VI in 1553. By the latter he was visited at Wilton in the previous year. He also took part in the proclamation of Queen Mary at Cheapside, and her marriage at Winchester, as well as in the proceedings on the accession of Queen Elizabeth. The design of his mansion at Wilton has been ascribed to Holbein, but perhaps on insufficient authority, for it must be remembered that Holbein's death took place in 1543—two years only after Sir William Herbert had become possessed of Wilton Monastery and its site.

To his widowed Countess, six years after his death, is dedicated an exceeding rare little volume printed in black letter, entitled:—

"The Mirror of Man's Lyfe; plainly describing what weake moulde we are made of, what miseries we are subject unto, how uncertaine this life is, and what shall be our ende." Englished by H. Kirton. Imprinted at London, by Henry Bynneuman, 1576.

[Engraving on title, within a square border, on which is printed, "O wormes meat, O froath, O vanitie; why art thou so insolent?" The last two pages contain a Poem in English, entitled Speculum Humanum, made by Stephen Gosson.]

Henry, second Earl of Pembroke, succeeded on the death of his father, 1570; died 1601. He entertained Queen Elizabeth at Wilton in 1573. Aubrey describes him as "the patron to the men of arms, and to the antiquaries and heralds; he took a great delight in the study of heraldry, as appears by that curious collection of heraldique manuscripts in the library here. It was this earle that did set up all the painted glasse scutchions about the house". Many of the latter, in a more or less perfect state, are now preserved in the heads of the windows of Wyatt's cloister. The canopied niches on either side of the east entrance, containing thernes, added at this date, are also surmounted by shields of arms.

To this Earl, Abraham Fraunce dedicated a book entitled

The Lawyer's Logick, published in 1588. Through Lord Pembroke's interest its author obtained from William Cecil, Lord Burghley, the office of Queen's solicitor in the Court of the Marches.

In 1594 was published a first edition of Marlowe's Historical Drama of Edward II, known only from a unique copy discovered in 1876 in the Landerbibliothek at Cassel. This was followed, four years later, by a second edition, also of great rarity, entitled:—

"The troublesome raigue and lamentable death of Edward the second, king of England: with the tragicall fall of proud Mortimer: And also the life and death of Peirs Gaueston, the great Earle of Cornewall, and mighty favorite of king Edward the second, as it was publicly acted by the right honorable the Earle of Pembroke his seruautes. Written by Chri. Marlow, gent." Imprinted at London by Richard Bradocke for William Jones, dwelling neere Holbourne conduit, at the signe of the Gunne, 1598.

[This is the best constructed of Marlowe's pieces.]

But the literary charm of Wilton culminated with the third marriage of Henry, second earl, with Mary, daughter of Sir Henry, and sister of Sir Philip Sidney. She was born, probably about 1555, at Penshurst, co. Kent, where is her portrait by Marc Gheersedts, engraved in Lodge's Portraits. Her marriage appears to have taken place about April 1577—and to her the well known Arcadia of her brother Sir Philip (written at Wilton, or, according to Aubrey, at Iychurch, between this date and the time of his death, 1586) is addressed. The original quarto edition bears date 1590; in 1638 it had reached a ninth, and in 1674 a thirteenth edition.<sup>1</sup>

Many of the pastoral descriptions of scenery were probably taken from Wilton Park. Aubrey says:—

"The Arcadia and Daphne is about Vernditch and Wilton; and these romancy plaines and boscages did, no doubt, conduce to the heightning of Sir Philip Sidney's phansie. He lived much in these parts, and his most masterly touches of his pastoralls he wrote here upon the spott where they were conceived."

<sup>1</sup> A French edition was published in Paris as early as 1621, in three small octavo volumes; and a photographic facsimile of the original quarto edition of 1590, reproduced from the copy in the Grenville Collection, British Museum, with bibliographical introduction by H. Oskar Sommer, was issued in 1891, the impression being limited to 300 copies.

At Wilton House Edmund Spenser, England's Arch-poet, was among the honoured guests. To his friend "the noble and vertuous gentleman most worthy of all tytles, both of learning and chivalrie, Maister Philip Sidney", he dedicated The Shepheard's Calender, the first and now the rarest of all his writings. This was issued in 1579. In his Colin Clouts Come Home Againe (1593), is the beautiful Astrophel, "a Pastoral Elegie upon the death of the most noble and valorous knight Sir Philip Sidney", who had died some nine years previously. The first edition of the same author's Complaints, "containing sundrie small poemes of the world's vanitie" (1591), includes The Ruines of Time, dedicated to "the right noble and beautiful Ladie, the La. Marie, Countesse of Pembroke". In the second issue of Spenser's immortal poem, The Faerie Queene (1596), the sonnets to the Poet's patrons also include one to the Countess of Pembroke.

Francis Davison's The Rhapsody, published as early as 1602, contains poems by Sir Philip Sidney and his sister, and we also find The Psalmes of David, translated into divers and sundry kinds of verse, begun by Sir Philip Sidney, and finished by the Countess of Pembroke, of which an edition of two hundred and fifty copies was printed as lately as 1823.

In 1579 Geoffrey Fenton published a small quarto volume, printed in black letter, which he dedicated to Lady Mary Sidney, entitled:—

"Certain Tragical Discourses written out of Frenche and Latin, no lesse profitable then pleasaunte, and of like necessitye to all degrees that take pleasure in antiquities or forreine reportes." Imprinted at London in Fleet street nere to Saynete Dunstan's Chirche by Thomas Marshe 1579.

In this collection of stories and tales, drawn from French and Italian authors, we have one of the mines from which our old English dramatists gathered their plots and incidents. Warton, in his History of English Poetry, describes it as the most capital miscellany of this kind.

Fenton also dedicated to Lady Mary Sidney, from Paris, a collection of novels by Bandello, translated from French versions of Boaistuau and Belleforest, in 1567.

A little later we find Abraham Fraunce, of whom there is a long account in the Dictionary of National Biography, dedicating nearly all his works to the Countess of Pembroke. After her brother, Sir Philip Sidney, had interested himself in Fraunce's education, she appears to have taken him under her protection. One of his books, entitled The Countess of Pembroke's Iy church, was published in 1591, and a third part in the following year—the latter resembling in plan Sidney's Arcadia. Another, The Countess of Pembroke's Emanuel (1591), in English hexameters, is reprinted by Dr. Grosart, in his Fuller's Worthies Miscellanies, vol. iii (1872). To the Earl of Pembroke, who also treated him with unvarying kindness, he was indebted for an office under Lord Burghley, as already mentioned.

By Mary [Sidney], Countess of Pembroke, Samuel Daniel was also first encouraged and "framed to Rhime". He was a native of Taunton, lived with her son William, third Earl, at Wilton House, was one of the Grooms of the Queen's Majesties Privy Chamber, and in his latter days took a farm called Ridge,<sup>1</sup> near Beckington, Somerset, where he died. In his Sonnets, published 1592, we find the prototype of Shakespeare's amatory verse. The first foure Bookes of the Ciuile warres betweene the two houses of Lancaster and Yorke appeared in 1595, and a later edition, corrected and continued, in 1609. The dedication of this latter volume to the Countess of Pembroke is included by Mr. Huth in his privately printed volume of prefaces. The most complete edition of his poems was published in 1623, after his death, by his brother, John Daniel.

"Canzonets, or little short songs to three voyces: newly published by Thomas Morley, Bachler of Musicke, and one of the Gent. of his Maiesties Royall Chappel, 1593." Imprinted at London by Tho. Est, the assigne of William Byrd, dwelling in Aldersgate street, at the signe of the black Horse.

Morley appears to have been the organist of Old St. Paul's Cathedral in 1591.

In 1595 was published "The Tragedie of Antonie. Doone into English by the Countess of Pembroke." Imprinted at London for William Ponsonby, 1595.

Henry, second Earl of Pembroke, died early in the year 1601, on which occasion Nicholas Breton dedicated to the Countess a small quarto volume, entitled:—

"A Diuine Poeme, diuided into two Partes: The Rauisht Soule, and The Blessed Weeper. Compiled by Nicholas Breton, Gentle-man." Imprinted at London for Iohn Browne, and Iohn Deane, 1602.

The Rauisht Soule is written in the elegiac quatrain, and The Blessed Weeper in stanzas of seven lines. Some copies of the work are dated 1601. The Countess of Pembroke's Passion, in verse, also by Nicholas Breton, was first privately printed in 1853. Lady Mary [Sidney] survived the second Earl twenty years, and dying at her house in Aldersgate Street, London, in the autumn of 1621, was buried with him in Salisbury Cathedral. Her well-known epitaph:

"Underneath this marble heise
Lies the subject of all verse,
Sidney's sister, Pembroke's mother.
Death, ere thou hast slain another,
Wise, and fair, and good as she, has been attributed both to Ben Jonson, and William Brown, the pastoral poet, the latter of whom was long an inmate at Wilton House.
Time shall throw a dart at thee."

A sermon by Walter Sweeper, "minister of Strowd", upon Proverbs xii, 16, entitled:—

may be referred to here, as it brings under our notice some part of the Wilton household at the end of the sixteenth century. The sermon is dedicated jointly to William, third Earl, and his brother Philip, the two sons of Lady Mary Sidney, its author remarking that it was his intention to have presented "the first fruits of his labours in this kind to their honourable Ladie-mother, now at rest with God".

"I gained, he says, the greatest part of my little learning through my acquaintance with your honourable father's house and family . . . And your famous Wilton House, like a little Vniuersitie, was a more excellent nurserie for learning and pietie, then euer it was in former times, when King Edgar's daughter Editha had her residence and regencie there . . . Wilton house had in it that godly learned Phisitian and skillfull Mathematician M. Doctor Moffet, my most worthy and kind friend; it had in it great Hugh Sanford, learned in all arts, sciences, knowledge humane and diuine . . . from whom I neuer departed without some profit. To passe ouer Gerard the Herbalist, M. Massinger, and other Gentlemen schollars. Neuer noble house had successiueley deeper diuines, namely, Bishop Babington, B. Parry, M. Conua, M. Walford, M. Parker, M. Figs."

PRESENTMENT OF THE TITHINGMEN OF WEDHAMPTON.—
Edmund Tackell, dead since last court, held by copy of court roll, dated 12 April, 29 Eliz., for lives of said Edmund Tackell, Edward Somersett son of John Somersett, and Edith, late wife of Edm. Tackell, and of the survivor successively, a toft, "cosett lande", with appurtenances and 12 acres of land, meadow, and pasture with appurtenances in Erchefonte, whereof there falls no heriot to the lord, and the premisses belong to Edward Somersett aforesaid. He is admitted tenant, but his fealty is respited because he is only 7 years old, and the guardianship of the tenements and of the body of Edward is committed to John Somersett, his nearest relation.

Edith, widow of Edmund Tackle, lately called Edith Somersett, dead since the last court, held by copy of court roll, dated 25 September, 24 Elizabeth, for lives of said Edith Somersett alias Cooke, John Somersett alias Cooke, and Robart Somersett alias Cooke, sons of Edith, and life of survivor successively, a messuage and a virgate of land, with appurtenances containing  $30\frac{1}{2}$  acres of land, meadow, and pasture, a close of pasture of 3 perches at Cossett Marsh, and  $2\frac{1}{2}$  acres of meadow in Croftes, with appurtenances in Erchefonte, formerly in tenure of Walter Brunsdon; whereof there falls as heriot Edith's best animal, viz., an heifer worth 36s. 8d. The premisses belong to said John Somersett, who is admitted tenant, and has done fealty.

Edith Hobbes, dead since last court, held by copy of court roll, dated 15 September, 27 Eliz., a messuage or tenement, and all buildings belonging thereto, a garden and orchard on west of the messuage,  $8\frac{1}{2}$  acres of arable land, parcel of one of the acremans lands, for term of lives of Edith, Richard her son, and Elizabeth Hobbes her daughter, successively; the premises which are not herietable belong to Richard Hobbes, who is admitted tenant thereof, but his fealty is respited as he is little more than  $9\frac{1}{2}$  years old. Richard Hobbes is in the guardianship of Richard Cosens alias Wheeler, who is to find by the next court sufficient security for true payment of profits of premisses.

Matilda Pratt, widow of Robert Pratt, who held of the lord eastern part of a cottage lately in tenure of Nicholas Covell, and part of the garden by a water course, and an acre of arable land in "Pease Gaston", which premisses her late husband, Robert Pratt, took by copy of court roll of 13 Sept., 28 Eliz., for lives of said Robert, Elizabeth Pratt his daughter, and Thomas Purnell, successively, has forfeited her interest in the premisses on marriage with John Whoode, and the premisses belong to said Elizabeth Pratt, now 6 years old, and in guardianship of John Whoode, who is to find security by next court to pay the profits to Elizabeth at her full age.

Margaret Kendall often steals wood and breaks the hedges of the inhabitants of manor, therefore she is to be brought to next court to be beaten.<sup>1</sup>

Repairs are ordered of the hedges at Northhill and Cranchill, Wedhampton.

John Bartlett has pastured 7 calves in the common meadow of Wedhampton, not having weaned them on his own tenement, against the ancient ordinance, wherefore he is in mercy, 2*s.* 4*d.*

The homage is ordered to survey and limit the land called the Dale, between William Edwards, Thomas Noyes, and Thomas Harper, on next All Souls' Day.

They are to see if the "Merestone" at Blackehayes is in the right place between the land of the lord, in tenure of Robert Willis and the land of Robert Noyes, also the tree between the land of Robert Noyes and that of John Beare at the end of the latter's close before next Feast of All Saints, on pain of 12*d.* each.

Martin Hasland is to prove his title at next court to 2 acres of land which Edward Somerset should have.

To this court came William Edwards, who holds by copy of court roll of 30 October, 31 Henry VIII, a messuage, . . . virgates of land, containing 39 acres and a rod of land, meadow, and pasture, whereof in curtilage garden, and orchard, 1 acre, in an enclosed field called Cottage  $\frac{1}{2}$  acre, in a meadow called Fotherne  $\frac{1}{2}$  acre, in a meadow called Stertis 3 acres; 34 acres 1 rod of arrable land, whereof in the field called Stertis 2 acres, in the eastern field 8 acres a rod, in the middle field 10 acres, in the north field 3 acres, in the western field 11 acres, and common of pasture for 12 animals and 60 sheep. He surrendered the premisses into the lord's hands with intention of their being handed over to his son Robert Edwards; whence there falls to the lord as a heriot William's best animal, because it was granted to him by agreement for a sum paid down. On this Robert Edwards received the premisses from the steward to hold to him, Robert, and William his father, and John Edwards his brother, for their lives successively; for the yearly rent of 20*s.*, and for aid to the sheriff, 6*d.*, and all other burdens, works, etc., thereto belonging. And by agreement, Robert, William, and John Edwards shall not be retained, nor any of them, in the service of anyone, but shall always be ready to serve the Queen, her heirs, and successors, under the leadership and in the retinue of the said Earl,<sup>1</sup> his heirs, and assigns; and yearly shall plant on the premisses at least 3 trees, viz., oak, ash, or fruit trees. For this estate in the premisses they gave to the lord 45*li.*, and Robert was admitted tenant thereof and has done fealty, but fealty of William and John is respited.

father, grandfather of said Robert Noyes, occupied the same for many years, and Robert Noyes himself for 28 years past, and put only 21 horses on the said common pasture, the Inlands, one of them oppresses the pasture with foresaid horses; and at the next court the truth thereof is to be presented.

* * *

John Wells and others are bidden to make and erect a gate at the green adjoining next Aggestanes before next feast of St. Mark, on pain of 3s. 4d.

All the inhabitants are bidden upon warning of the tithingman to gather themselves together to make the bounds for shooting, Anglice the Buttes, now in ruins, upon pain of 4d. each.

Many of the inhabitants have not worn felthats<sup>1</sup> when they come to church on Sundays since last court and have incurred the penalty of the statute, and are in the lord's mercy, and ask to be excused the penalty on paying a fine of 20d. to the lord. And the lord's officer grants their petition if they pay to poor of the parish another 20d.

Any inhabitant who lets pigs go on the common pasture without a ring, "Anglice a pegge", in their noses to prevent their rooting it up, shall forfeit to the lord for every pig, 4d.

John Bauldwyn, customary tenant, took Isabella Cooper into his house as sub-tenant against the custom and without licence; he is to expel her before next feast of the Nativity of St. John Baptist, on pain of 20s.

* * *

The communal park is in ruins and the lord has been used to maintain it, therefore the lord's bailiff is bidden repair it before the next court at the lord's costs.

John Jones is bidden repair the "Drouewaye gate" before next feast of St. Mark, on pain of 2s.

The messuage of Thomas Noyes in Wedhampton is in ruins and cannot be repaired without large timber, viz., 8 trees; the lord is wont to provide the timber; he is to repair on pain of 40s. before the feast of All Saints.

The lord is wont to provide timber for mending of the "Droueyate" at Wedhampton, wherefore the bailiff is ordered to deliver to them one tree.

It is ordained at this court, with the assent of the lord's assigns, free suitors and customary tenants, and other inhabitants present at this court, that everyone who has a sub-tenant or sub-tenants shall expel from his tenement all his sub-tenants and inmates or indwellers before Feast of St. James next, and thereafter shall not have sub-tenants without the allowance of the men hereafter named, viz., Robert Noyes, George Mortymer, John Flower, John Bewlyc, Thomas Daundy, John Willis, John Myles, Edward Guyddynges, William Purnell, and John Shargill, or 6 of them, of whom Robert Noyes, George Mortimer, or John Flower to be two; and whoever takes a sub-tenant shall pay to the lord whatever amercement is imposed on him for his offence at any court of the manor, and everyone doing against this ordinance, for every month that he keeps a sub-tenant, shall forfeit to the lord 5s.

William Purnell, who holds of the lord by copy of court roll for term of his life, a messuage and 3 virgates of land, whereto belong 58 acres a rod and a "stiche", whereof in curtilage garden and orchard 1 acre, in common field called Fotherne 1½ acre, in the field called Stertis 3 acres, in a close called the Crofte 1 acre; 50 acres 3 rods and a "stiche" are arrable land, whereof in the field called Stertis 3 acres, in the east field 13 acres 1 rod, in the north field 4½ acres, in the middle field 14 acres, in the west field 16 acres and one "stiche", and common of pasture for 18 animals and 90 sheep; surrenders said premisses with intention that the lord should grant them to William and his nominees, whereof there falls as heriot to the lord William's best animal. Upon which William at this court takes of the lord the premisses; to hold to him William Purnell, William Purnell, and John Purnell, senior, his sons, for term of their lives successively; for yearly rent of 37s. 4d., and for aid to the sheriff, 9d., and the work of 4 labourers' in autumn, and all other labours thereto belonging. And by agreement they shall not be retained in anyone's service, etc. (as in Roll No. 19,736 above). And yearly they shall plant at least 3 trees on a parcel of the premisses, viz., oak, ash, or fruit trees. And to have this estate and entry he gives to the lord 100 marks, and is admitted tenant and has done his fealty to the lord, but fealty of his sons is respited until, etc.

CHANCERY PROCEEDINGS, TEMP. ELIZABETH. [M. m. 5, No. 17.]

George Mortymer, of Urchfonte, co. Wilts, complains whereas Andrew Rogers and Lady Mary his wife, leased to him the site of the manor of Archfonte, formerly in tenure of Robert Noyes or his assigns by grant of Francis Newtigate, Esquire, and certain grounds called Thonges and Broadgrene for a term of seven years.

[The rest of the document is in too bad a condition to be fully intelligible.]

FEET OF FINES, WILTS. [Easter, 31 Elizabeth.]

A.D. 1589.—At Westminster in quindene of Easter, 31 Elizabeth. Between Robert Noyes, gentleman, plaintiff, and Nicholas Willowes and Elizabeth his wife, deforciant, of a messuage, 5 cottages, 17 acres of land, 2 acres of meadow, 2 acres of pasture and common of pasture for all animals, with appurtenances in Escott and Erchefount, alias Vrehefount. Right of Robert Noyes and warranty to him and his heirs against all men forever for £40.

CHANCERY PROCEEDINGS, TEMP. ELIZABETH. [V. n. 1, No. 27.]

A.D. 1595, 14 May.—Robert Noyes, of Hatherden, co. Southants, gentleman, shows that whereas William Chamber-

leyne, clerk, Prebendary of Prebend of Erchefounte, in parish of Vrchefounte, co. Wilts, by his indenture of lease dated 31 October, 31 Henry VIII, with consent of Edward Earl of Hertford and Viscount Beauchamp, Patron of the Prebend, and of John, Bishop of Salisbury, Ordinary of the Diocese of the Dean and Chapter of Sarum, let to farm to William Noyes, father of Robert Noyes, his Prebend of Erchefounte, otherwise Vrchefounte, together with all glebe lands, tythes, meadows, oblations, offerings, &c., appurtenances of said Prebend, to hold to said William Noyes and his assignes from the preceding Michaelmas for 60 years next following, paying to William Chamberleyn and his successors £14 at Easter and Michaelmas, with proviso for re-entry on the premisses upon arrears of rent for more than six weeks after the said two terms, which indenture the Bishop of Salisbury, 5 January, 33 Henry VIII, confirmed under his Chapter Seal; the Dean and Chapter of Sarum confirming it by their deed on 7th January in same year. By force whereof, William Noyes, being possessed of the premisses for about 34 years last past, in his last will bequeathed to said Robert Noyes all his lease of the premisses yet unexpired, making him and his brother, William Noyes, executors of his will, and after his death his said son Robert entered into the Prebend and premisses. And about the first year of his reign, Robert Noyes knows not certainly how, the Prebend came to the late King Edward VI, his heirs and successors, and the King, being thus seized of the reversion thereof and the foresaid yearly rent, with divers other parsonages, lands, &c., to yearly value of £530, for maintenance of 13 poor knights in Windsor Castle, conveyed said Prebend to the Dean and Canons of Windsor, by virtue whereof the Dean and Canons for 40 years and upwards have been quietly seized thereof, during which time Robert Noyes has always paid to them the said rent; yet now Gryflith Vaughan of Asherled, co. Surrey, clerk, being presented by the present Queen to said Prebend, and pretending that the said conveyance made to King Edward VI is void, and hath demanded the said rent, and commanded it no longer to be paid to the said Dean and Canons, threatening him if he continued to do so to expell him from the Prebend; by reason whereof Robert Noyes for the preservation of his estate in the premisses is likely to have to pay two several rents; wherefore he prays for a writ of sub pana against William Daye, D.D., Dean of Windsor,<sup>1</sup> and the said Gryffyth Vaughan to answer the premisses.

Answer of Gryffyth Vaughan, Clerk.

He admits the truth of the first part of the bill of complaint as to the lease to William Noyes, and bases his claim to the yearly rent of £14 for the prebend, because no prebendary being appointed for many years after the death of William Chamberleyn, by reason of lapse, the Prebend of Erchefont coming to the Queen's hands, her majesty by letters patents dated 4 October in the 35th year of her reign, presented him, G. Vaughan, to the prebend, wherefore he is lawful Prebendary of Erchefont, and should have the rent, without the Prebend to her knowledge being conveyed to Edward VI, or by that King to the Dean and Canons of Windsor.

Answer of Dr. William Daye.

He admits the indenture of lease made to William Noyes, but declares it void because Lord Hertford was not then Patron of the Prebend, but Henry VIII, to whom it had come on the dissolution of the Abbey of St. Mary's, Winchester, and from whom it descended to King Edward VI, who granted it to the Dean and Canons of the King's Free Chappel of St. George the Martyr in Windsor Castle, by virtue of which they are the rightful owners of the prebend.

FEET OF FINES, WILTS. [37 Elizabeth, Easter.]

A.D. 1595.—At Westminster in Quindene of Easter, 37 Elizabeth. Between Robert Noyes, gentleman, plaintiff, and William Eyre, knight, deforciant, of two messuages, a curtilage, 2 gardens, 2 orchards, 30 acres of land, 6 acres of meadow, 12 acres of pasture, 2 acres of wood and common of pasture for all cattle, with appurtenances in Erchefont, alias Urchefount and Stockweeke. Right of Robert Noyes for £40.

IBID. [42 Elizabeth, Hilary.]

A.D. 1600.—At Westminster, in Quindene of St. Hilary, 42 Elizabeth. Between Thomas Parsons, plaintiff, and William Eyre, knight, and William Musprate and Alice his wife, deforciant, of a messuage, 3 acres of land,  $\frac{1}{2}$  acre of meadow, and  $\frac{1}{2}$  acre of pasture, with appurtenances in Escott and Erchefont. The right of Thomas Pearson, and warranty to him and heirs, against W. Eyre and his heirs, and against W. Musprat and Alice, and heirs of W. Musprat for £41.

FINE ROLL. [43 Elizabeth, Part 2, No. 28.]

A.D. 1601.—The Queen orders the Escheator of Wilts to deliver seisin to Thomas Bye and Joan his wife, as in right of the same Joan, sole daughter and heir of John Hame, deceased, of 2 messuages, 24 acres of arable land, 3 acres of meadow, with the appurtenances in Escott, co. Wilts, late in the several tenures of the said John Hame, Thomas Bye and Thomas Vyshlake, of the yearly value of 19s., which at his death the said John Hame held of the Crown in chief. Tested by the Queen at Westminster 7th May.

THE CHRYSOM BOOK OF ST. THOMAS, NEW SARUM.

Chrysom Books are very nearly unique, that is, the Chrysom Book pure and simple. The present book is made up of Chrysons, offerings at Churchings, and offerings at Marriages; and the only other thing in the book is payments at different times for candles for the font candle. It consists of 60 pp., one cut, bound in very thin parchment, and dates from 1569 to 1592. Inside the cover is a long document, being the evidence of the Reeve or Bailiff of Horton Manor as to his master and mistress and their children. It reads with many gaps:—" . . . grounds of the said manor of Horton at the time of the decease of the said Alice being . . . . . wethers and ewes . . . . . the said Alice had mainteyned upon the grounds of the manor aforesaid . . . . . the said George, sometimes husband to the said Margaret . . . . . when the said George . . . . . decease of his mother entered upon the said fee. To the fyveth, sixteth, seventh, eighteth, nyneth, tenth, and eleventh, and twelfth, . . . this examinant sayeth that . . . . . unto this transitorye liffe in the mannor of Horton lasted aboute 26 yeares laste paste, and that . . . . . manor of Horton . . . xvii yeares laste paste, and that the said . . . at the tyme of his death lefte upon the groundes and . . . . . unto the said mannor . . . . . and legges ii or iii hundred ewes, the number whereof in 2 yeres the said Robert mayntayned upon the said grounde v yeares before his . . . . . examinant, and that after the death of the said Robert, the said Alice enjoied the manor of Horton aforesaid, and at the . . . . . cattell and sheepe wch were the said Robert's at the time of his liffe and death. And that after the death of the said Roberte, the said Alice for the space of ix or x yeares untill the daye of her departure maynteyned upon the grounde of the said mannor iiiii and v hundred wethers and hundred ewes, a greater number of sheepe, and that after the death of Alice, the said George (Frye ?) has seased and possessed of all the said sheepe . . . . at the time of her liffe and death to the certaine knowledge of his examinat, or if is examinat sayeth that iii or v yeares in the lifsetime of the said . . . to the said Robert nexte forerunning the time of the decease was Ryve and Bayliffe, and after the decease of the said Robert he the exa'nat was Ryve and Baylye to the said Alice during her life, and in that time had the vewe and oversight of her cattel and husbandrye untill after the decease of the said Alice. The said examinat did see the said (back of book intervenes) . . . . that is to saye Willm their eldest sone, . . . . their second son, Richard their third sone, Harry their fourth sone. . . . Harry, Thomas, and George to be their trew and lawfull children, and that they were betweene them in lawfull matrimonic . . . . . John thelder, Richard, Harry, Thomas, and George did accounte the said Robert and Alice unto their trew and lawfull parentes, and . . the like . . . . . and neighbours of Bishoppes Canninges and of thirthe parishoners there . . . . . and that the said Willym took to wyfe and maryed one Jone Pecke abowte Andover"—the rest is illegible. It is apparently a plea or case of proof of title, but the surname is lost.

Gulielmus Dugdale, filius Christopheri Dugdale, baptizatus fuit decimo die Julij, anno 1662.

BURIAL.

Christopher Dugdale, Rector of this p'ishe of Codford, was buried the xxth daie of Julie, anno d'ni 1633.

TOM KING'S COFFEE-HOUSE.

Fielding, in one of his prologues, says: "What rake is ignorant of King's Coffee-house"? It was a rude shed beneath the portico of St. Paul's Church, in Covent Garden, and can be seen in the background of Hogarth's print of "Morning". Harwood's Alumni Etonienses, in the account of the boys elected from Eton to King's College, has this entry: "1713, Thomas King, born at West Ashton, in Wiltshire, went away scholar in apprehension that his fellowship would be denied him; and afterwards kept that coffee-house in Covent Garden, which was called by his own name." Moll King [? his wife] was landlady after Tom's death, and the house (a most disorderly one) was much frequented, though only a shed, "by noblemen and the first beaux". She removed afterwards from business—and the pillory—to Hampstead, where she lived a respectable life, renting a pew, and subscribing to the local charities. Captain Laroon, an amateur painter of the time, made a large and spirited drawing of its interior, which was at Strawberry Hill. (Timbs' History of Clubs, etc.) Is anything known of Tom King's family and its connexion with Ashton?

Queries.

Henry Dugdale (vol. i, p. 174).—In the Visitation of London, 1633-5, he is described as of Codford, and the eldest brother of Christopher, of Seend and Poulshot. Many years ago the late Canon Jackson wrote me that he remembered coming across him, as a steward or manager of some of the Duke of Somerset's estate at Orcheston, but could not give me the reference. I would be much obliged if any of our readers could give me any information concerning him; his nephew, Christopher, was Rector of Codford. ED.

Stephen Dugdale (1640 [?]-1683).—To what family did he belong? Bailiff to Lord Aston of Pixall, co. Stafford, he apostatised and was bribed to accuse his master of complicity in the Titus Oates' plot, also informing against priests, as well as many of his former co-religionists; this unhappy man, Macaulay says, "died driven mad by the furies of an evil conscience, and with loud shrieks called on those who stood near to take away Lord Stafford." He is described as "Gent." in his Informations, given before the Bar of the House of Commons, printed in 1680. I am acquainted with the account of him in Foley's Jesuits. ED.

Wiltshiremen in a Masque at Richmond, 1636.—A very rare pamphlet of thirty-one pages, entitled:

"The King and Queenes Entertainment at Richmond. After their Departure from Oxford: In a Masque presented by the most Illustrious Prince, Prince Charles, Sept. 12, 1636. Oxford: Printed by Leonard Lichfield, MDCXXXVI."

mentions (p. 5) that "because most of the Interlocutors were Wiltshiremen, that country Dialect was chosen."

Is anything known of these Wiltshire performers; or do their names occur in other entertainments of the same kind, which appear to have been much in vogue at about this date? E. K.

Timothy Tugmutton.—What is the meaning of this? It is written on a blank leaf opposite the Easter Vestry minutes, 1712, in the Seend Churchwardens' Books. It has been suggested that it was written (perhaps to try the pen) by Ambrose Awdry, jun., whose hand it somewhat resembles, one of the signers of these minutes. In the last chapter of The Pirate, published in 1821, Jack Bunce says, "Ah, since an alias has such virtue, poor Dick Fletcher might have come off as Timothy Tug-mutton." I have been told that Walter Scott and Daniel Webb, of Monkton Farley, were friends and frequently stayed together in Edinburgh, the latter telling him many a story which the author afterwards made use of. Perhaps Webb, whose family was connected with Seend—his daughter, through her mother, a Somner, bringing Seend and Semington lands to the Dukes of Somerset—told Scott of the entry, or even showed it to him! Is there any evidence of the great novelist ever being in the neighbourhood?

SAGAX.

William Herbert, third Earl of Pembroke.—In a manuscript account of the monuments in Salisbury Cathedral, written in 1635, mention is made of "a rich and rare peece of brasse" then in hand "to be set up in the Lady Chappel for the E of Pembroke, late Ld. Chamberlaine." This was William, third Earl, who had died five years previously, in 1630, but no such memorial seems ever to have been erected in the Cathedral. Was the "peece of brass", here referred to, the statue in that metal, by Le Socur, from which Vandyke is said to have painted the Earl's portrait, and which, some century later (1727), was presented to Oxford University, and is it still preserved there?

E. K.

East Grafton.—Information required:—(1) Lords of Manors; (2) Patrons of the Church; (3) Vicars or Rectors. I know that Alan de Nevill held there 13 Hen. II, John de Nevill, the forester, 1246, and John, Lord Nevill of Essex, in 1358, but I should be very grateful for any further information.

Replies.

Gule of August (vol. v, pp. 236, 286).—The meaning of the word "Gule of August" has been the subject of a lengthy discussion in Notes and Queries, but besides the interest attached to the word or term itself, is that of the time of year when the "Gule of August" falls.

It is known ecclesiastically as Lammass Day. It was one of the four quarters of the year on which the Druids of Celtic Ireland celebrated their fire festivals, as recorded by Cormac, Archbishop of Cashel, in the tenth century, and there called Lugnassad, after Lug, the Celtic Fire hero; and it is still one of the old Scotch law quarter days. Celebrated at a very early date in heathen Celtic countries, it was transferred in Christian times from the 1st August to the first Sunday in August, as a step towards weaning the people from ancient heathen to Christian practices.

Within the memory of those now living in the Isle of Man, it was there the custom to go to the tops of mountains in the early morning of August 1st to fetch water from sacred wells. Fairs were held in Wales on August 1st (Gwyl Awst); shepherds kept up the practice of having a picnic on that day on the hills in South Cardiganshire, and people ascended the Brecon Beacons on the first Sunday after August 1st, till quite recent days. These practices all seem to be relics of forgotten heathen rites. Professor Rhys, in his Hibbert Lectures, tells us that in the remote past a yearly festival was held at Lugduna (the modern Lyons) on August 1st, in honour of the deified Augustus, which, he says, probably simply superseded an older feast held on that day in honour of the Sun God Lug (from whence its name), and was the Gallo-Roman continuation of a Celtic custom.

The meaning of "Gule"—"Gwyl" as given by Vallancey (W. N. & Q., p. 286), has been shown by Professor Skeat to be worthless. He says that the Welsh word "Gwyl" is merely the Latin Vigilia turned into Welsh, and only an attempt to explain Gula by popular etymology. The word occurs in Chaucer's Canterbury Tales, and in the glossary he (Professor Skeat) describes it as "the eve before a feast, so called because originally kept by watching through the night".

The term "Gule of August" was used for a fixed date in the thirteenth century (W. N. & Q., p. 235), in the I.P.M., A.D. 1219, of the lands of Humpheyde de Bohun, where we read—"the ten Virgators were paid 27s. 6d. for their labour from St. John the Baptist's Day to the Gule of August (i.e., 38 days), and 50s. 1d. from that date to Michaelmas."

Many questions have been asked as to whether "Gule of August, Gula Augusti, Gwyl Awst", stands for the eve or the Feast Day itself. It seems probable that, as in all other Festivals of the Church, the Vigil or Eve of the day was included in its observance. In the churchwardens' accounts (1491) of St. Edmund's, Salisbury, we have the following:—"1d. for coals to make Holy Fire on Easter Eve—all lights were then quenched and fresh fire drawn from flint and distributed by hallowed tapers."

The ceremony of bringing down new fire is still to be seen every Easter at Florence, and similar survivals of the ancient custom have been graphically described by Anatole le Bras in his Land of Pardons.

The word "Gwyl" in modern Welsh stands for the Festival day itself, and though the origin of the word is unknown, the history attached to the Gule of August has many exceedingly interesting sides to it.

T. STORY-MASKELYNE.

Mortimer of Trowbridge (vol. v, p. 376).—Edward Mortimer, described in his P.C.C. Will as "Edward Mortimer the elder, of Trowbridge, in the county of Wilts., gent.", married Katharine, daughter of Robert Houlton, of Bradford, Clothier.

Robert Houlton, of Bradford, was living in 1632, as he is mentioned in the P.C.C. Will of Frances Yerbury<sup>1</sup> (widow of Gifford Yerbury, of Bradford, gent.), dated 24 March 1632, 3, as one of her supervisors.

He had the following children:—John Houlton (who married Jane Selfe), Robert Houlton, Nathaniel Houlton, Joseph Houlton, Benjamin Houlton, Anne Houlton (who married John Boucher), and Katharine Houlton (who married Edward Mortimer).

Wiltshire Notes and Queries,

SEPTEMBER, 1907.

TWO WILTSHIRE MONUMENTS.

ALTHOUGH the two subjects of this article were not Wiltshiremen, one was officially connected with our county, and the other was allied by marriage to a daughter and descendant of ancient Wiltshire families, and therefore we think they will not be out of place in these pages.

PHILIP DAUBENEY, although a man of some considerable note in his day, has not succeeded in obtaining a niche in that Temple of Fame erected by the proprietors and editor of The National Dictionary of Biography; he has laid buried for several centuries under a flat stone before the Great Gate of the Holy Sepulchre, with the following inscription in Lombardic character, and a shield charged with a fess fusilly :--

“✠ HIC : IACET : PHILLIPPUS : DE
AVBINGHI : CUIVS : ANIMA : RE
QVIESCAT : IN PACE : AMEN : ✠”

There is an account of this famous crusader in Somerset and Dorset N. & Q., v, 241, and a further longer notice of him in the following volume, p. 75, which the writer promises to continue, but has failed to do so; he gives a photograph of the stone, describing it as about 7½ft. by 3ft., of yellowish white stone, rising with chamfered edges about an inch above the surrounding pavement; it is slightly damaged at the head, but so well preserved that the inscription can be read without difficulty. Neither the Miscell. Gen. et Her., third series, iv, pp. 44, 45 (whose Editor has kindly given us permission to use a tracing from his illustration), nor Somerset & Dorset N. & Q. say anything of his connexion with Wiltshire, but the present Bishop of Salisbury states, in a letter dated from Salisbury, 27 June 1898 (Salisbury Diocesan Gazette, xi, 144):

"He was at one time Governor of Devizes Castle, and Keeper of the forests of Melksham and Chippenham. He was in Salisbury with the legate Pandulph, in 1219, the year before the foundation of the Cathedral and of the house in which I am now writing. Bishop Poore was then building a temporary chapel, and living, I suppose, in what is now the Mitre House. . . . he died in 1236 . . . .

The writers in Somerset and

Lord Middleton and the writer, was son of William Brodrick, "his Maiesties imbroderer", and married by licence, Aug. 17, 1623, at St. Mary-le-Strand, London, Catherine, daughter of Robert Nicholas of Manningford Bruce, by Jane, daughter of Nicholas St. John of Lydiard Tregoze, and hence descended from Roche of Bromham;<sup>1</sup> she was buried at Wandsworth, 4 Dec. 1678. In the Constitution of Vestry in 1627, Sir Thomas Broderick, knt., is one of those appointed to be Vestrymen; his name also occurs in an indenture dated 30 Jan. 1631-2; his fourth son St. John was father of Alan, Lord Chancellor of Ireland, created Viscount Middleton.<sup>2</sup> The following are from the Wandsworth Registers:—

1641, Dec. 4, Sir Thomas Brodrick, knt., bur.

1632, Apr. 5, Margaret, dau. of Sir Thomas Brodrick, knt., bapt.

1633, Sep. 21, Willm, son of Sir Thos. Brodrick, knight, bapt.

1635, May 25, Henry, son of Sir Thom. Brodrick, knt., bapt.

His monument was on the east wall of Wandsworth parish church until 1900, in which year it was removed by the late Lord Middleton to Peperharow Church. Its present position is in the interesting old church of St. Nicholas, nestling close to the family mansion built in the Italian style in the eighteenth century, and standing in a beautifully timbered park well stocked with a fine herd of deer; it is not placed in the elaborately decorated family chapel, designed by Pugin, in the north aisle, enclosed with iron railings, the heads of which are ingeniously treated as imbrued spear-heads; but on the north side of the west tower, facing east. It is a <sup>1</sup> Hence some of the descendants claim to be amongst the heirs of an ancient barony de la Roche; but although Thomas de la Roche signed and sealed (three roaches naiant) the Barons' Letter to the Pope, it has been held that this is no evidence of his having sat; again, although he was summoned to (and perhaps sat at) the Parliament at Lincoln, there is no evidence of his ever having been summoned to any other Parliament meeting during his lifetime. See Ancestor, vi, 185, and W. N. & Q., iv, 523.

WILL OF SIR THOMAS BRODRICK, 1638.

In the name of God Amen. I, Sir Thomas Brodrick of Wandsworth, in the County of Surrey, knight, being infirm in body, etc., revoking all former wills heretofore made by me, do make this my last will, etc. That is to say, first and principally, I commend my soule unto Almighty God my Creator, trusting, etc., and my body to the earth, etc. to be privately buried at the discretion of my executors hereafter named. And for my temporal estate I give, etc., as hereafter followeth:—Imprimis, I give to my eldest sonne, Allan Broderick, the sum of £20 per annum, to bee paid him quarterly at the feasts of the Annunciation of our blessed Lady St. Mary the Virgin, the Nativity of St. John the Baptist, St. Michael the Archangell, and the birth of our Lord God, by even portions untill he shall attain the age of 21 years; and at his full age of 21 yeares I give unto him the full sum of £1000, Provided alwaies that my Executrix shall keepe the sayd somme of £1000 in her own handes and custodie vntill she shall be legally acquitted of and from such covenants and obligations as heretofore, at and before my marriage

I have entered into unto Sir Allen Apsley, knt., Sir Oliver Nicholas, kt.,<sup>1</sup> and others to perform. Item, I give to my son Allen and his heirs all my simple lands, tenements, and hereditaments, with their appurtenances, in the county of Yorke and Surrey. And the remainder of all the years and termes which shalbe to come and unexpired alter my wife's decease, of all my leasehold lands and tenements in London and Wandsworth, excepting my lease of one farmhouse, wherein I dwell in Wandsworth aforesaid, with the landes and appurtenances thereto belonging, called by the name of "Savage Farme"; Provided also that if my son Allen shall happen to dye before he cometh to his said age of 21 yeares, then I give the sayd summe of £1,000 to be equally divided amongst all the rest of my children, part and part alike, or such of them as shalbe living at the tyme of my wife's decease. And the remaynder of yeares which shalbe to come alter my wife's decease, of all my said leases and leasehold lands, etc., heretofore given to my son Allen, I give to my said son Thomas.<sup>2</sup> Item, I give to my three daughters, Anne, Lucie, and Margaret, the sum of £200 apeece respectively, at their ages of 21 yeares or days of marriage, which shall first happen; Provided always and my will is that if any of my said daughters happen to dye before her or their legacies shalbe due, I give the legacie, etc., of her or them which shall soe dye vnto the survivors or survivor of my said daughters, part and part alike, to be paid, etc., as aforesayd. Item, I give unto my five other sonnes, namely, Thomas, St. John, Oliver, William, and Henry, the sum of two hundred pounds apeece at their severall ages of 24 yeares. provided alwaies that if my Executrix shall disburse any money for placing of them apprentice, my will is the same money soe disbursed shalbe deducted out of the legacie or legacies respectively of him or them for whom the same shall be disbursed; Provided alwaies that if any of my said five yonger sonnes happen to dye, etc. [as in the case of the daughters]. The rest of all my goods, household stuffe, plate, etc., my funerall charges, debtes, and legacies discharged, I freely and absolutely give vnto my deare and loving wife Dame Katherine, whome I hereby make and ordaine full, sole and absolute executrix of this my last will. In witness whereof I, the sayd Sir Thomas Brodrick, have to this my last will conteyned in these three sheetes of paper subscribed my hand to every of the sayd sheets, and sealed them together with a labell on the toppe thereof. Geaven the fyveth day of March, Anno Domini 1638, and in the four-

WILTON HOUSE, AND ITS LITERARY ASSOCIATIONS.

Of the lettered society mentioned by Mr. Sweeper, the celebrated physician, Dr. Thomas Muffett,<sup>1</sup> is said to have retired

to Bulbridge, near Wilton, at the wish of the Countess of Pembroke [Mary Sidney]. He was M.P. for Wilton, and also connected with Wiltshire by marriage, his second<sup>1</sup> wife Katherine (buried at Calne in 1626) having been the daughter of William Sadler of Salthrop [in Wroughton], and widow of Richard Browne of Studley, near Calne.<sup>2</sup>

Some account of Dr. Muffet will be found in Wood's Athenæ Oxon., i, p. 200, and Munk's Roll of the Royal Coll. of Physicians, i, p. 84. He was the medical attendant of Ann [Stanhope], Duchess of Somerset, widow of the Protector,<sup>3</sup> and the author, during his lifetime, of two medical works, printed at Frankfort. Also a third, which he dedicated to "the most renowned patroness and noble nurse of learning"—Lady Pembroke. It is entitled:—

"The Silkwormes and other Flies, Lively described in Verse by T. M., a Countrie Farmer, and an Apprentice in Physick. For the great benefit and enriching of England." Printed at London by V. S., for Nicholas Ling, and are to be sold at his shop at the West end of Poule's, 1599.

This work, which is printed in quarto, has been highly praised. He died in 1604, in which year his will was proved (see hereafter), and was buried at Wilton. Long afterwards two other volumes, printed from his MS., also issued from the press—the first, a folio volume on entomology (a subject on which he seems to have been a great authority), was published by Sir Theodore de Mayerne, M.D., and is entitled:—

but the registers do not seem to exist earlier than 1562; a Thomas Muffett, born 23 July 1602, was admitted to this School, 1 April 1617.

<sup>1</sup> He had previously married, 23 Dec. 1580, as "of St. Mary, Colechurch, doctor in medicine", Jane Wheeler, spinster, of the parish of St. Ethelburgh.

<sup>2</sup> In Calne church, on the floor of the north aisle, was formerly an inscription: "Illic infra sepulti sunt Richardus Browne, Arm., ob. 9 Aug. 1598—Katherine, ejus uxor, postea uxor] Tho. Moffet, M.D., filia Will'i Sadler, Arm. de Salthrope, 3 Apr. 1626." In her will, dated 1621, she is described as "of Calne, gentlewoman, widow". She bequeaths her daughter Patience "her father's picture, his coat of arms, and his pedigree".

"Insectorum sive Mininorum Animalium Theatrum; olim ab Edoardo Wottono, Conrado Gesnero, Thomaque Pennio inchoatum; tandem Tho. Moufeti operâ sumptibusque maximis concinnatum auctum perfectum." Londini ex Officinâ typographicâ: Thom. Coles, 1634.

The second is a quarto volume, published some twenty years later:—

"Healths Improvement, or Rules comprizing and discovering the Nature, Method, and Manner of preparing all sorts of Food used in this Nation. Corrected and enlarged by Chris. Bennet, 1655."<sup>1</sup>

Hugh Sanford was tutor to William, third Eärl of Pembroke, and is said to have predicted the very day of his death (see Ashm. MS., 174, f. 149). This is alluded to by Lord Clarendon, and also by Donne in his dedication of the Earl's Poems to Christian, Countess Dowager of Devon, in 1660.

It is interesting to find John Gerarde, the Cheshire herbalist, mentioned as a "gentleman scholler" at Wilton, and among the hundreds of fine woodcuts of plants in the early editions of his subsequent work, The Herball, or Generall Historie of Plantes, gathered by John Gerarde, of London, Master in Chirurgerie,<sup>2</sup> we may almost imagine some of them to represent local specimens gathered from this neighbourhood.

Philip Massinger, the great dramatist [1583-1640], as is well known, spent part of his early days in Wilton House. The son of Arthur Massinger, who held some situation of trust in the Pembroke family,<sup>3</sup> he was baptized in the church of St. Thomas, Salisbury, 24 Nov. 1583, representing, in all probability, an old Salisbury family, for among its municipal records we find, in 1415, the name of Thomas Messagier as the occupier of a tenement in St. Martin's street in that city. It is well to keep this fact in print, as Massinger's birthplace seems to have puzzled the editors of his works,<sup>1</sup> and much labour has also been spent in attempting to prove that his family came out of Gloucestershire. Aubrey says, "Mr. Philip Massenger, author of several good playes, was a servant to Lord Pembroke, and had a pension of twenty or thirty pounds per annum, which was payed to his wife after his decease"—a circumstance unnoticed by his biographers. In this Wiltshire notice of him it may also be mentioned that his character of "Sir Giles Overreach", in the "New way to pay old debts",<sup>2</sup> was drawn from Sir Giles Mompesson, a member of a family seated in the village of Bathampton Wyly, not far from Wilton.<sup>3</sup>

<sup>2</sup> The excessively rare first edition, imprinted at London by John Norton, 1597, extends to some 1,700 folio pages, with about 2,000 illustrations of plants, etc.

<sup>3</sup> Robert Whyte, Esq., writing from the Strand to Sir Robert Sidney, 1 March 1598, says, "Mr. Massinger is newly come up from the Earl of Pembroke [Henry, second Earl] with letters to the Queen for his lordship's leave to be away this St. George's Day [23 April]." See Sidney Letters and Memorials of State, 1746.

Gervase Babington, domestic chaplain to Henry, second

<sup>1</sup> Gifford, in his edition of Massinger, says that he was born in 1584, in or near Salisbury, probably at Wilton, and that fruitless search had been made in all the parish registers of Salisbury for the entry of his baptism. Col. Cunningham, in his edition (1867) from the text of Gifford, suggests that the baptism may have taken place at St. Edmunds, Salisbury, but there is, he tell us, a vacuum in the register extending over the period in which the name might have appeared. This account has been copied again and again down to the present day.

<sup>2</sup> The best known of Massinger's plays. Though written probably about 1625, it was not published until 1633. Popular in its author's lifetime, it is the only one of his dramas which has borne revival in our own day. This and The City Madam (1659) are distinguished as more English than the rest; the scene lies at home and in the age. In the latter we have the masterly delineation of Luke, a villain of a different order from Overreach, and a larger portion of comic humour and satire than is usual with this writer.

<sup>3</sup> Sir Giles, who was M.P. for Great Bedwyn 1614-20, had fallen into serious disrepute. He abused the privilege of the exclusive manufacture of gold and silver thread by a deceitful composition made of poisonous drugs. The Parliament proceeded against him in 1621, his patent was called in, he was degraded from the order of knighthood, fined £1,000, and outlawed; a sentence to which the King [James I] added perpetual banishment. See also Massinger's The Bond-Man (1638), Act ii, Scene 3.

Earl of Pembroke, was Prebendary of Hereford, Bishop of Llandaff 1591-1595, of Exeter 1595-1597, and of Worcester 1597 until his death in 1610. He is buried in Worcester Cathedral.

Henry Parry was Dean of Chester, Bishop of Gloucester 1607-1610, when, on the death of Bishop Babington, he succeeded to Worcester, in which cathedral he was also buried in 1616.

Abraham Conham, B.D., Prebendary and Canon residentiary of Salisbury, was also Rector of Bishopstone in South Wilts 1584-1612, and of Gussage St. Michael, co. Dorset, 1595-1612. By his wife Hester [Badby], buried at Durrington 1647, he left two daughters and coheireses, one of whom married Walter White of Grittleton, the other Edward Poore of Durrington.

* The other divines mentioned by Mr. Sweeper—M. Walford, M. Parker [Robert Parker] and M. Bigs—have apparently less local interest.

We now come to William, third Earl of Pembroke, who at his father's death, in 1601, had scarcely attained his majority. About this time he was banished from Queen Elizabeth's Court for an intrigue with one of the Maids of Honour—Mary Fitton—supposed to be the "Dark Lady" in Shakespeare's Sonnets, and himself possibly the "Mr. W. H." alluded to as the onlie begetter of them.<sup>1</sup> In Elizabethan days, when dramatic performances and masques were much in vogue, the bard of Stratford-on-Avon is said to have himself assisted in the production of some of his own plays in Wilton House; and the earlier folios of his Comedies, Histories, and Tragedies, issued after his death [in 1623 and 1632], are dedicated by the publishers, John Heminge and Henry Condell, "to the most <sup>1</sup> In the full introduction to the 1890 edition of these Sonnets, by Thomas Tyler, M.A., is given the evidence concerning the identification of this Earl of Pembroke with the high-born, beautiful, and gifted youth for whom Shakespeare expressed so devoted an attachment, and of Mrs. Mary Fitton as the Sonnet-heroine.

Noble and Incomparable pair of Brethren, William, Earl of Pembroke, &c., Lord Chamberlain to the Kings most Excellent Majestie; and [his brother] Philip, Earl of Montgomery, &c., Gentleman to His Majesties Bed-Chamber".

To William, third Earl, Francis Davison inscribed his collection of Poems, entitled The Rhapsody, in a dedicatory sonnet as early as 1602. A late edition of this work, with preface by Sir Egerton Brydges, was privately printed at the Lee Priory Press 1814-17, and contains Poems of Sir Walter Raleigh, Mary Countess of Pembroke, Sir Philip Sidney, Henry Constable, and Sir H. Wotton.

To the same Earl is dedicated a small volume entitled "Ars Aulica; or The Courtiers Arte". London: Printed by Melch. Bradwood for Edward Blount, 1607.

Next we find a very rare volume of travels with the same dedication:—

"An Exact and Curious Survey of all the East Indies, even to Canton, the Chiefe Citie of China; all duly performed by Land, by Monsieur de Monfart, the like whereof was never hitherto brought to an end, wherein also are described the huge dominions of the Great Mogor, to whom that honourable Knight, Sir Thomas Roe, was lately sent Ambassador from the King, newly translated out of the Travailleurs Manuscript." T. Dawson for W. Arondell, 1615.

In the first collected edition of "The Workes of Benjamin Johnson", as revised by himself (IV. Stansby, 1616), we find Catiline dedicated "to the Earle of Pembrok", and Epigrammes to the same. The epitaph on Lady Mary Sidney, the Earl's mother, which is usually ascribed to Ben Johnson, has been already noticed. A year later, Fynes Moryson also dedicated a folio volume of travels,<sup>1</sup> written "first in the Latine tongue, and then translated by him into English":—

"An Itinerary, containing his ten yeeres travell through the twelve dominions of Germany, Bohmerland, Sweitzerland, <sup>1</sup> Fuller, the Church historian, relates that Moryson began his travels 1 May 1591, over a great part of Christendom, and no small share of Turkey, even to Jerusalem, and afterwards printed his observations in a large book, which, for the truth thereof, is in good reputation.

Netherland, Denmarke, POLAND, Italy, TURKEY, France, England, SCOTLAND and Ireland. Divided into three parts. The I Part containeth a journall through all the said twelve dominions, shewing particularly the number of miles, the soyle of the country, the situation of cities, the descriptions of them, with all the monuments in each place worth the seeing, as also the rates of hiring coaches or horses from place to place, with each daies expences for diet, horse-meate, and the like. The II Part containeth the REBELLION OF HUGH, EARL OF TYRONE, and the appeasing thereof, written also in the forme of a journall. The III Part containeth a discourse upon several heads, through all the said several dominions." London: John Beale. 1617.

In 1622, Thomas Tomkins, late organist of Worcester Cathedral, then of the Chapel Royal,<sup>1</sup> dedicated to the same Earl a small quarto volume of music:—

"Songs of 3, 4, 5 and 6 parts. By Thomas Tomkins, Organist of his Maiesties Chappell Royall in Ordinary." London: Printed for Matthew Lownes, Iohn Browne, and Thomas Snodham. Cum Privilegio.

Lord Pembroke died 10 April 1620. A brass statue of him by Le Seour (said to have been designed as a monumental memorial to be placed in the Lady Chapel of Salisbury Cathedral) was presented, in 1727 to Oxford University. His portrait by Vandyke was painted from this statue. At the Restoration was published a small volume of poetical remains under this title:—

"Poems written by the Right Honorable William, Earl of Pembroke, Lord Steward of His Majesties Household; whereof many of which are answered, by way of reparte, by Sir Benjamin Ruddier, Knight,<sup>2</sup> with several distinct Poems written by them occasionally and apart." London: Printed by Matthew Inman, and are to be sold by James Magnes, in Russel Street, near the Piazza, in Covent Garden. 1660.

It seems that Christian, Dowager Countess of Devon, the <sup>1</sup> He is said to have belonged to a family which produced more musicians than any other in England. At St. John's College, Oxford, there is a volume written by Tomkins and Este, containing, among other remarkable things, the Bass part of a Service by Tallis for five voices, otherwise unknown.

<sup>2</sup> He was M.P. for Wilton in 1610; died 1658, aged 86, and was buried at West Woodhay, co. Berks.

daughter of Lord Pembroke was one of those ladies whom Lord Pembroke selected for his poetical idolatry. She had carefully preserved his fugitive pieces (mixed with others) in a commonplace book, which, thirty years or more after the Earl's death, she gave to John Donne (son of the Dean of St. Paul's) to publish. In so doing he used no discrimination, for besides those of Sir Benjamin Rudyard, there are among them poems of Sir Walter Raleigh, Carew, and others. In the collecting of these poems for publication, Donne acknowledges the assistance of Mr. Henry Lawes, a Wiltshireman, and one of the greatest masters of music of that day.<sup>1</sup>

A second edition of these Poems was published by Sir Egerton Brydges, in 1817—the impression being limited to a hundred copies.

The third Earl of Pembroke, dying without issue, was succeeded by his younger brother Philip, Earl of Montgomery. It was at this time that their relative, George Herbert, succeeded to the neighbouring Rectory of Fugglestone, with Bemerton.<sup>2</sup> He was inducted 26 April 1630, and in less than two years his remains were laid to rest in the chancel of Bemerton Church.<sup>3</sup> Of his best known works, The Temple, Sacred Poems and Private Ejaculations, was published from his manuscript, by his friend Nicholas Ferrar, in 1633—the year <sup>1</sup> Henry Lawes, whose name is closely identified with the Church Music of the seventeenth century, was baptized at Dinton 5 Jan. 1605-6. He was the friend of Milton, and the publisher, in 1637, of his Comus, the first and finest of Milton's works, although not at that time openly acknowledged by its author. In 1615, Lawes was Gentleman of the King's Chapel, and one of His Majesty's Private Music. 157.

<sup>2</sup> His predecessor, Dr. Walter Curle, Dean of Lichfield, was promoted to the Bishopric of Rochester 1628—Bath and Wells 1629—and Winchester 1632. He died 1617.

<sup>3</sup> Herbert was already connected with Wiltshire by his marriage at Edington, 5 March 1628, to Jane, third daughter of Charles Danvers, of Baynton, in that parish; and by his subsequent residence at Dauntsey. After the death of his father, Richard Herbert, of Chelsea, his mother, Magdalen, had again married (as his first wife) Sir John Danvers, The Raguide, afterwards of West Lavington. Her Funeral Sermon was preached by Dr. Donne, in 1627.

after his death.<sup>1</sup> Later, in 1652, was also published A Priest to the Temple, or the Country Parson, his Character and Rules of Holy Life; also, in the same year was issued Remains, or Sundry Pieces of that Sweet Singer of the Temple, Mr. George Herbert, sometime Orator of the University of Cambridge. Of the first two of these works, facsimile reprints of the original editions appeared in 1876, 1882, and 1898—whilst Herbert's Complete Works in Verse and Prose were first fully collected by Dr. Grosart, in Fuller's Worthies Library, 1874.

Philip, fourth Earl of Pembroke, succeeded to the Earldom at the age of 46. He was Lord Chamberlain to Charles I, and Chancellor of the University of Oxford—a patron of literature and the fine arts. The south façade of Wilton House, designed by Inigo Jones, and rebuilt during his ownership, bears witness also to his taste for architecture. Of Vandyke he must have been a most liberal patron, for according to Aubrey, he was the greatest owner, in his day, of the works of that artist. Two portraits of himself (one with his wife and children) are among the priceless remains of Vandyke's pencil now preserved at Wilton. In 1640 was published a folio volume entitled:—

"The Love and Armes of the Greek Princes; or, The Romant of Romants, Written in French by Monsieur Verdere, and Translated for the Right Honourable Philip, Earl of Pembroke and Montgomery, Lord Chamberlaine to his Majesty." London: Printed by Thomas Harper for Thomas Walkley, and are to be sold at his Shop at the signe of the Flying Horse, neere York House. 1640.

William Brown, the pastoral poet, who appears to have been long domesticated in Wilton House, in the time of William, the third Earl, is also found as translator of "The History of Polexander, in five Bookes, done into

<sup>1</sup> Within the next forty years it had passed through ten editions, and his biographer, Izaak Walton, writing in 1670, says that more than twenty thousand copies had been sold since the first impression. It would be difficult to enumerate the many subsequent editions of this well-known volume, and to calculate the sale from 1670 to the present time.

In the same year was published another folio volume, dedicated by James Shirley to the same nobleman:—

"The Comedies and Tragedies written by Francis Beaumont and John Fletcher, Gentlemen, and never printed before, and now published by the Authours Originall Copies." London: Printed for Humphrey Moseley, at the Princess Armes in St. Paul's Church Yard. 1647.

This is the first collected edition of the works of these celebrated authors.

Early in the Civil War Lord Pembroke sided with the Parliament—a step which provoked much satire, and some violent lampoons, from the Royalist party. Samuel Butler, the author of Hudibras, thus writes of him:—

"Pembroke's a Covenanting Lord,
That ne'er with God or Man kept word,
One day he'd sware he'd serve the King,
The next was quite another Thing;
Still changing with the Wind and Tide,
That he might keep the stronger Side."

An Epitaph on the death of Mrs. Blanch Sadler the wife of Mr. William Sadler of Elcombe who died in the 37th yeare of her age and was buried under this stone
 Octob: 1: 1632:

She was (whose Tombe thou uiest) a faithfull wife
 Chaste, Cheereful, frugall, Pleasing to her Fere
 Patient and Peaceable hating all strife
 A sweete companion and a friend most deare.
 Childless she was, yet mother unto many
 She made the poore, her brother, sister, mother :
 As Kind shee was unto her Kinne as any
 To Equall her, tis' hard to find another
 A Curteouse neighbour, good to one and all,
 Yet taught by Grace, to put a difference,
 For Piety the best, wee may her call,
 That living in our age, was taken hence.
 A Saint shee was on Earth, A Saint Shee is Moane all our losse, but enuy none her Blisse.

Queries.

Tipper's Charity and James Blake.—Amongst the many pamphlets written by Captain King, E.I.C.S., known for many years in the neighbourhood of Devizes for his amiable eccentricities, is one printed before 1880, on the Scend Charity Lands; it is anonymous, "by a Lover of Truth and Justice". In it he states, "in 1789, through the instrumentality of James Blake, a Wesleyan, the rent of certain lands was given in the shape of coats to the poor, to which it has been applied ever since." Who was this James Blake, and what is the authority of the writer for saying "he fought the battle with the Overseers about the misapplication of this rent?" There is nothing in the parish books about it, although the distribution of the bug coats does commence about this time. SAGE.

Gigant Street.—Can you throw any light on this name, vulgarly "Jiggens Street", in Codford St. Mary? Of course I know the street so called in Salisbury, presumably from St. Christopher being carried that way. D. C.

Wilton Cedars (vol. v, pp. 435-6).—Will the writer of the interesting paper on "Wilton's Literary Associations" kindly give his authority for the statement that the cedars there were planted about 1640, for books on Forestry give 1683 as the earliest date when Cedars of Lebanon were introduced into Britain.

V. L. OLIVER.

Smollett's "Humphrey Clinker".—Besides the extremely rare first edition of Goldsmith's Vicar of Wakefield, printed at Salisbury in 1766 (vol. iv, pp. 425, 474), Smollett's Expedition of Humphrey Clinker is said (in an article on Wiltshire, Quarterly Review, vol. ciii, pp. 108-138) to have been also first printed here. Is this correct? The latter work, in three volumes 12mo, seems to have first appeared in 1771, but I have not met with a copy of this edition to enable me to verify the above statement.

Dean Swift.—Is it possible to connect him with our county? At Sherrington there were a number of "Swifts" and "Gullivers" about Queen Anne's time, and "Jonathan" and "Tristram" seem common names.

Richard Jefferies.—I have been asked to write a life of this celebrated author, and am anxious to know something definite about his family and its settlement at Coate farm, in the parish of Chiseldon, and its connexion with the Jefferies of Draycot Foliat and other neighbouring parishes of North Wiltshire. Will your readers communicate direct with me?

Anthony's Walk (vol. v, p. 374).—The track here alluded to (apparently the ancient British Ridgway) is probably so called from St. Anthony, the great hermit. There seems always to have been a strong tendency to connect any old track or causeway either with monks or nuns. A walk near Warminster, known as the Nun's Path, was, in 1777, the subject of a descriptive poem of 35 pages, and very recently, when the question of relaying part of the time-worn causey, some two miles in length, which traverses the village of Poulshot, was introduced to the Urban District Authority at Devizes, it was at once identified as an old Monks' Walk, in accordance with usual tradition.

Notes on Books.

FOUR WILTSHIRE BOOKS.

During this year the four following books have been issued from the press:—1, A SCHOOL HISTORY OF WILTSHIRE, by Francis Smith, of Calne; 2, ROUND ABOUT WILTSHIRE, by A. G. Bradley; 3, BRADFORD-ON-AVON, edited by Dr. Beddoe; 4, THE LIFE OF SIR TOBIE MATTHEW.

1. Mr. Smith finding that his pupils "knew nothing of the history of their County, of peculiar historical interest, and so rich in memorials of the far distant past", proceeded to prepare some notes for their instruction, and the present volume is the happy result. It is concise, well illustrated, and the author is clever in his way of treating, or of perhaps not treating, controversial subjects; it has been recommended by the educational authorities for use in our Schools, which recommendation we hope will take effect, a knowledge of the past being so often useful in solving problems of the present.

2. This is of quite a different character, being mainly the result of notes taken on a bicycle tour, "the outcome of a long summer's ramble", and therefore only takes account of those places actually visited by the tourist. It is most agreeably written, and profusely illustrated, many of the pictures being coloured. Commencing with Marlborough, Mr. Bradley gives a long account of the struggles at the birth of the now successful College; perhaps for a work of such a size, he has devoted too much space to this town, but this is only natural, as he was one of the earliest Marlburians.

3. This handsome, well-printed quarto, published by subscription, by Mr. Dotesio, is a reprint of the late Canon Jones' work, which appeared in The Wilts Archaeological Magazine, brought more or less up to date, the fresh matter being contained in brackets; much water has flowed under the ancient bridge of old Bradford during the last fifty years, and we think such matter might have been considerably added to, e.g., the Church Inscriptions might have been largely increased; these were printed some years ago by the writer, who sent a copy to be deposited amongst the parish archives. It is so handsomely illustrated that it is a pity that Horton's merchant's mark should be wrongly drawn and printed upside down; again, we think that the so-called "Arms" of Bradford should have been omitted, and the Town would be well advised to cease to use them, until it had procured proper authority from the Officers appointed by the Sovereign for such purposes. There is a short preface by Dr. Beddoe.

4. This is not strictly a Wiltshire book, but deserves notice, being the life of one born in our County, written by “the Earl of Landaff”, who for some years resided—and was well known—in Trowbridge and its neighbourhood.

Tobie Matthew was born at Salisbury in 1577, his father, of the same name, being Precentor of the Cathedral, and at that time Dean of Christ Church; he afterwards became Archbishop of York; his mother was the widow of the son of Archbishop Parker, her father being “Bishop” Barlow; “her epitaph proudly records the fact that she had also Four Bishops her Brethren-in-Law.” In spite, or perhaps because, of this curious, and possibly in the opinion of some, unsavoury family connexion her son Tobie became a Catholic priest, and a Jesuit, as some say, but of this there is no evidence; he was intimate with the Society and bequeathed all his property to it. For his recusancy he was imprisoned for two years, and probably in such troublous times would have gained the crown of martyrdom, had it not been that he was a most useful and efficient go-between with the English Court and those of Rome and the continent; perhaps also he owed his immunity to his powerful Protestant relations and his friendship with Bacon. This “remarkable personality” has been called the “Alter Ego” of the great philosopher, who submitted nearly all his works for his criticism and advice before publishing them; Tobie translated some of his friend’s works into Italian, in addition to other works, and left a great mass of letters behind him, many of which are to and from Bacon, the source of much of our knowledge of the history of that time. So great was his influence that he is said to have persuaded Bacon to become a Catholic before his death. It is a book well worth reading, and is enriched with many good reproductions of old portraits, one of which, the frontispiece, is that of Tobie Matthew himself. Knighted in 1623, he represented both Newport and St. Albans in Parliament. All these books have indexes.

WILTON HOUSE, AND ITS LITERARY ASSOCIATIONS.

THE following are some of the tracts relating to the Earl of Pembroke, which we find issued during the Civil War period:—

“A Letter to the Earle of Pembroke from Sir Edward Baynton in Gloucester, shewing the true manner how himselfe and Captain Edward Eyre were surpris'd at Malmsbury by two Lieutenant-Collonels under the Earl of Stamford's Command upon pretended ground, and contrary to some scandalous relations in print, with the reasons inducing him formerly to seize upon Sir Edward Hungerford.” London: Printed for Thomas Creak, January 22, 1642.

“The Propositions of the Lords and Commons assembled in Parliament for a safe and well grounded Peace, sent to his Majestie at Newcastle, by the Right Honourable the Earle of Pembroke and Montgomery, the Earle of Suffolke, Members of the House of Peers, and Sir Walter Erle, Sir John Hipisly, Knights, Robert Goodwyn, Luke Robinson, Esq., Members of the House of Commons.” London: Printed for John Wright, at the King's Head in the Old Bailey, 1646.

“Joyful News from Newcastle, being a true relation of the proceedings of the Rt. Honorable the Earl of Pembroke . . . with the King's most excellent Majesty at Newcastle; also the proceedings of the Scottish Commissioners, and their delivery of the King to the Parliament of England . . .” Printed by B. A., Feb. 1 [1647?].

“His Majesties Answer to the Propositions presented to him at Hampton Court the seventh of September 1647, by the Earl of Pembroke (etc.) . . . in the names of the Parliament . . .

London: Printed by E. Griffin, 1647.

"The Earle of Pembroke's Speech in the House of Peeres, when the Seven Lords were accused of High Treason [1647]."
Printed in the year 1648.

"The Earl of Pembroke's Farewell to the King, at his departure from the Treaty in the Isle of Wight, with His Majestie's Reply; also his Speech in the House of Lords, at his returne safe home from the Treaty." Printed in the year 1648.

"The Earle of Pembroke's Speech in the House of Peeres, upon debate of the Cities Petition for a Personall Treaty, to be had with His Majesty in London, and also upon debate of those Reasons given by their Lordships unto the Commons for not sending the Three Propositions before a Treaty." Printed in the year 1648.

"An Owle at Athens; or a True Relation of the Enterance of the Earle of Pembroke into Oxford, April xi, 1648." Printed in the year 1648.

"Lord have Mercy upon us; or the Visitation at Oxford: Begun April the 11. 1648." Printed at Pembroke and Montgomery, 1648.

"Newes from Pembroke and Mongomery, or Oxford Manchester'd, by Michael Oldsworth and his Lord, who swore he was Chancellour of Oxford, and Proved it in a Speech made to the new Visitours in their New Convocation, April 11, 1648, as here it follows Word for Word, and Oath for Oath." Printed at Montgomery 1648.

"Halifax Law. translated to Oxon; or, The New Visitor's Justice; displayed in a letter to a Friend, concerning the late Reformation begun there by the E. of Pembroke, more particularly in Brasen-Nose-Colledge, and St. Johns." Printed in the year 1648.

"The Second Part of the Westminster Monster, whereunto is added Pembroke's Passe from Oxford to his Grave." Printed An. Dom. 1648.

"The Speech of Phillip Herbert, late Earl of Pembroke,<sup>1</sup> at his Admittance (as a Member) into the Honorable House of Commons, in Parliament Assembled, April 16, 1649, after he had been duely elected a Burgess for Berkshire, instead of Sir Francis Pile, lately diseased."<sup>2</sup> Taken verbatim by Michael Oldsworth.

"The Earl of Pembroke's Speech to Nol-Cromwell, Lord Deputy of Ireland, with his Royall Entertainment of him at his Manner of Ramsbury in Wiltshire. on his Journey to Ireland, on Thursday, July 12, 1649. Taken verbatim by Michael Oldisworth, and by him Recommended to one of his Lordship's Tenants, to see it carefully printed and published." Nol-Nol, Printed by the Printer of the House of Lords, 1647.

The fourth Earl died 23 Jan. 1649-50.<sup>1</sup> Of his second wife, Lady Anne Clifford [daughter and heir of George, Earl of Cumberland, and widow of Richard Sackville, third Earl of Dorset] who survived him, a notice will be found in Mrs. Aubrey Richardson's Famous Ladies of the English Court, 1899. Her funeral Sermon, preached by Edward Rainbow, Bishop of Carlisle [1664-84], is printed in Carlisle Tracts, 1839-44.

With George Herbert's residence at Bemerton [1630-32] one naturally expects to find his friend and biographer, Izaak Walton, a visitor here; and on the banks of the river Wylye, which passes through a portion of the grounds at Wilton, joining the Nadder outside the park walls, and flowing onwards through the meadows near Bemerton Rectory, on its way to Salisbury, we may imagine Walton busily engaged in plying the "gentle art". Both rivers contain trout and grayling, and here he is said to have composed much of his charming work The Complete Angler, or the Contemplative Man's Recreation, which has lost but little, if any, of its popularity since its first issue in 1653.

Philip, the fifth Earl [1650-69] who died at the age of 48, sold a great quantity of the pictures and books at Wilton, collected by his ancestors.

From him we pass on to Thomas, eighth Earl [1683-1733]—a virtuoso and a collector of statues and coins. He was Lord High Admiral, First Lord of the Admiralty, and a President of the Royal Society. The large collection of ancient <sup>1</sup> His so called last Will and Testament and several imaginary speeches, also attributed to him, were written by Samuel Butler, the author of Hudibras, and are to be found in the second volume of his Posthumous Works.

sculptures at Wilton, which originated with him, are well known both in England and on the Continent, from the various descriptions of them which were published during the latter half of the eighteenth century.<sup>1</sup> In 1751, we find A Description of the Pictures, Statues, Bustos, Basso-relievos, and other Curiosities, by Richard Cowdry, printed at London. Three years later, a similar work by Antonio Pillori, was issued at Florence.<sup>2</sup> Again, four years later, is found a local publication, entitled:—

“A New Description of the Pictures, Statues, Bustos, Basso-relievos, and other Curiosities, at the Earl of Pembroke’s House, at Wilton. In the Antiques of his collection are contained the whole of Cardinal Richelieu’s and Cardinal Mazarine’s, and the greatest part of the Earl of Arundel’s, besides several particular Pieces purchased at different times; by James Kennedy.” Salisbury; printed by Benjamin Collins, on the New Canal; and sold by R. Baldwin, in Pater-noster-Row, London, 1758.

This went through many octavo editions, of which three at least, published in 1765, 1769, and 1786, were also issued in quarto size, with twenty-five plates of the principal sculptures, engraved by Gresse. To the edition of 1769 is added “Anecdotes and Remarks from the MS. of Thomas, Earl of Pembroke, now first printed”.

In 1774 we find another work on the same subject, entitled:—

“Ædes Pembrochiana; or a critical Account of the Statues and other Curiosities at Wilton House, formed on the plan of Mr. Spence’s Polymetis.” By Mr. Richardson.

The eleventh edition, containing 145 pages, small octavo, Salisbury 1788, has an altered title:—

“Ædes Pembrochiana; a New Account and Description of the Antiquities and Curiosities in Wilton House, in which the ancient Poets and Artists are made mutually to explain and illus- trate each other. To which is prefixed a Dissertation on the Origin, Progress, and Decay of Sculpture among the Greeks and Romans.<sup>7</sup>

<sup>1</sup> As is usually the case in collections of antiques, gathered from many different sources, some of these specimens are considered to be of somewhat questionable authenticity.

In 1798 this work had reached a thirteenth edition. More recently, on the occasion of the Meeting of the Archæological Institute at Salisbury, in 1849, appeared the privately printed Notes on the Sculptures at Wilton House, by Charles Newton, M.A., of the British Museum, extending to thirty-one octavo pages.

In addition to the sculptures, the coins,<sup>1</sup> also collected by Thomas, eighth Earl, form the subject of a thick quarto, published by Robson, which contains engravings of many hundreds of the finest specimens:—

“Numismata Antiqua in tres partes divisa. Collegit olim et æri incidi vivens curavit Thomas Pembrochiæ et Montis Gomerici Comes.” [Londini], 1746.

The work actually consists of four parts, the last containing English and Scottish coins.

“Nummi Anglici et Scotici cum aliquot Numismatibus recentioribus collegit Thomas Pembrochiæ et Montisgomerici Comes.” [No date.]

Henry, ninth Earl, designed many additions to Wilton House, and dying 1749-50, was succeeded by his son Henry, tenth Earl, then at the age of fifteen. Several years later we find him a rising and most zealous officer, devoted to military pursuits and a great favourite at Court. Among the foreigners who settled in England about this time was Domenick Angelo Tremamondo, a native of Leghorn,<sup>2</sup> and a matchless fencer and rider, who, in London, founded that celebrated family of masters which made the “Angelo School of Arms” a household word among men of fashion. He became famous as a teacher of the "Art of Equitation", and Fencing and Riding Master to the Prince of Wales and other members of the family of George II. The Earl of Pembroke also became one of his principal patrons. He started a private manège of his own at his house in Whitehall, and another at Wilton; and Angelo became his écuyer, and the Earl his disciple,

<sup>1</sup> They are described as of prodigious value, and deposited, not at Wilton, but in the Bank of England, the collection including a complete series of almost every ancient nation, in gold, silver, copper, and mixed metals.

"With Angelo, Pembroke had taken much pains
To keep a good seat and to handle the reins," and when the Earl assumed the command of Elliot's Light Horse (now the 15th Hussars), the crack regiment of the time, he persuaded Angelo to take a house at Wilton, and to undertake the training of a select number of riding instructors from the regiment.<sup>1</sup> Thus, for a time, Angelo was practically Riding Master to the Army, and the principles which he introduced, approved by Lord Pembroke, of riding, breaking, and training horses, were those which were followed throughout the whole of the Cavalry Service. Some of Angelo's principles the Earl afterwards embodied in a small volume of which he became the author, entitled—

"Method of Breaking Horses, and Teaching Soldiers to Ride; designed for the use of the Army, 1762," with folding plates of horse accoutrements, etc.

Of this work a later edition, printed at Salisbury in 1778, bears an altered title—

"Military Equitation; or a Method of Breaking Horses, and Teaching Soldiers to Ride. Designed for the use of the Army. By Henry, Earl of Pembroke, &c. Revised and Corrected, with Additions."

This edition is printed in quarto size, and contains seventeen plates. A fourth edition appeared in 1793, the Earl having himself become quite an authority on the subject.

<sup>1</sup> It is worthy of note that Philip Astley, founder, in 1780, of the Royal Amphitheatre, near Westminster Bridge, and himself so famous as a rider, was one of the troopers who came under Angelo's training at Wilton.

His death took place in the following year, at the age of fifty-nine.

To the subject of these notes there is doubtless more which might yet be added. From the material here collected it will, however, be seen that much of the best literature of the Elizabethan and Jacobean periods came to light under the patronage of the Pembroke family; and we may well imagine that the uniform dedication to them of so many of the finest works of that date was an acknowledgment of some substantial assistance, either pecuniary or otherwise, on the part of their authors. But for Sir Philip Sidney's connexion with Wilton his Arcadia might have been unwritten, or, for aught we now know, some of the volumes here enumerated may have remained unpublished. But for the patronage of Van-dyck, by Philip, fourth Earl of Pembroke, some of the finest works of that artist, now in Wilton House, would also have remained unpainted.

To the literary associations of Wilton in bygone days, must be added the many published works of Lady Herbert of Lea (both original and translated), as also those of the late Earl of Pembroke, which bear testimony to the literary talent of members of the Herbert family in our own day.

ADDENDA.

Nicholas Breton, p. 441. One of his earlier works, Auspiciante Jehoua, was published in 1597. Passages in Wit's Trenchmour, 1597 (an angling idyll—the best of his prose tracts) refer to the rejection of the poet's love suit by a lady of high station (himself of ancient family); and it seems not improbable that this intimacy with her (Countess of Pembroke?) passed beyond the bounds of poet and patron. Whatever the character of the relationship, it ceased after 1601.

Countess of Pembroke's Epitaph, p. 441. The first stanza, as here printed, is usually ascribed to Ben Jonson. A second stanza, beginning is found in Donne's edition of William third Earl of Pembroke's Poems (1660), and is sometimes attributed to him. Hazlitt makes the plausible suggestion that whoever composed the first or original stanza, the addition is the work of another pen, namely Lord Pembroke. Gifford, in his Ben Jonson, viii, 337, calls it a paltry addition, and also assigns it to Lord Pembroke on the authority of the volume edited by Donne in 1660, containing, as Mr. Gifford says, “the prefixure of Lord Pembroke's usual initials”. But Sir Egerton Brydges, in re-editing this volume, in 1817, points out that in the original MS. of Lord Pembroke's Poems (Lausdowne MS., British Museum) such initials are wanting; and he consequently ascribes the second stanza to William Brown, the pastoral poet, on the authority of the manuscript of his Poems in the British Museum.

“Marble piles let no man raise,”

William Brown, pp. 441, 502. A manuscript copy of the Third Book of his Pastorals was discovered by the late Beriah Botfield, M.P., of Norton Hall, Daventry, in the Library of Salisbury Cathedral. See Notes on the Cathedral Libraries of England, 1849.

M. Parker, pp. 442, 498. M[agister] Parker was most probably Robert Parker, Rector of Patney 1592-3, and Vicar of Stanton St. Bernard (in the gift of Lord Pembroke) 1594-1605. He is apparently the same person to whom Dr. Thomas Muffett makes a bequest in his will, dated 1604, and printed below. This Robert Parker, who was author of some theological works, crossed to Holland in 1607, to avoid prosecution before the Court of High Commission, and settled at Leyden. He died at Doesburg 1617.

[P.C.C. 93 Lewyn.]

In the name of God Amen. I Richard Browne of Calne in the countie of Wilts and dioces of Wilton, gent., doe make this my last will and testamente in manner and forme followinge, first I bequeath my soule to the Almightye Lord God my maker and redeemer, and my bodie to the Earth. And as concerninge my landes, tenementes and hereditaments, wch God by His goodnes hath sent me to be owner of in this life, I give and bequeath two ptes in three partes thereof to be devided for the tearme and tyme of fowerteene yeares from the daie of my deathe vnto my Exccutors, towards the preferment of my wife and children and payments of my debtes and legaceys, and bringing vp of my said children in vertuous education, learninge and instructions, towards God and Godlynes in this life. And as concerninge the third parte of my said landes, tenements and hereditaments vnbequeathed, I doe give and bequeath the same to my sonne Richarde Browne, to help towards his bringing vp in learninge and knowledg; my daughter Suzane, one hundred poundes of lawfull money of England, two kyne and twentie weather sheepe, one bed and bolster, one paire of sheetes, two blanketts, one couerlett, sixe pewter dishes, one pott: daughter Martha, one hundred poundes of like lawfull English money, two kyne and twentie weather sheepe, one bed, one bolster, one payer of sheetes, two blanketts and a courlett, sixe pewter dishes, one pott, to be paid and deliuered vnto them at their full ages of eighteen yeares or at the daie of their severall marryages, or which of them shall first happen to either or both of them. And if yt fortune my daughter Suzane or my daughter Martha to die before they accomplishe their said full ages of eighteene yeares or to be maryed, that then my will and full purpose is that my other daughter survyvinge shall have the parte or porcion of her soe decease together with thencease of the same porcion made by my Executor of the same if anie bee, and yf it please God that they both doe die before they haue receyved their said portions soe to them bequeathed, then both of their porcions soe deceased, to my sonne Benedicte Browne if he be then lyvinge, to be delivered vnto him at his full age of one and twentie yeares, together with thencease thereof; my sonne Benedicte Browne, ffortye poundes in money, to be paid vnto him at his full age of one and twentie yeares, alsoe all that my porcion of landes nowe beinge in the possession of <sup>1</sup> He heads the pedigree in Vis. of Somerset 1623, where his daughter Susan is wife of Edward Horton of Potterie; Dr. Muffett is not mentioned; his arms are given as Three stags heads caboshed, whereas those on the Calne M.I. are, On a bend cotised three lions passant, a martlet for difference. Benedicte Allen was, according to the Vis. of Wilts 1565, the second son of William Alleyne of Calne by Mary Langford of Trowbridge.

[Abridged.] In the name of God, Amen. #### INQUISITION POST MORTEM, WILLIAM FLOWER.

Chancery Series II, vol. 360, No. 82.

A.D. 1617. — Inquest taken at Lurgishall, 2 October, 15 James I. By inquest taken at Warminster 31 August, 11 James I, it appears that William Flower before his death was seized in his demesne as of fee of and in the scite, capital messuage and demesne lands of manor of Escott and Vrchfont alias Erchfont; and of lands, woods, &c., called Westham Wood, Marshfeild, Marsheliffe, and Escott Common, Maggottes Wood, and meadows called Staplemead, les Thonges, and Maggottes Mead, a rood of land called Bean Land, a meadow called West Heath, arable land of 40 acres called "les Cleyes", arable lands called East and West Forden, the "fortie acres" and Redland, containing by estimation 10 acres, a parcel of land towards the south of 27 acres abutting on said 10 acres; arable land called Long Hovens, a parcel of land lying by Long land and all the land called the Pasture Down, for sheep, with their appurtenances in Escott, and by his deed dated 15 June last before said inquest sold the premisses to James Hulbert of Corsham, gent., and by fine levied 3 weeks after the holy Trinity Day then last past, to the use of said James Hulbert; but said deed and fine was not to the sole use of James Hulbert, as appeared at the said inquisition, but for the confidence had by said William Flower in James Hulbert for advancement of his son James Flower his next heir. In witness whereof, &c.

IBID., Vol. 376, No. 36.

Inquest at Marlborough 19 March, 15 James I, by virtue of commission of a special inquiry as to truth of the above. The Commissioners swear that the s<sup>d</sup> conveyance was not for the consideration of 700*li.*, but the trust reposed in James Hulbert by William Flower and for the advancement of his son James Flower.

WILL OF THOMAS STOKES, OF KINGTON ST. MICHAEL.

September 10th, A.D. 1666. I, Thomas Stokes, of Kington St. Michael, Wilts, gentleman, being of good and perfect memory, etc., do make, etc., this my last will, revoking all former wills: "My soule being an immortall substance into the hands of Almighty God my Creator, stedfastly hoping through the only merities and merrits of Jesu's Christ, etc. ; my body to the earth whereof it was made, to be decently buried, nothing doubting, but according to the articles of my Christian Faith att that Greate day of the generall resurrection when wee shall all appeare before the judgment seate of Christ, I shall by the Almighty power of God receive the same againe, whereby he is able to subdue all things to himselfe, not a corruptable, mortall, weake, vile body, as now it is, but an vncorruptable, immortall, strong and perfect body. In all poynts like vnto the glorious body of my Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. And for my temporall and worldly estate which God miraculously hath blessed me withall, all praise be forever given therefore. I give, bequeath, and order as followeth"; in lieu of a jointure to Jane, my wife, having received a considerable marriage portion with her, for her and my younger children's maintenance, for life my Court-House captall or Manor House in Kington St. Michael (with exceptions hereafter to be excepted), with all the goods, household stuffs, and implements, the gardens, orchards, backside, and courts, with egress and regress there-to belonging; my grounds called Rydeings, the two Westfields, Butcher's-Leaze, Totthill, the Stubbs within my park called Lordshill, my 10 acres of meadow in Peckingell Meade, always provided that if she take another husband this my bequest be void, and do then give to her an annuity of £80 for life out of my estate of Kington St. Michaels aforesaid; £40 yearly be paid for maintenance of my younger children until they come to the age appointed for them to receive their portions; my son Charles, my eldest son, 'on whome it hath pleased the Most Highest to lay soe heavy an affliction to deprive him of sense and reason', £10 yearly for life to buy his clothes, "besides his dyett discharged and chamber bedding and furniture to it in my said house for his own use", but if it please God to restore him at any time to his whole mind, besides his chamber bedding and furniture, an annuity of £40 by equal portions half-yearly, executors to discharge his diet to my wife, whom I appoint to have the care of him during her life, and after her death, I charge "upon my blessing" my son John to have the care of him, and to pay for his diet as for the said £10 a year, and the £40 annuity as before expressed. I give my creditors power to enter and take the rente profits, etc., of my whole estate, and receive all my goods and chattlce and corn "sewed" upon my grounds and dispose the same for sale for satisfaction of my debts and legacies, and power to hold Courts Leet and Baron as occasion requires within my manor of Kington St. Michael, for valuable fines to grant estate by copy of Court Roll, leases for lives, etc., according to the custom of the manor. If my debts and legacies should not be discharged in such convenient time as is hereby intended, and my son John, when he cometh to the age of 21 years, refuseth to give sufficient security to my executors to discharge the same, I empower them to sell the inheritance of any of my tenements mentes, reserving always the old rent and accustomed heriots to my heirs for the fulfilment of this my will. My debts being paid, my four daughters, Jane, Deborate, Dorothy, and Anne, £300 each at the age of 20 years or day of marriage, if they marry with their mother's consent, if she be alive, or if dead, of their uncle William Bayley, esquire, the portion of any of them dying before that age to go to the survivor or survivors, and if all die their portions to be paid amongst my younger sons and the survivor and survivors of them; my sons Edmund, Thomas, Walter, William, and James £200 each, to be paid on their reaching the age of 23 years, the portion of any of them dying before that age to go to the survivor or survivors of them; if all die, to my daughters or the survivor of them; further to my son Edmund his lie in reversion in the copyhold tenement which Nicholas Arch holds in right of Elizabeth his wife to hold to him for life by copy of Court Roll after her decease, giving my son Edmund and his issue male, on payment of a year's profit of the said copyhold tenement to my heir and his heirs according to the rates to church and poor, full power to renew and alter any life or lives to be nominated by him, the said Edmund and his issue male in any copy of Court Roll according to the custom of the manor of Kington, paying rents, heriots, and services to my heir and his heirs, and I enjoin my heir and his heirs to make good the said copyhold estate to my son Edmund and his issue male for ever; provided always that if said Edmund or his issue male shall intend to alienate the said copyhold tenement, then this my bequest is to be void; the poor of the parish of Kington St. Michael £5, to be distributed amongst them as my executors think fit in a twelve month after my decease; to Richard Coller and Lawrence Sheppard, carpenters, if living at my decease, 10s. each; my son John £30 a year until he is 21 years old to maintain him at the University of Oxford or Innes of Court, but only £20 a year if he continue at neither. The goods, household stuff, etc., in my house at Kington St. Michael, I will after my wife's death to remain to my son John Stokes without diminution, according to an inventory to be taken of them; and I allow him at my decease one of my chambers, well furnished in my said house, according to my wife's appointment, my study and all my deeds and writings contained therein, except such divinity books which are therein which I give to any of my sons that may hereafter take the ministry upon him; also I give to him my father's cabinet. My debts and legacies discharged, and my executors, their heirs and assigns discharged, and saved harmless by my son John, on attaining his full age of 21 years, him sole executor of this my will, and my only heir to all my manor of Kington St. Michael and all lands, etc., thereto belonging (except before excepted) to hold to him my said son, John Stokes, and to the lawful heirs males of his body for ever, and for want of such heir male to my son Edmund Stokes and to his heirs male, and for want of such to the heirs male of the rest of my said sons successively forever; William Bayley, esquire, my wife's brother, and Jane my wife, and my kinsman, Mr. James Gastrell, executors in trust until my son John Stokes attain the age of 21 years, giving each of them a gold ring, enamelled, of 20s. price, with the inscription esto fideles, "requesting them and either of them for poore infants sakes and for the unfained love I bare them to remember me in them to undertake this care and trust". Signed in the presence of Isaac Power, William Tanner, Ellenor Sawyer.

Mortimer of Trowbridge (vol. v, p. 376).—I am much obliged to Mr. Llewellyn Gwillim and to Mr. R. Boucher for the information kindly given; if the latter can tell me whether John Mortimer (the son of Edward Mortimer and Catherine Houlton his wife) married Catherine Houlton, I shall be obliged.

Burke's History of Commoners says that Catherine, the daughter of Joseph Houlton, married John Mortimer. The first wife of John Mortimer was named Catherine, but I wonder whether Burke is correct in saying she was a Houlton?

So far I have been unsuccessful in tracing the father of Edward Mortimer, who died in 1704, and accept with pleasure Mr. Llewellyn Gwillim's kind offer of further assistance. The Wilts Subsidy Rolls of about 1664 give an Edward Mortimer as paying taxes in the Boro' of Calne, but I did not find his death in the Parish Registers between that date and 1704, nor anything about him; perhaps he moved to Trowbridge, or he may be the Edward Mortimer who died in Preshute parish in 1674.

I am offering a reward of £10 for documentary evidence of the family to which Edward Mortimer, of Trowbridge, belonged, and will be pleased to send the terms of my offer to any one who will communicate with me.

C. L. MORTIMER.

Raleigh of Downton.—In Vol. ii of W. N. & Q. I printed all that I could then put together anent this family. The only small additional item since discovered is that the full name of the wife of Rev. Walter Raleigh (murdered in 1646) was Maria, daughter of Sir Ralph Gibbs (? Sir Ralph Gibbs, of Honington, co. Warwick). Could not some of your able correspondents, with local advantages, aid in making this pedigree more complete? Anything connected with the Raleighs is of more than ordinary interest. When did they cease connexion with Downton? Was Carew Raleigh, M.P. for Downton 1698-1702, the son (as I suggest) of Sir Charles (died 1678)? and was he the last of the Downton line? Are there no Monumental Inscriptions to members of the family in Downton Church? I understand that the Parish Register dates from 1602.

Phelps, alias Bromham, of Avebury.—In the eighteenth century, Richard Phelps, of Whitechapel, London, a native of Avebury, cast the great clock bell of St. Paul's Cathedral, weighing nearly four tons. In 1607-8 we find the name of Richard Phelps, alias Bromham, of Avebury, among Wiltshire freeholders. A Richard Felpes, alias Bromham, held a messuage, garden, orchard, barn, and close of pasture at Beckhampton (in Avebury) of John Goldsmith, gent., who died 1640. Inquisition post mortem. Later on they appear at Bishop's Cannings, and West Overton, Richard Phelps, alias Bromham, and Ann [Cooke] of Coate were married 1 May 1664.

R. [Ph]elps and Jone Hill married by licence 6 Nov. 1692.

William Skeate, junr., of Bishop's Cannings, and Ann Phelps, alias Bromham, of Avebury, married 22 Apr. 1711.

Bishop's Cannings Register.

Robert Phelps, alias Bromham, of West Overton, living 1682, married Rebecca, daughter of John Mayo, of Broad Somerford, and their daughter Rebecca married, at Preshute, 5 Jan. 1698, John Smith, of Wanborough. This Robert Phelps had two elder brothers: John, who died 1683, and William, a merchant tailor of London.

Can any correspondent of W. N. & Q. connect these parties, or throw additional light on their history—and does the following entry in Rowde Parish Register refer to another member of the same family?

“Richard Phelps was born in ye Parish of Rowd and was Bound Aprentis at London ye 25 day of April 1699, and was made a freeman of ye Company of Plumbers and also freeman of ye City of London ye 9 Sept. 1709, and this is [his?] hand-writing of ye 25 day of October 1710.”—Rowde Parish Register.

Wiltshire Court Rolls.—Information as to any Court Rolls of Manors in Wiltshire in private hands is requested by the Manorial Society which has recently been formed for the printing of documents relating to manorial history, and which is now engaged in compiling a list of Court Rolls in private hands. Any information forthcoming would be gladly received for the Society.

Wiltshire Bellfounders.—The earliest bellfounder at Salisbury, so far as at present known, was Henry Penker, whose name occurs in 1494. The subsequent list begins with John Wallis 1581-1633. Then follow the names of Danton, Purdue, Boulter, Lett, Flower, and Tosier, until the Salisbury foundry, which had long been famous for its bells, finally ceased in 1731.

Before Wallis (1581) we may now add another early founder—Thomas Ware—whose will was proved in London 1578, but some other name, or names, must be still wanting to complete the list between Penker (1494) and Ware.

At Devizes the only recorded foundry seems to be that of James Burrough 1738-1754; but from an entry in the Churchwarden's accounts of SS. Peter and Paul at Marlborough, we find that in 1579 the bells of that Church were sent to Devizes to be re-cast. Is the name of the earlier founder known?

At Lavington there is also said to have been sometime a bell foundry. Is the name or date known?
